RAINBOW TROUT IN THE LITTLE YOUGH? — Yes! A variety of fish may once again dwell in the Little Yough River near Oakland. Pictured above are Maryland Secretary of the Environment Martin Walsh and Oakland Mayor Asa McCain as they stock the Little Yough with rainbow trout. The officials are stocking the river in celebration of its renewal. Oakland's new wastewater treatment facility will end contamination of the river by the town's sewage. The new system, an innovative one in which no sludge is produced in the processing of raw sewage, will be discharging purified water into the Youghiogheny River. Local officials are working with environmentalists to rejuvenate the contaminated Little Yough. The river will be stocked on a larger scale next spring and, according to Mayor Asa McCain, it should be safe for fishing at that time. Environmental test results will be released early next year. Information on costs and benefits of the new wastewater treatment facility will be published later this month.

Trial Date Set For Ms. Stinson

According to court documents, Stinson last week entered a plea of "not criminally responsible by reason of insanity". She will be examined and evaluated by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and a report must be filed within 60 days.

Stinson will be represented by Peter D. Greenspun, Fairfax, Va.; and David B. Irwin, Baltimore. She faces charges of felonious homicide and various counts of perjury in connection with the murder of Charles William Stinson, 58.

Commissioner Groves Testifes Against Wetlands Regulations

Garrett County Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II traveled to Annapolis last Tuesday to testify about the county's concerns regarding the nontidal wetlands regulations as proposed by the Department of Natural Resources. Groves testified before the Administrative, Executive and Legislative Committee, the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee, and the House Environmental Affairs Committee.

The regulations are the result of legislation passed in the 1988 session which requires the DNR to govern and regulate designated wetlands in all areas of the state. Nontidal wetlands are defined as areas which support the growth of hydroponic vegetation, or plants which grow in water.

According to John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning Commission director, approximately 14,000 acres in the county qualify as wetland areas. These areas require a 25-foot buffer strip which prohibits any development without a special permit.

Of these 14,000 acres, the Department of Natural Resources has identified approximately 90 sites which are of critical concern. These areas would require a 100-foot buffer strip.

In his testimony, Groves noted, "During our numerous committee and sub-committee meetings, Garrett County raised two major issues of concern regarding the impact of this type of legislation: (1) the financial burden of state mandates on local governments and (2) the further erosion of private property rights of those who own property within identified wetland areas."

Groves said, "Let me say here that the few 'non-environmentalists' on that committee were, in my opinion, mere tokens to give the appearance of a fairly representative cross-section of the general public; the reality of the situation was a totally one-sided affair with the overwhelming majority being members of the various environmentalist groups. As a result, little was done to address these two 'non-environmentalist' issues, which we felt were important to local governments and property owners from throughout the state."

The testimony continued, "Upon receipt of the proposed regulations in July, we were quite disturbed to find a total of 95 'Wetlands of Special State Concern', identified by the DNR in Garrett County, which is more than any other county in the state of Maryland. We have requested, and have not received, any information from DNR relative to the total acreage involved, specific criteria used to select these sites 'of special state concern', or maps of their location. With regard to the total acreage involved, we also object to the expansion of the 25-foot buffer on nontidal wetlands to a 100-foot buffer being proposed in Section 16 of these regulations.

"In neglecting to provide our jurisdiction with pertinent information with regard to total acreage involved or the criteria used to identify specific sites as 'wetlands of special state concern', we have been unable to determine the total impact of these proposed regulations upon our county's fiscal position, or the possible adverse affect on the property rights of our people. As a result of all the above, we must oppose these regulations, as well as the inequities of the process which promulgated them."

Trailer, House Destroyed By Fires, Essex Family Escapes Unharmed

A house trailer near Friendsville and a two-story wood frame house along Mayhew Inn Road near Deep Creek Lake were destroyed by fires this past week, with the former blaze being labled by investigators as "suspicious in nature."

Friendsville and Deep Creek volunteer firefighters were called to the trailer home of Joe Hutzel, his wife, and four children at 12:13 a.m. Friday. The Hutzel family was not at home at the time and firemen found the structure fully involved in flames upon their arrival.

Firemen remained on the scene for about two and one-half hours. Also responding was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Kitzmiller VFD, and the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Guy Carola, fire investigator for the state fire marshal's office, estimated the loss to be $15,000. He said that the Hutzels did have insurance.

Calling the fire "suspicious," Carola was joined at the scene Friday afternoon by Deputy Fire Marshal John Brazil from Harford County who brought a specially trained golden retriever called "Dudley" to sniff through the rubble for evidence of accelerants. The investigation is continuing.

A smoke alarm and quick action by an Essex man early Sunday morning resulted in the saving of his family from the blaze that destroyed their house along Mayhew Inn Road.

Carola also investigated this incident along with James Martin, another state fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett County.

Martin said that John Fedorowski, his wife, his 13-year-old son and 6-year-old daughter were asleep in the house when the smoke alarm sounded, awakening the little girl. He said that a defective flue had apparently set fire to the inside of a wall on the first floor. The girl then awoke her parents and the father went out onto the roof, jumped to the ground, got a ladder, and then rescued the rest of the family through a second floor window. Martin said the parents did not hear the alarm because they had their bedroom door shut.

The family attempted to go to a neighbor's home to call for help, but after getting no answer at the door, drove to JG's Pub along U.S. Rt. 219 to summon assistance. The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management received the call at 2:10 a.m.

Upon their arrival, Deep Creek and Oakland firefighters found the structure fully involved in flames. Also called to the scene was the air cascade vehicle, tankers from Deer Park and Accident VFDs and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Garrett County Evening School To Open Tuesday

Garrett County's evening high school will open Tuesday, September 14 to begin its fourth year of operation. Last year 12 students received their regular Maryland high school diploma at graduation from Northern and Southern high schools because they completed their required course work in the evening high school.

The Board of Education offers the opportunities of the evening high school as a viable alternative to the day school program, according to John A. Ledden, coordinator of the program. The school offers several courses which enable some students to meet graduation requirements. All evening high school courses follow the curriculum approved by the Board of Education and are taught by certified teachers.

The evening high school is open to any Garrett County resident who has completed at least part of his or her high school requirements, but has not yet earned a regular high school diploma, Ledden said. There is no age limit and persons do not have to have previously attended Garrett County schools. There is no charge for tuition or books. Classes are offered at Southern High School and will be offered at Northern High School if a significant number of students are interested in attending there.

For more information and registration, persons may call the evening high school office at the Board of Education, 301-334-8913 during the day. Persons can also register at either high school on Monday, September 11, at 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Two Hospitalized By Separate Area Motorcycle Wrecks

Two persons who were injured in local motorcycle accidents this week remain hospitalized this morning in Cumberland.

The first accident occurred last Thursday afternoon on the Glendale Road, and involved a motorcycle and a 1986 Ford Bronco II.

According to Maryland State Police at McHenry, Toby L. Miller, 18, Swanton, was traveling east on the Glendale Road on a 1986 Kawasaki. Harvey M. Nock, 47, Swanton, was driving the Bronco, and was traveling north on the North Glade Road.

Nock reportedly attempted to pull onto the Glendale Road without granting the right of way to Miller, causing a collision.

Miller was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by the State Police, where he was listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning by a spokesman.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the accident, and charged Nock with failing to yield the right of way at the entrance to a highway.

The second accident occurred Sunday morning on the U.S. Route 42.

According to police reports, Katherine L. Lunsford, 36, Moundsville, W.Va., was operating a 1989 Harley-Davidson when she failed to observe a turn. The motorcycle ran off the road and struck a tree, causing Lunsford to be thrown from the vehicle. The motorcycle continued on, striking a second tree.

Unusual Event Leads Area Barbershop Group To Entertain Red Skelton

Members of the Gentlemen of Note, a local barbershop quartet, were blessed with a rare opportunity this summer when they were invited to sing at the birthday party of comedian Red Skelton in Lake Tahoe, on the California-Nevada border.

Jack Harvey, baritone of the Gentlemen of Note, had become aquainted with Red Skelton a year earlier at his birthday party in Honolulu, Hawaii, when Mr. Skelton became ill with heat exhaustion during the show. When it was asked if there was a doctor in the house, Dr. Harvey came to the aid of the overheated comedian. Red was revived and later became interested in Jack's involvement in the quartet, so Dr. Harvey made a tape and sent it to him. Red also requested a picture of the quartet so that he could do a painting of it, as Mr. Skelton is a painter as well as a comedian.

Center Art Galleries of Honolulu handles Red's paintings. Each year for Mr. Skelton's birthday, William Mett, president of the company, puts on a celebration as a means of marketing Red's artwork. This year he invited the Gentlemen of Note to Lake Tahoe to perform in the show.

According to David Callis, the quartet's bass from Loch Lynn, the quartet was treated in a warm and professional manner. "Accommodations were very nice and each person involved made us feel very welcome and an important part of the festivities."

The quartet and their wives enjoyed an all-expense-paid weekend with many planned activities, "most of which involved huge spreads of food," according to Callis.

The quartet first met and sang for Red on Saturday, July 15, at a luncheon. "He greeted us with a warm handshake," stated Callis, "and then with numerous one-liners from his amazing quick wit, still sharp after all these years."

Many of his jokes related to horses as he explained his wife's absence. She was riding at a friend's ranch that day, near Lake Tahoe. Later that afternoon Mrs. Skelton suffered

OAKLAND WASTEWATER TREATMENT FACILITY RIBBON CUTTING — State and local officials were on hand for a ribbon-cutting ceremony recently held at Oakland's new wastewater treatment facility. According to Mayor Asa McCain, the total cost of the project is estimated at $9.6 million. This estimate covers not only the cost of the facility, but others aspects of the system which are in need of immediate attention as well. This includes refurbishing of recently purchased lagoons and replacement of several substandard sewer lines. The majority of this cost is being borne by the federal and state government, and town officials are currently waiting to see the final figures of the costs that will be covered by the state. Completion of the new 900,000 gallons per day treatment facility is scheduled for mid-December. Further details regarding consumer costs, regulations and system benefits will be published later this month. Pictured above, left to right, are Jay Moyer, Oakland Town Council; H.D. Swartzentruber, former city Mayor; Martin Walsh, Maryland Secretary of the Environment; and Asa McCain, Mayor of Oakland.

Information Booth Closes For Season

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Information Booth along U.S. Route 219 south of the Deep Creek Lake Bridge closed for the season Monday, September 4.

A total of 9,870 persons visited the booth for the season. This past Labor Day weekend, 740 persons visited the booth seeking information about Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County, compared to 675 visitors for the same weekend in 1988.

Visitors to the booth during the 1989 summer season were from 38 states, the District of Columbia, and 14 foreign countries, with the largest number of visitors from the state of Maryland. The majority of inquiries received at the booth were for directions, especially to state parks, recreational facilities, and lodging.

The booth is open annually from Memorial Day through Labor Day weekend and is operated by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council. The booth was staffed during the summer by William Stemple, Mt. Lake Park, and Lois Ruhe, McHenry.

Great American Yard Sale Set For September 16

The Great American Yard Sale will be held Saturday, September 16, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry during Oktoberfest, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. with proceeds benefiting homeless families.

"We've got something for everyone, and we hope everyone in the community will turn out for hours of fun, great bargain-hunting and the chance to do something really worthwhile," said Patty Manown, director of marketing and public relations at A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, which is sponsoring the event. Proceeds from the sale — which is taking place on the same day in more than 135 communities across the country — will go to The Better Homes Foundation, the nation's only organization specifically dedicated to helping homeless families.

Manown explained that The Better Homes Foundation provides services to homeless families through local community organizations and service providers. Rather than simply providing emergency shelter or food, The Foundation's mission to address the long-term problems of homeless families and to help get them back on their feet and on their own again. "The Foundation is especially sensitive to the many needs of the children of these families," she said. In addition to helping find housing and jobs, The Foundation supports such services as pre-school programs; medical, dental, vision and hearing services for children; recreational and tutoring services for children; and job training, counseling and parenting workshops for parents.

The Foundation was founded in 1988 by Better Homes and Gardens magazine. According to Editor-in Chief David Jordan, the magazine's readers have contributed $1 million to the effort since last Christmas. "Our idea is setting up this separate, non-profit foundation was to find a way for families with homes to help families without homes. It's a combined effort that unites public and private resources, professionals and volunteers, companies, families and individuals — all addressing this growing national problem. If we all help, we can begin to turn this situation around," he said.

A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens is a member of Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service, a national network of over 650 real estate firms and more than 25,000 licensed sales associates.

Therapy Group To Begin For Adult Children Of Alcoholics

Surveys indicate that 22 million adults in the United States grew up in homes where one or both parents had alcohol problems. These homes were often characterized by inconsistency, tension, loneliness and isolation. These adults often have more difficulty developing and maintaining meaningful relationships. They may experience anxiety, fear of rejections and a lack of trust for others.

Garrett Counseling will begin an ACOA therapy group in September. Group therapy gives the ACOA an opportunity to explore their own ways of interacting with others. Basic feelings and personal themes are worked through. Patterns of self-defeat are changed.

The group will meet one evening a week for six months, it will last for 1½ hours and be limited to a membership of 10 people. Co-therapists are Jerri Rodeheaver, M.S., and Jean James, M.A. Group membership is contingent on a pre-group interview with each prospective member. The cost is $20 per group session.

We Should Be Proud . . .

The death rate on Maryland highways is down significantly so far this year in comparison with years past and, while there are undoubtedly many reasons for this good news, we believe that the two main reasons have to do with our state's safety belt law and speed limit.

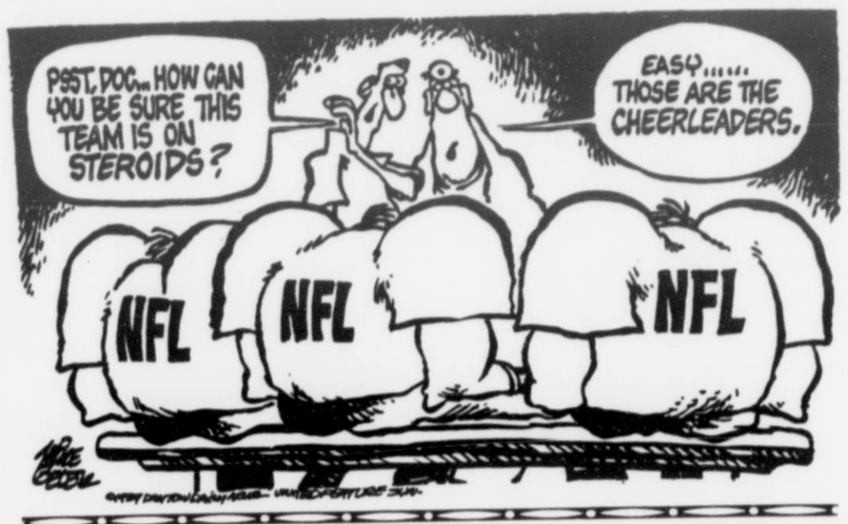
We should be proud that Maryland was recently honored by the National Safety Council and the American Coalition for Traffic Safety for being one of the four states with the highest rates of seat belt use. A study by these groups indicated that 62 percent of Maryland drivers regularly use their seat belts, compared to the national average of about 47 percent. Only Hawaii had a higher rate (71 percent), while Texas and North Carolina's rates were similar to Maryland's.

While 62 percent is good compared to 47 percent, we would be thrilled to see that rate much higher. We are amazed and angered to still see so many small children standing up and peering out over the dashboard of moving vehicles because their parents don't realize — or don't care — that they are putting their children into such danger by not properly strapping them in their seats. One strong slamming of the breaks could kill such a child in a split second. We would like to see stricter law enforcement in such cases.

The fact that Governor Schaefer has refused to join 42 other states that have posted 65 mph speed limits on rural interstates is aggravating to some Maryland drivers who believe 55 is too slow on some of our highways. However, in those states where the speed limits have been increased, there has been a whopping 30 percent rise in fatalities. The National Safety Council said that the safety gains made through tougher seat belt and drunk driving laws are being wiped out by the higher speed limits in those states.

We also credit our various law enforcement officials and the Maryland's Department of Transportation for doing their part in making our roadways safer, as well as our various elected officials who push for stricter traffic laws.

Last, but not least, we thank those thousands of drivers who obey the speed limits, do not drink and drive, who always fasten that seat belt, and who buckle-up their kids every time they get into a car.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Irish Canoe Slalom Team which competed in the World Championships on the Savage River last June, I wish, through your column to record our thanks to the people of Oakland, Deep Creek, McHenry, and Frostburg who showed us such terrific hospitality and generosity during the course of our two-week stay.

There were more people whom we would like to thank than there would be room for in a short letter. However, a few deserve special mention:

Kathy and Tom Johnson and their children, Amber and Avery, our host family, who did so much to smooth out problems we encountered during our stay and make us feel at home, that we wouldn't know how to start thanking them!

Mike Fetchero, Linda Sisler and all involved in the event organization for a difficult job well done.

Kathy and Tom Johnson (again), Sandra and Walter Naumann, Bill Savage, Doug and Rebecca McClure, George and Madelaine Collins, Karen Spiker, Robert Huebner, Mayor and Mrs. Wayne Fratz, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Goralski and Dr. and Mrs. Karl Schwalm who jointly sponsored our video camera requirements for the Championships.

Fred Glose, President of the Maryland Chemical Company, who had an Irish flag manufactured for us when we found we had come without ours!

Last but not least, your own Journalist/Photographer Lisa Rook, a very talented lady who not only did a great article on our team but also sort of adopted us and kept us out of trouble — well, most of the time anyway.

To everybody, thanks again. We will long remember your friendship, warmth and hospitality. Hopefully the Savage will be awarded a World Cup Race again in 1990. If so, we'll be back. Even if it isn't we'll probably be back anyway!

Yours Sincerely,
Abe Jacob

To the Editor:

Recently I was greatly distressed to learn that development for oil and gas drilling is being proposed on the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska, the last 125 miles of coastline not open to such drilling. The Refuge is home to an abundance of wildlife including caribou, musk-oxen, grizzlies, polar bears, wolverine, and snow geese. Development in that area will seriously affect the numbers of these animals. Also Indians live in that region who depend on the caribou herd for their survival. Development would drastically change their way of life.

Proponments of development say that the oil that may be found at the Refuge will be a major find and very important to the United States. The fact is that if they find all the oil that might be on theRefuge, it would only be a six-month supply. Is it worth destroying a resource as beautiful and important as the Grand Canyon for a 180-day supply of oil?

Proponents also say that oil companies and the environment can peacefully co-exist. Sadly, the oil companies do not have a very good track record for cleaning up after themselves or preventing spills. The Department of Interior claims that the oil industry has been responsible for more than 17,000 spills since 1973.

I realize that Alaska is a long way from Garrett County, Md. We have our own problems, and besides, even if we wanted to help what could we do? First of all, it's time we started protecting our environment. If we allow our environment to be abused, we are only hurting ourselves. Secondly, we can help the Arctic Refuge. In Congress right now bills for Pro-Wilderness and Pro-Development are being considered. What we can do is simply write letters to Representative Beverly B. Byron, House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515, and Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 stating the following:

I urge you to co-sponsor and support (HR-39 or S-39) which designates the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge a wilderness area.

Bill HR-39 is the House of Representative bill, and S-39 is the Senate bill. Your support will be greatly appreciated by all involved in the Pro-Wilderness campaign.

Thank you,
Deborah A. Baker

To the Editor:

In response to Ms. Perry'a letter to this newspaper of 8/31/89, there are some statements that have to be corrected.

An average of 42%, or 2.6 million acres of Maryland is composed of forests of which approximately 87% of this forestland is owned by 83,000 non-industrial private owners. This acreage faces a greater threat from development than the gypsy moth. I do agree the moths are here to stay.

I am a member of the American Tree Farm System and manage 178 of forestland for timber, wildlife and many recreational uses. The tree species on the farm are representive of those found in the northern Appalachian hardwood stands. Unfortunately, Ms. Perry named five species of tress least preferred by the moths, I only have a few trees (hemlock) that the moths do not like, therefore, spraying with Dimilin is my line of defense.

As for timber stand improvement (TSI) being a logging operation and damaging other trees, this far from the truth. TSI is an active part of my forest management plan for a healthy, more productive forest. TSI not only improves the quality of timber but improves the habitat for wildlife, non-game species and songbirds that most people take for granted.

It is this TSI work which provided the paper of which Ms. Perry received her "correct" information and wrote her letter. If it were not for TSI work, we would still be using corncobs.

Tree Farmers have a special interest in the land, more so than the environmentalist, in that we have invested many hours of labor and money to leave the land in better condition than we found it. We definitely do not want to see it wasted.

If we permanently reduce the oak component of our forest, as suggested by Ms. Perry, what will happen to the mills located in Garrett County that supply the furniture manufacturer? What will happen to the wildlife that are dependent on acorns and the deer that browse on stump sprouts?

I have watched environmental issues in other states and find them to be a bigger plague to forestland owners than the gypsy moth.

I would welcome groups or individuals to tour our Tree Farm to see the on-going work being done for timber and wildlife.

Remember the next time you take the family for a ride in the country and see the green and white Tree Farm sign that it means the landowner is a good steward of the land.

Sincerely,
C.W. "Sonny" Newhall

Dear Editor,

Do you think President Bush's proposed plan to stop drugs in America will actually work? I for one doubt it very seriously. He proposes more judges and prosecutors, at a large expense. Common sense tells you it only takes one judge and one prosecutor to put anyone behind bars, if in fact that one judge and prosecutor would only do their job right in the first place.

They say money can buy anything and it is apparent that money has bought a lot of top drug dealers and users their freedom in America. He (the President) says that the poor don't have to worry when they walk the street and go shopping because it is only the rich that is the target for drug users to attack and rob from. True, the homeless don't have to fear this, but I interpret this to mean anyone under the average income is poor and only the middle class in America are the ones suffering the most from this, for the simple reason that Bush only said the rich suffer and not the poor and that his target will be toward the public housing.

Come on, let's be honest, every one knows that cocaine is a rich man's habit, so maybe he ought to target his own cabinet or clean out offices of government that tend to look away or condone such activities and usage of drugs, when they have parties and entertain. Like the democratic senator from Delaware said, "We have the power and the resources to stop drug infiltration into America now, so why all of a sudden is this first hand knowledge to Bush under the Reagan administration now just proposing a ridiculous plan he knows that will only slightly curb the drug problem. Since the drug problem is mostly coming from South America, and the government there is at least trying to put a stop to it with the very little resources they have, shouldn't Bush order combat troops to assist instead of training and advice?"

Ever since President Kennedy was assassinated, our presidents have only talked of affirmative action towards America's problems, with the exception of Reagan, who gave some terrorists a taste of their own justice long overdo. So the main question is, what actually do we have to do to stop the drugs and will we finally do it?

Since fear has spread among millions of Americans because of the drugs coming in and being used, then combat the fear in only one way possible, fight fire with fire, since drugs cause death and mental suffering, then this is our deterrent to use against the drug dealer, seller and users, and this would be a federal and state penalty if convicted — death sentence for drug dealers and the sellers of drugs on the streets — the maximum of 20 years and not less than 10 years in a penal institution for the user or buyer — and this would all have to be mandatory, meaning no parole and positively no probation. But, since the state of Maryland can't even carry out its own sentence on deputy's killer, then why should we expect it to impose harsh sentences on drug violators? America can easily ship out their old to Florida or put them in nursing homes without a care, murder unborn babies (abortion) without shedding a tear, so I guess America will allow even this type of abuse to continue until we, the people, say no more.

I'm not a Republican, Democrat or any other affiliation of parties, except an average American citizen who strives every day to believe in our once safe and free homeland called the United States of America.

This letter contains more information about Marriage Encounter.

Who is Marriage Encounter for?

It is for couples of any age, those who have been married only a few months to couples married over 50 years. All they need is a commitment to each other and a willingness to work towards a stronger and more meaningful future together.

But, we have a good marriage! Great! But why settle for what you have if it can be better. Every marriage can be improved. Don't let your good marriage stand in the way of a great marriage.

Is the Weekend open to couples of any faith?

Yes. The Weekend is presented through a perspective of a particular faith, but each couple is invited to apply the experience through the perspective of their religious belief.

How is the Marriage Encounter operated?

The Weekend is presented by couples and clerics, who have previously attended a Weekend. They give of their free time, so that others may have the opportunity to share in a similar kind of experience.

Does the Weekend have a lasting effect on our journey together?

The Marriage Encounter does not end with the Weekend. Far from it! By continuing the process learned on the Weekend, husbands and wives are enabled to live richer, more purposeful lives. In addition, there are ongoing Marriage Encounter activities for those interested.

What does the Weekend cost?

Nothing if you can't afford it. On your Weekend you will be asked to make an anonymous donation. Please don't stay away because you think you can't afford it.

Sound interesting?

Marriage Encounter is positive in its direction because it is aimed at building and enhancing a relationship, not tearing it down and starting all over! This refreshing approach to communication in marriage offers an opportunity for growth in your relationship. Give this time to each other. You'll never make better use of time together.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

STUDENTS WILL BE BIG WINNERS IN 'BACK THE SCHOOLS' CAMPAIGN
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

This is the time of year when we hear a lot about going back to school. Adults too often forget what an exciting time this can be for young people.

I can still remember my school days and how I felt on that first day of school each year. I was sad that summer was over. But it always felt good to be getting a new start, in a new room, with a new teacher, new books.

The school building was fresh and clean and it made everyone eager to get going — to learn something new. As I look back on it now, I know why I felt so good. I expected good things to happen. I always had high hopes that I was getting a fresh start and that I was going to do better in the new school year.

Those positive feelings are as important for young people today as they were when I was in school.

That's why we have launched a campaign this year called "Back The Schools." We want to get everyone involved in the excitement and enthusiasm of our young people as they start back to school. And we want to keep that spirit and interest going all during the school year.

To have the very best schools possible in Maryland, we need everyone in the community to "Back The Schools." We need parents to take an active part in their children's education. We need the business community to work with local school administrators on new programs for our young people. And we need everyone — not just those with children in school — to get involved in education.

Why do we need all these people involved? The answer is really quite simple. Because all these people — the whole community — are affected by the success or failure of our schools.

What can you do? If you are a parent, remember that no matter what happens in school, you are still your child's most important teacher. Education starts when a child is born. Be positive about schools and education right from the start. If it's important to you, it will be important to your child.

Visit your child's school. Meet the teacher and the principal. Attend school events and join your local Parent-Teacher organization. Volunteer to help out at school. There are so many ways parents can support their children in school.

Businesses can "Back The Schools" by adopting a school and providing incentives and programs for the students. We need to let our young people know that we really care how well they do in school. We need to send them a message to encourage their efforts.

What the business community puts into education will pay great dividends down the road. We have seen that over and over again. Good schools turn out bright, well-trained young people who are good employees and intelligent consumers. The kind of people who keep the economy of Maryland strong and growing.

"Back The Schools" . . . that's what we have to do to make Maryland education the very best possible. The problems of education cannot be solved by money alone. And they cannot be solved by school officials alone. Education is something we all have to get involved in.

If you have ideas or suggestions for improving our schools, or if you want to know how you can "Back The School," I want to hear from you. I hope you will write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Whitewater And Pride

by Dr. Steve Herman, President
Garrett Community College

Much of the press surrounding Whitewater focused on its economic and public relations benefits. These are considerable and not to be minimized. People throughout the nation and the world now know about Western Maryland and its distinctive beauty.

But they know something else too, something few people outside our region might have predicted. We are a community with a distinctive capability for cooperation, and we have among us a pool of talented, skilled, and experienced people who can mount a major organizational effort as well as anyone anywhere.

Compare the Whitewater World Championships in Garrett County with the winter olympics in Lake Placid. Lake Placid is world-renowned as a resort center. It has a long history of tourism and a comprehensive infra-structure for accommodating tourists and tourism events of grand scope. Yet Lake Placid embarrassed itself on the world stage. In contrast Garrett County, from all accounts, has run the best canoe/kayak world championships ever in the history of the sport.

The greatest significance of Whitewater 1989 seems to me to be this: Garrett County has competed on the world stage and it has won. We all suffer from self-doubts from time to time. In the aftermath of Whitewater, Garrett County should feel nothing but pride and confidence. Why did Garrett County succeed and Lake Placid fail? A clue can be found in ancient history. The mighty Persian empire was powerful and expansive but in the fifth century B.C. Athens defeated it — through resourcefulness and cooperation. Resourcefulness is rooted in Garrett County's heritage and tradition, and Garrett Countians have a love of community that refuses to allow the community to fail. These factors make Garrett County capable of accomplishing great feats.

So many people gave so much to Whitewater that I am reluctant to single out any particular individual. However, Senator John Bambacus and Don Storck, who served as Executive Director, are examples of people who embody that spirit of dedication to community that made Whitewater a remarkable success. They had to give themselves totally and selflessly, and they did.

I do not know what challenges Garrett County will put to itself in the future. Perhaps it will seek more challenges of the magnitude of Whitewater; perhaps it will decline to do so. But I know this: there is a world of difference between declining a challenge because you fear failure and declining a challenge knowing you can succeed.

My hat's off to Garrett County!

Red Skelton

a fall while riding. Red Skelton requested that Dr. Harvey be the examining physician.

Consequently, Dr. Harvey's services were once again called upon by the Skelton family. When Jack was finally located, he tended to Mrs. Skelton in her hotel suite and determined that she was badly bruised, but otherwise fine. However, her injuries were serious enough to prevent her from attending the show on Sunday night. For this reason, the quartet was invited to the Skelton suite prior to the show.

"When we walked into the bedroom," recalled Dave Callis, "the first thing we saw was Red Skelton, still in his sock feet with a video camera in his hand, recording our entrance. We were introduced and talked for a while and then we sang several selections for Lothian (Mrs. Skelton).

" 'When You and I Were Young, Maggie' brought tears to her eyes, but 'Zip-a-dee-doo-dah' particularly interested her. It seems her father was a cinematographer and a pioneer in special effects. One of his more significant accomplishments was the movie, 'Song of the South' which featured that song.

"Red continued to keep the video camera on us and then he would focus on his wife to catch her reaction. In the meantime, Mary, my wife, took pictures of us and of Red as he filmed us.

"Then we went back down to the banquet hall where we met Dottie West and couldn't resist singing her a song after she twisted her arm. It went something like: 'Do you want to hear a song? and she said, 'Yes.' She was a great sport about it and seemed to be particularly fascinated with the high falsetto sounds coming from tenor Charlie Pitrolo's voice. We then went to the dinner and a band played while we ate.

"After dinner we were announced and did our performance. Then we led the crowd of about one thousand art patrons in two choruses of 'Happy Birthday,' after which Red was introduced. He told several jokes, thanked the quartet and then said, 'I used to be in a quartet once, until they found out what was wrong with it.' He followed with some pantomime, for which he is probably best known, and finished with 'Thank You and God Bless.' "

Dave, Mary and lead, Dan Tice, did some hiking in the surrounding mountains, at about 8,400 feet above sea level. According to Dave, "Although there are no forests anywhere more beautiful than those here in our own Allegheny Mountains, Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada Mountains are truly among God's show pieces." He added, "The trip was quick, the scenery impressive and the weather perfect. But most of all, it was great to see the genius of Red Skelton. With clean, imaginative humor, he still has a lot of fun making us laugh."

Two Friendsville youths were injured in a four-wheeler mishap last Thursday on private property near the Paul Fike Road.

Police reported that Sabrina D. Sines, 11, was operating the vehicle, while Kerry E. Albert, 13, was a passenger. Sines stopped the vehicle, and as she leaned over to put it into reverse, it rolled into the ditch, pinning both youths.

They were taken to Garrett Memorial by Northern Rescue, where they were treated and released. Tfc. L. Rosage investigated the report.

A Deer Park man was injured in a four-wheeler mishap Saturday in an open field near Main Street.

Police reported that Lawrence E. Hinebaugh, 21, was jumping dirt piles with the vehicle when it landed on its right tires and overturned. Hinebaugh was ejected from the vehicle.

In Loving Memory Of

MYRTLE MAE HINEBAUGH

Who Passed Away 1 Year Ago
September 11, 1988

We think of you in silence and often speak your name,
But all that is left to answer is a picture in a frame.
A million times we've wanted you, a million times we've cried,
If love could have saved you, you never would have died.
No farewells were spoken, no time to say "Goodbye",
You were gone before we knew it, and only God knows why.
If tears could build a stairway and heartaches could make a lane,
We'd walk our way to heaven and bring you back again.
We hope before you left us, you knew we loved you so.

Loved and sadly missed by Daughter Nancy Upole and Grandchildren Doug, Mike,
Tammy Upole, and Becky Glotfelty

Friendsville Man Carries On Special Traditions Of Simple Living, Friendship

by Sandra Cusack

A slight breeze rustled the leaves on the trees. An Indian moved silently through the forest, following the deer's tracks. As he came closer to the buck, he readied his bow and arrow for the one chance he would have to shoot.

Triumphantly, he returned with his kill to the village. There would be feasting that evening, the fresh deer meat promising to go well with the newly harvested corn to celebrate the arrival of a group of tall, thin white men from the eastern lands.

The group of men, now considered the founders of Friendsville, brought knives, kettles and axes that would greatly simplify the lives of the Indians and seal the friendship between the white men and the group of Shawnee Indians.

One man, now living in Friendsville, carries on the tradition of friendship and simple living. James "Pappy" Ross lives in a rambling farmhouse on the outskirts of the town with his wife where they practice the art of living off the land, with a few exceptions, along with keeping alive the old legends of the settlers of Friendsville.

Pappy is a descendant of the original John Friend. His mother was the great-granddaughter of John Friend, who is said to be the first white man to build a cabin in the area of Friendsville, back between 1750 and 1765.

"ONCE YOU'VE RAISED A DEER, you can't shoot one," said Jim "Pappy" Ross, when asked if he still hunts. "They're really characters." As can be seen from the above photo, he has a fondness for the fawn he raised and the fawn has a fondness for him. Pappy and his wife have raised four deer and have cared for another eight. Pappy explained that whenever someone would find an injured deer, he would bring it to his house.

John Jr., John Friend's son, grew up to build a cabin in the Sang Run area, where it is now said that Meshach Browning originally settled. But Pappy explained that Meshach didn't actually come to the area until around the middle of the 1800's and John Jr. built his cabin in the early 1800's.

John Friend and his brothers settled in the area. Of the group, Pappy said it is no longer certain who married whom, but he believes that John married a white woman, although it is believed that some of the group married Indian women.

The Friends found the area when the King of England had the land surveyed in 1750. That was the same year that Washington built Fort Necessity. Andrew and Augustine Friend scouted the land for Washington at that time.

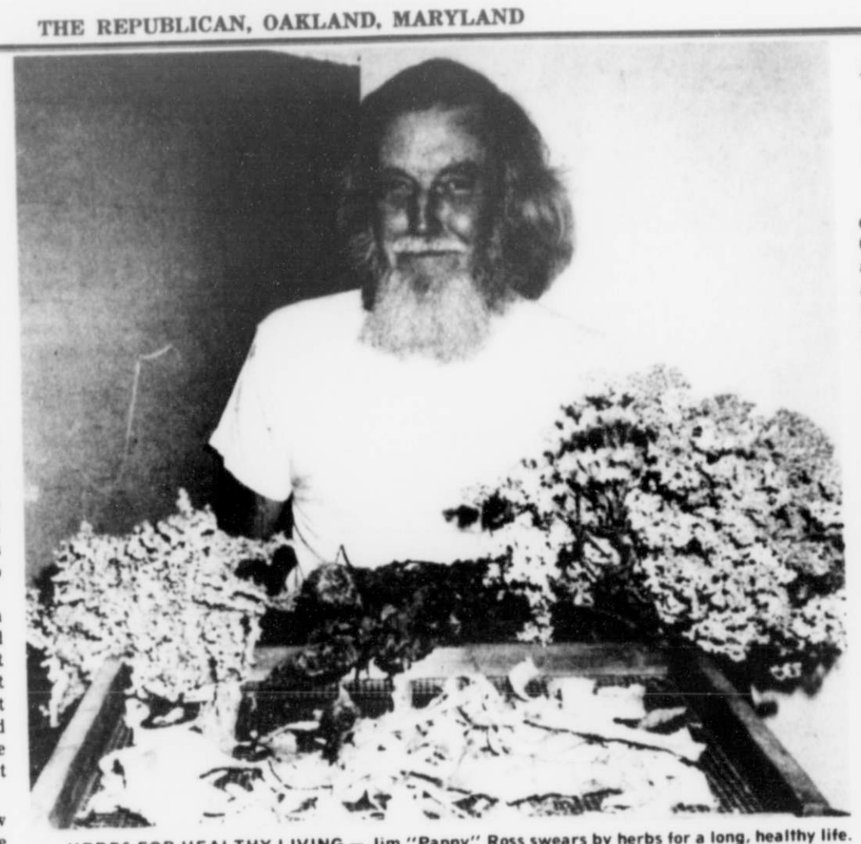
Pappy explained that Andrew never married. He roamed the woods of the area with the Zane brothers and Lew Whetzel, men who settled areas of West Virginia. Andrew was a young man when he died, only 56 when he was buried near Morgantown. Andrew apparently didn't like the Indians, and was responsible for several deaths, although he seemed to suffer his share of injuries. Pappy explained that Andrew could be accepted by the Indians when he wanted to be, because he had blonde hair, which apparently fascinated the Indians enough for them to accept him into their villages.

Pappy tells another story about a man the Indians had to kill. His name was Mr. White. He came to the Cumberland area with a message from George Washington. The Friends were to guide him back to Fort Necessity as it was considered dangerous to travel alone. Mr. White killed an Indian girl and thus had to be killed by the Indians. The Friends could not help him, as it could have turned the Indians against them.

According to the legend, when Mr. White was killed, the Indian said "Youghiogheny!", meaning, "Laugh again." Pappy explained that the Shawnee named the Youghiogheny River, and that it means either "Laughing Water" or "Talking Water." It is difficult to translate the exact meaning of the word, and to different tribes the meaning may have varied.

Pappy has carried on the Friend's original friendship with the Indians. Several years ago, Pappy and his wife donated approximately five acres of land to the Youghiogheny River Band of Shawnee Indians, Inc. He has since been made a full tribal member.

Pappy was born in 1917 at the Kent Gristmill along the Youghiogheny River. The gristmill was built in the 1700's. Pappy learned the natural ways to stay healthy during his youth and still practices many of those ideas. He explained that ground corn and buckwheat flour are good for preventing ailments.



HERBS FOR HEALTHY LIVING — Jim "Pappy" Ross swears by herbs for a long, healthy life. He learned the medical values of herbs from his mother. Pappy's great-great-grandmother had been raised by the Indians and she had passed the knowledge down through the family. Pappy displays several of his herbs above, including goldenrod for healing, wild pepper for stomach cramps and sassafras, in the tray that he uses to dry his herbs. He explained that using herbs and eating a lot of corn help prevent illnesses and that it is easier to prevent cancer than to cure it.

"It's a lot easier to prevent ailments than to go to the hospital. People aren't any healthier now than they used to be," he said. "I've been using herbs since I was small. We'd use boneset tea for a lot of illnesses, from colds to fevers to headaches. It's one of the most widely used herbs.

"The Friends would take parched corn and jerkey and walk from here to Morgantown and back in one day. They had to wade the Sandy River and swim across the Cheat River. The Cheat got its name from cheating people of their lives. The Friends took the Indian trail, which is almost the same as what the freeway (I-79) is today. Some places along the trail may vary by as much as half a mile," he said.

"You can't tell me they weren't healthy in those days, and of course, if the herbs don't work, you can always use a walking stick," he laughed.

Some of Pappy's favorite herbs, aside from boneset tea, are wild pepper, sassafras and golden rod. He explained that he usually just makes tea from the herbs. Pappy likes to use wild honey to flavor the tea, as it sometimes has a "very nasty taste". He also recommends eating lots of corn.

Pappy uses trays with screens in them to dry the herbs. He places the herbs on the trays and puts the trays over the stove.

Goldenrod is good for stomachache and also good to use on wounds in a powder form, as it has the ability to keep down infection. Wild pepper is used for stomach cramps. Sassafras is a good stimulant and also diuretic. Red boneset is a good herb to use for kidney ailments.

Oswego mint is an herb used by the Indians during ceremonies. They mix it with cedar and tobacco and use during burial ceremonies and also put it in the grave. It is also used as a medicine.

Pappy said that the American Medical Association (AMA) has just passed a decree that sassafras is cancer causing. "Sassafras has been in use for over 2,000 years, and now they're saying that it is cancer causing," he said.

"The AMA can put out a warning on sassafras, but not a warning on soft drinks. They are the worst thing you can drink as far as damaging your kidneys. I can remember when they would arrest people for selling herbs, but now they are taking a closer look at them.

"Isaah Friend raised a family of 12 up on Elderberry Hill. They used herbs and they all survived without ever taking a pill. The whole family lived to their 70's, 80's and 90's," said Pappy.

One thing that Pappy no longer does is hunt. He spends the greater part of his time outdoors, except when the temperature drops below negative 12 degrees.

He explained that once you have raised a deer, you can't shoot one. "They're really characters and you see some surprising things. We raised a deer in the house, but it's been about four years since we had any.

"We raised four from babies, that were all kept in the house, and we had maybe eight more that were kept in the barn. People would bring them to us. Some would be injured on the road or hurt somehow and we'd keep them here," he said. "We'd keep the babies till they were big enough to get by on their own, but then they don't leave, they stay near the house.

"We had a buck that we raised and then he wanted his own family. The big buck treated him rough, horned him in the chest. We had to call in the vet, who said he wasn't trained to care for deer. But he pretended the deer was a calf and cleaned out the puncture. After he recovered, the young buck then decided he had to leave, so he went up near Otto Goehringer's house. Otto told people that if they shot that deer, he'd shoot them.

"Deer are very interesting. They won't eat a poisonous plant. The Indians learned what was good to eat and what wasn't from watching animals. They would watch what mushrooms the gray squirrels eat, to learn what was poisonous and what wasn't. The gray squirrels don't eat anything poisonous either," he said.

Pappy and his family have cared for many different animals. "We've had everything in here from a snake to a skunk. We bring in black snakes occasionally," he said.

Pappy's formula for healthful living includes using no pesticides or chemicals for rodent control. He explained that he would often catch garter snakes to put in the garden during the summer to control pests.

He feels that the state should not use pesticides to control the gypsy moth. Pappy said that all the area needs to be rid of the gypsy moth is a "good, cold freeze." He explained that if the temperature were to drop below zero this winter, it would cause the gypsy moth eggs to burst, or else freeze so hard that they won't hatch next summer — using nature's way of controlling pests.

When he isn't working on the farm, Pappy spends time visiting state parks, schools and summer camps to talk to young people about herbs and native Americans, the food they ate and their way of life.

Pappy and his wife have an even dozen grandchildren, plus one step-grandchild. Seeing Pappy with his family is to see that his formula for healthy living works and also to see that he will be around for many more years, passing on his special knowledge of herbs and Indian lore.

In Loving Memory Of
Our Dearest Tara Lynn Tasker
Tara went to heaven on Sept. 8, 1983.

Another year has come and gone and yet your memory lives on. Tara, you live in our hearts and we all love you very much.

I think of you in silence and often speak your name, but all that is left to answer is your empty picture frame. A million times I've wanted to see and hold you, and a million times I've cried. If all our love could have saved you, you never would have gone. No farewells were spoken, no time to say how much we loved you. You were gone before we knew it, without the time to say goodbye. So now we pray that our angel is in heaven where goodbyes aren't necessary. God loves children and his angels are very hard to find.

Sadly missed and deeply loved by us all.

St. John's To Conclude Anniversary Celebration With Service, Banquet

Rev. Dr. Charles S. Mueller

St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, in the Cove will bring to a close this Sunday, September 10 the congregation's year long observance of the 125th anniversary of the congregation's founding. There will be a special festive service at 10:30 a.m. with guest speaker, the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Mueller, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle, Ill.

Prior to becoming the pastor of the Roselle congregation, Pastor Mueller served two terms as president of the Southeastern District of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod. The Rev. Ernest G. Lindner, St. John's present pastor, will serve as officiant for the service.

Following the service the congregation will gather for an Anniversary Banquet to be served in the Northern Middle School cafeteria. The meal is being catered by Goehringer's Deli of Accident. Following the meal there will be a short concert by the newly re-formed Accident Concert Band, under the direction of the Rev. Wilfred Karsten. Richard Kolb, president of the St. John's congregation, will serve as master of ceremonies for the post-banquet program.

St. John's began its year long observance of its 125th anniversary last October with a special festive service at which the Rev. Dr. Arnold Krompardt, president of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod's Eastern District, was the speaker. The Pittsburgh Lutheran Church also participated in the service. In March, St. John's co-sponsored with Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, a concert of sacred music performed by the chorus of Concordia College, Bronxville, New York.

St. John's conducted its annual Mission Festival on July 23. The speaker for the occasion was the Rev. George W. Fickenscher, a son of the congregation.

In a recent pastoral letter, Pastor Lindner reflected on the meaning and results of the year-long observances. "We can," the pastor wrote, "react to the end of our anniversary observances in one of two ways. We can have a feeling of letdown after the dynamic series of events that filled our anniversary year have run their course. That kind of feeling can lead to a listless and unfruitful life style. The other reaction can be just the opposite, it can be dynamic and fruitful. The second, positive and better reaction is to see our anniversary year as being like the trust that launches a rocket and puts it into orbit. For 125 years the members of St. John's have joyfully and willingly worked together to radiate the light and truth of God's love as revealed and given to us in the person and ministry of Jesus Christ. Inspired by our past heritage, let us continue our ministry in the days to come. Working together in unity of faith and love the new era in our congregation's history that we are entering into can be the most dynamic and fruitful periods in the continuing history of St. John's congregation."

On behalf of St. John's, Pastor Lindner extends an invitation to St. John's friends and neighbors to join in this closing celebration of the congregation's 125th anniversary.

Tom Woods, Rams Optimistic, As Huge Offensive Line Returns For '89 Season

Although the Southern Rams lost 17 players from its 1988 team that finished 11-1 and advanced to the Class 2A state semi-finals, including personnel such as four-year starting quarterback Zack Gibson and the area's Player of the Year, tailback Brent Sanders, Coach Tom Woods is optimistic about his team's chances this year.

The entire offensive backfield is brand new this year, however the personnel filling those spots have seen considerable playing time and will be led up front by a massive offensive line, the largest in Southern's history.

Taking over the signal-calling for the Rams will be two-year letterman at linebacker, Marshall Pike, a 6-3, 174-pound senior, who is described by Woods as "intelligent, a good leader, and mechanically sound."

"Marshall's only disadvantage right now is that he lacks experience at that position," Woods said, "but we think he will be a very good replacement for Zack."

Starting at tailback will be senior Billy Welch (5-7, 160), while the fullback slot, vacated by one of the strongest fullbacks ever to play for the Rams in Mike Bittinger, will be filled by senior Mike Dever (5-8, 150).

"Our offense will have quite a different look this year," Woods said. "Instead of having our typical big, strong, fullback to crash through the middle of the line on trap plays and block for our tailback on sweeps, our fullback will be about the same size as our tailback. But Mike is the fastest player on our team and he will probably carry the ball twice as much as Bittinger did last year. We will run him on a lot of quick trap plays and also attempt to get him outside a lot, along with Welch. Both of them also have good strength and will have a huge line in front of them."

Doug Lewis, a 5-11, 164-pound senior and returning punter for the Rams, will also see some playing time at fullback.

Playing the slot position will be newcomer Brynt Sines, a senior transfer from Ohio (5-10, 161) who Woods says lacks experience, but shows a lot of promise.

The split end position will be filled alternately by senior Mike Fulmer (5-11, 147) and John Milligan, the 5-10, 168-pound senior who has been the placekicking specialist for the Rams the past three seasons.

Junior Mike Freyman (6-2, 164) will start at tight end, although junior Tommy Ritchey (6-1, 192) will also see considerable playing time.

The Ram line, which averages 235 pounds, will be anchored by 6-3, 260-pound senior John Stem at one of the guard positions.

"John worked awfully hard this summer," Woods said. "He has tremendous strength and very good speed, so we're expecting a lot out of him this season."

Starting at the other guard spot will be senior Chuck Graham (5-10, 167), while the tackles positions will be filled by junior Brett Glotfelty (6-3, 281) and junior James Bateman (6-4, 264). The starting center will be Scott Rohrbaugh, another junior (5-9, 206).

Senior Jon Nazelrod (5-10, 168) is also expected see a 'ot of playing time on the offensive line.

"We should have an outstanding starting offensive line," Woods said, "but we have very little depth, so we hope we can keep everyone healthy."

The starting defensive unit will feature senior Stem and Glotfelty at tackle and Dever and Lewis at the end positions. As late as Tuesday, Woods said a three-way battle was still going on for the starting nose guard spot. Fighting for that position are senior Kevin Green (6-0, 281), sophomore B.J. Shaffer (5-11, 192), and Rohrbaugh.

"All three of them can play any of the front positions, so we do have some good depth there," Woods said.

Returning to his linebacker spot will be Pike and the other two starters will be among Ritchey, Nazelrod, and senior Jamie Ashby (5-10, 154).

The brand new starting secondary will include Sines at safety, and Fulmer and junior Shawn Ryan (5-6, 143) at the corners. Also expected to see playing time in the secondary will be Milligan and senior Bobby Mersing (5-5, 133).

Milligan, the All-Area kicker for the past two seasons, will resume his placekicking duties and Lewis will continue as the starting punter.

Another player expected to see a lot of action this season at tailback and defensive back, but currently out of the lineup because of a pulled groin muscle, is junior Kevin Lohr (5-9, 158).

"August has been a long, long month for all of us," Woods said, "so we are really anxious for that first game. We were concerned about our team's chances throughout most of August, but I think we really started to turn the corner last Saturday night in our scrimmage with Allegany."

Instead of the usual two preseason scrimmages, the Rams participated in four this year, culminating with the one against powerful Allegany. Although Southern lost to the Campers, 5-3, Woods was encouraged by the fact that the Rams moved the ball effectively against them.

"We scored on three long, sustained drives, while a couple of their scores were on on big plays against our young secondary," Woods said. "Although we have concerns about the inexperience in our secondary, we were really pleased that our offense was able to grind it out against their defense."

The Rams 10-game regular schedule will open this Friday night at Berkeley Springs, a team that has been soundly defeated in its first two outings, by Petersburg and Hampshire.

The Indians are a young, inexperienced team that is physically much smaller than Southern.

Their offense is led by a quick tailback in Heath McClintock (5-9, 150), fullback Butch Miller(6-1, 192), and guards Jerry Soulders (5-10, 175) and Tom Matts (5-11, 175).

The 5-2 monster defense is led by Miller at tackle, Soulders at nose guard, and Scott Cain (6-2, 200) at defensive end.

"They run a wide open offense with a lot of diversification," Woods said. "We consider their strengths to be their special teams, their secondary, and their offensive backfield. Plus they will be on their own field and they will have two games under their belts."

Kickoff is slated for 8 p.m.

Assisting coaches for the Rams this year are Dave Bosley, Fred Gregg, Terry Kendall, Jim Bosley, Paul Pacella, and Scott Harvey.

STRETCH THOSE HAMSTRINGS! It's football season again and the Southern Rams, who have been practicing for over a month now, are anxious to open their season this Friday night at Berkeley Springs. The Rams have put together two straight 11-1 seasons and regional championships and are optimistic about the 1989 campaign, as they will field a huge offensive line for their new backfield. Coaching the Rams this season are, pictured below, left to right, Paul Pacella, Dave Bosley, Fred Gregg, Jim Bosley, Terry Kendall, Tom Woods (head coach), and Scott Harvey.

Note: Tom Woods announced this week that he has submitted his resignation as head football coach of the Southern Rams, effective immediately following the last game of this season. See separate story.

Northern Steelers Top Dolphins For Second Victory

The Northern Steelers continued their winning ways in Mountain Top Youth League Football this past Sunday by defeating the Terra Alta Dolphins, 21-6, in Kingwood, W.Va. It was the second win in as many starts for Coach Larry Brenneman's Steelers, who are the defending league champions.

Rob Speicher opened the scoring for the Steelers when he broke loose for a 74-yard gallop to the end zone at the 5:59 mark of the first quarter. The conversion kick failed.

With just 34 seconds remaining in the quarter, Derek Mason connected with Billy Younkin on a 20-yard pass play for a touchdown. Allen Sebold's kick for the two-point conversion made it 14-0.

The Steelers concluded their scoring for the afternoon when Tim Forney carried the ball to paydirt from four yards out and Speicher passed to Mason for the conversion to make the score 21-0.

The Dolphins finally got on the scoreboard with just 1:50 remaining in the game when Joseph Friend scored from 10 yards out.

Brenneman credited his entire defensive for its impressive effort.

The Steelers will return to action this Sunday, Sept. 10, by taking on the Thomas-Davis Rams at Terra Alta. Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. The 3 p.m. game will feature the Dolphins against the Oakland Raiders.

Ladies Golf News

Pat Filsinger's name was omitted in error in last week's news about the Ladies Golf Association of the Oakland Country Club. She was the runner-up in the first flight fall tournament.

The women played a four-man best ball on August 31. Winning first with a 58 was the team of Ann Jesnak, Jerry Smith, Betsy Polce and Wanda Pullen. Second with a 59 were Karen Browning, Margaret Moran, Mary Lou Shaffer and Wanda Pullen. In third place was a tie between Alice McGreevy, Martha Lou Ashby, Helen McHenry, and Rita Humberson, and Annis Colaw, Carly Doe, Songer and Virginia Lohr. Both carded 62s. Annis Colaw and Jerry Smith won low putts (29) for the day.

Twenty golfers participated in the 5:30 Friday scramble. Winning first place with a 33 were Larry Dixon, Janice LaRue, Bob Humberson and Chuck Margroff. Second place was won by Anne Jesnak, Jim Hetrick, Tony Conrad and Carly Doe.

Twenty-two members played in the 8:30 p.m. scramble. The team of Larry Dixon, Karen Browning, Janice LaRue and Mildred Foster won first with a 39. Three teams tied with 41. They were Mike Kildow, Janice Welch, Darius May, and Anthony Conrad; J.R. Shillingburg, Pearl Daniels, Terry LaRue, and Carly Doe; and James Hetrick, Anne Jesnak, William Sutton, and Gary Daniels.

Local Soccer Club To Face League Champions Sunday

The A&A Realty/Deep Creek Soccer Club will play its second game of the season this Sunday when they take on defending champions of the Western Maryland Soccer League, Little Caesars, who last year were The Mt. Savage Raiders. The game will be played at Mt. Savage High School at 1 p.m.

The Deep Creek Club won its first game of the season on Sunday, August 27, defeating Lonaconing, 4-3. The club, which has been in existence for eight years, returns a strong offense led by Steve Prosser and Tony Landau, who both scored against Coney, and Bob Issacson. The front line is backed by capable halfback core led by Bill Meade, Brian Heselbach, and Ned Holloway. The solid defense is anchored by sweeper Mark Gwiazdowsky, who scored on a penalty kick against Lonaconing, and backs Rod Johnson, Dave Insley, and Mike Logsdon. The goalkeeper chores are handled by John Steele.

The A&A team finished last year with one win, four losses, and three ties and are looking forward to improving their record this year. Anyone interested in playing the rest of the season should contact Dave Insley at 387-5832 or Jerry Herpel, 387-5300 during the day or come to a practice on Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the soccer field behind Southern Middle School.

Holtschneiders Win Slingers Tourneys

The team of Carl and Cecil Holtschneider captured first place in the doubles horseshoe pitching contest held August 27 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry by the Mtn. Top Ringer Slingers.

Placing second was the team of Vernon Sines and Joe Lewis, while Dave Nugent and John Michaels finished third.

In a singles tourney on Sunday afternoon, Cecil Holtschneider took first place, followed by Joe Lewis, Carl Holtschneider, and Vernon Sines.

The next Slingers' event will be held this Sunday, September 10, at the Fairgrounds.

Tom Vent, Huskies Anticipate Happier Times With Return Of 17 Lettermen

After several consecutive disappointing seasons, this just might be the year that the Northern Huskies turn the corner towards success, as 17 lettermen and the largest roster in recent history are on the playing field this year under Coach Tom Vent.

This is Vent's fourth year at the Northern helm and, although he is always an optimist, there seems to be a streak of extra excitement in his voice this year as he prepares his first senior-dominated team since taking the job in 1986.

"We are in the middle of the greatest week of practice we've had since I have been coach here," Vent said late last night. "We are really excited and are so anxious to play that we can hardly stand it.

"I believe these young men, especially the seniors, really understand what football is all about and where we want to go with our program," he said. "Plus, we have 45 boys out this year, which is really encouraging."

Instead of five or six seniors, Vent has 13 on the roster this year, with most of his linemen and eight of his 11 defensemen back.

Anchoring the offensive line will be two big senior tackles, senior Johnny Joe Friend (6-2, 225) and Brian Friend (6-0, 240). Expected to start at the guard positions are two juniors, Stacy Fike (6-0, 180) and Randy Dolan (5-11, 150). Starting center will be John Hughes, a 6-1, 192-pound junior.

Vent has had to replace all three of his leading rushers from last season, including quarterback Todd Wagner and running backs Craig Umbel and Ed Tabor; however, other experienced players are ready to step in.

SENIORS
Pete Bittinger	RB-DE	5	1	145
Mike Brenneman	SE-S	6	0	150
Shawn Fratz	T-DT	5	10	186
Brian Friend	T-DT	6	0	240
Johnny Joe Friend	T-NG	6	2	225
Jerry Harris	G-DE	5	8	145
Kirby King	SE-S	5	10	155
Darren McKenzie	RB-S	6	0	165
Ricky Perando	FB-LB	6	1	185
Kevin Orner	T-DT	6	1	195
Jared Sechler	QB-S	6	2	165
Brock Yommer	TE-DE	6	2	175
JUNIORS
Loren Brenneman	G-DT	6	1	170
Randy Dolan	OG-DE	5	11	150
Dale Fazenbaker	C-NG	5	6	150
Stacy Fike	G-LB	6	0	180
Lee Holloway	SE-S	6	0	150
John Hughes	C-LB	6	1	192
Chris Jenkins	SE-S	6	0	140
Chad Sines	QB-S	5	11	160
SOPHOMORES
Todd Burdock	G-LB	5	8	160
Mike Fike	T-DT	6	3	205
Jon Houser	TE-S	6	2	181

The starting quarterback will be two-year letterman Chad Sines, a junior (5-11, 160). Darren McKenzie (6-0, 165), who was an All-Highland Football Conference split end as a sophomore two years ago, will fill the tailback spot. McKenzie, who is considered by Vent to be one of his best athletes, was knocked out of last season when he broke his collarbone in the second game of the season (against Hancock).

Starting at fullback will be the area's smallest, but one of its quickest, players is senior Pete Bittinger, a 5-1, 145-pound senior. Expected to start at the tight end positions will be newcomer Brock Yommer, a senior (6-2, 175), and sophomore Jon Houser (6-2, 181). Senior Jarrod Sechler (6-2, 165) will start at split end.

Junior Lee Holloway (6-0, 150) will also see considerable time in the tailback spot.

The starting defensive line will be composed of junior Dale Fazenbaker (5-6, 150) and Brian Friend at guards, senior Kevin Orner (6-1, 195) and Johnny Joe Friend at tackles, and Bittinger and Dolan at ends. Hughes and Stacy Fike will start at the linebacker positions, while the secondary will include Houser and Sechler, corners, and Holloway at free safety.

Jon Houser will be the place kicker and McKenzie will punt.

Shoulder injuries have one player definitely out of the first game and two others are listed as questionable. Junior Chris Jenkins will not play this week and Orner and Loren Brenneman are both nursing sore shoulders.

When asked if there will be a new look to the Huskies this year, Vent jokingly responded, "Yes. For the first time, I think we are going to have an offense!

"What I mean is, we have never really had a running game," he explained. "We have had some excellent running backs, but they haven't had much blocking from our line. This year, we have some fairly inexperienced backs, but we also should be able to provide some good blocking for them.

"Our kids have really been working hard in the weight room and it is going to make a difference," he said.

The first test for the Huskies will be this Friday night in Kingwood against a Central Preston team that is somewhat depleted in ranks and off to a slow start this season.

The Cavaliers lost to Notre Dame, 25-0, in their opener and fell to East Preston in overtime last Friday. They also lost their top player for several weeks when running back/defensive back Shawn George dislocated bones in his foot.

Taking over at halfback is Clifton Colebank, a 5-10, 168-pound senior, who is described by Vent as a "very good back."

Central does have comparable size with Northern on the line with players such as senior tackle Glenn Sisler (6-2, 218) and junior tackle Travis Jennings (5-10, 235).

"What bothers me more than anything is that this will be their third game and our first game," Vent said. "Plus, we have to play over there.

"But we are so ready and anxious to get on with it," he said.

A problem for Northern this year, about which Vent says, "I don't even want to talk about it", is the fact that the Huskies have no home field this year because of construction on a new track at the school. The Huskies' four "home" games this year will all be played on Southern's field on Saturday nights.

"There is a whole lot I would like to say about that, but I won't, and I don't even like to mention it to the kids," Vent said. "We can only hope that we will get some extra support from Southern fans on those Saturday evenings when we play there."

Assisting Vent with the coaching chores this season are Roy DeVore, Jon Houser Sr., and former Huskies Phil Carr and Jason Rush.

ROUGH AND READY to start their season are the Northern Huskies, who will open their campaign this Friday night at Central Preston with 17 returning lettermen and the largest senior contingent of players in recent years. Coach Tom Vent, now in his fourth year at the Northern helm, is hoping that his team's experience and strength will reap the victorious dividends that have escaped the Huskies the past several seasons. One disadvantage this season is that the Huskies will have to play their home games on Southern High's field since their own gridiron is out of service because of construction of an athletic track. Lake Pharmacy Team Knocked Out Of Tourney Frontier Lounge of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., eliminated Deep Creek Pharmacy in the Mountain Fellowship League Playoffs Tuesday night, 16-2. Frontier won the best of five series in three straight games, defeating the Pharmacy, 24-11 and 9-8 in the first two games played last Wednesday and Thursday.

In Wednesday's night games, Frontier scored nine runs in the top of the first inning, only to have Deep Creek Pharmacy come back with eight of their own in the bottom of the inning. But a five-run fifth and six-run seventh was all Frontier needed to put the Pharmacy away. Deep Creek could muster only three more runs the rest of the game.

In the second game on Thursday, Deep Creek jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and it was 5-3 in the fourth, but Frontier jumped back in the seventh with four runs to take the lead, 7-5. Deep Creek scored three runs in the eighth to go on top, 8-7 and had chances in the ninth to extend the lead, but could not produce the timely hit. Frontier loaded the bases in the bottom of the ninth with one out when the game winning single came through.

Deep Creek was never in the game Tuesday night, as Frontier scored four runs in the first and third innings and six more in the fourth.

In the other semi-final action, fourth place Markleysburg took a 2-1 lead in games over first place Rice's Lounge. Markleysburg won the first game, 10-8, and the third game, 10-6. Rice's won the second game of the series, 18-4.

Tom Woods Announces Resignation As Coach Of Southern High Rams

Citing a number of personal reasons, Tom Woods, now in his 13th year as head football coach of the Southern High Rams, announced his resignation from that position this week, effective immediately following the last game of the 1989 season.

Woods, who took a 1-9 Southern team upon his arrival in 1977 and turned the program into one of the winningest in the state of Maryland, stated that he wanted to "pursue some new avenues" and be able to spend more time with his family.

"I've been coaching for 18 straight years now," he said, "and I decided it is time for me to make a change and do some other things that I haven't been able to do because of the amount of time it takes to be a head coach. Most people don't realize how much time it involves."

Another reason noted by Woods was that his two sons will soon be in the high school football program and he decided it would be in their best interest if he were not their coach.

"This summer I talked to as many coaches as I could think of who have coached their own sons, and at least 80 percent of them said that, if they had it to do over again, they would not coach their sons," he said. "It puts the kids under too much pressure. Plus, my boys want to earn their own way in athletics rather than to be in a situation where some might think they are getting the breaks because their dad is the coach."

The Woods' son, Josh, will be a freshman at Southern a year from now and their other son, Andy, is now in the sixth grade.

"It has often dawned on me that I spend so much time working with so many other people's sons that I often don't have the time to spend working with my own sons," he said. "During football season I see my boys at breakfast and say goodnight to them in the evening and that's about it. I want to change that, especially at this time in their lives when they need me around more.

"It will also be so nice to be able to come home at 3:45, and maybe go for a walk with my wife, and eat dinner together with the family at the normal time," he continued. "Plus, I love the fall season, but I've never really been able to enjoy a lot of the things that fall has to offer in Garrett County."

Woods said he also plans to spend more time involved in some of his other favorite activities, which include flying and golf.

The good news for Ram fans is that Woods plans to remain in Garrett County and at Southern, where he will continue to be involved in the school's athletic programs in his capacity as athletic director. He has been Southern's AD for the past nine years.

"Debbie (his wife) and I really enjoy living here and our boys are involved in local athletic programs and want to stay through their high school years," he said. Mrs. Woods is a teacher at Broadford Elementary School.

Another thing Woods said would make it difficult to continue as coach and athletic director is the school's renovation project over the next few years. "There is going to be a lot of extra pressure on both the coaches and the athletic director during those two years," he said. "For example, practice schedules for all of the different teams are going to be extremely difficult to handle."

Since coming to Southern in 1977, Woods' teams have won 95 games and lost 35, have captured seven Highland Football Conference titles, five Potomac Valley Conference championships, and five Region I titles. They have been state runners-up twice and state semi-finalists four times, including the past two seasons in Class AA competition. The Rams have been ranked among the top 10 A-AA schools in the state in eight of the 12 seasons with Woods at the helm.

Prior to coming to Southern, Woods served as head wrestling coach at Spencer (W.Va.) High School where, in four seasons, his teams recorded a 114-12 record and a state championship in 1977. He was also head baseball coach at Spencer for two years (1973-75), finishing with a record of 26-6, and served as an assistant football coach for four seasons.

Personal honors include being named Maryland Coach of the Year in 1984, HFC Coach of the Year seven times, PVC Coach of the Year four times, and East-West Panhandle Coach of the Year. He was also a member of the first Maryland/Pennsylvania Big 33 Game coaching staff.

When asked about a possible successor to the head coaching spot, Woods said he is hopeful that the person will be selected from his present staff of assistants. He singled out Dave Bosley as his first choice, but added that Fred Gregg and Jim Bosley are also capable of doing a good job.

"Dave has 16 years of experience as a coach with 11 years as our defensive coordinator," Woods said. "He has played a very big role in our success over the years and I know he has the ability to continue a winning program.

"Of course, people outside the system may apply for the job, too," he said, "so it's too early to speculate on who the next coach will be."

When asked if he will stay involved in the football program in ways other than from his athletic director's position, Woods said, "I will be here only in a resource capacity. If I am asked for advice on a blocking scheme, for example, or asked to scout another team, I will do all I can to oblige. But it will not be my football program and I will not in any way be a coach. It will be a clean break right from the beginning. It would be unfair to the new coach for me to be involved that way."

Woods said that he informed his coaching staff and the team of his decision last week. He said that he felt it was best for his staff to know now so that, if the next head coach is one of his present assistants, then that person will have an entire season to assume a bigger role in the head coaching duties, which should make the transition for both the new coach and the team much smoother next season.

Will the decision provide extra incentive for the Rams this year?

"For me, yes," Woods said. "I know I will work very hard to make this a good season, and I know my other coaches will too.

"As for the kids, they want to win no matter what, which says a lot for our program," he continued.

"Taking everything into consideration, I honestly believe we have the best program that there is, not just because of the coaching, but because of the quality of young people in the program, the parents, our Athletic Boosters, and our community, which is so supportive of our efforts," he concluded.

Southern Jayvees Over Northern Open With Win

The Southern and Northern high junior varsity teams wasted no time in meeting each other on the gridiron this season as both opened their 1989 campaigns on Labor Day Monday at Southern. The Rams, coached by Jim Bosley, came away with a 28-10 victory.

A muffed catch of a punt by Northern in the first quarter was recovered by Shane Skipper in the end zone for the Rams' first touchdown. Garth Glotfelty hit Skipper with a pass for the conversion to make it 8-0.

Freshman running back Jeremy Bosley scored on a 15-yard run in the second quarter and also ran for the conversion to give Southern a 16-0 advantage.

Bosley struck again in the third quarter, this time from 19 yards out, and Skipper concluded with a five-yard scoring run in the fourth period. Both conversion passes were incomplete.

The Huskies got on the score board with a safety in the fourth quarter and, on the last play of the game, Chad Anderson connected with Chris Wachter on a 30-yard scoring pass. Chris Rowe ran for the conversion.

Linebacker Mike Stewart and defensive end Dave Biser spearheaded Southern's defensive effort while linebacker Alan Bittinger led Northern's defense. Bittinger, also a running back, had a 93-yard run called back by a penalty.

Southern will return to action Monday at Keyser in a 4:30 p.m. contest.

BESIDES FOOTBALL SEASON, fall is also field competition season for the Southern High School Marching Band, under the direction of Richard Clever. The band members spent one full week at band camp this summer, working 12 hours each day, in preparation for the season of competition. They also convened the weekend of August 25-27 for a mini-camp and have been practicing every day since to polish their show. The multi-award-winning band will give its first public performance during halftime of the Southern-Central Preston football game on Friday, September 15.

Former Garrett Volleyball Captain At A-B College

Stacy Sines, recent graduate of Garrett Community College where she was captain of the Laker women's volleyball team, is now continuing her education at Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W.Va.

Miss Sines was the recipient of the first annual Female Athlete of the Year award at Garrett, where she also received the "Laker" award for her years of athletic contributions and her academic achievement. In addition, she was named the Best Offensive Player last year, based on her hitting ability.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Sines, Oakland.

Sorry, Mary!

Last week in the The Republican's coverage of the Best of the West Triathlon there was a photo of Mary Sutcliffe, Deep Creek Lake, taken during the biking segment of the race and it was noted incorrectly that Mary was 70 years old. In fact, Mary is a spry 61 years old. (Boy, are our faces red!)

It should also be noted that, although Mrs. Sutcliffe finished last in the competition, she was nonetheless the winner of the 60 and over class. She also defeated about 20 persons in the swimming segment of the competition.

Mary has registered to compete in the Maryland Senior Olympics, to be held October 12-13 in Towson.

Laker Women To Open Volleyball Campaign At Essex This Saturday

The Garrett Community College volleyball team will open its season this Saturday, September 9, in an invitational tournament at Essex Community College. The Lakers, under the direction of Head Coach Margaret Quinn, and Assistant Coach Susan Sanders, hope to improve on last year's 16-11 season.

The nine-member team's four returning players are Edee Sheppard, Heather James, Cheryl Wilt, and Julie Truax.

Sheppard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheppard, Thomas, W.Va., will serve as co-captain. While at Tucker County High School, she was primarily a setter, however has transformed into a hitter for the Lakers.

Valley High standout, co-captain Heather James, will again be a setter for the team. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James.

"Heather exhibits excellent court sense, and we will be looking for her talents to be the nucleus for the team," stated Quinn.

Southern High standout Cheryl Wilt, daughter of Kimberly Wilt, is expected to continue her dedicated and aggressive play. During her career at Southern she was team captain, and voted Most Valuable Player.

"Last year's 'Most Improved Player,' Julie Truax, returns to Garrett to continue her hard work and dedication that helps gel a team," Quinn said. She is the daughter of Glenda Truax, Everett, Pa.

Catherine "Katie" Groves and Debbie Bateman, both former Southern High players, have also joined the Laker squad.

Groves comes to Garrett with a 1988 award for scoring the most points for Southern with 102. She recorded 48 ace serves, 59 kills, 12 placements, six blocks, and compiled 141 career points. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Groves.

During her tenure at Southern, Bateman was named Most Improved Player 1987, Ace Server 1988, and was listed among Who's Who Among American High School Students 1987-88 and 1988-89. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bateman.

Julie Koontz was selected to the All Potomac Valley Conference her freshman and senior years at Franklin High School, Franklin, W.Va. In her sophomore year she was recognized as being the "Most Valuable Player." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Koontz.

Two students from Valley High, Amy Fisher and Dana Winters, round out the GCC squad.

Fisher, a 5'6½" hitter, compiled the following stats her senior year at Valley: 25 ace serves, 62 kills, and 77 total points. She is the daughter of Donna Helton.

"We are looking for Amy's experience to boost both our offense and defense," Quinn said.

While at Valley, Winters received the Varsity Offensive Award in 1989. Her stats include 65 spikes with 59 being kills, 20 service aces, and 78 points.

Garrett will host its first home match Tuesday, September 12, at 7 p.m. against Penn State/McKeesport.

Fires

Martin said that the loss was estimated to be $40,000 and added that the family did have some insurance.

He was quick to point out that the smoke alarm at the top of the steps played a key role in the family's escape from the house. "Had they not had a smoke alarm, I believe there would have been serious injury and perhaps multiple deaths in this fire," he said.

Firemen remained on the scene until just after 5 a.m.

Upon their arrival, Deep Creek and Oakland firefighters found the three-bedroom structure fully involved in flames. All of the contents of the house were also destroyed.

Also called to the scene was the air cascade vehicle, tankers from Deer Park and Accident VFDs, and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

It was time again for school to open in the small town, and Amy, who had just turned six years old, was anxious to begin.

School was going to be wonderful. She would have many new friends and learn so many new things. Her chatter had gone on like this for days.

But, on the long awaited morning, Amy was afraid. "I don't think I want to go today," she told her mother.

"But Amy," her mother replied, "You have been looking forward to this day for a long time."

"Will you go with me?" the child asked with tear filled eyes. "There's a big high fence around the school that scares me."

Her mother smiled. "Well," she said, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I will walk you to the gate. But then, you will have to go on in with the other children." Amy seemed happy with the reply.

At the gate, the mother unfastened it, let the child in and then turned the small hand loose. "Be a good girl and learn a lot," she said. "I'll be waiting when you get home."

Maybe that's what our Heavenly Father is saying to us. Be good, learn a lot, and I'll be waiting when you get home.

God's House has no fence and the doors are always open. Don't be afraid to go in.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TURN AND LIVE

September 10, 1989

Background Scripture: Ezekiel 18
Devotional Reading: Matthew 5:1-12

Dr. Hans Selye, who was the world's foremost pioneer in stress research, told of interviewing two young men who were the sons of the town drunk. One of these men had followed in the footsteps of his father and with the same tragic consequences. The other, however, was a successful, well-regarded member of the community. When Selye questioned them separately as to the reasons for their own personal success or lack of it, both replied, in effect, "What else would you expect with a father like mine?"

In 34 years of pastoral counselling I have frequently heard troubled people say pretty much the same thing, attributing their present circumstances to the actions, words, or influences of some other person—most often a parent or parents. "That's why I am the way that I am," they explain. This usually leaves them with two conclusions: (1) they are not to blame for their present situation, and (2) they can't do anything about it. In other words, they are victims of someone else's sins or mistakes.

VICTIMS OF OURSELVES

One way or another, I try to help these people to realize that they are simply copping-out by blaming someone else for what they did a long time ago. It is true that the actions, words and attitudes of other people can have harmful effects upon us, but if, year after year, we continue to play the "victim" to their sins of omission or commission, we are victims, not of someone else, but of ourselves. No one can victimize you for very long unless you permit them to do so.

The 18th chapter of Ezekiel is a brilliant reminder of this. Apparently for the most part the Jewish exiles in Babylon are second generation captives. They have been complaining that they are having to suffer for the sins of their fathers and they have used an old proverb to voice their protest: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge" (Ezekiel 18:2).

GOOD NEWS!

Through Ezekiel, God tells the Jews that they and their proverb are wrong: they are not suffering for the sins of their fathers, but their own sins. Yes, it was the sins of their fathers that brought them to Babylon, but, if they are continuing to fare poorly in their new situation, it is their own fault. "If a man is righteous and does what is lawful and right..., he shall surely live, says the Lord God" (18:9). No person will be responsible for the sins of others. Only "the soul that sins shall die" (18:4,20). ("Live" and "die" are used figuratively here, not literally.) If a righteous man has an unrighteous son, it is the son who is responsible for his sins. If a righteous son has an unrighteous father, he will not have to be responsible for his father's sins. "The righteousness shall be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself" (18:20).

That's good news! But there's even better news: even an unrighteous person can know the favor of God if he or she turns from unrighteousness. Actually, it is the present moment that counts: not what did we do in the past, either good or bad, but what is our heart's desire at this present moment. No righteousness in the past can free us from an unrepentant present heart, nor can any unrighteousness keep us from God's grace right now.

If we turn from our sin and toward God, we can live in his grace—now!

Beverly Garland introduced female touch to Douglas home

By John Haakenson

In 1969, the male-dominated Douglas household of My Three Sons underwent a major culture shock: It was invaded by not one, but two members of the opposite sex. Steve Douglas (Fred MacMurray) finally remarried, taking as his wife Barbara Harper (Beverly Garland). Along with Barbara came her little girl, Dodie (Dawn Lyn).

Because MacMurray's "three sons" had grown, married and had children since the show's inception in 1960, the My Three Sons writers felt the time was ripe to introduce a new element to their series.

"Fred MacMurray never wanted a woman on that show," says Garland, "but I think he realized the show was heading where there was nowhere to go."

The character of Dodie was introduced to bring back the parent-child theme that initially made My Three Sons such a success, but which was absent once the Douglas boys grew up. "I think they (the show's producers) kind of missed the whole idea of Fred being around a younger child," Garland said.

For Garland, landing the role of Steve Douglas' new bride was a bit of a fluke. A girlfriend learned there was a casting call out for a female role on the series. "Fred MacMurray's going to get married," the friend told her.

Garland, an established actress on stage and screen, promptly called her agent. "He said, 'Come on, you play alcoholics, in monster movies, and prostitutes—you can't play Fred MacMurray's wife. That's mom and apple pie,'" she said.

But Garland persisted, and soon found herself auditioning for the much-coveted part. She won the role, she says, because MacMurray, who had final say on casting, enjoyed her audition—particularly her (limited) knowledge of sports.

Once on the show, Garland discovered its filming routine was a bit unusual. MacMurray's contract stipulated that he only had to work three months per year (the rest of the cast worked six months per year), necessitating a rather unusual rehearsal and film schedule. "We would do all of his scenes, then he left and went to Europe or to Disney (to shoot a film), or wherever he was going." The remainder of the cast would shoot its scenes that did not require MacMurray's presence.

Considering Garland's contention that MacMurray "never wanted a woman on that show," it's interesting to note who served as his stand-in for scenes with Garland—a little girl.

THINK BACK

Themes to me I've heard that before

By Donna Gooch

Admittedly, a television theme song doesn't make or break the show. Still, it can be something that draws the viewer in to experience more. Just think of Hawaii Five-0 and Magnum, P.I.'s hard-driving themes. Or consider the familiar finger-snapping rhythm of 77 Sunset Strip or jazzy Peter Gunn music. Some of the following are memorable, others are less so. See if you can match the series and theme title.

THEME SONG:

a. "Suicide is Painless"
b. "Best Friends"
c. "Three Stars Will Shine Tonight"
d. "Happy Days"
e. "Back in the Saddle Again"
f. "Come On, Get Happy"
g. "Funeral March of the Marionette"
h. "The First Years"
i. "The William Tell Overture"
j. "Happy Trails to You"

SERIES:

1. Alfred Hitchcock Presents
2. Courtship of Eddie's Father
3. Donna Reed Show
4. The Lone Ranger
5. *M*A*S*H*
6. The Partridge Family
7. The Gene Autry Show
8. Dr. Kildare

Maggie Han's successful modeling career unexpectedly blossomed into an acting career, and now even her journalism dreams have been placed on hold.

Spur-of-the-moment audition prompted abrupt career change

By Linda Sparkman

Acting is probably the last thing Maggie Han expected to do.

By the fall of 1984 she had relegated her successful career as an international model to a part-time pursuit, and—immersed in her junior year at Harvard—she had distinguished herself as an award-winning reporter for the university's renowned newspaper, the Harvard Crimson. A career in journalism seemed just around the corner, fulfilling her childhood ambition to be a writer.

While laboring over an article for the Crimson, however, Han's agent called. Producers for a CBS miniseries had spotted her in a L'eggs commercial and wanted to fly her to Hollywood for a test. On a whim, she agreed.

"I went straight home and packed and caught a night flight to Los Angeles," Han said. "After about two hours sleep, I was driven out to Paramount by someone I didn't know to face a room of 10 people that I didn't know."

"It was like a friendly kidnapping," she said. "It didn't make sense at all until it was all over." When it was all over, Han had won a major role in the 13-hour miniseries Space, playing a tough-minded journalist for a Japanese newspaper.

Han, the daughter of two music professors who believed that music and academics were paramount, was an outstanding student who played the piano, violin, French horn and trumpet.

As a 16-year-old Harvard freshman, Han first modeled part-time for pocket money. Soon, however, she was offered the opportunity to model professionally in Paris, and then for New York's Elite agency. Six years later, Han put modeling on hold and returned to Harvard.

Following her role in Space, Han moved to Los Angeles where she starred as Kimiko Fannuchi in the ABC series Murphy's Law with George Segal. She also began a film career, playing Eastern Jewel in Bernardo Bertolucci's Academy Award-winning The Last Emperor.

'Monday Night Football' observes 20 years on the air

By Jeff Thompson

Monday Night Football is 20 years old this year, and ABC Sports plans a special to commemorate the milestone.

The one-hour special is set to air prior to this season's premiere game between the New York Giants and the Washington Redskins on Monday, Sept. 11.

ABC's 'Monday Night Football' 20th Anniversary Special offers a retrospective of Monday Night Football's rich history.

The show was born when the imaginative Roone Arledge, then President of ABC Sports, seized an opportunity to program football in primetime. MNF burst onto the airways on Sept. 21, 1970, when the Cleveland Browns defeated the New York Jets 31-21 in Cleveland.

The series, with a schedule of 13 games, was an immediate success, drawing 31 percent of America's viewers. The current schedule has grown to 16 regular-season games, and ABC research estimates that about 50 million viewers will tune in for all or some part of the average telecast in 1989.

Monday Night Football will celebrate its 20th season with an opening game showdown between past Super Bowl champions, appearances by all 10 of last year's playoff qualifiers, and several of pro football's top matchups.

Sports commentators Dan Dierdorf, Frank Gifford and Al Michaels give highlights and play-by-play descriptions of ABC's NFL Monday Night Football, Sept. 11.

'Remote Control' madness goes into national syndication

By Steve McGaw

Picture this: you're taking your dream vacation to New York City and have always harbored a secret desire to be a game show contestant. So you make the cuts and you're on the air, answering questions, doin' great. You win and now it's just the final round, by yourself, for the Grand Prize. But ... what's this? They're strapping you to a large wheel and it's starting to spin very fast ... Oh well, if they just want to see somebody ... No! They expect you to answer questions like this? Are they crazy? Yes, because you're on the new, syndicated Remote Control! That's right, MTV's wild game show parody is coming to the cable-less hinterlands, courtesy of Viacom. There's a few new twists, like the aforementioned Wheel of Torture, but it's still the same ol' madness, with host Ken Ober and his gravel-throated sidekick/announcer, Colin Quinn. Look for the syndie version's premiere in mid-September...

Dom DeLuise will star as Benito Mussolini in a planned comedy film to be directed by Gene Wilder. Carol Kane and Madeleine Kahn will co-star...

In memory of slain actress Rebecca Schaffer, UCLA has announced the establishment of an acting scholarship in her name. Donations should go to the Rebecca Schaffer Memorial Scholarship Fund, UCLA College of Fine Arts...

Condolences to the family of the late Amanda Blake. There'll never be another Miss Kitty.

Amazing Resemblance

Charlie Messenger, casting director for The Preppy Murder, an ABC movie based on an actual murder case, met a unique challenge. The day before the jury would be needed for scenes in the docudrama, Messenger was handed a photo showing the real-life trial jury. Using his razor sharp casting eye, he matched the actual jury as to age, sex, ethnicity and hair color, from the group of actors hired to play courtroom spectators. This experience had a surprise payoff when several of the movie jury saw the same photo before filming began and were immediately able to recognize the rest of their panel from the faces in the crowd.

Kimberly McCullough: Robin on ABC's 'General Hospital'

By Shelia Odak
BIRTHDATE: March 5, 1978
HAIR: Golden Brown EYES: Brown

Kimberly McCullough

Playing Robin Scorpio on the ABC daytime soap opera General Hospital has offered a whole host of different challenges for young actress Kimberly McCullough. "I've been kidnapped three times, had four different last names, a stepfather, I've gotten blown up, my grandma's gotten killed...." McCullough explains with a giggle, and the list of disasters goes on and on. She doesn't ever worry that her part will run out of new challenges, because in the world of soap operas, there's always a new catastrophe just around the corner.

McCullough got her start in show business by appearing in a diaper commercial when she was only seven months old. By the time she was five, she was performing in Las Vegas.

McCullough, in addition to acting, is also an accomplished dancer. She has studied with many teachers, including Patrick Swayze's mom, Patsye. Patrick was even in some of her dance classes. This seemed to thrill her friends more than it did McCullough. "My friends always use to come and look at him, and he was all sweaty, too."

The role of Robin was awarded to McCullough after she had gone through 12 interviews and three screen tests. Being on a daily show is hard work, but memorizing her many lines is not a problem for McCullough. Her difficulty comes in another form. "I have a retainer in my mouth, and my mouth is always moving all over the place, and I fumble over my words."

McCullough has words of praise for all her co-stars, but admits that Tristan Rogers, who portrays her natural father, Robert Scorpio, has taught her his bad habit of reading his lines off of the tele-prompter. "He learns his lines off the prompter. It's good though because you can't even tell from his character, because he's always thinking off in the distance. He's actually looking at the prompter."

Since she started playing the character, Robin has been put through many difficult situations. One of McCullough's favorites was when Robin was in a coma. She calls that her easiest acting job ever. "All you have to do is pick a spot on the wall and stare at it. If I have to blink I wait till the cameras are off."

McCullough was recently recognized for her acting skills when she won this year's Daytime Emmy Award for the Outstanding Juvenile Female in a Drama Series.

Though she is only 11, McCullough works in a world of grownups. However, just because she is young does not merit her any special treatment as far as doing her job goes. "I'm suppose to do what everyone is suppose to do. I'm suppose to learn my lines on time, and I get no special treatment for my acting."

Historical Trust Heads Historical Marker Program

As you whiz along Maryland's highways and byways, you are certain to pass plaques crested by a seal, proudly bearing titles like Bloomingdale, The Warrior's Path, Soldier's Delight and the First Reaping Machine. These roadside historic markers — and there are 620 throughout Maryland — provide motorists and tourists with brief slices of Maryland's history, from far west Garrett County to the lower Eastern Shore.

The Maryland Historical Trust, an agency of the Department of Housing and Community Development, has assumed new responsibilities for the state's roadside historic marker program. In cooperation with the Maryland Historical Society, the Trust has installed two markers this season and is considering applications for 11 additional markers.

Most recently, the community of Hazelmoor dedicated the first new marker installed under the Trust program. The marker commemorates the origins of the Cecil County property beginning with a land grant to Phillip Calvert, Chancellor of Maryland, in 1658 through a succession of owners until the Hazelmoor Community was developed in 1939.

Community members initially contacted the Maryland Historical Society about installing a marker for their neighborhood near Earleville. In June 1988, the Maryland General Assembly officially transferred the marker program to the Maryland Historical Trust, and with it the request from Hazelmoor. Research was completed, text for the marker written, and $1,771 raised privately for production and installation. Cooperative efforts between the Hazelmoor Civic Association and the state culminated in a June 10th celebration.

Cecil County with 64 roadside historical markers, comes in a close second to Baltimore County with 65 markers. The State Highway Administration completed a comprehensive inventory of roadside markers in the spring of 1988, a copy of which is maintained in the Trust's library in Annapolis.

THE ACCIDENT HIGH SCHOOL class of 1933 recently held its 56th reunion at the Bittinger Fire Hall. Four members of the class of 1932 also attended. The welcome was given by Mabel Engle, and dinner was served by the Bittinger Fire Auxiliary. A memorial table featured candles and flowers, and a reading was given by Engle for the 13 deceased members of the two classes. The group also sang "How Great Thou Art." The speaker for the evening was Mary Strauss, and the group voted to hold another reunion next year. Pictured above are the 1933 graduates. In the front row, left to right, are Catherine (Richter) Armbruster, Cumberland; Leonard Haenftling, Accident; and Margaret (Fratz) Kahl, Accident. In the second row are June (Buckel) Green, LaVale; Mabel (Brenneman) Engle, St. Paul, Pa.; Blanche (Brenneman) Glotfelty, Addison, Pa.; Hubert Glotfelty, Accident; Wilma (Reichenbacker) Champaygne, New Oxford, Pa.; and Glenn Kolbfleisch, Damascus. In the back row are Howard Alexander, Onadaga, Mich.; Grace (Glotfelty) Boldt, Akron, Ohio; and Grace (Stevans) Trost, Cumberland. Pictured below are the 1932 graduates. From left to right are Rosalie (Fratz) Frazee, Accident; Esther (Harmon) Margroff, Accident; Burton White, Albuquerque, N.M.; and Mary (Miller) Strauss, Accident. Also attending were Earle Railey and his wife, Virginia, Oakland; Harelene Glotfelty, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cessna, Mabel Haenftling, Nevin Alexander and daughters, Fred Kahl, Clifford Engle, William Green, Carlton Helmick, Ralph and Charlotte Detrick, George and Evelyn Shawley, Blake and Mosella Buckel, Wilmer and Hazel Margroff, Mrs. and Mrs. Homer Denniker, Naylor Glotfelty, Thomas Danner, Mrs. Burton White and Charles Strauss.

The new state program, administered by the Trust in continued cooperation with the Maryland Historical Society, will include a revised application form and specific criteria to ensure statewide participation. Governor William Donald Schaefer has earmarked funds for the program for which qualified applicants may compete. Guidelines designed by the Trust establish three funding levels:

1. Sites of statewide significance, where a marker will be located on state land (a highway right-of-way for example) may be funded up to 100 percent by the state;

2. Sites of statewide significance, where a marker will be installed on private or county land may be funded up to 50 percent by the state; and

3. Sites of local significance must be funded by local interests (as with Hazelmoor).

For information on the program and on the existing markers, persons may contact Barbara Shepherd, Maryland Historical Trust, 21 State Circle, Annapolis, MD 21401; telephone (301) 974-5000.

Hunter Orange Now Mandatory

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources reminds sportsmen and women who are getting ready for fall hunting that the 1989 Maryland General Assembly passed a major, new Hunter Orange Law. This law now requires that hunters wear "either a cap, vest, jacket or jacket containing front and back panels of a daylight fluorescent orange color," effective July, 1989.

Certain sportsmen, however, are exempt. These people are not required to wear hunter orange in Maryland: dove hunters, crow hunters, deer hunters using bow and arrow during bow season only (during other deer seasons, bow hunters are required to wear Hunter Orange), wild turkey hunters, people hunting wetland game birds, and people hunting furbearers.

Persons hunting on their own property are also exempt.

The bright color of Hunter Orange promotes safety in forests and fields because it is highly visible and is not found in nature. The Forest, Park & Wildlife Service and Natural Resources Police at DNR encourage general outdoor use of this color, when appropriate, for safety's sake.

in the Outflow Campground has been chosen for the attachment of a commemorative plaque that will signify the 1989 celebration of the Constitution. Braun further stated that all Corps of Engineers projects in the Pittsburgh District have been asked by the commander to attach these plaques to existing trees, or to plant a new tree in honor of the Constitution.

Constitution Week To Be Observed At Youghiogheny Lake

"Constitution Week," September 17-23, will be commemorated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Youghiogheny Lake, Confluence, Pa.

As local representatives of the U.S. Department of Defense, the Corps is asking all area churches to participate in the "Bells Across America" tribute to the Constitution. This commemorate activity will occur on September 17 at 4 p.m. EDT, when churches across America will be ringing bells and carillons simultaneously. Churches which will participate in this activity should contact the ranger staff at Youghiogheny Lake so that they can obtain a certificate from The Commission On The Bicentennial Of The U.S. Constitution.

Marylanders Spend More On Athletic Events, Movies

Marylanders spent about $382 million or 2.9% more on taxable entertainment during fiscal year 1989 than during the same period last year, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. Increased spending for athletic events, movies and outdoor activities such as golf contributed to the growth in entertainment spending.

"All of this spending for entertainment generates admissions and amusement tax revenue which our office collects for Maryland's counties, cities and towns," Goldstein said. The comptroller noted that checks totalling $23.8 million have been distributed to local governments as their share of the admissions and amusement tax receipts for fiscal year 1989.

Garrett County received $171,998, compared to $137,566 the previous fiscal year.

"This year's distribution is 4% more than the $22.9 million we returned to the local governments for fiscal year 1988," Goldstein said. "We collect this revenue at rates set by local officials and return the money to local governments each quarter.

"Statewide spending for athletic events increased by 4.1% over the same period last year, to about $34.5 million. Marylanders also spent nearly $67 million for movie tickets, an increase of about 1% over the fiscal year 1988," he said.

Golfers spent about $26.2 million in greens fees and rentals, up 5.8% from last fiscal year. Spending at miniature golf courses and driving ranges was up 11.8% to $5.1 million. Spending on boat rides and rental of boats also showed sharp increases. Marylanders spent $12,337,532 on boat rides and boat rentals, a 13.5% increase over spendding for fiscal year 1988.

Marylanders spent less on shows and exhibits and live theatre and concerts in fiscal year 1989 compared to the previous fiscal year. Statewide spending on live theatre and concerts decreased by 44%. Shows and exhibits also marked a decrease of 7.1% in fiscal year 1989 compared to that of 1988.

Families Of Korean War Fatalities Sought

The design for Maryland's Korean War Memorial has completed the approval process and the construction phase of the project is underway. Dedication of the memorial, which is to be located in the Canton Waterfront Park in the eastern section of Baltimore City, has been scheduled for Sunday, May 27, 1990.

In conjunction with the dedication ceremony, relatives of Marylanders who died from hostile action in Korea are requested to write to the Korean War Memorial Commission indicating their relationship to the deceased member and to also provide the commission with their present mailing address. Notifications, which must be received prior to October 5, 1989, should be mailed to: Korean War Memorial Commission, 101 N. Gay St., Baltimore, MD 21202, Attn: Bucky Muth.

Arson Declines During First Six Months Of 1989

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the arson statistics for the State of Maryland for the first six months of 1989. The statistics were compiled by the Maryland Uniform Crime Reporting Program and are based on information from law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland.

Arson offenses decreased by approximately 15 percent statewide for the first six months of 1989 as compared with 1988. During the first half of 1989, there were 1,301 arsons reported as compared with 1,538 during the first six months of 1988.

According to the fire marshal, the Southern Maryland region, which includes the counties of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's, had the greatest decrease in arson during the first half of 1989. Arson decreased by 19 percent in this area during the first half of 1989. There were 41 arsons reported from January through June, 1989 in Southern Maryland as compared with 51 such cases during this same period in 1988.

The Washington-metropolitan region, which includes the counties of Montgomery and Prince George's, had the second most significant decline in arson for the first half of 1989. Arson offenses dropped by approximately 17 percent in this region during the first six months of 1989 as compared with 1988 figures. Montgomery County recorded 199 arson offenses for the first six months of 1989, down from the 246 reported arsons during the same period in 1988. Prince George's County showed a reduction in arson from 144 in 1988 to 124 for the first six months of 1989.

The Eastern Shore region, which includes Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties, had a decrease of nine percent in arson offenses during the first half of 1989 as compared to 1988. There were 75 reported arson incidents during the first six months of 1989 in the region as compared with 82 such incidents for the same period in 1988.

The Baltimore-metropolitan region, consisting of Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard counties, recorded a 5.8 percent reduction in arson offenses during the first half of 1989. There were 701 reported arsons from January through June, 1989, as compared with 744 arson related incidents during the first half of 1988.

The Western Maryland region, consisting of Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties, showed no change in the arson rate for the first half of 1989 as compared with 1988. There were 93 related arson offenses in this region during both the first half of 1988 and 1989.

Commenting on the reduction of arson offenses, Gabriele stated, "We are extremely pleased with the reduction in arson throughout the State of Maryland. Many factors have contributed to this, including a significant impact on arson by law enforcement through the arrest of persons committing arson. I am hopeful that this trend will continue and further reductions in the arson rate in our state will occur."

Each year arsonists destroy nearly $40 million in property throughout Maryland.

Neil Simon Hit Offered By FSU Dinner Theatre

Neil Simon's smash comedy "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will be presented by the Alpha Omega Players at the Frostburg State University Lane Center's dinner theatre on Saturday, September 16.

This fall's Lane Center dinner theatre features a full, buffet dinner and cash bar, along with seats to a play critics have called "delightfully hilarious and witty." The event will be held in the Lane Center Multi-use Room with dinner beginning at 6:30 p.m.

New to this year's dinner theatre is the option for theatre-goers to purchase tickets for only after-dinner coffee and dessert and the play. Following dinner, the doors will open at 7:45 p.m. at which time open seating will be available on a first-come basis.

Secret trysts in the afternoon make up the fun of Simon's long-run Broadway comedy tale of a bumbling Don Juan. Simon's lead character, Barney Cashman is a decent, good citizen who owns a successful seafood restaurant and is in the midst of a mid-life crisis. As he reaches middle age, Barney worries about the virtue and uneventfulness of his life and arrives at the decision he must have at least one momentary extra-marital affair. Barney makes three ill-fated attempts at turning cheater and ends up suffering the guilt without ever having any of its pleasures. Since Simon is a master of American comedy, every moment of Barney's plight is wrought with laughter and sympathy.

Drexel H. Riley, artistic director and founder of Repertory Theatre of America, is directing the production. The Alpha Omega Players (Repertory Theatre of America) are a nationally-acclaimed touring company based in Rockport, Texas.

Since seating is limited, reservations are strongly recommended. Reservations for either dinner and the show or dessert and show may be made by contacting the FSU Lane Center at (301) 689-4151. There is a reduced admission price for FSU full-time students. Reservation deadline is September 12.

New Statewide Test Suggested By Task Force

State School Superintendent Joseph L. Shilling announced last week that a state task force he appointed last December has recommended that the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills 4 (CTBS4) replace the California Achievement Test (CAT) for statewide testing beginning in the 1990-91 school year.

If approved by the State Board of Education, the new test, developed by CTB/McGraw-Hill, would be administered in the spring by all local school systems in grades 3, 5, and 8, the same grades as the CAT it replaces.

An equating study will be conducted next spring to allow comparisons between scores on the CAT and on the CTBS. Full statewide testing using the CTBS could begin in the spring of 1991.

With its selection the CTBS would become the major component of the state's educational accountability program. That program is an attempt to measure and analyze the results of classroom instruction to improve educational programs.

Dr. Shilling last December appointed Noel T. Farmer, Frederick County school superintendent, to chair the task force that recommended the new norm-referenced test for the accountability program. The CAT had become outdated because it was based on norms established in 1977.

The CTBS was normed in 1988. It was selected by the task force on the basis of its match with the curriculum of Maryland schools, the technical characteristics of the test, and the support the company offers to state and local school systems.

One strength of the test noted by the task force is that it measures not only basic skills but higher order skills in reading and mathematics.

Dr. Shilling said the CTBS will fill a gap between use of the outdated CAT and any new assessment program that may be developed over the next few years. The superintendent has appointed a committee headed by John Bloom, Charles County school superintendent, to study the total statewide assessment program — norm-referenced testing as well as such other forms of educational assessment as the state's functional tests in basic skill areas.

The Governor's Commission on School Performance, headed by Walter Sondheim Jr., also recently recommended development of a new testing program.

Highland Arts Unlimited Begins Ticket Sales For 1989-90 Season

Highland Arts Unlimited, Keyser, W.Va., has opened its membership campaign for the 1989-90 season, its 17th year of providing cultural enrichment for the area. In making the announcement Mrs. Rebecca Whitehill, president, noted that "families may enjoy an outstanding series of programs featuring famous artists at only a fraction of the cost they would pay for the same shows in Pittsburgh or Washington, D.C."

The organization has scheduled six attractions plus an art show at a cost of $43,830. The State of West Virginia, through the Arts and Humanities Division of the Department of Cultural History, has given HAU a grant of $21,525. Another $5,000 will come from Potomac State College, in return for which its students are admitted free. The balance of almost $18,000 must come from the sale of season memberships, ticket sales at the door, and gifts from industry, businesses, and individuals.

To open the season, Highland Arts will present the West Virginia Symphony, under the baton of Thomas Conlin, in its 50th anniversary year. The symphony will perform Thursday, October 26, just three days prior to its initial appearance at the Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

The program will feature the world premiere of a specially commissioned piano concerto by the noted Czech-American composer, Thomas Svoboda. The concerto will be performed by guest artist Garrick Ohlsson, winner of the coveted Chopin International Competition. Svoboda and his wife will attend the Keyser performance.

"This attraction represents a winning foursome: the West Virginia Symphony, Maestro Conlin, pianist Ohlsson, and composer Svoboda, celebrating the elevation of our State's symphony from a community orchestra to West Virginia's premier performing arts organization," said Mrs. Whitehill.

"The Phantom of the Opera — The Play," with music and dance, is slated for Thursday, November 2. Not to be confused with the Andrew Lloyd Weber musical, this drama with a professional cast of 25 actors and singers, follows closely the original novel by Gaston Leroux.

"With a tapestry of music from the world's masters, exciting original scoring and dance woven throughout, the play moves through the Paris Opera House, complete with its eerie fog-dense catacombs," Mrs. Whitehill said. "The many stage settings are stunningly enhanced with special effects and dramatic lighting in the tale of a masked phantom and his ill-fated romance with the beautiful and talented Christine."

Responding to many requests, Highland Arts has scheduled a return for the Jack Daniels Original Silver Cornet Band, which will bring its Christmas show this year on Thursday, November 30.

The original appearance of this group a few years ago was a sellout. The band is in its 20th tour of the United States. "The group brings vividly to life the sights and sounds of a vanished era in American musical history, that of the small town bands of over a half century ago," Mrs. Whitehill said.

On Sunday, January 28, HAU will present a program with a local connection. Mrs. Sharon Davis Gratto, flutist and vocalist, and sister-in-law of Dr. Joseph M. Gratto, president of Potomac State College, will present an evening of flute and vocal music.

Mrs. Gratto holds a doctorate in music education from Catholic University in Washington, D.C. She is currently on the music faculty of the University of Maryland.

"A Slice of Life," scheduled for Tuesday, February 20, will bring an intriguing and innovative combination of classical guitar and dance. Kami Rowan, guitarist, a native of Milton, W.Va., has performed in three of the Piedmont, North Carolina, classic guitar societies and has taught in Winston-Salem, N.C., for three years.

Abigail Stage, the dancer, is a native New Yorker. She has toured Europe, Canada, and much of the United States with the Wallflower Order Dance Collection. She has also taught numerous workshops in dance technique.

To close the season, in response to many requests for a return engagement, HAU will bring "Percussion '80" on Monday, March 26. Under the direction of Professor Phil Faini, this West Virginia University ensemble has appeared in Keyser several times.

Area music-goers will recall that Faini taught music at Potomac State College before moving to the University. His percussion ensembles have achieved international recognition.

The group was chosen by the U.S. State Department as the first percussion ensemble from the United States to visit Latin America, playing before capacity audiences there and receiving standing ovations.

Faini's aggregations have been seen several times over the years on NBC's Today Show, on CBS, and on PBS as well.

Highland Arts offers a variety of membership categories for subscribers, including Contributor, $25; Supporter, $50 (family membership); Patron $75; Sustaining Member, $100, and Angel, $150 and up.

The Contributor category admits one person to all programs. The remaining four categories admit one or two adults in a family and all their children 18 years of age and under.

All programs will be held at 8 p.m. at the Church-McKee Arts Center on the campus of Potomac State College, Keyser. Information and tickets are available at both the National Bank and Farmer's and Merchant's Bank in Keyser and at Ott's Music Store in downtown Cumberland.

President's Award Given To B&L Employees

Richard Schick, plant manager at Bausch & Lomb, announced that the President's Award for the Sunglass Division has been given to Bob Johnson, Quality Assurance, Quality Control Manager, and Jack King, Human Resources Manager.

Johnson and King were recognized at a general management meeting, held recently in Oakland, by Robert Palmisano, president of the Sunglass Division; Dave Rucinski, vice president of manufacturing; and Richard Clark, group president.

Johnson and King were instrumental in the start-up operation of the company's new sunglass assembly facility in San Antonio, Texas, from November, 1987, to June, 1988, while maintaining their job responsibilities at the Oakland plant.

Johnson was responsible for the establishment of a quality organization, training of new operators and the initiation of a manufacturing organization at the new plant. He also established and conducted manufacturing and quality training programs for 150 people; coordinated equipment procurement; manufacturing layout; implemented a just-in-time manufacturing system; and reduced WIP plus increasing sunglass output throughout.

King developed a Human Resources Organization and was responsible for the initial hiring and training of the plant's first 200 employees as well as coordinating an on-the-job training program with the city of San Antonio. He also implemented benefit, wage and salary and employee relations programs.

The President's Award is only presented to a select few employees in the Sunglass Division annually for extraordinary contributions to the success of the business.

Traveling Materials Collection To Be At Northern Middle

The media center at Northern Middle School will be the site of this year's Traveling Materials Collection, Monday, September 11, through Thursday, September 21, hosted by Wilda Massi, principal, and Mary Oester, library/media assistant.

The collection, sponsored every year by the Maryland State Department of Education, is made up of current books, filmstrips, and computer software from many different publishers, and is provided to each school system in the state for a two-week period. This allows principals, teachers, and library/media personnel, as well as the general public, to view and evaluate books and other media for possible purchase for their respective schools. Last year's collection was housed at Southern High School.

The collection may be viewed during regular school hours. For further information, persons should call Gary "Dusty" Stanton at the Garrett County Board Office at 334-8910.

Cardiac Arrest Event Set For September 21

Cardiac Arrest, a major fundraiser for the Western Maryland Division of the American Heart Association, will be held Thursday, September 21 in the former Ben Franklin building, Second Street, in Oakland, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

By calling, 387-9200 and asking for Patty, or by calling Elizabeth at 724-4011, callers can arrange to have someone arrested for "crimes against the heart." These crimes include: smoking, using too much salt, eating fatty foods, not enough exercise, wearing the wrong color clothing, etc. A $25.00 "throw in" donation for two people is requested to have an arrest warrant served. The perpetrator will be "arrested" on Thursday and brought before a celebrity judge. The judge will set bail and the "criminal" will be put behind bars, in the jail in the Ben Franklin building. By calling friends, neighbors and business associates from the "hoosegow," the "jailbird" raises his bail, and is subsequently released and may go back to work. The bail money is given to the American Heart Association — Western Maryland Division, to be used in fighting the area's and the nation's number one killer, heart disease.

The Heart Association uses the money to support lifesaving research, provide public and professional education, and underwrite local community service programs.

Police And Bus Contractors Issue Safety Message

Maryland State Police and the Maryland School Bus Contractors Association are delivering a Back to School message to motorists in Maryland.

"School bus drivers will be watching for motorists who fail to stop for buses either boarding or discharging passengers with red lights flashing," said George Gregory, president, Maryland School Bus Contractors Association. "We are asking the motoring public to obey state law which requires the motorist to stop for school buses whose red lights are flashing," Gregory added.

Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly radio public service broadcast, Gregory said the Association will be working with Maryland State Police to identify violators of the Maryland Vehicle Law.

"School bus drivers will be observing motorists who fail to stop and will notify State Police and other law enforcement agencies of these violations," Gregory stated.

Under section 21-706 of the Maryland Vehicle Law, motorists are required to stop for a school vehicle displaying the alternately flashing warning lights when approaching the vehicle from the front or rear. The law does not apply to school vehicles in Baltimore City, or in an incorporated city or town with a population of more than 100,000 people. Additionally, the law does not apply to divided highways if the school vehicle is on a different roadway. A divided highway is defined as one which is divided into two or more roadways by a median, a barrier or some other dividing barrier constructed to impede vehicular traffic. The law provides a $255 dollar fine and a two point penalty for violators of the law.

The Maryland School Bus Contractors Association represents approximately 700 private school bus contractors in Maryland. There are more than 5,400 school buses, both public and private, operating in Maryland. During 1988, these buses logged approximately 86 million miles.

"Painless" Word Processing Course Slated At FSU

"Painless" Word Processing, a non-credit course, will be offered to the general public through the continuing education program at Frostburg State University. The course is designed for people with little or no computer experience, and especially for individuals with "computer phobia."

According to Dr. Joseph Malak, Dean of Graduate Studies and Extended Education, "Once you learn word processing on a microcomputer you will never go back to a typewriter. This course is called 'painless' because it is designed for people with no prior computer experience, and the instructor gives each lesson in a step-by-step systematic way that makes learning easy and fun, even for people who begin the course with computer phobia."

The instructor, Elvis Jones, said, "No previous computer experience is necessary. Any computer anxiety you may have will begin to vanish in the first half-hour. Computers are there, waiting for you to take control and put them to work in your personal life or in your business. You will experience the ease of creating, editing, filing, and printing letters, reports, recipes, minutes of meetings, or term papers."

"The computer can handle the 'busy-work,' leaving you free to do those creative things that only a human can do. You will make your correspondence more attractive, your typewriter obsolete, your filing cabinet empty. You will learn how to choose a computer for word processing and how to save money on computer hardware, software, and supplies."

This is a "hands-on" course where participants will practice on the computers what they have been taught. Some of the time, participants will work in pairs, but during part of most sessions, each individual will have the opportunity to practice on their own computer, and they will receive personal guidance and assistance from the instructor.

Those who want more experience may practice on the computers outside of class time during periods when the computer laboratory is open for student use during the day, evenings, and on weekends.

Those who complete the course will receive a university certificate and they will be awarded 1.6 continuing education units (CEUs).

There are two sections of this four week course. Section 1 will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., beginning September 19. Section 2 will meet on Fridays, from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., beginning September 22. Both sections will meet in the Lowndes Hall VAX laboratory.

The course is open to all age groups. Former students have ranged from 11 years of age to 78. The course fee includes computer materials, training materials, and a personal computer disk which participants can keep. The last date to register for Section 1 is Tuesday, September 19. The last date to register for Section 2 is Thursday, September 21.

To register for this course, or for more information, persons should phone the Office of Graduate Studies and Extended Education at (301) 689-4231.

Advice Given By DHMH On Preventing EEE

Though no human cases have been reported in the state, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) is urging people heading for the Eastern Shore to take those steps necessary to protect themselves from mosquito bites in light of cases of Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) reported in horses throughout the eastern seaboard this summer. At least two cases have been confirmed and another 29 cases are suspected in horses on Maryland's Eastern Shore since July.

This viral infection of the brain, also known as "sleeping sickness" in horses, is spread by mosquitos to birds, horses, and rarely to humans. No human cases of the disease have been reported in Maryland since 1982. Humans can only get the disease from mosquito bites, not from contact with infected people, horses, or birds.

Symptoms in people include fever, confusion, headaches, and occasionally convulsions. Death often results. Horses will stagger or act sleepy.

DHMH is advising people to reduce their exposure by:

- wearing long-sleeved shirts and long pants, (tightly-knit fabrics are best);
- using insect repellents as directed on the label;
- making sure windows and doors have screens in good repair;
- avoiding the outdoors during peak mosquito times — usually at dusk and early evening; and
- eliminating areas of standing water around the home that serve as breeding sites for mosquitos — including ditches, old tires and other containers.

The most effective mosquito repellent is N, N-diethyl-m-toluamide or, as it is most commonly referred, "deet." Deet-containing insect repellents can help prevent mosquito bites, but the chemical may cause allergic and toxic effects in children and adults if used on the skin repeatedly in high concentrations. Permethrin, which is sold as a clothing spray for protection against ticks, provides protection from mosquitos as well. This aerosol is sold at "Permanone Tick Repellent."

Aerial and ground-spraying of mosquito-infested areas of the Eastern Shore is being expanded by the Maryland Department of Agriculture as an additional safeguard.

IRS Explains New Requirements For Child Care Benefits

Many American families today are comprised of two income earners who often pay someone else to care for their children. The passage of the Family Support Act of 1988 significantly changed reporting of such child care expenses to the Internal Revenue Service for tax credits or exclusions claimable in 1989, according to the IRS.

In general, taxpayers may be able to claim a credit on their 1989 federal tax return of up to 30 percent of the cost of child care. Employees whose employers provide and pay for child care may exclude up to $5,000 of the value of this care from their gross income. The difference between this year and previous years is that when both the tax credit and the exclusion are claimed together, child care expenses cannot exceed $5,000.

A new provision requires that child care providers furnish their name, address, and taxpayer identification number (TIN) to any client who plans to take a tax credit or exclusion for the cost of the care since this information must now be listed on their tax returns.

Taxpayers who want to claim the tax credit or take the exclusion for employer-provided assistance should obtain the new IRS Form W-10, "Dependent Care Provider's Identification and Certification," and give it to the care provider to fill out and return to them. This form is not sent to the IRS, but is kept as part of the taxpayer's records.

Finally, starting with the 1989 tax year, child care tax benefits will apply only to children under age 13, instead of under age 15 as in prior years.

Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit," explains in more detail the changes brought on by the Family Support Act of 1988. This publication and Forms W-10 may be ordered by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Mary Browning Honored On Her 88th Birthday For Service To Area Seniors

Mary Browning, manager of the Oakland Senior Center, was recently honored by her friends and participants at the Center at an 88th birthday celebration. She received a planter in recognition of her service to the facility.

Mrs. Browning was instrumental in the inception of the Oakland Senior Center in 1976 and she continues to work there three days a week. She also volunteers weekly at the Nearly New Shop, Oakland.

Mrs. Browning resides in Oakland with her daughter, Nelle. She has been an active member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church since 1936. She is the only woman to have served as Senior Warden. She is a 50-year member of Garrett Temple No. 17 Pythian Sisters. For many years, Mary was an active member of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club and served as president. She has served as chief judge on the Election Board for 40 years. For 20 years Mrs. Browning acted as chief judge for the town election of Oakland. Mrs. Browning worked in several local stores over the years and "retired" in 1975. She resides in Oakland with her daughter, Nelle.

A spokesperson for the Area Agency on Aging stated, "In her senior years, she is an excellent example of accomplishments. The Oakland Center seniors and the Area Agency on Aging wish Mary many happy returns."

Maryland Spends $454 Million On Teen Pregnancies

A recent study for Campaign For Our Children on the economic impact of adolescent pregnancy in Maryland found that in 1987 the federal and state governments spent over $454 million to provide assistance to families started by a teen mother, costing each individual taxpayer $154. Over the next 20 years, more than $106 million will be spent to provide assistance to these families started by teenagers. The Center for Population Options estimates that teen pregnancy costs the federal and state governments over $16 billion each year.

The study was conducted by the William Donald Schaefer Center for Public Policy at the University of Baltimore. The findings are based on 1987 data provided by the major family social welfare programs: Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Medicaid, and food stamps.

The study concluded that if births had been delayed until the mothers were 20 years of age, the state of Maryland would have saved $181 million in 1987. The age of the mother at birth determines the amount of public support she will receive. Teens between the ages of 15 and 17 receive the most public support because they tend to drop out of school and live on their own. For each teen mother between 14 and 19 years old, the cost for public assistance for 20 years ranges from $101,000 to $117,000.

In Baltimore City alone, over $269 million or 59.8 percent of the total amount spent in Maryland in 1987 went to support the families of teen parents. Baltimore has one of the highest teen pregnancy rates of any city its size in the country. These figures only represent the public assistance programs available to teen parents. The human costs of teen pregnancy are even more devastasting to these adolescents. Teen parents and their children spend their entire lives caught up in a welfare dependency cycle. Yet there is also a large majority of teen parents who spend their entire lives in poverty.

The research was conducted by Ann Winogrodzki and Larry W. Thomas of the Schaefer Center for Public Policy at the University of Baltimore. The Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy and the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene assisted in collecting data for the study.

These findings strongly support the efforts of Campaign For Our Children to reach adolescents before they become sexually active and promote abstinence. The theme of the Campaign, "You Can Go Farther When You Don't Go All The Way," is targeted to 9-14 years olds encouraging them to delay sexual activity. Campaign For Our Children reaches parents, teachers, clergy, counselors, coaches and other influentials through school programs, family planning and support centers and a mass media program consisting of television and radio commercials, outdoor and transit advertising.

Maryland-Style Hospitality Class Offered By GCC

A new mini-course designed to emphasize the importance of customer relations is scheduled to begin September 25 at Garrett Community College. This class is being offered at Community College throughout the state in an effort to make Maryland's hospitality "the best around." It is intended to develop telephone and interpersonal skills, as well as listening and questioning techniques. The course will also highlight the importance of product/service knowledge, managing priorties, and handling problems and complaints. Participants will learn the importance of a positive attitude, enthusiasm, courtesy, and tact.

"Hospitality Maryland Style-Customer Service and Satisfaction" will meet from 6:30-9:15 p.m. for three consecutive Mondays at the McHenry Campus.

This is one of a series of GCC fall classes planned to offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. It is co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center. Anyone wishing to register for this course or obtain additional information should call the Continuing Education Division of the college at 387-6666, ext. 169.

GCC Faculty Attend Meeting About DACUM

Faculty of Garrett Community College recently attended a meeting to learn more about the DACUM (Developing a Curriculum) process the college has begun. Speakers for the session were Dennis Faber, project coordinator of Dundalk Community College, and Tom Kierstead, program coordinator of GCC.

Kierstead opened the meeting by explaining the DACUM process as an approach to occupational job analysis. In Phase I of the two-day process, a panel of people working in the field meet to specify tasks involved in the occupation.

When the needed skills, knowledge, traits and attitudes, and equipment have been identified, a second panel is assembled for the Phase II process. During this time, appropriate faculty and supervisors in the field meet with the facilitator to develop courses that fulfill the needs of the occupation.

To date, according to Kierstead, GCC has completed Phases I and II of the Resort Operations Management, Construction Supervisor, and Administrative Secretary programs.

Following Kierstead's presentation, Faber explained the two steps in Phase III of the DACUM process: introductory workshops and on-site applications. This phase involves development of course goals and objectives, a learning hierarchy, performance measures, course syllabi, instructor guides, task analysis, and design of a training program.

Workshops to complete these tasks will be scheduled during the fall semester.

Quality Circle Announces Winner Of Garrett Basket

The Garrett County Quality Control Circle of the Maryland State Highway Administration announced that Mrs. Tom Menges was the winner of the Garrett County Basket given away during the Garrett County Fair.

The Quality Circle sponsored a booth at the fair, where over 1,100 persons visited the booth. Promotional pamphlets on the state of Maryland were given out during the week as well as information on the Quality Circle Program.

The Quality Circle Program is a new concept in the United States. During the 1960's, executives from several U.S. manufacturing companies traveled to Japan, where they learned about Japanese quality control circles.

The quality control concept has since become popular in the United States. The Maryland State Highway Administration has been implementing the goals of quality control, and is slowly changing the image of the state highway worker through community involved projects.

The goal of the Quality Circle is to provide the opportunity for employees to improve the quality of the work environment.

Members of the Garrett County Quality Circle are Ronald Friend, Betsy Colaw, Doug Ellis, Robert Upole, Sue Filsinger, Richard Sherwood, Gerald Wildesen and Mike DeWitt. Management members are Paul McIntyre and Robert Rowan.

The class will also deal with the "how to's" of getting work done through others and staffing for productivity. It will be held on three consecutive Tuesdays from October 10 through October 24 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus.

"Making the Time to Manage" is designed to help supervisors and managers make the time to meet their many responsibilities. Practical individualized learning experience should help each participant evaluate his or her use of time and practice ways for improving the management of time in the work place and in private life. The class is also designed to office personnel. It will be held on two consecutive Tuesday, October 31 and November 7 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus.

These classes are part of a series of GCC fall classes planned to offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. It is co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center.

Anyone wishing to register for these courses or obtain additional information should call the Continuing Education Division of the college at 387-6666, ext. 169.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates Local Thefts

An Upper Marlboro woman recently reported incidents involving breaking and entering and theft at her trailer located in Accident.

According to Deputy Patrick J. Kelly, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, Delores Jean Farmer discovered the breaking and entering and theft earlier this year, but did not report it at that time, she returned later August 22 to discover that a person or persons had apparently been living in her residence. Loss resulting from the original theft was estimated at $197.50. The investigation is continuing.

In other news from the Sheriff's Department, Audrey I. Hahn, Mountain Lake Park, reported the theft of a $60 Sunbeam Yardmaster bug light from her property. The theft occurred between August 28 and 30. There are no suspects at this time and the investigation is continuing.

THE GARRETT COUNTY QUALITY CIRCLE of the Maryland State Highway Administration recently presented Robert Rowan, assistant resident maintenance engineer, with an "Un-Sung" Hero Award at Penn Alps. "Mr. Rowan has been very supportive of the local Quality Circle. Without the support and commitment from management a Quality Circle cannot work. One of our biggest goals is to make all employees feel that management does care about them and that what they think is important. Mr. Rowan has continually shown this to all the Garrett County employees at the State Highway Administration. He has done this in a very unselfish manner and quiet way. He never has taken any of the credit for our success and this was our way of showing him how much the Garrett County Quality Circle appreciates his support," said a representative of the Quality Circle. Pictured above is Robert Rowan, left, receiving the "Un-Sung" Hero Award from Betsy Colaw, right, assistant chairperson of the local Quality Circle.

REAL ESTATE
BY ROBERT HUEBNER
DEEP CREEK REALTY

CURB APPEAL!

Ever heard the saying "You only get one chance to make a great first impression?" Here's some information to "up" your chances of making a lasting first impression with buyers when selling your home.

Take a look at the exterior of your home from across the street, the way a buyer may view it. Start with the yard. Is it in order, and neatly trimmed? Is the yard absolutely free of trash, or other discarded items?

Next, look at the windows. Are all screens or storm windows in place? Are there any broken panes of glass which need replacing? Are they sparkling clean?

Now, on to the exterior itself. Is the exterior in good repair? Is paint needed? Do you get the idea? Look at your house the way a buyer would, then become your own worst critic. Try to find all the visible faults your house currently exhibits — then get them corrected! And by all means, do it before you offer the house "For Sale". Making apologies after the fact does nothing to improve that first impression.

Did you know that many buyers make the decision to inspect the inside of a home based on their ten-second appraisal of the outside (as they drive by)? It's true! When that happens, your house either scores high or low on the buyer's scorecard. By the way, low scores invite low offers.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303, or drop by our office in the McHenry Plaza.

County Farmers Are Eligible For Relief After Extremely Wet Year

Congress recently passed the 1989 disaster aid program, which was signed by President Bush, to provide relief to farmers whose crops were washed out by this year's rains or whose planting schedules were delayed by water-soaked fields.

The aid package eliminates some of the red tape of the 1988 measure and takes into consideration such factors as altered planting intentions and quality dockages which were largely ignored in the 1988 drought aid program. The payments, however, will be somewhat lower this year.

News and updates have been coming into County ASCS Director Mike Kozier through Maryland ASCS Director Jim Richardson and Maryland Ag Secretary Wayne Cawley. In a program briefing to Kozier, the following points were established.

For establishing yields and rates for 1989 disaster relief, the ASCS will use 1984 through 1988 as its base years. The base can be computed either from ASCS records or from a farmer's proven yields.

The definition of "recognized disaster conditions" has been expanded to read: "Damaging weather which includes, but is not limited to drought, hail, excessive moisture, freeze, tornado, hurricane or excessive wind, or any combination thereof," or, "related conditions which include, but are not limited to, insect infestations, plant diseases or other deterioration of a crop or a commodity, including aflatoxin that is accelerated or exacerbated naturally as a result of damaging weather occurring before or during harvest."

The 1989 act takes into consideration the farmer, who for example, was prevented from getting in his corn crop and, instead, planted soybeans. In that event, Richardson said, the disaster payment would be computed on what the corn crop would have been worth, less what the farmer got for his soybeans.

The new measure also permits a farmer to take as a production loss 70 percent of what he lost in revenue because of the poor quality of the harvested crop, either through dockage or because it could not be marketed "in normal commercial channels."

There is no penalty for farmers not having crop insurance, but farmers claiming a loss of more than 65 percent this year, will have to have crop insurance in 1990 to be eligible for federal programs.

The new program prohibits any duplication of benefits and limits payments to a total of $100,000 per farmer or corporation.

Three levels have been established for payment calculations. Farmers must prove a 40 percent loss of expected production for program crops, a 45 percent loss for soybeans and sunflowers, and a 50 percent loss for non-participating program crops or non-program crops.

The 1989 measure allows producers who were prevented from planting, or who filed for "failed acreage" and who, as a result, put that land into the 0/92 or 50/92 programs to "switch back," according to Richardson, that is to withdraw those acres from the set-aside programs and file for disaster aid on them.

The ASCS, after the application has been approved, must make the disaster payment in 30 days. After that, it will draw interest.

The disaster law again postpones the deadline for refunds of advance deficiency overpayments for both 1988 and 1989. Both will now be due by July 31, 1990. Richardson said the 1989 farm aid package does not require any county-by-county disaster declaration as was the case in 1988. Farmers need only to prove their eligibility with records of their crop losses, he said.

Richardson and Sec. Cawley urged farmers impacted by the rains of 1989 first to get their records together and in order and then to visit their county ASCS office as soon as possible.

The ASCS has a September 30 deadline for completing and filing all disaster aid applications.

Kozier says his office is ready to help farmers with applications and in preparation for handling disaster-affected crops. He says his office will accept requests for appraisals and bin measurements on all disaster-affected grain or soybean acreages that will not have either acceptable evidence for production commercially stored or disposed of off the farm, or a FCIC appraisal.

The ASCS will appraise production of grain or soybean crops (both participating and non-participating). Kozier says these appraisals should be requested by the producer in the following situations:

1. If the farmer plans to harvest disaster-affected participating or non-participating grain or soybean acreage for other than grain or beans, they should request an appraisal before harvesting the crop.

2. If the farmer plans to utilize disaster-affected crops for livestock feed in the field he should request appraisal before grazing the crop.

3. If the farmer plans to destroy disaster-affected crops without using for grain or feed, he should request an appraisal before destroying the crop.

Kozier says if his office cannot complete the appraisal within the alloted time frame, producers will be requested to leave representative strips (at least 10 feet wide), uniformly spaced throughout the field but excluding strips on the sides of the field. Total acreage of representative areas shall be approximately five percent of the acreage of the field.

Producers harvesting disaster-affected participating or non-participating grain or soybean acreage for grain or beans should:

1. Request bin measurement before using any for livestock feed. Producers fee is $20 for the first bin plus $2 for each additional bin.

2. Maintain acceptable production evidence if the crop is sold or stored off the farm.

Kozier says producers must also file form AD-1026, Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Conservation Certification, attesting to compliance with the law prohibiting payment of benefits to a producer who "sodbusts" or swampbusts."

Those wishing more information may contact Kozier at the County ASCS Office in the Garrett County Courthouse, or by phone at 334-1901.

Farming In Maryland

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

A Checklist From ASCS . . .

Editor's Note: As in all dealings with the federal government, there are plenty of forms to fill out. Here is an advisory from the ASCS on the forms which will be required in applying for 1989 disaster payments. For farmers in federal programs, several of the forms already are on file in county ASCS offices.

This is a checklist of the forms that you, or the farm operator, must have on file with the county ASCS office to qualify for a disaster payment for your 1989 crop losses. We've also included a brief explanation of why we need each form.

1. The following are required on a FARM basis:

A. CCC-441, Application for 1989 Disaster Benefits. This is the basic application on which you certify your compliance with program provisions and agree to the division of disaster benefits with other producers on the farm.

B. ASCS-578, Report of Acreage. This establishes the planted, prevented, and failed acreage of the crop for 1989.

C. ASCS-574, Application for Disaster Credit. This establishes the basis for considering the crop loss to have been caused by an eligible disaster condition.

D. ASCS-658, Record of Production and Yield. If there was production harvested on the farm, this form documents the quantity.

2. The following are required on a PRODUCER basis:

A. AD-1026, Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Conservation Certification. This is your certification of compliance with the law which prohibits payment of benefits to a producer who "sodbusts" or "swampbusts."

B. CCC-440, Certification of Crop Insurance. If crop insurance was available for the crop for 1989, this certification of crop insurance coverage and indemnity is needed so that we can determine the applicable disaster loss and payment.

C. An appropriate CCC-502, Farm Operating Plan. This may be needed to determine whether you and other individuals or legal entities must be combined as one "person" under the law which limits payments to $100,000.

Horse "Sleeping Sickness" Reported On Eastern Shore

Viral encephalitis, also known as "sleeping sickness," has struck in Wicomico and Somerset counties on Maryland's Eastern Shore and state veterinarians are attempting to identify the causative virus.

Late last week, apparently mounting numbers involved 27 animals. A spokesman for the state Department of Agriculture said a breakdown includes three cases confirmed, 22 clinically diagnosed, and two "suspicious."

Viral encephalitis often occurs during late summer and early fall until the first few frosts. The virus circulates in a bird-mosquito-bird cycle with viral "spillover" into horses and people.

Captive wild birds such as those on game farms often are affected with the Eastern viral type.

Protection and control of viral encephalitis requires local and area mosquito control measures. The Maryland Department of Agriculture is intensifying field spraying to kill mosquitoes.

Individuals should use repellents to protect themselves from mosquitoes, especially people who are outside a great deal of the time such as fishermen, hunters and golfers.

Horses should be vaccinated in the late spring, and those vaccinated before April should be revaccinated now.

The mortality rate of the eastern type of viral encephalitis is usually 85-90 percent in both horses and people.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture may be contacted for more information at 301-841-5810.

For human health concerns, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene may be contacted at 301-225-6711.

MDA Compiles "Hotline" List For Yule Trees

The Maryland Department of Agriculture wants to hear from groups and individuals planning to operate retail Christmas tree lots.

MDA's Market Research and Development Group, in cooperation with the Maryland Wholesale Christmas Tree Association, has compiled a list of Maryland wholesale Christmas tree growers who have an extensive selection of trees available for this season. The list gives the grower's name, address, phone number, and the quantity, variety and size of trees for sale.

Those interested may write: Christmas Tree Hotline, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Pkwy., Annapolis, MD 21401; 301-841-5770, or in Maryland, 1-800-492-5590.

March Of The Killer Bees Toward U.S. Border Is Slowing

U.S. Department of Agriculture plant protection officials report that the Africanized honeybee has been found 400 miles south of the Texas/Mexico border near Tecolutla, Veracruz, Mexico.

The migrating bee originally was expected to reach the southern United States in 1987 or 1988, but estimates now indicate that Texans in the Rio Grande River Valley will not see the bee for another 18 months.

LAKE COTTAGE OWNERS

It's that time of the season to be thinking a bout pulling your dock out of the water for the winter. Remember, by 1990, all flotation devices under all docks must contain foam, in accordance with lake regulations.

You're ahead by completing this project this fall. First, prices are lower than they will be in 1990. Secondly, we can schedule your job when you want it, which won't be possible next year.

Get your drums foamed by the only local firm that can guarantee all drums to be completely filled with styrenic foam, having a density less than one pound per cubic foot. This means more bouyancy under your dock, compared to Urethane foam with a density of two pounds per cubic foot. Phone or write:

Federal Crop Insurance Report Lacks Solutions

A commission formed to study ways to improve the nation's federal crop insurance program has issued its final report, but putting the changes into effect could still prove a difficult task.

"All of the recommendations contained in this report are aimed at providing better and more cost-effective federal crop insurance for the nation's farmers," said the preface to the 400-plus page study.

The eight-month review included 14 public hearings and submitted testimony from almost 400 witnesses.

The commission confronted many of the problems with the crop insurance program, such as increasing program participation, however, it did not offer specific solutions to the problems. "There was some disappointment it was not a more cohesive package," said Mary Kay Thatcher, American Farm Bureau Federation crop insurance specialist.

"Every interested party is going to pick and choose what they do and don't like. Now it's the responsibility of Congress and groups like Farm Bureau to take out what they agree on, and work up a package that'll fit together," she said.

According to Thatcher, commission members concluded that one of the major reasons federal crop insurance has not worked is that farmers and ranchers count on receiving disaster aid. In addition, crop insurance coverage is too low, premiums are too high, and there is far too much paperwork which makes the whole process burdensome.

The principal recommendation is to increase farmer participation in a national insurance program. While there has been nearly a two-and-a-half fold increase in net acreage participation since 1980 (10 percent to last year's 24 percent), these numbers are nowhere near what Congress asked for, according to Thatcher.

Thatcher said some of the more significant recommendations deal with yield guarantee plans, an update of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) yields, price election levels and the distribution of premium subsidies.

The commission recommended that insurance coverage be based on the producer's ASCS yield for ASCS program commodites, on a county average yield for other commodities, or on a modified actual production history (APH) program yield for producers of all commodities.

Hints To Growers

Extension Agent, Agriculture Science

Storage of vegetables

Gardens are now at peak production. Proper storage can prolong the quality. The following information may be useful to you:

Beets: — Beets can be stored in the garden where they grew if mulched under two inches of insulating material. For root cellar storage, harvest before fully mature in the late fall when night temperatures drop to around 30 degrees F. and when the soil is dry. Dig or pull the beets, retaining the roots with surrounding soil. Allow to dry in the sun so that the surface dirt falls free. Leave at least one inch of stem to retain nutrients and prevent bleeding. Do not wash before storing. Store at the bottom of the cellar, or where humidity is highest, packed in bins or crates between layers of moist sand, sawdust, sphagnum or peat moss. Containers could also be lined with a perforated plastic sheet. They will keep fresh up to three months.

Onions — The best varieties for storage are grown from seeds rather than sets. Harvest when the tops have turned brown and died, or in late fall before the ground has frozen, even if the tops have not died. Remove any bruised onions or onions with thick necks and use promptly. Before storage, onions must be cured or allowed to dry for several weeks until the skins are papery and the roots are completely shrivelled and they can be spread on newspapers out of direct sunlight in a well ventilated area, or dried on an open screen off the ground. If they are taken indoors at night, the drying process will be faster. When cured, the tops can be braided, using string for reinforcing, or put into mesh bags or open crates and stored in well-ventilated, dry, dark, cool place.

Dry Beans — Dry beans, such as kidney, navy, black turtles, white marrows and pinto beans will be mostly dry on the vine by mid-fall. Harvest by pulling the entire vine and spread them out or hang to dry for several weeks. The beans can be removed from the pods by banging the plant from side to side in a barrel or can, so the beans will fall to bottom. When the beans are totally dry, store in clean containers with tight lids, in a cool dry place. Dry beans will not be harmed by freezing.

Next week I will cover more crops. In the meantime if you need additional information, call 334-1990.

Mrs. Sebold was also selected chairman of the Farm Home Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Beth Brenneman, Grantsville, was named secretary.

Elected as delegate to a District Election meeting to be held in Grantsville this fall was Bernard McKenzie, Salisbury, Pa.

Eddie Collier, Huntington, W.Va., Southern States' district manager, gave the cooperative's overall operations report. This report also included a slide-tape presentation entitled "Southern States: On the Growing Edge."

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer-members in the community was given to Paul Mazola, manager of Grantsville Ag. Service.

The session also included a special recognition ceremony for the newly elected and retiring board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee members. Those retiring include: Bernard F. McKenzie, Wayne Shrock, Mrs. Joyce Brenneman, and Mrs. Mary Knap.

Meetings Slated For Goat Owners

Extension agents in Maryland and Delaware are joining to sponsor two regional meetings for goat owners.

The meetings will be held November 4 at the Cherry Hill Middle School in Elkton, and December 2 at the Francis Scott Key High School in Westminster.

Ag agents said that there has been a dramatic increase in the number of small farms in the two states which offer the opportunity for goat production. In Carroll County, for example, there are more than 100 goat producers.

For more information, interested persons may contact the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

What Can You Expect from Alfalfa?

The following information will give you an idea of the variation in nutrient content of Alfalfa hay with stage of maturity.

Sun-Cured (100-DM)	CP	TDN	CA	P	AD
	(Percent Content)
Early Vegetative	23	66	1.80	0.35	28
Late Vegetative	20	63	1.54	0.29	29
Early Bloom	18	60	1.41	0.22	31
Mid-Bloom	17	58	1.41	0.24	35
Late-Bloom	15	55	1.25	0.22	37

Also you will have to take into consideration the number of rainfalls that fell on the cut alfalfa, the extra leaf loss that occurred during dry down, and weed content. There is no question that these environmental factors have decreased the nutrient value of a lot of hay produced in the county this year. Again, I would like to emphasize the importance of having your forage tested for nutrient content.

Groundwater Contamination

Are you concerned enough about the quality of the groundwater on your farm? There are hazards existing for possible groundwater contamination with the use of fertilizers and farm chemicals. Once the underground water becomes contaminated, it may stay that way for many years. Also, it is possible for the point of pollution to occur many miles from your farm. Determining the point of entry sometimes is impossible. Prevention is the key to keeping our groundwater clean. Keep your groundwater in mind when planning your chemical applications on the land.

Moldy Feeds Affect Health Of Dairy Animals

Molds can occur in corn, soybeans, and other common feedstuffs. These molds can grow on the grain before harvest or during storage. Wet weather, drought, insect damage, poor growing conditions and poor storage conditions have all been incriminated in development of molds.

Molds reduce grain quality and may also produce mycotoxins — mold poisons. L.H. Hutchinson, veterinary extension specialist at Penn State University, provides a list of five major toxins dairy farmers should be concerned about.

1. Aflatoxin is produced by aspergillus molds. It causes liver damage, hemorrhaging, abortion and death at high dosages. At lower doses it causes unthriftiness, poor immune response and reduced weight gain. Aflatoxins in feed will produce aflatoxin MI in milk, a human health hazard.

2. Ergot, a mold on some small grains, grasses and weeds, causes lameness and sloughing of both the hooves and tail hair.

3. Zearalenone causes an estrogenic syndrome in swine. Its effects on cattle are less certain but may include irregular heats and lowered fertility.

4. Trichothecine or T-2 toxin may induce feed refusal as well as causing sores and hemorrhages in both the mouth and intestinal tract.

5. Deoxynivalenol (DON) results in vomiting, low production and feed refusal.

Correction procedure

If dairy farmers suspect mold toxins in feed, Hutchinson suggests a four-step procedure to confirm the diagnosis and correct the problem.

1. Look for obvious mold in the grain. Absence of visible mold, however, does not necessarily mean that the feed is free of mycotoxins.

2. Take samples of suspect grains or mixed feeds from several locations. Be sure to mix the samples well and submit one pound of each feed for mycotoxin screen. For a small fee, the Summerdale Laboratory performs a mycotoxin screen for four aflatoxins: Zearalenol, T-2, DON, and DAS (diacetoxyscirpinol). Send samples to Bureau of Animal Industry Lab, Box 1430, Harrisburg, PA 17105.

3. Have a veterinarian examine cattle suspected of mycotoxins. Physical exams and laboratory tests can help rule out other possible conditions.

4. Replace the feed which may be contaminated with another source of feed. This may help in the diagnosis. Cattle should show some sign of improvement within a week after eliminating a mycotoxin-containing feed, he says.

Record Soybean Acreage Was Planted This Year In State

The 1989 acreage of soybeans, winter wheat, barley, hay, and oats planted in Maryland increased from 1988, while corn, rye, sweet potatoes, and potatoes decreased, according to the Agricultural Statistics Service.

Soybean acreage planted and harvested at 570,000 and 560,000 acres respectively are at record high levels. At 570,000 acres planted and 560,000 acres harvested, soybean acreage is 23 percent above the previous record 465,000 acres planted and 455,000 harvested.

All corn planted at 480,000 acres is eight percent below last year's 520,000 acres planted and the smallest acreage since 1960's 458,000 acres. Corn to be harvested for grain at 400,000 acres is five percent below last year's 420,000 acres and the smallest acreage for grain since 1963's 458,000 acres.

All hay harvested at 240,000 acres is seven percent above last year's 225,000 acres harvested. Alfalfa hay harvested at 85,000 acres is six percent above last year's 80,000 acres. Other hay at 155,000 acres harvested is up 5,000 acres, seven percent from last year's 145,000 acres.

Rye planted in 1989 at 40,000 acres is off 31 percent from the 58,000 acres in 1988.

Winter wheat production, based on July 1 conditions, is forecast at 11,220,000 bushels. This production, if realized, will be six percent below the record production of 11,900,000 bushels in 1910, but 25 percent above last year's 9,010,000 bushel production. Yield for wheat is forecast at 51 bushels per acre, two bushels below the record yield of 53 bushels set in 1988.

Barley production, as of July 1, is forecast at 4.84 million bushels, two percent above last year's 4.76 million bushel production. Barley acreage harvested at 82,000 is 20 percent above the 69,000 acres harvested in 1988. The July 1 yield forecast at 59 bushels per acre is 10 bushels below the record 69 bushel yield of 1988.

Summer potato production, based on July 1 conditions, is expected to be 399,000 hundredweight, a 13 percent decline from last year's 460,000 hundredweight. A reduction of 200 acres from the previous year to 2,100 acres, coupled with a reduced yield to 190 hundredweight per acre, made for the decline in production.

Apple production for the coming year is expected to be 57 million pounds, up six percent, three million pounds above the 1988 production.

Peach production for 1989 is forecast at five million pounds, 718 million pounds below last year's 12.8 million pound production.

Of the crops planted across the United States, corn planted for all purposes is estimated at 72.8 million acres, up eight percent from last year, but one percent below March intentions. Growers expect to harvest 65.8 million acres for grain, 13 percent above last year.

Soybean acreage planted in 1989 is estimated at 61.3 million, up four percent from last year and six percent higher than 1987.

Winter wheat production was forecast at 1.46 billion bushels as of July 1. This is down six percent from last year's production. Yields are now expected to average 34.4 bushels per acre, down 4.8 bushels from last year and off 0.1 bushels from June 1. Acreage for grain is now placed at 42.5 million acres, up seven percent from last season. Seeded area is estimated at 55.2 million acres, up 13 percent from 1988.

Barley production is forecast at 445 million bushels as of July 1. This is 53 percent above the drought reduced 1988 production of 291 million bushels. Yields are expected to average 51.3 bushels per acre, 12.7 bushels more than last year. Seeding of barley last fall and this spring totaled 9.28 million acres, a decrease of four percent from last year.

Oat production indicates a crop of 388 million bushels, up 77 percent from last year's drought reduced crop. If realized, this would be the largest crop since 1985, when 521 million bushels were produced. Yields are expected to average 52.6 bushels per acre, 13.5 bushels more than last year. Oats planted last fall and this spring totaled 12.1 million acres, down 13 percent from 1988.

Rye seeded area is estimated at 2.08 million acres; area for grain at 517 thousand acres.

Summer potatoes production is forecast at 21.9 million cwt, up eight percent from last year, but four percent short of two years ago. Area for harvest, at 93.4 thousand acres, is up one percent from last year, but seven percent below 1987. The average yield, calculated at 235 cwt per acre, will be up seven percent if the season progresses normally.

Coviello Explains The Handling Of Student Records

The Garrett County Board of Education is required by its own policy and by federal and state law to annually notify eligible students and parents who have children attending public school of the policy regulating the handling of student records and the information contained within them.

According to Al Coviello, director of pupil service for the Board, the provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the students which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools; to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

Individual pupil records maintained by teachers or other school personnel under the provisions of this policy are to be confidential in nature, and access to such records may be granted to professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling or consulting situation. Individual student records, with the exeption of such records as are designated as permanent, and with such other exceptions are provided by the law, should be destroyed when they are no longer able to serve professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation.

Institutions of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County shall not permit access to, or release of education records of students, or personally identifiable information contained therein (other than directory information), without the written consent of the parents of the eligible student. Education institutions of Garrett County, however, shall make the cumulative records of a student available to officials of other elementary or secondary schools or another school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll. The institution of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County will forward without consent cumulative records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

Directory information means the student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, the most recent school attended by the student, and other similar information. Directory information may be made public without the consent of parents or eligible students.

The policy goes on to spell out the types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent, he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases, there is a charge for copies of student records.

Gypsies Suspected In $1,670 Theft At BFS Foods

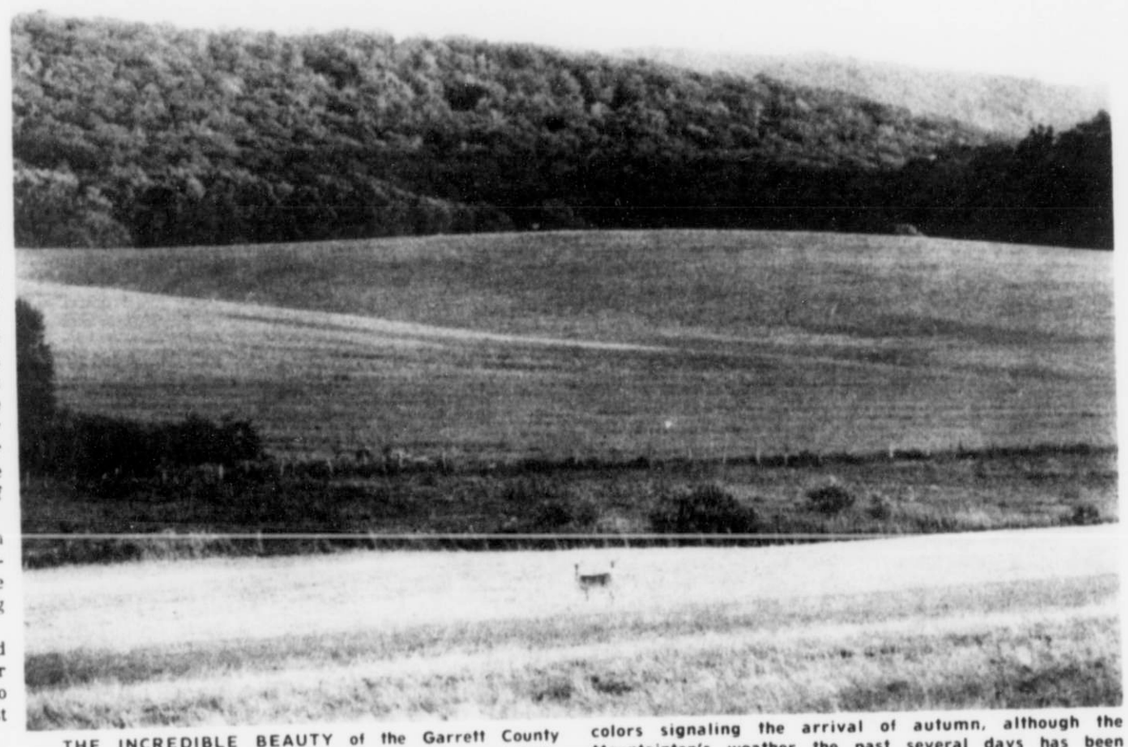
A spokesperson for BFS Foods, Mountain Lake Park, reported the September 7 theft of $1,670 in cash, apparently perpetrated by a member of a band of Gypsies. According to Deputy Charles P. Nolan of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, the currency, in the form of 10- and 20-dollar bills was removed from the store's office while a disturbance was created by a group of 20-25 people. The suspects then simultaneously left the premises in four vehicles. The police have evidence that may link two of the suspects to the robbery.

They then traveled east on Route 50, entered West Virginia, and robbed three establishments located along Route 50.

The perpetrators are believed to be members of one of two or three Gypsy families linked to organized crime on the east coast.

The thieves are believed to be the same group of persons responsible for a string of robberies in the Hagerstown area. Southland, Inc., a corporation that owns several of the Hagerstown stores that suffered losses, has reportedly hired detectives to track down the suspects.

According to Deputy Nolan, evidence has been collected and forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The Garrett County Sheriff's Department, along with Deputy John Eckerson of the Hampshire County (W.Va.) Sheriff's Department is working with the FBI in the investigation.



THE INCREDIBLE BEAUTY of the Garrett County countryside is enhanced even more in this scene by two of God's creatures quietly grazing, but brought to attention by the snap of a camera shutter. The hillsides are already dotted with various colors signaling the arrival of autumn, although the Mountaintop's weather the past several days has been unseasonably warm. Green Named Northern High Vice Principal

Superintendent of Garrett County Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage reported this week that Martin Green has been appointed to the position of assistant principal at Northern High School. He was transferred from the same position at Southern High School.

Green is a graduate of Frostburg State College with a BS in biology. He obtained a master's degree in administration and supervision in 1982, and holds certificates in biology and administration and supervision K-12.

Green has been employed with the Garrett County School System since 1975, teaching at Southern High School, Southern Middle School, and Northern High School. He had been assistant principal at SHS for two years.

Reciprocity Agreement Between GCC, PSU, Delayed By MHEC

A reciprocity agreement between Garrett Community College and Pennsylvania State University's Fayette Campus has been delayed.

The agreement, which would have allowed up to 20 students from Garrett County to attend Pennsylvania State University's Fayette Campus at the rate charged by Garrett Community College and which would have allowed 20 students from Fayette and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania to attend Garrett Community College at the Garrett County rate, has been tabled by the Maryland ,Higher Education Commission (MHEC), meaning that students from these areas will not be able to take advantage of the program for the fall semester.

The proposal had been approved by the Maryland Community College Board and Pennsylvania State University officials.

Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College, explained that a new commissioner for higher education in Pennsylvania had just stepped into office at the time MHEC was to take action on the agreement. The new commissioner, being new to the situation, did not wish to approve something he had not studied.

Because Pennsylvania had not approved the agreement, MHEC delayed taking any action.

Dr. Herman explained that Pennsylvania does not have legislation which enables the state to have reciprocity agreements with other states. Maryland just developed legislation in the 1989 General Assembly which permits the development of reciprocal arrangements between Maryland campuses and those in surrounding states.

Officials from Pennsylvania are looking into developing legislation which will enable the whole state to have reciprocity agreements and not confine the review to Garrett County Pennsylvania State University's Fayette Campus.

Dr. Herman also explained that the proposal was simply a pilot, meaning that GCC would absorb the losses that would have resulted. GCC currently has a reciprocity agreement with West Virginia, but West Virginia pays the difference in tuition.

He explained that the agreement had been limited to 20 students from each state, to show the need to both states for such a program.

"I am disappointed that the agreement did not go forward, but I realize that the new commissioner in Pennsylvania needs an opportunity to review the arrangement. I know that if I were in such a position, I

Fugitive From Virginia Held Without Bond

A Virginia man is currently being held without bond following his September 6 arrest on warrants charging him with being a fugitive and committing grand larceny, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. Charles Eric Baker, 19, Front Royal was arrested by Deputy David L. Crossland, with the assistance of the Oakland City Police Department. Baker agreed to waive extradition and return to Virginia. The vehicle involved in the alleged grand larceny was found along Route 560 by Corporal Larry E. Gnegy shortly after his arrest. A bond amount of $10,000 was set for the charge of grand larceny, but he remains in police custody without bond due to the charge of fugitive.

Arnold Miller, 23, Oakland, was arrested on a bench warrant Sunday when he turned himself in to face charges of violation of probation. According to Deputy Jay B. Sowers, he was incarcerated and later released on $2,000 bond.

Troy Allen Ashby, 19, Corinth, W.Va., was arrested on a warrant Saturday and charged with battery and the malicious destruction of the property of another, according to Deputy Jeffrey D. Murphy. He was released on $1,500 unsecured bond. Ashby was arrested again Tuesday and charged with

Four Arrested On Drug Charges

Four persons were arrested last week by Maryland State Police on various drug charges.

The arrests were made after Tpr. R.T. Wilson stopped a vehicle for a minor traffic violation and allegedly detected an odor of burning marijuana. A search of the vehicle revealed baggies of suspected marijuana and various drug paraphernalia.

Wilson arrested James W. Thomas, 21, Fort Ashby, W.Va., for possession of marijuana and maintaining a common nuisance. Christine C. Thoman, 18, McHenry, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession with intent to distribute, and possession of paraphernalia. Andrew C. Pope, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, and a 16-year-old McHenry juvenile were arrested for possession of marijuana.

The three adults were taken to the Garrett County Jail, where a spokesman reported that Thomas was released on $2000 bond, Thoman on 10 percent of $25,000 bond, and Pope on $1000 bond.

Final Series Of Rabies Clinics To Be Next Week

Three Remain Hospitalized After Mishaps

Three people remain hospitalized this morning as a result of two separate motor vehicle accidents which occurred yesterday.

According to Maryland State Police reports, the first accident occurred on the Mayhew Inn Road at 5:30 p.m., and involved two vehicles.

Ronald L. Burlin, 41, Abington, was reportedly traveling west in a 1985 Subaru. He slowed his vehicle to make a left turn onto the Bray School Road. Burton S. Thomas, 65, Oakland, was traveling behind Burlin in a 1981 Pontiac, which struck the Subaru. Thomas told police that Burlin's right turn signal was flashing, but he turned to the left.

Both drivers and passengers in the Burlin vehicle were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. A spokesman at that hospital listed Burlin in "guarded" condition this morning. A passenger in his vehicle, Martha Burlin, 69, was listed as "satisfactory".

Treated and released from the hospital were Thomas and two passengers in the Burlin vehicle, Robert Burlin, 2, and Elizabeth Burlin, 36.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. J.K. Moore. Charges are pending.

The second accident occurred on Route 38 near the Pee Wee Road at 9:35 p.m., and involved a single-vehicle.

Police said Jennifer L. Friend, 18, Terra Alta, was driving a 1984 Chevrolet Camaro when she failed to negotiate a right curve and crossed the center line. The vehicle left the road and struck an embankment.

Friend was taken to Garrett Memorial by Southern Rescue, where she was listed in "satisfactory condition this morning.

Tpr. J.K. Moore charged her with failing to keep right of center.

Aerobic Diehards To Appear On Disney Network Television Program

After four years of hard work, self-promotion and fund-raising, the Aerobic Diehards youth fitness team from Oakland has been offered what could be their "big break."

Disney/MGM studios in Orlando, Fla., has invited the Aerobic Diehards to perform on the "New Mickey Mouse Club" TV show on the Disney channel cable network. The Diehards will perform on the "Hall of Fame" segment which features outstanding youth in all phases of development in the area of academics, arts and music, sports, etc.

Brenda Brosnihan, coach of the Aerobic Diehards said, "It all happened so quickly! I received a call on inquiry from Kate Link, the researcher for the show on a Tuesday, mailed out our video and press packet on a Thursday, and they called back on Friday and confirmed the trip and the TV taping. We are very excited and overwhelmed with this opportunity."

The producer, Margie Freedam said, "The girls (Diehards) are wonderful. They are exactly what we were hoping to find. I know that they are really going to enjoy the show."

The TV taping will be on October 7 and the show will be aired on the Disney channel sometime this November.

Because of this rapid turn of events and the limited time for fund-raising, the Diehards are seeking financial assistance to help subsidize some remaining costs of the trip for the 12 girls and chaperones. "Any contributions provided will be appreciated and will help support and promote continued youth fitness opportunities," Ms. Brosnihan said. Persons may send donations to The Aerobic Diehards, Rt. 6, Box 51508, Oakland, Md. 21550.

DONOR PLAQUES DEDICATED — Members of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation convened this week for a brief ceremony to dedicate the new donor recognition plaques now on display in a first-floor hallway at the hospital. All businesses, organizations, and individuals who donate $100 or more to the Foundation will have their names engraved on brass plates which are then placed on one of the boards, depending upon the level of giving. The recent capital campaign of the Foundation has realized nearly $1.5 million for the Foundation, funds that will be invested and used for the purchase of needed equipment at the hospital that cannot be afforded through the regular hospital budget. Pictured left to right above are Richard Peake, a member of the Foundation and Donor Recognition Committee; Kathy Greaser and Annette Livengood, hospital employees and committee members; Rev. Manning Smith, who conducted the dedication ceremony; and Jacqueline Shirer, Foundation and Donor Recognition Committee member. Local Realtor Featured In TV Advertising

William G. Weissgerber Jr., of A & A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, of McHenry and Oakland, is being featured in a national Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service television commercial during the Real Estate Service's "Career Week" campaign, September 11-23.

Weissgerber was selected to appear in the 30-second spot, which will air nearly 150 times on network and cable TV, because of his outstanding performance in sales. Weissgerber was honored as Top Sales Associate for Listings Sold, Top Sales Associate for Sales Volume, Sales Associate of the Year for Sales and Listings Sold, and Sales Associate of the Year for Sales and Listings Sold Volume at the Better Homes and Gardens National Convention in Scottsdale, Arizona, in March of this year.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service flew Weissgerber and six other top agents to MGM-Disney Studios in Orlando, Fla., to shoot the commercial on location at the theme park's "Residential Street," a simulated neighborhood of houses and streets. The advertisement focuses on how successful Better Homes and Gardens sales associates believe that providing customer service is the key to their success.

LOCAL FACE ON TV — Local television viewers may notice a local face on their screens over the next 10 days or so, as A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens sales agent William G. Weissgerber Jr., Deep Creek Lake, recently traveled to MGM-Disney Studios in Orlando, Fla., to participate in the taping of a commercial. Weissgerber, pictured above, was honored earlier this year as Better Homes and Gardens top salesperson in the nation. The commercial, which will air about 150 times Sept. 11-23, is being used by CNN, ESPN, ABC, CBS, and NBC.

The commercial spots featuring Weissgerber will be aired extensively on ESPN and CNN through September 23, and there will be two spots on ABC World News Tonight with Peter Jennings (Sept. 20 and 22), two spots on CBS News with Dan Rather (Sept. 18 and 19), and two spots on NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokaw (Sept. 17 and 23).

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is a national network of 657 locally owned and operated residential real estate companies — including two corporate — equity firms — franchised under the Better Homes and Gardens name. It is an operating group of Meredith Corporation.

Stemple's Dry Cleaners Sold To Nu-Way Cleaners

After 50 years of service to the tri-state community, the Oakland business establishment now known as Stemple's Dry Cleaners will be closing its doors. Stemple's has been purchased by Nu-Way-Dry Cleaners, according to Eleanor Stemple, present owner.

In the early 1940s, William Amos Johnson (then owner of Nu-Way-Dry Cleaners) constructed and leased the building now occupied by Stemple's to C. Melvin Kight. The Kight family operated the business until 1975 at which time Donald C. and Eleanor Stemple purchased it. After the death of Mr. Stemple in February 1985, Mrs. Stemple continued to operate the business.

Mrs. Stemple said she believes it is time for her to retire from business and "start another chapter in my life."

Nu-Way Laundry and Dry Cleaners was purchased in 1946 by the late F. Robert and Mary Lee Orr. For the past 43 years the establishment has been owned and operated by the Orr family, including F. Robert and Mary Lee, daughter, Sandra Flanigan and sons, Gary, Jeff, and Richard. At present, Jeffrey and Lori Orr are the sole owners.

"We are making every effort to make the transaction a smooth event, not only for the customers of both cleaners, but for Mrs. Stemple, who has been a good friend and neighbor for many years," stated Jeffrey Orr. The Orrs said they see the acquiring of Stemple's as "an excellent opportunity to increase service to the community," while they continue improving the technology of their dry cleaning establishment.

Mrs. Stemple stated, "I am most appreciative of the support and patronage that the community has given me over the years. I am confident that Stemple's customers will receive the same courteous and professional service from Jeff and Lori at Nu-Way that has been the standard at Stemple's." During the transition, the doors at Stemple's will remain open. Although Stemple's will not accept garments for cleaning, pressing, and alterations after Friday, September 15, it will remain open for pick up through Saturday, September 30.

Volunteers Needed . . .

When one attempts to identify the significance of the volunteer in society as we know it, it is particularly helpful to imagine a community that is totally void of volunteers.

Think of it. Without volunteers there would be no Red Cross, no health organizations such as the Heart Association, Lung Association, and scores of others. There would be no service clubs such as the Lions, Rotary, Elks, women's civic groups, and Jaycees. Many programs for our youth, such as scouting, 4-H, and dozens of athletic programs, would be non-existent. There would be far fewer emergency service organizations, such as rescue squads and fire departments, because most communities would be unable to afford paid ones. Churches would probably close their doors, because there would be no Sunday School teachers, no choir, no ushers, no acolytes, no council members. There would be no charitable and human service organizations, such as the Salvation Army, Habitat for Humanity, Hospice, and the House of Hope.

There are many other volunteer groups not listed above that would also cease to exist if it weren't for literally millions of volunteers.

The purpose of this column today is two-fold: to give praise and credit to the many volunteers whose efforts make the quality of life so much better for everyone, and secondly, perhaps more importantly, to encourage more persons to get involved in volunteer work.

This newspaper has been carrying a number of articles lately about local organizations that are in need of additional membership. Some are even struggling to stay afloat because of a lack of members. Both of our county's rescue squads need more members and training is now being offered. Hospice of Garrett County, which serves the terminally ill and their families, is in desperate need of more volunteers and training is about to commence at Garrett Community College. The Garrett County Literacy Council is always in need of more volunteers willing to become reading tutors and help open new worlds for the illiterate. Many of the local fire departments, including the Oakland VFD, located in the most populous area of the county, are in need of additional manpower.

Certainly there are many other extremely worthy organizations that are in similar need. Too many people have the attitude that "someone else will do it." The more people who assume that attitude, the fewer "someone elses" there will be. The time to get involved is now — today.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is an answer to Dr. Steve Herman's article entitled "Whitewater and Pride."

The first Slalom Races were held in the United States in 1949.

Joe Monahan, whom I consider the father of the races on the Savage River, lived in Short Gap and was an adding machine salesman for a company in Altoona, Pa.

He appeared with some members of his Appalachian River Runners Club, of which he was a charter member and past president.

At the Tri Towns Chamber of Commerce breakfast in the spring of 1969 he showed slides of them riding the Savage when the water was high. He asked us to co-sponsor the races with his Clubs. He was also an officer of the Penn State Outing Club of State College, Pa. The chamber agreed, after starting arrangements for the release of water.

This took time with the agency to get dated releases for foolish boating. The first race was held September 5-6, 1970, with 34 competitors; one from California, as news travels fast.

The 1971 races drew 135 contestants from Washington, Oregon, and California, as well as the eastern states, as news traveled fast.

They were interested in entering the Olympic Races to be held here in 1972. Four races were held in parts of the United States and one in the Eastern section. The winners entered in the races July 26-29, 1972 to pick a team to represent the United States in the Olympics the next year in Germany. This was the first year the United States had a team for the Olympics. This team was directed by Jay Evans and consisted of 27 team members. Each member paid 80% of his own expenses to travel to Germany.

At the 1979 World Championships held in Jongruiere P.Q., Canada, the United States team led in both Slalom and Whitewater points with five individual and 4 team medals. Chris McCormich from Potomac, Maryland, missed the World Championship title by mere seconds in 1980. Chuck Lydia, from California, won the National Championship on Savage and World Silver Medal in C-1-Team.

The Olympic course was designed in 1972 by Mack Fawcett of Delaware and Dick Bridge of Maryland. It was half a mile long on a flow of 900 cu. feet of water a second and consisted of 30 gates. Half were reverse gates for the Slalom Racing.

The first United States team picked in 1972 was Tim Johnson, K-1-Sr. Division; Louise Holcomb, K-1-W, Jr.; Caroline Aston, K-1-W; Werner Furer, K-1-Jr.; Eric Evans, K-1-Class. The reception was held at Piedmont Legion Hall with 425 in attendance, where the winners were announced by the judges and the Whitewater Queen was crowned by Tom Cooper, Commodore of the American Canal Association.

The Pan American Races were held on the Savage River on Labor Day weekend, 1986, with 200 slalom racers and 80 wildwater racers. The races were held one year in Canada and one in the United States. Countries represented besides the U.S. and Canada were West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Finland, France, and Great Britain. The foreign racers were trying out Savage River as we were getting ready to apply for the World Championship Races for 1989. The Promotion Council beat us to it but the prior races and publicity helped the races to be given to the United States as other countries were also trying to get it.

Our Chamber of Commerce was given one member on the board, but the member kept reading about the meetings in the newspaper because they always forgot to notify her.

I have been chairman of our Chamber of Commerce of the Whitewater committee since we started the races in 1970. This letter is not from the Chamber of Commerce, but from me. We held a race every year since 1970 until the Promotion Council took over.

We have started raft and (Ducky) canal runs on the North Branch of the Potomac from Barnum, W.Va. to Bloomington and have five companies using it.

To the Editor:

The letter by the Sierra Club's Joy B. Perry on the gypsy moth (August 31), although factual and well written makes illogical recommendations. Joy B. Perry councils us not to ask our elected officials for more gypsy moth spraying, but rather ask for "more support staff to more accurately monitor the numbers and distribution of gypsy moths." What good would more monitoring do, when any casual observer can see the devastation that the gypsy moth is causing? And what would we do with the monitoring data, if we lack the will to spray?

Joy B. Perry believes we are putting too much blame on the gypsy moth because it usually does not directly kill trees, rather it is subsequent infections that weakened defoliated trees can no longer withstand that finish the trees off. Somehow, I am not relieved. Joy B. Perry evidently misses the point that the gypsy moth is what weakened the trees in the first place.

Joy B. Perry argues that we should just simply accept forests without oak trees. But isn't it premature to give up when we haven't yet really tried to fight back? If we can save the oak trees (and the grey squirrels and other animals which depend upon them but which are overlooked by Joy B. Perry) we should do so.

For eight years I have coordinated the Federal government's research on acid rain. The Federal government is about to commit Marylanders to spending tens of millions of dollars per year to reduce acid rain by about 50%. Organizations like the Sierra Club have been urging this action. I can assure you, however, that the gypsy moth, which is also a product of man, causes far more serious environmental damage than does acid rain. The scourge of the gypsy moth warrants a mitigation program far larger than what we have now.

Sincerely,
Walter L. Warnick, Ph.D.

4. The signs were valued at $105. Deputy Charles P. Nolan was the investigating officer.

The Garrett County Roads Department, Oakland, reported a theft of tools from a piece of County equipment, a roller, that was parked along North Hill Road over Labor Day Weekend. According to Deputy Nolan, the tools were worth approximately $60.

Braskey Named To NACo Committee

John G. Braskey, Garrett County Commissioner, has been named a member of the National Association of Counties' (NACo) Agriculture and Rural Affairs Steering Committee by NACo President Ann Klinger, Merced County, Calif.

NACo's 12 steering committees form the policy making arm of county government. Each committee is composed of approximately 50 to 60 county officials who meet during the year to examine issues critical to local government.

Their recommendations on county legislative goals are presented to the nation's county officials at NACo's annual conference. If approved, the recommendations become part of the American County Platform which is the basis of NACo's efforts in representing counties to Congress and the White House.

NACo is the only national organization representing county governments in the United States. Its goals are to improve county government, act as a liaison with other levels of government, serve as the national spokesman for counties and advance public understanding of the role of counties.

trespassing and disorderly conduct. He is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond.

William Thomas Sachs, Jr., 29, Deer Park, was arrested on a warrant Friday for violation of ex-parte. He was released on $1,000 unsecured bond. Sachs was arrested again on Monday and charged with the same offense. He is currently being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Marvin Eugene Friend, 33, McHenry, was arrested on a warrant September 6 and charged with having sexual intercourse with a 14-year old minor. He was later released on $300 unsecured bond.

There were four people arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) this past week. Deputy Jeffrey D. Murphy made three of those arrests:

Kenneth Paul Bornschlegel, 25, Pittsburgh, Pa., was arrested Monday on Route 219 North. Barry Lee Chamberlain, 44, Monroeville, Pa., was arrested Friday on Sang Run Rd. Harry Levi Wilt, 26, Grantsville, was arrested for DWI as he was apprehended Monday night while operating a bicycle on Route 40. He was also arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to pay deferred payments to the District Court of Maryland. Wilt was later released on $20.

A DWI arrest was also made by Tpr. R.T. Wilson of the Maryland State Police. Rick Dean Retsch, 21, Munhall, Pa., was arrested at 1:25 a.m. on Saturday.

In addition to Wilt, four other people were arrested and charged with failure to make deferred payments:

Michael Allen Crosby, 23, Deer Park, was arrested on a bench warrant September 1 by Deputy David M. Stoner. He was later released on $200 bond.

Robert Ernest John Locke, 18, Oakland, was arrested on a bench warrant Friday by Deputy Sowers. He is currently serving a sentence at the Garrett County Jail.

Hospitalized

A two-vehicle accident occurred early Sunday morning on Route 495 near the Grantsville Texaco Station.

Police said George W. Sipple, 55, Salisbury, Pa., was traveling south in a 1988 Chevrolet pickup truck when he crossed the center line into the path of a northbound 1987 Dodge Ram Charger driven by Howard C. Hoover, 40, Grantsville. The vehicles struck head-on.

The mishap was investigated by Tfc. G.R. Chaney, who charged Sipple with failing to keep to the right of the center line. Hoover was charged with two seat belt violations.

Both Sipple and a passenger in the Hoover vehicle, Linda D. Hoover, 38, Grantsville, were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by the Northern Rescue Squad, where they were reportedly treated and released.

Police investigated a single-vehicle accident early Sunday on Route 560 north of the Steyer Mine Road.

According to reports, Edward R. Schaeffer II, 20, Gormania, W.Va., was traveling south in a 1989 Chevrolet S-10 truck. He failed to negotiate a left curve, causing the vehicle to run off the road and strike an embankment. The truck continued along the embankment and struck a mailbox. Schaeffer told police that he fell asleep.

He was taken to Garrett Memorial by the Southern Rescue Squad, where he was treated and released.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, who charged Schaeffer with negligent driving.

A Deer Park man was injured in a four-wheeler mishap on private property last Wednesday.

Timothy L. Ferguson, 20, was operating the ATV. As it entered an open gate, Ferguson's jacket caught on a fence post, causing him to be ejected from the vehicle.

He was taken to Garrett Memorial by a private vehicle, where he was admitted. A spokesman reported that he has since been discharged.

Tpr. J.K. Moore investigated the report.

A single-vehicle accident occurred September 7 on Route 560.

Police said Angela L. Carney, 17, Oakland, was driving a 1980 Volkswagen. As it rounded a curve, the vehicle began to slide on a wet surface. It then ran off the road, and struck an embankment.

Carney was taken to Garrett Memorial by Southern Rescue, where she was treated and released. The accident was investigated by Tpr. J.K. Moore.

A single-vehicle accident Sunday resulted in the DWI charge.

Police said Michael A. Harsh, 23, Aurora, W.Va., was traveling on the Underwood Road in a 1973 Volkswagen Beetle. As the car neared the intersection with Silver Knob Road, the engine compartment caught fire.

Tpr. R.T. Wilson investigated, and charged Harsh with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Molly And Magruder

by Sandra Cusack

There were two ducks, a male and a female, near my house. They would often swim together in the lake, but more often they could be seen along the road in the evenings, going to find a place to settle in for the night.

He was beautiful, with emerald green on the tip of his wings and around his neck, an orange bill and dark brown and black feathers. She didn't have the bright colors, but was still beautiful, all brown and black feathered.

They were both so plump, sometimes they would seem to be hardly able to walk, as if they were too full from their evening meal.

He was so proud of her, his Molly. I had nicknamed my ducks, as I thought of them, Molly and Magruder. For some reason, the names seemed to fit, a plain but pretty name for her, and a name that seems to conjure an image of Irish royalty for him.

When they would be out for their evening walk along the road, if Molly began to dawdle, Magruder would slow down until he was behind her, then poke her to hurry up. If she didn't move faster, he would begin to quack at her, then she would move out of the road, and immediately slow down again.

Often, at dusk, they would be bedded down in the long grass beside the road near the marsh. When a car would drive by, startling them, Magruder would stretch out to his fullest length, flapping his wings around Molly, protecting her.

Magruder was so proud of Molly. He protected her, but also enjoyed showing off around her, and I looked forward to the time when the two of them would be waddling proudly along, leading several small ducklings.

Then one day, I was out walking along the road, and I saw what could only be Molly. It was near one of their favorite spots and all that was left was a pile of feathers, that have since been washed away by the rain and by many cars driving by.

I didn't see Magruder for awhile, but he finally came back. He now has a new girlfriend. He isn't quite as proud of her as he was of Molly, but he has learned a valuable lesson. I have yet to see them along the roadway.

Illiteracy Is Expensive

by Susan Arnson
Garrett County Literacy Council

Adult illiteracy is an expensive problem of growing local and national significance. According to the U.S. Department of Education, one in five American adults is functionally illiterate. A 1985 study of 3,600 adults between the ages of 21 and 25 indicated that 80 percent could not read a bus schedule; 73 percent could not interpret a newspaper story; 63 percent could not follow written directions on a map; 28 percent could not write a letter about a billing error; and 23 percent were not able to find the gross payment on a pay stub.

For literate adults it is difficult to realize the full impact of illiteracy. Certainly, personal correspondence is not possible. Functional reading skills such as reading menus, phone books and labels are not within the ability of the "functionally illiterate."

The population of adults who are unable to read or write is relatively young in age. Forty percent of illiterate adults are between the ages of 20 to 39, 28 percent are between the ages of 40 and 59 and 32 percent are 60 or older. Youngsters whose parents are functionally illiterate are twice as likely as their peers to be functionally illiterate. It appears that the challenge of identifying and teaching adult illiterates is one that will face the United States well in to the 1990s and beyond.

The expense of addressing the issue reaches from the national level to the local communities. It has been estimated that five billion dollars a year in taxes goes to support people receiving public assistance who are unemployable due to illiteracy. Americans who don't finish high school have two-thirds the lifetime earning capacity of those who graduate. Those who do not finish elementary school have only half the lifetime earning capacity of high school graduates.

The United States government has attempted to address illiteracy. The 1986 federal budget for education was 18 billion dollars, of which about 1.1 billion was allocated for all types of adult basic education. In 1986-87, the federal government spent 17 dollars per illiterate adult to aid literacy efforts. The United States Department of Education reports that 60 percent of American prison inmates are illiterate and 85 percent of all juvenile offenders have problems reading. The ramifications of illiteracy are pervasive and need support financially and in program development.

Some attempts at remediation are being made beyond the federal government. Businesses in some areas of the country are initiating programs. According to the American Council of Life Insurance, three-quarters of the Fortune 500 companies provide some level of remedial training for their workers, costing in the neighborhood of 300 million dollars per year and affecting eight million workers.

At the local level, a volunteer organization has been formed to work directly with students. Garrett County's Literacy Council was formed in 1987 with the objectives of training tutor volunteers and providing free tutoring for adult non-readers on a one to one basis.

There will be a free tutor training class held at Garrett Community College on October 3, 5, 10, and 12 from 6:30 to 9:45. For information and registration, call Bonnie Tucker, Garrett County Literacy Council president, at 334-1999 day or 334-1469 evening.

Vaccination of dogs and cats is the single most important measure which can be taken to prevent the spread of rabies to the human population, the spokesman said. Through vaccination, an effective barrier is erected between the wildlife population harboring the disease and human pet owners who are often in close contact with their dogs and cats.

Maryland law now requires that all dogs and cats four months of age and older have up to date rabies vaccinations, although pets of only three months of age can be brought to the clinics and properly protected through immunization.

The cost of the vaccinations at the clinics is $3 per animal. Dogs should be brought to the clinic on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual at all times. Cats should be securely contained in a wire cage, cotton pillow case or tightly closed box with sufficient airholes to prevent asphyxiation of the animal.

Garrett County licenses for dogs may also be purchased at the clinic.

have been confirmed in wild animals in Garrett County. We are seeing a resurgence of rabies in the Gorman area where it was first identified. This confirms the cyclical effect of the disease noted by epidemiologists. The disease is still a problem in most areas of Garrett County. Continued efforts on the part of all county residents to have all their pets vaccinated against the disease is extremely important at this time."

Various Musical Entertainment Set For Barbecue

A variety of musical entertainment has been scheduled for "The Barbecue at Del-Acres," a fund-raising event for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation slated for this Saturday, Sept. 16, at the estate of the late Carl DelSignore along Herrington Manor Road.

Slated to perform that evening is a band known as the Wolffe Pack, local pianist Dr. David Sheets, and Tom and Sue Peterson, also of Oakland.

The Wolffe Pack is led by John Wolffe, bass player, who is in his fourth year of studies at West Virginia University as a music education major. He is a member of the WVU Symphony Orchestra and the Faculty Brass Quintet. Locally, he is a ski instructor at the Wisp Ski Resort, McHenry.

The group's piano player is Richard Powell, who is a professor of trombone at WVU and a former member of the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra. The trumpet player is Jack Wills, a free lance musician from Kingwood, W.Va., who works as a music program evaluator for the state of West Virginia. Percussionist for the Pack is Keith Parton, a free lance musician from Pittsburgh who also teaches music and is a former member of a band that performed on a river boat in Pittsburgh. The vocalist is Kim Harvey, who is in her third year of studies at WVU as a music education and international studies major. A resident of Buffalo, N.Y., she will be involved in an exchange program that WVU has with the Glasgow Institute of Technology in Scotland. She will leave WVU in October to spend nine months in Glasgow.

The band will perform several styles of music, including jazz, country, and popular.

Dr. Sheets is well-known in this area not only as an accomplished pianist, but also an Oakland dentist. In addition to his dental degree, he holds a degree in music from the University of Pittsburgh. He has an extensive background in performance, including a stint with the Lawrence Welk orchestra. He is the regular accompanist for the Garrett Choral Society and he is currently the organist at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland.

Sue Peterson holds a music education degree from the College of Wooster and is currently teaching private piano and flute lessons at her home. Her husband, Tom, is a nurse anesthetist at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The two were members of folk-rock bands during their college years and have performed extensively ever since. Locally, they are members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church choir and the Garrett Choral Society, for which they are frequent soloists.

At the barbecue event, the Petersons will present music ranging from folk to Broadway to jazz.

Tickets are still available for the Barbecue at Del-Acres, an event which will also feature a beef barbecue and tours of the 15,000-square-foot "main house" at the DelSignore estate. They may be obtained from the Foundation Office at the hospital (334-2155), Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland, and Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry. The cost is $50 per ticket, $40 of which can be claimed as a tax-deductible contribution to the Hospital Foundation.

TO ASSIST HOSPITAL FOUNDATION — Three Southern High School students, all members of the Vocational and Industrial Club of America, will be in attendance to direct and assist with guest parking this Saturday, Sept. 16, at "The Barbecue at Del-Acres," sponsored by the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. VICA, which stresses the development of professional competence and leadership, boasts a membership of 258,000 nationally, including about 80 students from Southern and Northern high schools. Pictured above, left to right, are Jamie Beeman, John Stem, and Robert Harvey. The barbecue, which will be held at the estate of the late Carl DelSignore along Herrington Manor Road, will feature Chef Merle Metheny's open fired top-round beef and chicken, beverages, guided tours of the 15,000-square-foot "main house," and special musical entertainment. Tickets are still available at the Hospital Foundation office (334-2155), Englander's Pharmacy, and Deep Creek Pharmacy for $50 each, $40 of which is tax-deductible.

DESPERATELY SEEKING A HOME — The Gary Reams' family is caring for this young mother and her three "children" and is looking for caring persons to adopt any or all of the homeless family. The former owner apparently dropped the family off near the Garrett County Animal Shelter, where they were found huddled under rocks. There were four puppies, but a home has been found for one. The mother has a very sweet disposition and is very trusting. Pictured above, the three puppies play in the yard, while the mother keeps an eye on them. Anyone wishing to adopt one of these playful puppies or the mother, should the contact any member of the Garrett County Humane Society or the Gary Reams' family.

Therapy Group To Begin For Adult Children Of Alcoholics

Surveys indicate that 22 million adults in the United States grew up in homes where one or both parents had alcohol problems. These homes were often characterized by inconsistency, tension, loneliness and isolation. These adults often have more difficulty developing and maintaining meaningful relationships. They may experience anxiety, fear of rejections and a lack of trust for others.

Garrett Counseling will begin an ACOA therapy group in September. Group therapy gives the ACOA an opportunity to explore their own ways of interacting with others. Basic feelings and personal themes are worked through. Patterns of self-defeat are changed.

The group will meet one evening a week for six months, it will last for 1½ hours and be limited to a membership of 10 people. Co-therapists are Jerri Rodeheaver, M.S., and Jean James, M.A. Group membership is contingent on a pre-group interview with each prospective member. The cost is $20 per group session.

Rams Start Slow, But Win Big Over Berkeley Springs

Although the heavily favored Southern Rams got off to a rather sluggish start against Berkeley Springs last Friday night in their season opener, Coach Tom Woods once again managed to crank up his team's intensity midway through the second quarter and come home with a lopsided 42-0 win.

The Rams, who came into the game rather flat and apparently somewhat over-confident learned quickly that the winless Indians had come to play against the region champs and had no intention of rolling over. Southern scored on its first possession, marching 49 yards in just five plays, but did not return to paydirt until about midway through the second quarter.

Southern tailback Billy Welch and fullback Mike Dever led the Southern offense, as Welch recorded 130 yards on 22 carries and scored two touchdowns, while Dever rushed 10 times for 98 yards and scored four times. Dever also returned a kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown and returned a punt 18 yards to finish with 200 yards of all purpose running.

A 39-yard run by Dever opened the scoring for the Rams and John Milligan booted the extra point.

Welch recorded the second touchdown on a 14-yard gallop in the second period to cap a four-play, 47-yard drive. A 16-yard carry by Brynt Sies to the Berkeley Springs' 14 set up Welch's scoring run. Milligan's conversion kick was no good.

An interception of a Matt Clem pass by Southern's Mike Fulmer just before halftime set up the Rams' third six-pointer. After the Rams had sacked Clem twice, Fulmer picked off the aerial and returned it to the Indians' 37 with less than a minute to play. After an incomplete pass, Ram quarterback Marshall Pike handed the ball to Dever, who raced to the end zone. Welch ran for the two-point conversion to make it 21-0 at halftime.

Dever's 85-yard kickoff return opened the second half of action and, later in the quarter, he picked off another Clem pass and returned it 31 yards for a touchdown. With just 27 seconds left in the third period, Welch capped another drive with a five-yard scoring run. Milligan kicked all three of the second half extra points.

The fourth quarter was scoreless, as Woods attempted to utilize younger personnel in the line-up.

The Indians simply could not run the ball against the Rams' massive defensive line, as they finished with minus 46 yards rushing; however, the young Southern secondary got a workout from Clem, who went to the air 28 times and managed to complete 10 of them for 147 yards. All of Southern's offensive yardage (280) came on the ground, as Pike attempted to pass only three times.

Senior linebacker Jon Nazelrod and Pike, also a linebacker, led Southern's tackling with eight and seven, respectively.

"We really didn't seem to be up when the game started," Woods said, "but fortunately, as the game wore on, we got better, which is what every coach hopes will happen. We were able to capitalize on some breaks and then take control of the game."

Again this week the Rams will be the heavy favorite when they host Central Preston Friday night in Southern's home opener. The Cavaliers, who have been racked with injuries to key players, are 0-3 and coming off a 48-0 loss to the Northern Huskies last Friday.

Shawn George, labeled as one of the area's top running backs, was lost by the Cavaliers in the first scrimmage when he dislocated several bones in his foot. He is listed as doubtful for the entire season.

Bobby Whetsell, who was the starting quarterback, has also been out with injuries, however word is that he will play this week against the Rams.

"Whetsell is one of the keys to their success," Woods said, "and if he is back this week, we could see a different team."

The Cavaliers are also being led offensively by senior tailback Clifton Colebank (5-10, 165), junior tight end Jason Elliott (6-1, 202), and senior lineman Dan Knorpp (5-11, 226). If Whetzel does not play, senior Scott Argabrite (6-0, 140) will be the signal caller.

The Cavaliers use primarily a multiple-I offense, but will also utilize the wishbone. Their run-pass ratio is about 50-50.

Defensively, they run from a 5-3, which is a new formation this year for the Cavaliers and an adjustment that they have had some trouble making.

David Hatcher, a 5-10, 180-pound senior, anchors the linebacking corps, while Knorpp and Elliott will lead the line attack.

"Our biggest worry this week is trying to keep our players from looking ahead one week to Musselman," Woods said. "Kids always read the newspapers and then predetermine how tough a team is going to be. Then they are often surprised when they actually get on the field. We have to focus on the task at hand and we can't assume that because Northern scored 48 points against them last week that we can too. Northern was well prepared and played an extremely good game last week. I hope we play with a lot more emotion this week."

The Rams not only came out of the Berkeley Springs game with no major injuries, but expected back in the line-up this week are junior Kevin Lohr, who has been out with a pulled groin muscle, and sophomore Richie DeWitt, who was hampered with a knee injury.

Kickoff Friday night is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Hammer Cavaliers For 48-0 Opening Victory

Coach Tom Vent and his Northern Huskies were expected to be one of the area's most improved teams this season and although one game does not a season make, the Huskies opened with a bang last Friday night by hammering the Central Preston Cavaliers on their own turf, 48-0.

The Huskies maintained complete control of the game from the opening kickoff until the final buzzer, limiting the Cavaliers to just two first downs and only 36 yards in total offense, while the Northern offensive unit was compiling 19 first downs and 454 yards of total offense.

Darren McKenzie, who was one of the area's most outstanding players two years ago as a sophomore and missed most of last season because of a broken collarbone, led the Northern offensive attack by recording 281 yards on only 16 carries and scoring five touchdowns. The 6-0, 170-pounder was moved by Coach Vent from split end to running back, and was playing in his first game at this new position.

Pete Bittinger, probably the area's smallest fullback at 140 pounds, gained 111 yards on 18 carries and scored the Huskies other two touchdowns. Because the running game worked so well for the Huskies, quarterback Chad Sines went to the air only twice.

The Huskies wasted no time taking control of the contest, as they scored 21 points in the first quarter and led 34-0 at halftime. Bittinger opened the scoring with a one-yard run and McKenzie followed with touchdown runs of 33- and 81 yards. He added a 79-yard scoring jaunt and a seven-yard run in the second stanza.

Jon Houser, a 6-2, 181-pound sophomore, successfully kicked six of seven conversion points for the Huskies.

McKenzie added a 20-yard scoring run in the third period and Bittinger recorded the final six-pointer in the fourth quarter on a five-yard run.

The Cavaliers, who opened their season with a number of key personnel sidelined by injury, dropped to 0-3.

"We jumped on them real quick and they just couldn't recover," Vent stated. "I was really pleased with the play of our entire team. They made very few mistakes, especially for a first game. Our offensive line did an excellent job and Chad (Sines), Petey Bittinger, and Darren had outstanding games for us. Our defense really played as a team."

Vent said that he was a little uncomfortable with the lopsided margin of victory because he said it looked like the Huskies were running up the score on the Cavaliers. However, he explained that so many of the players on the Northern roster played in a junior varsity contest earlier in the week and were ineligible to play Friday night.

"Although our numbers are certainly up this year from last year, we still really have only about 23 players eligible to play in the varsity game in weeks that we have had a jayvee game," he said. "I never intentionally run up a score on an opponent, but Maryland's regulations tend to cause that under such circumstances. In fact, that regulation forces a coach to continue to play his first string players and risk having them injured, even if his team is running over the opponent."

Vent is not about to rest on his team's laurels with just one big win, however, stating, "Historically we have been a real good first-two-game team. We won our first two last year, too, but we only won one more after that. We have a long season ahead of us yet."

Nonetheless, the Huskies are the heavy favorite going into their second game this week, which will be at the Southern High field Saturday night against Hancock, a team that opened with a loss last week to East Hardy.

"They are really hurting number-wise this year," Vent said. "Hancock had a fair team last year, but they lost several of their better players. It's really tough for a small school to keep a program strong for more than one or two years in a row. Jeff Bailey (the coach) has done a good job, though."

He said the main worry he has about Hancock is "They have nothing to lose. They always run all kinds of crazy formations and you never know what to expect," he said.

Vent noted that the Huskies came out of the Central Preston contest with no major injuries and will be healthy going into Saturday's contest, barring any injuries in practice this week.

The kickoff at Southern's field is set for 7 p.m. All of the Huskies' home games will be played at Southern this year because the Northern field is unavailable for use this season due to construction of a new track.

Laker Volleyball Season Underway

The Garrett Community College volleyball team opened its 1989 campaign Saturday by participating in a six-team invitational at Essex Community College and placing fifth. Coach Margaret Quinn's squad then defeated the McKeesport Campus of Penn State on Tuesday, 3-1, and will host a six-team round-robin tournament this Saturday at the GCC Campus.

In last Saturday's invitational, the Lakers finished with a 4-6 mark, losing first to Essex CC, 15-4, 15-10, then to the University of Delaware junior varsity, 15-10, 15-13, and finally to Hagerstown Junior College, 15-7, 15-6. Then they came back to hammer Potomac State, 15-2, 15-3, and finally to defeat a strong Delaware Tech team, 15-8, 15-11.

"We were really nervous and made a lot of mistakes in the matches against Essex and the Delaware jayvees," Quinn said. "But later in the day, we began to play much better and went on to beat the second place team."

Hagerstown finished first in the event with a 10-0 mark, followed by Delaware Tech (6-4), Essex and Delaware jayvees tied for third (5-5), GCC, and Potomac State (0-10).

The Lakers topped McKeesport on Tuesday by the scores of 15-1, 8-15, 15-8, and 15-11, as they recorded a serving effectiveness of 83 percent.

Katie Groves was 12 for 12 in serving, Heather James was 10 for 10, Dana Winters finished at 12 for 15, and Edee Sheppard was 13 for 16.

The other teams that will be participating in this weekend's invitational will be Hagerstown JC, Mt. Aloysius, Penn State-Fayette, Penn State-New Kensington, and Potomac State.

Assistant coach of the Lakers is Susan Sanders.

Pro-Am Tourney Held At Wisp

The Bi-Annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament was held Monday at the Wisp Resort course in McHenry.

Winning low gross among the pros was Harold Fitzwater, who carded a 79, followed by John Rokisky with an 85. Ken McCoy won low net with a 67.

The first place team consisted of Fitzwater, Hank Genault, Ruhe, and Charles Carpenter. Placing second in the team competition was the team of Rokisky, Rex Baumgardner, Larry Harvey, and Joe Mamms.

Steelers Roll Past T-D Rams, 34-0, For Third Straight Win

The Northern Steelers continued their winning ways Sunday afternoon in Mtn. Top Youth Football League action by rolling over the Thomas-Davis Rams, 34-0, in Terra Alta. The win was the third in as many starts for the defending league champions, who are coached by Larry Brenneman.

The Steelers picked up their first two points of the game with 3:45 remaining in the first quarter when they held the Rams inside the 10-yard line on their second possession and forced them to punt. There was a bad snap from center and the ball went out the back of the end zone for the safety.

Only 11 seconds elapsed before the Steelers struck again, having taken the ball on the 50-yard line following the safety and handing it to Tim Forney, who raced 50 yards for the score at the 3:34 mark.

The Steelers put the game away over a two and one-half minute span in the second quarter. Derek Mason connected on a 12-yard scoring pass with Billy Younkin at the 7:40 mark, Rob Speicher hauled in a Mason pass for a 32-yard touchdown at the 6:00 mark, and Younkin intercepted a Ram pass and raced 45 yards for a score with 5:11 remaining.

Allen Sebold's first three conversion kick attempts failed, but he connected on the fourth try to give the Steelers a commanding 28-0 halftime advantage.

Brad Williams capped the Steelers' scoring with a one-yard touchdown run with just 47 seconds remaining in the third period.

Coach Brenneman gave credit to his entire defense and to Wayne Georg, the Steelers' defensive coordinator, for the strong defensive performance. Bob Fritz and Mason each recorded a fumble recovery, while Younkin, Chris Bittner, and Brian Folk each picked off a Ram aerial.

The Steelers will go after win number four this Sunday at the Southern High School field against the Parsons Vikings, tentatively set for 3 p.m. The Oakland Raiders will meet the Oakland Jets in the 1:30 contest.

Josh Woods Leads Oakland Raiders Over Dolphins, 13-0

Josh Woods accounted for all of his team's points Sunday afternoon as the Oakland Raiders topped the Terra Alta Dolphins, 13-0, in Mt. Top Youth Football League action at Terra Alta.

It was the third win in as many starts for Coach Dave Martin's Raiders, who will meet the Oakland Jets this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. at the Southern High field.

Woods scored on a run of five yards in the second quarter and on an 18-yard jaunt in the third stanza. He also ran for the extra point after his first touchdown.

Branden Ross led the Raider rushing effort, picking up 74 yards, while Woods gained 52 yards, Mark Elliott recorded 39 yards, Jason Burgess, 18, and Chad Bittinger, nine.

Woods also led the defensive effort as the leading tackler, however Coach Martin said he was pleased with the play of his entire defensive unit.

Ski Open Set This Weekend At Herrington Manor

Herrington Manor State Park will again play host to the Western Maryland Ski Open, the only American Water Skiing Association sanctioned competition in Western Maryland. Some 40 participants from several states are expected to participate, according to Ray Humphrey, president and founder of the Western Maryland Water Skiing Association and vice president of the Maryland Water Skiing Federation.

The competition will be a two-day, three-round slalom tournament that will get underway on Herrington Manor Lake at 8 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, continue until about 5 p.m., and resume at 8 a.m. Sunday. It is expected to be completed at about 1 p.m. Sunday.

The participants, all of whom must be members of the AWSA, will be seeded going into Sunday's competition depending upon how they finish in Saturday's events. The winner of the tournament will be the skier with the best finish overall in the three rounds.

Humphrey, a resident of Oakland, explained that the skiers are scored based upon the number of buoys they successfully navigate, the speed at which they travel, and the length of the rope. If the skier successfully navigates the six buoys at the base-line speed and length of rope, then on subsequent runs the speed of the boat is increased by two-mile-per-hour increments and the rope is shortened by a specific number of inches until the skier is unable to complete the course.

Humphrey noted that the Western Maryland Open involves a special relationship that has developed between the sponsoring organization (theWestern Maryland Water Skiing Association) and the state of Maryland.

"The Department of Natural Resources and particularly Roger Riley, the manager of Herrington Manor State Park, have been so cooperative with us," Humphrey said. "Without Roger's assistance, it would have been impossible for us to sponsor this event. We really appreciate his efforts and those of the DNR."

Humphrey added that the DNR is presently looking at sites in Garrett County for the possible construction of a three-lake facility for the sole purpose of water skiing competition. He said there are presently just two such facilities in Maryland and that construction of one here would be a "tremendous asset" to Garrett County.

"The DNR has made no final decisions on this yet, but our association is doing all it can to assist them and encourage them to proceed with such a project in Garrett County," Humphrey said. "Staging another successful tournament at Herrington Manor will really help prove that Garrett County is a great place to build this facility."

Spectators are welcome and encouraged to attend the tournament this weekend, Humphrey concluded.

Track Project Receives Grant

Governor William Donald Schaefer last week announced a Board of Public Works (BPW) grant of $141,708.78 to Garrett County's Northern High School for development of five acres as a six-lane field and track site with fencing, parking lot and field lots. The land is owned by the Garrett County Board of Education.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works is also comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions and other procurement actions.

"An award of this type," said Governor Schaefer, "truly delights me, as these monies will go to help Garrett County young people develop in athletic programs."

A grant such as this one is a reimbursement of the state share of combined funds, with the state supplying 75 percent of the total costs. Funds are allocated from Program Open Space (POS) monies. POS funds come from the one-half of one percent tax on all real estate sales in the state. After the money is appropriated by the General Assembly, it is used to buy land for parks and to assist with recreational development.

A&A Loses 3-2 In Overtime To Defending Champs

Members of the A&A Realty/Deep Creek Soccer Club went down to defeat for their first loss of the season to defending league champions, Little Ceasar's, as Jeff Shimko's blast from 20 yards hooked inside the upright with 40 seconds left in overtime to give the Mt. Savage team a 3-2 victory. Shimko, who led The Western Maryland Adult Soccer League in scoring last year, scored all three goals for Little Ceasar's to record the hat trick.

A&A jumped out to a early lead as Bill Meade's crossing pass was finished off by Bob Isaacson from 10 yards out at the five-minute mark in the first quarter. Meade raised the score to 2-0 when he connected from 30 yards out, off a Steve Prosser pass on a free kick.

Deep Creek Soccer Club came out trying to protect their goal in the second half, but the 90-plus degree temperature took its toll on A&A as the younger and quicker Little Ceasar players started to take control of the midfield. Their first goal came with just minutes remaining in the third quarter and second goal came minutes into the final stanza.

The overtime period saw each team have numerous chances, as A&A's best chance came with less than two minutes remaining with Bob Isaacson crossed a pass in the goal mouth and Bill Meade's shot just skimmed the top of the crossbar. Little Ceasar's took control of the ball at midfield and moved downfield to get the ball to Shimko's foot. With Matt Heulskamp and Mike Logsdon both on Shimko's back, he fired a shot that was just out of the reach of A&A's goalie, John Steele, for the winning goal. A&A had a final chance with less than 10 seconds, but Steve Prosser's desperation shot sailed wide of the goal as the game ended.

A&A Realty/Deep Creek Soccer Club returns to action this Sunday against Valley Auto of Mt. Savage at Mt. Savage High School. The game will start at 3 p.m. The team's next home game will be the following Sunday, September 24, at Southern Middle School.

Delicious Dishes

By The Bunch!

GREEN GRAPES SUPREME

¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ cup commercial sour cream
5 cups seedless green grapes, washed and stemmed
Mint sprigs (optional)

Combine brown sugar and sour cream in a large mixing bowl. Stir in grapes. Chill several hours. Spoon into individual serving dishes. Garnish with mint, if desired. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

GRAPE GRANITA

1 (12-ounce) can frozen grape juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
4 cups water
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Combine all ingredients, stirring well, chill thoroughly. Pour grape mixture into two freezer trays or a 12x8x2-inch pan, and freeze until almost firm, stirring several times during freezing process. Remove mixture from freezer about 10 minutes before serving. Scrape mixture with a fork to loosen ice crystals, and spoon into serving containers. Serve immediately. Yield: 5½ cups.

GLAZED CARROTS WITH GRAPES

2 pounds carrots, diagonally sliced
½ cup water
¼ cup plus 1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups orange juice
½ cup sugar
¼ cup dry white wine
1 pound seedless green grapes

Cook carrots in a small amount of boiling water 12 to 15 minutes or until crisp-tender, drain and set aside. Stir ½ cup water into cornstarch and set aside. Combine orange juice, sugar, and wine in a saucepan, bring to a boil. Add cornstarch mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Remove from heat and stir in carrots and grapes. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

SPARKLING GRAPE PUNCH

2 cups sugar
4 cups water
2 cups orange juice
4 cups grape juice
4 (33.8-ounce) bottles ginger ale

Combine sugar and water in a medium saucepan, stirring well, bring to a boil. Boil 3 minutes, stirring often. Cool. Stir in orange juice and grape juice, chill. Stir in ginger ale before serving. Yield: about 1½ gallons.

CANTALOUPE, PEAR, AND GRAPES WITH SHERRY ORANGE SAUCE

1 cantaloupe
1 pear, mango, or papaya
1 cup red, green, or black grapes

Sherry Orange Sauce:
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
½ cup medium to dry sherry
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut cantaloupe in half, discard seeds. Cut flesh into cubes or balls. Cut unpealed pear into cubes (if using mango or papaya, peel and cut flesh into cubes). Cut grapes in half if large and remove any seeds. Spoon into stemmed wine or sherbet glasses.

Sherry Orange Sauce:

In a small saucepan, blend sugar and cornstarch, stir in orange rind, orange juice, sherry, and lemon juice. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until sauce thickens, bubbles, and becomes clear. Cook for 2 to 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and let cool. At serving time, spoon sauce over fruit. Makes 6 serving.

SUNNY DAY SALAD

2 cups cooked wild rice
½ cup sliced green grapes
1 small can pineapple chunks
¼ cup diced almonds
1 cup diced chicken
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup oil and vinegar dressing

Combine all ingredients. Serve chilled.

KIWIFRUIT AND GRAPE RICE PUDDING

3 cups milk
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup rice
2 kiwifruit, pared, sliced and quartered
½ cup red grapes, halved and seeded if necessary
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Cinnamon Sugar:
2 teaspoons sugar to ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Combine milk, sugar and salt in saucepan. Heat until small bubbles form around edge of pan, stir in rice. Cook, covered, over low heat about 45 minutes or until rice is tender and most of milk is absorbed, stir occasionally. Stir in kiwifruit quarters, grapes and butter. Sprinkle with Cinnamon Sugar. Serve immediately. Makes about 6 servings.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups cooked chicken, coarsely chopped
¾ cup celery, chopped
½ cup green grapes, sliced
1/8 cup minced onion

Dressing:
¼ cup lite mayonnaise
1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon pepper (or to taste)

Mix the dressing ingredients and let the mixture sit for a few minutes to allow the flavors to blend. Combine the chicken, celery, grapes and onion in a bowl and stir in the dressing to coat. Yield four ¾ cup servings.

HOURS AND YEARS

"Grow old along with me . . . the best is yet to be," the sundial seems to say. It's a nice thought, but is it true?

What is best in life? Childhood? Adolescence? The Middle Years? The peace that should come with the twilight of life? Who is to say?

Life is full of many questions and very few answers. The hours bring with them unexpected contrasts of happiness and sorrow—of assurance and dismay—of wealth and poverty, both spiritual and material.

Because of this very uncertainty, we need something far more stable than a sundial to "grow old along with." We need substance, endurance, solidity. We need faith.

Where to find it? How about looking, first, in the church or synagogue of your choice? How about this week?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CAN THESE BONES LIVE?

September 24, 1989

Background Scripture: Ezekiel 37:1-14
Devotional Reading: Luke 24:1-12

It is one of those questions that seemingly has no answer: "Where do you go when there's nowhere else to go?" Maybe you have never found yourself in that position, but many of us have—situations in which there seemed nowhere to turn because we had reached "the end of the road." That "dead-end" might be the loss of one's job or profession, the loss of a loved one, the loss of one or more of one's faculties. All of these are losses which seem so great as to utterly defeat us and make us despair.

In the last few years some of my friends have faced that kind of "dead-end" experience. One man has been forced out of the corporation that he started several decades ago. The bank has foreclosed on two of our best friends and forced them into bankruptcy. An associate in the church has had to resign his position under pressure and a promising career is in ashes. Another friend has been inconsolable over the death of her husband. Still another dear friend has been given one year to live by his physician.

ROAD'S END

Each of these people, I'm sure, has been tempted to believe that he or she has reached the end of the road. Although our own personal situations may not be quite so drastic as those cited above, most of us can appreciate what it means to feel that life has come crashing down about us. Possibly each of us have lost something along the way that seems irreplaceable, perhaps our dreams or ideals.

That's the way the people of Israel felt during the days of their Babylonian captivity. Their nation had been smashed, their royalty slaughtered, their armies destroyed, their temple desecrated, their people scattered, their way of life changed forever, and their covenant with God forsaken. "Can Israel ever rise again?" they must have asked themselves. And more than likely their answer was likely to be "No, Israel is dead and finished." Their defeat had been so total, the consequences so disastrous that it was not a matter of rallying a defeated nation, but of resurrecting a rotting corpse!

Actually, Ezekiel's vision carries the desperate situation one giant step further: Israel was not a battlefield of rotting corpses, but a valley of dry bones. If it seems possible to resuscitate a corpse, it is even more impossible to make a corpse out of a heap of dry bones. And that's what God showed Ezekiel in his vision, so God's question must have seemed a foolish one to the prophet: "Son of man, can these bones live?" (37:3). Instead of giving the obvious answer in the negative, something—was it a remnant of faith?—made Ezekiel answer cautiously: "O Lord God, thou knowest" (37:4).

Who knows what might have happened if Ezekiel had answered with a flat "No way, Lord!"? But Ezekiel apparently knew in the depth of his being that our hope is built, not upon human possibilities, but divine interventions. Humanly speaking, there was no hope that Israel would ever rise again; her fall had been too great. But that is "humanly speaking," and when we have said all that humans can say, there is still something else that can be said: "Thus saith the Lord..."

If there are any devastating wreckages in your life, the future may seem pretty bleak and even hopeless. But, let us always remember that even the driest bones can live again when God blows the breath of his Spirit upon them.

NOSE DROPS CAN GET CONTAMINATED

Nose drops are helpful in the treatment of adults and children. Most physicians prescribe them. When you get them from your pharmacy they are pure and potent. But as soon as you take out and use the dropper, it is exposed to virulent germs which may enter the bottle, multiply and cause a severe infection. Removal of the protective cap of the spray bottles permits these germs to collect at the top to infect you.

To avoid this, cleanse the dropper and top of the bottle with alcohol before replacing it. Examine partly used nose drops and if the contents become cloudy, or a sediment develops, don't use them. It may be dangerous.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Series places teenager in very grown up world

Neil Patrick Harris plays teen doctor

By Mary Ann Townsend

Television is a great land of make believe, and this season ABC is going to make believe that a 16-year-old could be treating his own acne as well as his own patients when Doogie Howser, M.D. premieres Monday, Sept. 18.

Neil Patrick Harris stars as Doogie, the teenager who at age 6 scored perfectly on his SATs after breezing through high school in just nine weeks, and who graduated from Princeton at age 10, just four years before getting his degree from med school.

Doogie, now a resident at Eastman Medical Center in LA, is following in the footsteps of his dad, Dr. David Howser (James B. Sikking). As expected, they don't always see eye-to-eye, but the mutual love and respect they have for one another is obvious, especially when Doogie is trying to sort his normal teenage emotions from his very adult responsibilities.

Although not quite as accomplished as the genius character he portrays, Harris does have some big dreams for his own future in acting. At 6 years old, the age at which his character had graduated from high school, Harris was tickled to be cast as Toto in his older brother Brian's middle school production of The Wizard of Oz.

Bitten with the acting bug then, Harris now hopes to continue that profession on Broadway.

"My real ambition is to star on Broadway," the 16-year-old actor said. "Every time I listen to my record of Michael Crawford in The Phantom of the Opera I just go crazy. Wouldn't that be wild, doing eight Phantoms a week on Broadway? I'd be in heaven."

James B. Sikking, Belinda Montgomery and Neil Patrick Harris portray the Howser family in Doogie Howser, M.D., previewing Tuesday and premiering Wednesday on ABC.

David Hasselhoff and Parker Stevenson star in Baywatch, a drama about the personal and professional conflicts of lifeguards, premiering Friday on NBC.

Meredith Vieira and Steve Kroft become the newest members of 60 Minutes when the weekly magazine series begins its 22nd season Sunday on CBS.

New faces welcomed to CBS News' '60 Minutes'

News magazine begins 22nd year

By Mary Ann Townsend

60 Minutes, CBS News' multi-award winning news magazine series, enters its 22nd season this fall.

Through the years, on-camera correspondents have come and gone, and this year is no different. With the departure of Diane Sawyer, who left to pursue her own live magazine program, comes two new correspondents—Meredith Vieira and Steve Kroft. Both had previously been correspondents for CBS News' West 57th.

Vieira, who had been a principal correspondent on that show since its premiere in 1985, joined CBS News as a reporter in Chicago in 1982. She began her broadcasting career as a radio news announcer in 1975.

Kroft joined CBS News as a reporter based in New York City in 1980. He had been a principal correspondent for West 57th since 1986.

While the on-camera correspondents are important to the show, the behind the scenes people are what has made 60 Minutes tick for the past 21 seasons.

"60 Minutes is not just the correspondents and a camera man," points out Morley Safer, a 25-year CBS News veteran returning to 60 Minutes after joining the show in 1970.

Also returning this year are Ed Bradley, Harry Reasoner, Andy Rooney and Mike Wallace.

Sam Waterston and Marthe Keller star as William and Tess Shirer in Turner Network Televisions' The Nightmare Years, premiering Sunday on the basic cable station.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Diana Ross lights up stage with old, new hits on HBO

By Shelia Odak

Diana Ross gives the performance of a lifetime in HBO's electrifying World Stage: Diana's World Tour, airing on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Performing before a packed house in London's Wembley Arena during her Workin' Overtime tour, Ross sings hits from her new album Workin' Overtime and classics from her solo career and her days with the Supremes.

Diana Ross

Adults and children alike will delight in HBO's new series Jim Henson's Ghost of Faffner Hall, which airs Mondays. Jim Henson, the creator of the Muppets, combines music and education with some of today's top musical stars and the magic of puppets.

The central figure in the series is Fughetta Faffner, who was a great musical patron in the 1800s. In her lifetime, she built a mansion as a monument to music and sound. Now, her ghost haunts the mansion as she watches over her treasures and tries to keep them safe from her scheming great-great grandnephew Farkas, who would like nothing better than to turn the place into a fast-food restaurant or a miniature golf course.

This week's episode features musical guest Joni Mitchell.

On Sunday, Sept. 17, TNT will present the first installment of its newest original miniseries The Nightmare Years. The eight-hour special event airs through Wednesday, Sept. 20.

The series, which stars Sam Waterston and Marthe Keller, is taken from journalist William Shirer's autobiography. The story tells of Shirer and his wife's experiences in Nazi Germany as Hitler's propaganda machine took over and turned the country into a nightmare of unbelievable horrors.

Fans of the horror genre should be sure and tune in when Showtime presents Nightmare Classics: Carmilla on Tuesday, Sept. 19.

Carmilla is based on a story written by Irish author Sheridan Le Fanu in the 19th century. The story centers around a lonely, reclusive girl who slowly discovers that the mysterious woman who has suddenly come into her life is a vampire. This is not your typical vampire story, however, because most of the tale deals with the relationship between the two women, rather than centering on blood and wooden crosses.

"Carmilla is a vampire story that taps a different vein, so to speak," says producer Bridget Terry, who also developed the Nightmare Classics series. "In our story there are no long, pointy teeth, no Transylvania accents, no howling dogs. Instead of these vampirical cliches, we present two very real women who feed on each other's weaknesses."

Tension will mount this season on Who's the Boss? as six platonic years under the same roof turn out to be too much for Tony and Angela. They have reached the point where their mutual attraction could easily be ignited.

It's all in the family. Chris Lemmon and his wife, actress Gina Raymond, spent a part of their vacation in Duxbury, Mass., where they completed roles in father Jack's upcoming feature film Dad. Through flashback sequences, they portray Jack Lemmon and Olympia Dukakis' characters in their youth.

Actor Ed Marinaro donated $20,000 to the Big Brothers of Greater Los Angeles. The money was won at the Crosby Golf Tournament in North Carolina where players played for their favorite charity.

Stephen Caffrey, who stars as Myron Goldman on Tour of Duty, is missing in action and presumed dead, Saturday on CBS.

Country's Conway Twitty just observed 56th birthday

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Could you tell me how to become a Conway Twitty fan and when is his birthday? I think your column is great. Lately you have been topping Dear Abby! —S&E, Dallas, Texas

A: Well, thank you for the compliment, but I would never attempt to answer the questions Abby does. Conway Twitty was born on Sept. 1, 1933, in Friarspoint, Miss. You can find out about his fan clubs by writing: 1 Music Village Blvd., Hendersonville, Tenn. 37075.

Conway Twitty

Q: On a recent talk show Maureen McGovern was a featured guest. The interviewer mentioned McGovern's name as Glenda Schwartz. I would like to know if this is true and what she's been doing lately. —Mark Revere, Hopewell Junction, N.Y.

A: Maureen McGovern, during a period in her life when her career, marriage and finances were at an all time low, worked as an office temp using the name Glenda Schwartz. This period in her life occurred after she had won an Oscar for the song "The Morning After" from the 1972 film The Poseidon Adventure. Recently she has been singing in fashionable clubs and pubs in the Manhattan area.

Q: I have often wondered how to get into acting, movies and such. I am 28, have a good personality and enjoy acting, even though I have had no formal training. Where do I start and who would I contact? —D.B., Boise, Idaho

A: Oh, that it were that easy. We would all be driving around in stretch limousines followed by adoring fans. Very, very few stars have been discovered without previous training. Many joined drama or theater groups while still in high school; they followed this up with drama courses in college. Most of your favorite actors hold a degree from college. If you were to head to Hollywood or New York, your first step would be to find an agent who would have faith in your talent. He would be the one who would try to place you in a production.

Many new primetime series put youth in good light

By Anne Wheeler

In many of the new primetime series premiering this season, the networks are shining an uplifting light on young people.

Perhaps the most inspirational of the new series is ABC's Life Goes On. The hour-long Sunday night program focuses on a middle-class family who encourage Corky, their 18-year-old Down's syndrome son, to mainstream into public school. Most uplifting about the series is that it stars Christopher Burke, a Down's syndrome child in real-life who has overcome great odds to become an actor.

NBC has only one new primetime offering aimed at the younger set. Sister Kate, which replaces Family Ties on Sunday nights, stars Stephanie Beacham as a no-nonsense, adventurous nun who reluctantly assumes charge of a group of hard-to-place orphans. They soon realize they have met their match, and Sister Kate, in turn, learns a few good things from them as well.

On CBS, the three children of a zoo keeper help their mother in her battle between bureaucracy and the animals in Peaceable Kingdom. The one-hour family drama stars Lindsay Wagner as a single parent who is raising her family on the zoo grounds. As a family they try to find the right balance between their love for the animals and their own outside interests.

PERSONALITY PORTRAIT

Alan Autry surrounds himself with high quality colleagues

By Anne Wheeler

Alan Autry has learned to surround himself with the best.

Having made his theatrical movie debut in Southern Comfort with Keith Carradine and Peter Coyote, he later went on to co-star in Dangerous Company with Beau Bridges, O.C. and Stiggs with Dennis Hopper and World Gone Wild opposite Bruce Dern. His other motion picture appearances have included Amazing Grace and Chuck with Gregory Peck, Popeye with Robin Williams, and Brewster's Millions with Richard Pryor.

Although not related to Gene Autry, as is frequently rumored, he has nevertheless been paired with big name stars.

Autry currently stars as Deputy Bubba Skinner on the dramatic series In the Heat of the Night, returning for its third season Tuesday, Sept. 26, on NBC.

In that hour-long series based on the John Ball novel and the 1967 Oscar-winning film of the same name, he co-stars with Carroll O'Connor, who plays bigoted Chief of Police Bill Gillespie, and Howard Rollins, who plays progressive Chief of Detectives Virgil Tibbs.

Autry's character, who worships Gillespie, is resistant to the changes brought about by Tibbs.

"Bubba is the kind of man who would lay down his life for Tibbs yet wouldn't sit down to dinner with him," Autry notes.

Vacation Bible School Held By Lutheran Parish

St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Aurora, and St. John's of Red House culminated a successful week of Vacation Bible School recently with a picnic, display of crafts, and a program for parents on the final evening.

"Celebrate God's Love" was the theme. Music was under the direction of Frances Roth, Terri Winters, and pianist Debbie Fike.

Service projects by the school included the collection of supplies for school kits which will be sent through Lutheran World Relief to needy children overseas. Also, a collection of $200 will be sent to assist Lutheran children at their home in Zelienople, Pa.

The nursery class consisted of 12 three- and four-year-olds, teacher, Denise Reese, and helpers Tammy Cassidy, Amy Knepp, Robin Roth, Sheila Moats, Virginia Roth and Julie Glotfelty. Teachers of the two kindergarten classes of 20 students were Frances Roth, Janet Cosner, and Renee Gaither; helpers included Phyllis Vandevender, Shelly Cassidy and Jane Scripp. Grade one teacher of eight pupils was Phyllis Stemple, assisted by Frances Bachtel. Grade two teacher, Stacy Fint, had six pupils, and was assisted by Kelly Cassidy. In grades three and four, 17 pupils were taught by Terri McWilliams and Rachel Knepp, and helpers were Helen Moyer and Justine Calcamp. Tracey Bachtel, assisted by Debbie Shaluta, taught five students in grades five and six. Melanie Rutkauskas taught the four junior high pupils.

Teaching crafts were Pat Rolf and Tina Winters and coordinators of the kitchen were Helen Roth and Elaine Roth. Janet Judy was in charge of transportation.

Average daily attendance was 97. Helen Wolfe, of Pine Ridge Grocery, donated Kool Aid, cups, and napkins for daily snacks. Carl and Linda Sines of Snack Shack provided ice cream for Friday's picnic.

"We had a great week," stated Barbara Flinn, director. "We had a dedicated and caring staff of teachers and helpers, showing love and consideration. Each person went the extra mile to make our VBS the very best. We look forward to July 9-13, 1990, when we will again welcome all area youth to another week of Vacation Bible School.

BIBLE SCHOOL ACTIVITY — Members of Rachel Knepp's third grade Vacation Bible School class at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, attempt to break a Mexican pinata. As part of their daily lessons, the children studied celebrations in other countries. The breaking of the pinata is a part of the Mexican celebration of the good news of Jesus' birth.

Liquor Licensees Must Enroll In Training Program

There is a new law in Maryland that requires all establishments that serve alcoholic beverages on premise to be certified in an alcohol awareness training program.

The Maryland State Licensed Beverage Association, with advisement from the Maryland State Police, the Office of Education and Training for Addiction Services, the Department of Transportation, and the Comptroller's Office, is sponsoring a statewide program to train liquor licensees and their employees to prevent and handle problems with abusive and excessive drinking through the "Techniques of Alcohol Management" (TAM) Program.

The TAM program is an innovative approach to reducing alcohol related driving accidents. The one-day training course offers a variety of solutions and problem-solving techniques for use in licensed establishments. How to manage the dispensing of alcoholic beverages, how to manage the customers' consumption of alcoholic beverages, how to prevent service to under age and/or intoxicated customers, how to prevent disturbances, and the state and local laws related to serving alcoholic beverages are all part of this training.

TAM seminars will be conducted in every local area throughout the state with the cooperation and assistance from the local law enforcement agencies. The class scheduled for Garrett County will be held October 16 at Garrett Community College, Continuing Education Building, Room 300.

The TAM program has been approved and certified by Louis L. Goldstein, Comptroller of the Treasury. Additional information may be obtained from: Ms. Jane Springer, TAM Coordinator, Maryland State Licensed Beverage Association, 7 W. Central Avenue, Glen Burnie, Maryland 21061; telephone (301) 760-1040.

GCC Students To Attend Drug and Alcohol Summit

Two students from Garrett Community College will be representing the college and the community at the Governor's Youth Drug and Alcohol Summit to be held in Baltimore October 3. Clyde Hetrick, president of the Student Government Association, pictured above, and freshman Debbie Baker will attend the Summit which has been called by Governor Schaefer to address the alcohol and drug problems among young people.

Five hundred middle-school, high school, and college students from across the state have been invited to the Summit to articulate their ideas directly to the governor and their chief executive officials and superintendents. One of Governor Schaefer's top priorities is to create a drug-free Maryland.

The Summit's goal is to create an environment in which students can generate fresh ideas and innovative approaches to ending Maryland's affliction with drugs and alcholol, and begin to develop a local plan of action in conjunction with their local officials.

African Dance Authority Will Perform At FSU

Renowned Dancer Dr. Pearl Primus once noted. "I dance not to entertain but to help people better understand each other." Dr. Primus, who is one of the foremost authorities on African dance, will be bringing her special look at dance to the area as part of "Africa! A Celebration of Human Spirit," which opens at Frostburg State University on September 20.

Primus will present "Dance is My Language" on Thursday, September 21, at 8 p.m. in FSU's Lane Center Multi-use Room. In her program she will discuss how her own multicultural heritage (Africa, Caribbean, American) has influenced her creative expressions. She will also feature specific dances in her repertoire and explain the social, political and economical conditions of their composition.

Incorporated in Primus' "Dance is My Language" program is a presentation of African classical percussion music by her son, Onwin S. Primus-Borde. Primus-Borde is a musician in residence at the Pearl Primus Earth Theatre and has performed at the United Nations, Lincoln Center, and Carnegia Hall.

"Africa! A Celebration of Human Spirit," a 10-day festival of African culture centered at FSU, will also feature top-name African artists, such as drum master Baba Olatunji, Malawian musician Syndney Banda, and Hugh Masakela, who is known for his contemporary southern African music. Several African dance and music companies will also perform including Kan Kouran. Songhai International and Wo'se. "Africa!" also will include many noted scholars speaking on a wide range of aspects of African culture from the arts to the sciences.

In addition to her program at FSU, Primus will perform at the Allegany Community College auditorium on Friday, September 22, at 10 a.m.

Although Primus is recognized world-wide as a scholar, teacher and lecturer, she is perhaps most noted for her choreography and dance. Having created her own technique in dance, she is currently reconstructing her famous dance, "The Negro Speaks of Rivers," from the poem by Langston Hughes. She was the recipient of one of the three initial Three Year Choreographers' Fellowship Grants from the National Endowment for the Arts as well as previous NEA grants, numerous awards and honors.

She has studied modern dance with such dance masters as Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey, Hanya Holm and Charles Weidman. In addition, she was instructed in classical and preclassical dance by Louis Horst. While a member of the New Dance Group in New York City, she gained training in ballet, character and folk dance of Europe and America and creative modern.

Having earned her Ph.D. in anthropology from NYU, she is currently a professor of ethnic studies at the Five Colleges, one of the oldest and most noted educational consortia in the country, consisting of Amherst, Smith, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke colleges and the University of Massachusetts. She is hosted by Amherst College.

"Africa!" is sponsored by the Maryland Humanities Council (NEH), the Maryland State Arts Council (NEA), the Regional Education Service Association of Western Maryland (RESA). FSU, ACC and Garrett Community College. Although the festival is based at FSU, spin-off events are set for ACC, GCC, and various area schools. For information, persons may contact Dr. Paul LaChance, director, at (301) 689-4225.

Goldstein Reports Maryland Surplus Of $41.9 Million

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the state of Maryland closed fiscal year 1989 on June 30, 1989, with an unobligated general fund surplus of $41,950,669. The $41.9 million surplus is enough money to operate the state of Maryland for less than a day and a half under the current state budget, he said.

"This is our first 'normal' surplus following two years of unusually large surpluses that resulted from federal tax reform, including fiscal year 1988's record surplus of $227.7 million," the comptroller said. "The fiscal year 1989 surplus resulted largely from higher than expected revenue from the individual income tax, corporation income tax, interest on investments, the business franchise tax, and the property transfer tax."

Goldstein cautioned, however, that these gains were somewhat offset by lower than expected sales and use tax revenues, lottery receipts, death taxes, hospital patient recoveries and insurance premiums tax collections.

According to the comptroller, individual income tax collections exceeded estimates by more than $35 million, totaling almost $2.7 billion in net state revenue for the fiscal year. "We are still seeing the hard-to-predict effects of provisions of federal tax reform that make more income subject to tax. These provisions resulted in lower refunds and higher final payments on tax year 1988 returns filed earlier this spring," he said.

Interest on investments brought in $82.4 million, or almost $12.2 million more than the estimate, reflecting generally higher interest rates during the fiscal year.

Property transfer taxes produced $39.8 million, $7.7 million more than expected. "We can attribute this largely to favorable construction weather during the most recent winter and overall strength in the Maryland economy during the first nine months of fiscal year 1989," Goldstein said.

"The same higher interest rates that boosted interest on investments also dampened construction activity during the last quarter of fiscal year 1989, which was one reason sales and use tax collection were $9.4 million below estimates, producing $1.5 billion. Mild winter weather, which reduced utility receipts, and the general slowdown in consumer spending caused by slowing national economic conditions also helped keep sales tax receipts slightly below estimates," the comptroller said.

Goldstein said recent figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce show an increase in the rate of savings in America, noting that the consumer spending spree of recent years may continue to slow.

Death taxes produced $63.8 million, almost $5 million less than estimated. State lottery revenues were more than $1 million below the estimate, generating $319.6 million, due in part to lower than expected sales of the new lotto game.

"In the past, falloffs in sales tax growth have sometimes been followed by a similar trend in income tax receipts. The most recent example was in 1982," Goldstein said. "For that reason, we will watch our revenues very closely, especially during the first six months of fiscal year 1990. However, current economic conditions are good, and no national recession is forecast. Maryland residents now have the fourth highest per capita income in the nation, which reflects our broad-based economy, the education and high-tech nature of our workforce and our basic economic strength. Since Maryland's economy generally out performs the national economy, we are cautiously optimistic about fiscal year 1990 general fund revenues."

CONTRIBUTES TO HOSPICE — Ed King, McHenry, a real estate agent for A&A Realty, recently presented a donation of $653.38 to Hospice of Garrett County, money that King raised for his bail when he was a Hospice "prisoner" at the Garrett County Fair. Much of the money was pledged by other agents of A&A Realty and by members of the Deep Creek Lions Club, and King matched each donation by 50 percent himself. This is the second year that King has served as a "prisoner" for the Hospice fund-raiser at the fair. "It is very rewarding to raise money that is used to serve the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County," he said. Accepting the donation in the above photo is Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County.

GNB Benefit Tourney Selection Board Announced

Garrett National Bank recently announced the Selection Board for the 1990 Garrett National Bank Charity Benefit Golf Tournament. The Board consists of six members, including one bank representative, a representative of the previous year's recipient organization, and four independent business persons.

Board members are: Luke Stuart, chairman (Garrett National Bank), Jim Wallin (retired businessman), Robert Sincell (Sincell Publishing Co.), Gary Daniels (Four Star Broadcasting), Tom Gearhart (consultant), and Betty Vance (owner, Kelly's Appliance and Furniture Store) plus Garrett Organization of the Handicapped representative.

Among the guidelines for selection of a recipient are that the organization be a local charity with principle funding coming from citizens and businesses of Garrett County and surrounding areas. Any organization wishing to apply may submit a request in writing to the attention of Luke Stuart, Garrett National Bank Charity Benefit Tournament, c/o Garrett National Bank, P.O. Box 239, 46 South Second Street, Oakland, Md. 21550. A brief outline of the purpose and goals of the organization should be enclosed. The request deadline for the 1990 tournament is November 15.

"This year's tournament was the inaugural effort in what Garrett National Bank hopes will be equally successful annual events," Stuart said. The 1989 Inaugural Tournament had 128 golfers and raised approximately $11,000 for the Garrett Organization of the Handicapped.

Yough Mountain Property Owners Elect Officers

New officers were installed at a recent meeting of the Youghiogheny Mountain Lake Property Owners Association. They are: Dr. Rocco Paone, president; Robert Ireland, vice president, Mrs. Catherine Mattheisen, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Elsey, secretary; and Mrs. Lucille Monar, board of directors.

Dr. Paone commended the former officers for "doing an outstanding job" for the last four years and presented past president, Mrs. Lucille Monar, with a bouquet of flowers and past secretary Thomas Sampson with a pen and pencil set.

A corn and soup picnic was held Saturday, September 2, in the picnic area by the clubhouse.

Another meeting was held Saturday, September 9, with many members attending. Edgar Harman, of the Garrett County Health Department, spoke to the members about rules and regulations that concerned them. A question and answer period followed. Members noted appreciation for Harman's attendance at the meeting.

Dr. Paone urged members to attend as many meetings as possible. They are held on the second Saturday of each month (through October) at the clubhouse. Property owners who do not belong to the Property Owners Association are urged to join and serve on a committee. Members receive news letters bi-monthly from the association. Among some of the committees formed by Dr. Paone are beautification, budget, road equipment, and joint recreation and program. Mrs. Iola B. Parker (who has published many magazine stories and articles) has been named historian and on occasion will provide information to the members. Some beautification work will be done before winter and next spring, "we hope to get a good start on the projects to make members proud of their residences at Youghiogheny Mountain Resort," said Dr. Paone.

The next meeting is scheduled at the club house on October 14 at 6:15 p.m. with a hay ride to follow at 6:30. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Glotfelty Becomes Bride Of Mr. Rogers During June Ceremony

Angela Denise Glotfelty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Glotfelty, McHenry, and Michael Allen Rogers, son of Roxanne Rogers, Corinth, W.Va., and James Rogers, Fairmont, W.Va., were united in marriage on June 3, 1989. The double-ring, candlelight ceremony took place at the Bethel United Methodist Church in Mtn. Lake Park, with the Rev. Mark Hickman officiating.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a satin gown by Bridal Originals. The heavily beaded bodice of Milano lace and iridescent sequins featured a high illusion neckline of English net with a Milano lace bridal collar and Renaissance sleeves of satin and English net. The dindrl skirt fell from a basque waist and swept into a semi-cathedral train with cut out motifs. Both the skirt and train were adorned with appliques of Milano lace. Her fingertip, pouf veil was complemented by a band of pearls and satin, accented with white satin flowers and pearl sprays. She carried a cascading bouquet of white silk stephanotis and spider mums and ivy, accented with pearls and netting.

The matron of honor, Donna VanSickle, and the bridesmaids, Jamie Goehringer and Sheila Filsinger, and Amanda Layton, niece of the bride, all wore tea-length dresses of red satin. They carried candles with silk roses and ivy, accented with streamers of red and white satin ribbon. The flower girl was Jenny Goehringer, friend of the bride, who wore a white satin, tea-length dress and carried a white basket filled with red rose pedals.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with tails, trimmed with white satin, while his best man, Rob Frazee, wore a black tuxedo with red accents. The users, Fred and Steve Glotfelty, brothers of the bride, and Mike Lewis, cousin of the bride, all wore black tuxedos with red accents. The ringbearer, Michael Allen Rogers Jr., carried a heart-shaped pillow of white satin and lace made by the bride's mother.

The bride's mother wore a shell pink, peplum style lace and satin dress embellished with sequin trimmed lace on the shoulders and a surplice neckline.

The groom's mother wore an ivory dress of satin and lace with a satin bow, rounded neckline, flutter sleeves and red accessories.

Organist was Rae Ann Brenneman, who also sang "Sunrise, Sunset." Vocalists were Nina Wagner, who sang, "Looking Through The Eyes Of Love" during the lighting of the candles, and Sheila Filsinger and Mark Weeks, who sang a duet, "Always."

Lisa Savage and Becky Goehringer attended the guest book and programs. Michelle Glotfelty, cousin of the bride, and Kim Boyce handed out red and white helium filled balloons to each guest to be released as the bride and groom departed the church to their waiting limousine.

The reception immediately followed the ceremony at Brodak's on Rt. 219 North, with dinner being served and the music being provided by the group "Transport."

The four-tiered red and white wedding cake was made and decorated by Terri Rodeheaver and served by Lena Keiser, great aunt of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bride's parents on the evening before the wedding.

The couple honeymooned for a week in the Carolinas and now reside in Mtn. Lake Park.

The bride is an 1983 graduate of Northern High School and is employed by Shear Delite Beauty Salon, Accident. The groom is a 1979 graduate of East Preston High School and is employed by Bausch and Lomb, Mtn. Lake Park.

Photographs were taken by Jim Matthews, Oakland. John Goehringer and Pam Layton, friend and aunt of the bride, attended to details.

The bridesmaids and the flower girls' dresses were all made by Pauline Harmon, Accident. The bride's headpiece and bouquets, and all the corsages and boutonnieres were all made by the bride's friend and employer, Sherry Georg, Accident.

Meeks-Upole Vows Exchanged

Daneille Leigh Meeks and Robert Dale Upole were united in marriage in a private, double-ring ceremony on Friday, September 1, at 9 p.m. The Rev. Harold Harman performed the ceremony at the New Life Christian Church in Nest Lick Acres.

Daneille is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hutzel, Rt. 3, Oakland, and Larry Meeks, Oakland and Chestertown. Robert is the son of Ms. Janice Upole, Eglon, W.Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Upole Sr., Oakland.

A surprise reception was held in honor of the couple on Monday, September 4, at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Moreland, Red House area. Several friends and relatives attended, including the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loughry, Chestertown. The couple were presented with gifts and a money tree and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Loughry, Oakland, grandparents of the bride, gave the couple a car.

Refreshments included a picnic-style dinner, a three-tier wedding cake, and punch. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Millie Hutzel, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Cindy Skiles, sister of the groom, and served by Mrs. Millie Hutzel and Mrs. Vonda Moreland, the bride's aunt.

Leilani Noble And Bryan Smoot Exchange Vows In July Ceremony

Wedding vows were exchanged July 1, 1989, by Leilani Noble and Bryan Smoot. The double-ring ceremony took place at St. Peter's Catholic Church with Father Feild officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Noble, Accident. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Smoot, McHenry.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of satin and crystal organza. It featured a heavily beaded Venise lace bodice, a Queen Anne neckline etched with pearled Venise lace, and ornate Juliet sleeves. The full satin skirt was highlighted with Venise lace motifs and swept to a semi-cathedral train topped with organza ruffles. She wore a tiara of silk roses and silk Venise lace floral appliques. The scalloped finger-tip-length veiling was accented with silk Venise lace appliques and pearls sprigs.

The bride's jewelry consisted of pearl earrings and a gold chain with a pearl and a diamond on top.

Lynne Bowers, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of peacock blue and had pale blue silk roses in her hair. She carried two large orchids of blue and other small flowers of peach and white. The streamers were peach and blue.

Bridesmaids were Michelle Kapopolous, cousin of the bride, Marcie Suter, and Tina Walkling. They wore peacock blue silk gowns and blue roses in their hair. They carried one large orchid mixed with peach and white small flowers, and blue and peach streamers.

Alysha Ann Noble, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a blue silk dress with blue spangles and blue socks with white lace and white shoes.

Eric Bowman, friend of the groom, was ring bearer and was dressed in a silver tuxedo with a blue boutonniere.

Serving as best man was Sean Smoot, brother of the groom. Ushers were Mike Smoot, brother of the groom, Anthony Bowers, uncle of the bride, and DeWayne Noble, brother of the bride. Attendants wore silver tuxedos with white shirts and blue boutonnieres.

Marie Besser, aunt of the bride, was hostess at the church. She passed out rice packets and was in charge of the guest book at the church and reception.

The four-tier center wedding cake, topped with a blow-glass bride and groom, and two two-tiered side cakes topped with wedding bells and doves and spanned by lace stairways, were baked by Joann Glotfelty, and cut and served by Mrs. Loriane Noble, aunt of the bride, and Angie Marzock.

The bride was honored at a bridal shower given by her aunt Lynne at the American Legion, Bridgeville, Pa.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Florida, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Baltimore.

Following a trip to Colonial Williamsburg, the couple established residence in McHenry.

The full ballroom skirt, trimmed with Schiffli lace, fell from a basque waist and swept into a semi-cathedral train enhanced by satin bows. To complete her ensemble, the bride chose a headband of pearl filaments accented by a flower of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. It featured a net pouf and shoulder-length pearl-edged sparkle illusion veiling.

The bride carried a pink bouquet of silk roses, baby's breath, and pearls. All flowers in the wedding were made by Mrs. Carol Cervi, aunt of the bride.

The cake was baked and decorated by Beatrice McVey, aunt of the groom.

A reception followed the wedding at Brodak's. Music was provided by Jim Welsh of GO-106 in Cumberland.

Government Checks Must Be Cashed Within 12 Months

The Department of the Treasury, in carrying out a new Federal law, will require all Government checks to be cashed within 12 months of issuance or they will be cancelled, according to Elaine Watson, Social Security manager in Cumberland.

Presently, there is no time limit for cashing a U.S. Government check. Government checks issued on or after October 1, 1989, will contain a notation, "Void after one year." This means that a Government check issued on October 1, 1989, will be good until September 30, 1990, after which it will be cancelled by the Treasury Department. Checks issued prior to October 1, 1989, will also be good until September 30, 1990.

A Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) check which is not cashed after one year of issuance will be cancelled, Watson said. The recipient will then be required to go to the Social Security office which authorized the original payment to request a second check. This will mean a delay in receiving payment. However, those who have their checks deposited directly into a financial institution will not be affected by the new law.

There are also time limits for claims on Government checks issued after the effective date of the new law. Any claim on a Social Security or SSI check must be presented to a Social Security office within one year from the date of issuance. If there has been a claim of forgery or unauthorized endorsement, the Department of Treasury will have 18 months from the date a check is paid by Treasury to begin funds recovery action (presently, Treasury has six years and 180 days to recover funds.)

"By significantly reducing the time period for cashing checks, initiating claims against a check, and replacing Government checks, the Federal Government will greatly improve the financial management of its resources," Watson said.

While the time frame in which to cash Government checks is affected, individuals do not lose entitlement to the payment of Social Security or SSI benefits.

The Cumberland Social Security Office is located at Country Club Mall, Winchester and Vocke Roads. The telephone number is (301) 729-3232.

Dennett's Back To School Night To Be Sept. 21

The Seventh Annual Dennett Road Back-To-School Night will be held Thursday, September 21, at the school beginning at 5:30 p.m., according to Jeanne Matras, PTA president.

The evening features a pizza dinner for Dennett Road students and their families, followed by an open house when parents have an opportunity to meet their children's teachers.

The pizza dinner will be served from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. and will be followed by a short PTA meeting. During the meeting, PTA announcements as well as instructions for the open house will be delivered. The open house will run from 7 to 8 p.m.

There will be a door prize awarded this year. Matras noted the prize will be a pair of binoculars, donated by Bausch & Lomb.

Families will be able to purchase pizza and soft drinks for the entire family along with one PTA membership for $7. For two PTA memberships and family meal, the price will be $9. Those wishing to attend without purchasing a meal can purchase one PTA membership for $2.

Other PTA officers for the 1989-90 school year: vice president, Pat Bowser; treasurer, Lynda Durst; and secretary, Barbara Schick.

Instructional Clinic Held For GCC Instructors

An instructional clinic for instructors of developmental courses was held last week at Garrett Community College to prepare faculty for teaching in the college's newly-organized Developmental Program. The two-day clinic was planned by George McDowell, director of developmental studies.

In addition to general orientation and explanation of college procedures and the Learning Enhancement and Assistance Program by McDowell and Dean Lillian Mitchell, two guest speakers gave presentations to the developmental faculty.

Albert Siegfried, president of Basic Language Systems, Inc., explained the use of software programs to teach the developmental student in the computer lab, and Mrs. Sally Wilson, of the Garrett County Board of Education Special Education Division, spoke on "Teaching Adults With Special Needs."

Other topics covered in the two-day session included: Basic Testing Program by Jack DuBose, Level II Testing and Individual Learning Plans by McDowell, Accountability by Dr. Nancy Priselac, and Computer Lab Inventory System by Randall Harman.

The Learning Enhancement Assistance Program has been developed by the college to serve students on four academic levels. Levels I and II are for students who need some degree of developmental work before they enter their intended academic program; Level III is for students who can successfully accomplish college level work; and Level IV is for students identified in an accelerated or honors program.

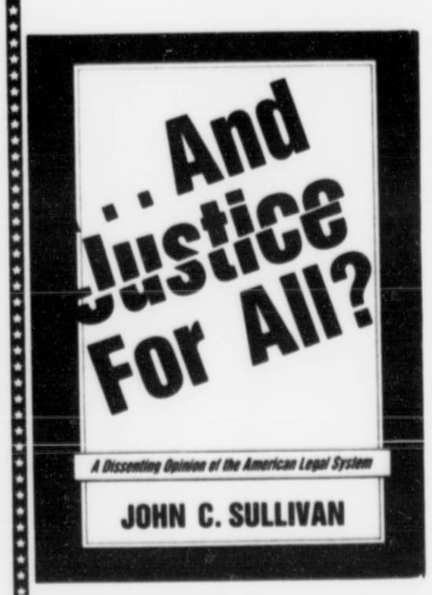
A Critique of America's Legal System



. . . AND JUSTICE FOR ALL?
A Dissenting Opinion of the American Legal System

John C. Sullivan

This is a penetrating critique of the American legal system on the state and lower court level that points to a broad range of problems and carefully documented observations.

In exposing these inequities, the author focuses first on a formidable foe: the American Bar Association and its affiliates. The decisions controlled by the ABA are awesome, Mr. Sullivan shows — ranging from who is admitted to law school to who is appointed to the U. S. Supreme Court. He feels that the powers that be in the ABA are the "fat cats" of the profession: the corporation lawyers, Sullivan says, who are far removed from the lower courts in which Americans seek justice.

But John Sullivan's dissenting opinion goes far beyond the ABA. He takes aim at the loopholes in the judicial system, the misfits among those who administer it, the law school professors who teach law without practicing it, the fallacies in the jury system, the admixture of politics and jurisprudence, and the unjustness of capital punishment. Judges at all state court levels are subjected to Sullivan's criticisms, as are manipulative insurance adjusters.

In the book's concluding section, Sullivan makes powerful recommendations for change which summarize his concerns.

. . . And Justice For All? will be read nationwide by many who are concerned with the needed reforms in America's legal system. Everyone will ponder the issues it raises.

"The Crucible" Slated At WVU; Ben Sincell Is Set Designer

"We live in dangerous times," says West Virginia University Associate Professor of Theater Ed Herendeen, "and this production will attempt to warn and to frighten today's audiences."

Herendeen describes Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," the play he is directing, as "a chilling drama that recreates the Salem witch trials of the 1690s."

Audiences can see this recreation September 27-30 and October 4-7, at 8 p.m., in the Creative Arts Center Studio Theater.

"Today, terrorism exists on many levels," Herendeen comments. "As we approach the 1990s, it is time to revisit the America of 300 years ago, when a society of supposedly God-fearing Puritans knowingly planned terrorism.

"The evil," Herendeen emphasizes, "was not done by mistake. It was consciously engineered public terroism. Society accused the most innocent of being the most guilty. Religion was used to terrorize, and conscience was no longer a personal matter.

"Ironically, 'Salem' is a shortened form of 'Jerusalem.' 'Salem' means 'peace,' but there was little peace in that settlement.

"Miller focuses on one man, John Proctor, under ultimate stress at the hands of that community. Salem society became a crucible," the director explains, "a melting pot requiring a high degree of heat for testing or purifying by fire.

"The play highlights an issue that still weighs heavily on the progress of American civilization: the problem of guilt by association, not evidence. John Proctor asks: 'Is the accuser always holy now?'

" 'The Crucible' is Miller's most enduring play," Herendeen concludes. "He transformed history into art, creating a stunning parable about our American past. He wants us to beware of '-isms.' "

Ben Sincell, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park and currently on sabbatical leave from his teaching position at Garrett Community College, designed the set for "The Crucible." He is a graduate student at WVU.

ACCIDENT HIGH SCHOOL 55TH REUNION — The Accident High School class of 1934 recently held its 55th Reunion at the Bittinger Fire Hall. Ralph Kelso gave the welcome and Kenneth Keller gave the invocation. Robert Brenneman, a 1935 graduate, and his wife Margie provided entertainment by singing songs from the 1930s. A short memorial service was held for the four deceased members and letters were read from members who were unable to attend. The next reunion will be held in 1991 at the same place. Pictured above, front row, left to right, are Florence Dixon Sanders, Lehigh Acres, Fla.; Helen Miller Ault, Accident; Ruth Spear, Accident; June Brenneman Kelley, Cumberland; and Bessie House Guard, Friendsville. In the second row, same order, are: Webster Brenneman, McHenry; Kenneth Keller, Pierceton, Ind.; Carl Haenftling, Accident; Ralph Kelso, Accident; and Harry Beggs, Cambridge, former teacher.

Tickets for "The Crucible" are $6; $5 for senior citizens, students and WVU employees. Group discounts are available. Call 293-3020 for reservations and information. Interested teachers can inquire about a special performance for high school students set for the morning of October 5.

Local Jehovah's Witnesses Attend Assembly In Pa.

In Loving Memory Of
ALLEN ANDREW UPOLE
who passed away September 13, 1986

The stars are brightly shining upon a silent grave.
In it lies a dear one we loved but could not save.
God gave us strength to bear it and courage to fight the blow.
But what it meant to lose you no one will ever know.
Dear God, take this message to our loved one up above,
Tell Allen how much we miss him, and give him all our love.

Funds Approved For Child Care Center Network

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced this week Board of Public Works approval of a three-year $4,013,360 contract for a demonstration project to develop a statewide non-profit child care resource network.

Planned to cover the state, the network will be created by a public-private partnership. The demonstration project will include a state center clearing house and three regional child care resource centers. They will deliver a variety of services designed to improve and expand child care resources, according to the Department of Human Resources, Office of Family and Child Development.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions and other procurement actions.

"Adequate child care resources are vital to working parents, especially single parents struggling toward independence," the governor said. "This project, to link up and expand available child care resources, will greatly improve their opportunities."

The contract services will be provided by the Maryland Committee for Children of Baltimore, a non-profit agency. State funds will be contingent on private donations.

Commenting on the award Secretary of Human Resources Carolyn W. Colvin noted, "Provision of adequate child care is one of the keys to Project Independence, our efforts to move welfare clients into the mainstream of Maryland life. To find, coordinate and manage the network of care providers is a large and challenging task. This contract will allow us to serve our clients and their children better."

Yeutter Announces Provisions Of The 1989 Crop Disaster Program

On September 1, Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter announced the provisions of the 1989 crop disaster program and stated that payments will be made in generic commodity certificates. The program will be administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"We stand ready to implement the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989 in a timely manner," Yeutter said. "Our ASCS field staff will process disaster payment requests as quickly as possible to get financial aid to those farmers who have suffered crop losses due to drought, excessive moisture and other perils."

Producers who suffered crop losses because of adverse weather or related conditions in 1988 and 1989 may be eligible for 1989 crop disaster payments, which are expected to total about $900 million, Yeutter said.

Additional provisions of the 1989 disaster program are:

Applications for payments will be accepted by ASCS county offices September 15 through April 2, 1990. To qualify for disaster payments, producers must submit production records no later than April 27, 1990.

The value of a replacement crop will be used to determine the producer's disaster payment for losses on the first crop. However, the value will be determined by reducing the actual replacement crop production by 25 percent, then multiplying the result by an average market price.

Producers who are prevented from planting crops or whose crops are planted and subsequently fail on land in a flood or flowage easement area will be eligible for disaster benefits even if such losses result from flooding.

Honey producers will be eligible for crop loss payments based on the difference between actual production per hive compared with historical production.

Producers will not be permitted to use multiple peril crop insurance yields for determining losses under the 1989 disaster program.

Additional disaster payments to producers will not be made on crops that suffer losses resulting from reduced quality other than on nonprogram crops which are considered unmarketable. Seventy percent of the production that is determined unmarketable by the county ASC committee will be excluded in calculating disaster benefits.

Replanting assistance is available in the form of a cost-share payment for orchard and nut trees planted at any time to produce annual crops for commercial purposes that died because of freezing or a related condition in 1989.

Cost-share payments are available to replant seedlings planted in 1988 and 1989 for the production of trees for harvest for commercial purposes that died in 1989 because of drought or a related condition.

Under the emergency feed assistance program, producers will now be allowed to purchase farm-stored feed grain pledged as collateral for Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) price support loans.

General crops, their loss criteria, and payment rates (in that order) are as follows:

Program crops: with crop insurance, 35-100 percent loss, 65 percent of target price; no crop insurance, 40 to 100 percent loss, 65 percent of target price.

Program crop nonparticipants, 50 to 100 percent loss, 65 percent of price support level.

Sugar, tobacco and peanuts, with crop insurance, 35-100 percent loss, 65 percent of price support level; no crop insurance, 40 to 100 percent loss, 65 percent of price support level.

Soybeans and sunflowers, 45 to 100 percent loss, 65 percent of market price.

Nonprogram crops, 50 to 100 percent loss, 65 percent of market price.

Farming In Maryland ..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Right To Farm Is Conference Theme

Do you have the right to farm?

That will be the theme of the 16th annual Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference to be held December 13 at the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium.

The program will focus on zoning, farmland preservation, the use of pesticides and agricultural "public relations."

More details will be announced later. The conference planning committee is scheduled to meet again Friday, September 15, at the Baltimore County Extension Office.

USDA In The Market For Cheese

In July, USDA announced invitations for offers to sell seven million pounds of processed American cheese to the CCC. Strong market conditions have led to large reductions in cheese purchases by CCC. As a result, current stocks are inadequate to meet the needs of ongoing feeding programs.

This is causing USDA to enter the market in an attempt to fill its needs. So far, it has had problems filling this order, as most offers were rejected due to price.

A total of 74,000 pounds of pasteurized processed American cheese has been purchased so far at a price about 30 cents above the announced support purchase price. Wholesale prices currently are running well above the cheese purchase price paid by USDA.

July M-W Jumps $.43

The average July price paid for manufacturing milk in Minnesota and Wisconsin was $11.82 per hundredweight. The average fat test for the milk was 3.54 percent, so this converts to a M-W price of $11.76 for milk with a 3.5 percent fat content.

The July average is 43 cents higher than last month and $1.24 above last year's July average.

The increasing prices are a result of strong demand for dairy products and tight supplies in most areas. Dairy Analyst Ken Olson says it's interesting to note that even though the support purchase price for butter dropped 11.5 cents on July 1, the price for butter on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange actually has increased three cents since that time. The current market price for Grade AA butter of $1.3350/pound compares to a support price of $1.2050/pound. During July CCC sold back 4.7 million pounds of butter to the trade.

Other good news for dairy producers is the milk feed price ratio increased for the third month in a row. The average for July was $1.35. This is up from $1.24 last month and $1.15 last July.

Hints To Growers

Extension Agent, Agriculture Science

Storage of Vegetables

Cabbage: Late fall or winter cabbage can be stored effectively several ways. After the cabbage is fully mature, and the weather is cool, or after the first night of frost, pull up with root attached, discarding the loose outer leaves and checking for insect infestation. Cabbage has a strong odor which can permeate other produce or spread through the house. In cellars, they can be hung up by their root, or wrapped in several sheets of newspaper tied with a string, and placed in a crate or box. Outdoor pits, trenches, and buried containers are all effective storage places.

Potatoes: Both early and late varieties of potatoes can be stored, but the late varieties can be held much longer. Harvest after the vines have died down completely and when the ground is dry. Dig carefully to avoid bruising and allow the surface to dry. For 10 to 14 days after harvest they should be cured at 45-60 degree F. in darkness. After this period, the optimum storage temperature is 40 degree F., lower temperatures tend to turn the starch to sugar and sprouting will occur. As the optimum temperature is higher than for most root crops, keep potatoes high up in the cellar if possible. In cellars they can be stored in crates or bins. Culling will be easier if they are not piled deeper than 12-18 inches. Potato sprouts should be removed when they appear, usually toward the end of winter. Early sprouting indicates too high storage temperatures, but may also be caused by gas given off by apples. Avoid storing apples and potatoes together as potatoes can also make apples musty. Potatoes turn green and become bitter if exposed to light. Cut off the green parts and discard.

Winter Squash and Pumpkins: There are many flavorful varieties of winter squash which can be cooked or eaten raw. The squash with the deepest orange flesh have the largest amounts of vitamin A. They must remain on the plant until fully mature. Maturity can be roughly estimated by pressure from the thumbnail on the fruit skin; if the skin is hard and impervious to scratching, the fruit is mature. Harvest squash and pumpkins before hard frost with a sharp knife, leaving at least one inch of stem attached. Fruit picked without the stem will soon decay around the stem scar. Handle carefully to avoid bruising the outer wall or stem. All winter squash and pumpkins should be cured in a warm, dry place for about 10 days at 75-85 degree F. and then stored in a warm (50-55 degree F.), dry area where the temperatures do not fluctuate too much. Examine every few weeks for mold; discard any contaminated produce and wipe the remaining squash carefully with a cloth made slightly oily with vegetable oil.

Reminder! — The Mt. Fresh Tailgate Market is open each Saturday morning in the Oakland Parking Lot. If you need fresh produce, this is the place to come. Bulk amounts, such as bushels, are available.

Experimental Alfalfa Test Plot Planted At GCC

A cooperative arrangement between the University of Maryland and Garrett Community College has resulted in the recent planting of an alfalfa variety test plot on college property in McHenry. The plot, consisting of approximately one-fourth acre, will serve as an experiment farm to test various types of seed.

Twenty different varieties of alfalfa have been planted in the area which is divided into small sections. Some of these are commercial varieties currently available and some are experimental varieties currently being developed by various seed companies. Seed companies depend upon this kind of research to improve new varieties and expend their markets for existing types of seeds.

The project actually began last spring when Garrett County Cooperative Extension Agent Jim Simms and GCC Liaison Ed Norman laid out the plot boundaries and took soil samples for analysis by the University of Maryland agronomy lab.

Before the plot was planted, the ground was plowed by Bob Lacy, worked several times, and fertilized to ensure an ideal seedbed and proper soil fertility. The planting was done under the direction of Dr. Lester Vough, Extension agronomy specialist for forage crops, University of Maryland.

According to Norman, the idea for the plot was originally conceived by Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president, and Extension Agent Simms to provide useful information to area farmers. Plans are now being made to conduct research on corn crops beginning next spring.

EXPERIMENTAL ALFALFA PLOT AT GCC — An alfalfa variety test plot containing 20 varieties has been planted at Garrett Community College to provide useful information to area farmers. The project is in cooperation with the University of Maryland and spearheaded by Dr. Steve Herman, of GCC, and Jim Simms, Cooperative Extension agent. Ag Affairs Assume Separate Identity At University Of Md.

The agricultural affairs office in the University of Maryland System took on a new organizational structure and a new name beginning September 1. On that date, the Office of Vice Chancellor for Agricultural Affairs officially became the Office of Vice Chancellor for Agriculture and Natural Resources.

This new structure replaces one which has been in place since 1985. It is intended to provide a more statewide presence for agriculture and natural resources at the University of Maryland. To help achieve this aim, the vice chancellor's office has been separated from the offices of the dean for agriculture and the dean for life sciences at the University of Maryland in College Park.

The new structure will broaden relationships among the Cooperative Extension Service, the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station and the 11-campus University of Maryland System, according to Dr. Raymond J. Miller, who now becomes vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources.

Dr. Miller had held the three positions of vice chancellor for agricultural affairs, dean of the College of Agriculture and dean of the College of Life Sciences since 1986.

Miller notes that Agriculture and Natural Resources — comprised of Cooperative Extension and the Agricultural Experiment Station — constitutes one of the larger entities in the University of Maryland System budget. It is the largest non-campus entity in the system.

Dr. Craig S. Oliver is director of the Cooperative Extension Service, and Dr. Robert A. Kennedy is director of the Agricultural Experiment Station. Both are associate vice chancellors for agriculture and natural resources in the University of Maryland System.

The Experiment Station has embarked on its second century of research, while the Extension Service recently observed 75 years of education and public service to the people of Maryland. Together, these units have offices or research and education centers at 35 locations throughout the state. The locations include every Maryland county, plus the city of Baltimore.

"These are exciting times," Miller declared, in announcing the new organizational structure. His recent memorandum to Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty and staff presented a wide array of recent achievements and new developments.

New Directions

Highlights of that memorandum include the following:

The International Development Management Center, which operates under Agriculture and Natural Resources in the University of Maryland System, will open an office this fall in Bangkok, Thailand. Office personnel will work with the Thai government to help re-

July Dairy Prices Up

The average prices for all milk, replacement cows, cull cows and baled hay were up in July compared to last year, USDA reports. It also reports the index of prices paid by farmers was up 3.9 percent from last year, while the index of prices received climbed 9.4 percent.

The USDA also reported that in the July cattle inventory, the number of U.S. milk cows had dropped to 10.1 million.

This is down one percent from last year and three percent below 1987. Heifers, 500 pounds and over, being raised for milk cow replacements, were 4.5 million, up two percent from last year, but are still two percent below 1987 figures.

Points of Interest

Last week I Attended the Agricultural Field Day at the Western Maryland Research and Educational Center and picked up a couple of interesting items to pass along to you.

There is a relatively new variety of apple on the market called "Gala." This apple is fast replacing the Golden and Red Delicious. I sampled the apple and it was very tasty and crispy. Also, the apple will store very well. At the market they sell for around $35 per bushel.

A new pear called "Nashi" (Japanese Pear), which looks like a yellow apple, is fast becoming very popular. The fruit tastes just like a good pear but has the crispness of an apple. It sells in the market place for around $85 per bushel.

If you're thinking of planting some fruit trees, keep this apple and pear in mind. I am sure you will enjoy the fruit.

When Do You Harvest Corn Silage?

The majority of the corn in the county is going to be later in maturing than usual. Hopefully, we can get a break in having a late frost. Harvesting corn for silage at the right stage of maturity is important for at least 3 reasons: 1) to get maximum yield of TDN per acre, 2) to have the moisture content of the ensiled corn at about 60 to 68% to ensure minimum field and storage losses, and 3) to ensure high palatability and maximum intake by animals. For maximum yield of dry matter and TDN per acre, corn should be harvested for silage when it reaches physiologic maturity. This is a point at which near maximum dry weight of grain has been reached. The most precise method of identifying physiologic maturity is to look for the "Black Layer" in the corn kernels. When corn reaches the point where all of the yield is made, several layers of cells near the tips of the kernels turn black, forming the "Black Layer." Break an ear, remove a few kernels, and split them lengthwise. If mature, a "Black Layer" will be visible near the tips of kernels. At maturity the grain contains 30 to 40% moisture. Under favorable moisture and fertility conditions, most of the leaves will be green and the grain will be in full dent stage.

by Pamela M. Adams, MS, CCC-A, Audiologist, Hearing Aid Specialist

When a hearing aid squeals, whistles, or squeaks for no apparent reason something is wrong.

A properly working hearing aid will whistle when covered with an object such as the user's hand, a hat, or a scarf. But if a hearing aid whistles in everyday use, it is a symptom of a problem with the aid. A loose-fitting earmold or poor-fitting in-the-ear type hearing aid, wax in the ear canal, or a malfunction of the hearing aid are all causes of "acoustic feedback", the whistling sound a hearing aid makes. Many hearing aid users can tell when his/her aid is whistling, but severely hard of hearing persons cannot always hear the whistle. A "whistling" hearing aid should be checked out by a professional who sells and repairs hearing aids. For hearing aid repairs or check-outs, contact:

SEPTEMBER IS CHOLESTEROL MONTH

Instead of writing yet another article on cholesterol, I would like to talk about nutrition aspects that I receive the most telephone inquiries about. Reducing cholesterol is equivalent to good nutrition. If that is not understood, then a person's diet may be low on cholesterol and possibly even saturated fats, but it can still be deficient in other aspects. An overload on salt (sodium), fat, sugar and cholesterol is seen as the most frequent culprit in the American diet. We also take in an abundance of protein (mostly red meat). Deficiencies center around calcuim and iron and possibly complex carbohydrates. If fast foods are a steady diet, then vitamins (aside of calcium) may also be in short supply or even missing unless the meals are chosen very carefully.

Commerically made foods and meals often contain too much sodium and fat. The most inexpensive fat used is animal fat, palm oil, palm kernel oil and coconut fat. Those are also the ingredients highest in saturated fat. This means that the advertising of: "No animal fat," "cooked in all vegetable oil," "no cholesterol contained in this product" may not mean much if you have to be concerned about cholesterol.

Only one thing will help you there — reading the label. Not the most exciting activity, I agree, but if you learn to look for specific words, it will not take much time or effort to bring home healthy foods.

A high proportion of saturated fats is contained in animal fats, butter, coconut oil, palm oil, hydrogenated shortening, real sweet or sour cream, whole milk, whole milk cheese. Low-fat cheese often contains a high amount of salt. Sugar may hide behind unfamiliar words like mannitol, sorbitol, turbinado sugar, inverted sugar, dextrin, dextrose, fructose, galactose, lactose, and maltose.

Salt is easier to identify — just look for sodium in its name: trisodium citrate, monosodium glutamate, anhydrous disodium phosphate, etc. Baking powder or baking soda also contain sodium.

A problem is, that, even though ingredients are listed in descending order of predominance by weight, you still will not know how much is in the food.

Vegetables can be grouped into most-to-least nutritious if one looks at Vitamins A, B2, B3, and C and the content of iron, calcium and carbohydrates. Spinach is highest, then collard green, sweet potato, potato, kale, winter squash, broccoli, asparagus, brussels sprouts, tomatoes, rutabaga, carrots, frozen green peas, sweet corn, cauliflower, cabbage, etc.

If we did the same thing with fruits, the list would look like this: watermelon, cantaloupe, mango, orange, grapefruit, banana, honeydew melon, strawberries, pear, peach, tangerine, apple, etc. We need to remember though that if we looked at specific other important nutrients, different vegetables and fruits might head the list.

Labeling on packaged food products is useful and informative, but may be misleading by omission. If a product claims that it has "more iron than milk" then we have to be aware that milk is a poor source of iron. If a product "does not contain sugar," it may still have honey or some of the other sugars from the list above.

If you have a specific question on nutrition, please write or call me, if of general interest I will use it in this column. The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers case of the week is the theft of an all-terrain vehicle in Grantsville.

On April 14, 1989, between the hours of 10:30 p.m. and 4 a.m., a Honda four-wheeled ATV and trailer were stolen from behind a residence in Grantsville.

The vehicle was a red Honda 250 Fourtrax model with brush bars and a basket on the front. The trailer was a dark green Cox tilt-bed trailer with white wheel rims. The total value of the stolen items in this case is estimated at approximately $3,000.

All leads in this case have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers is seeking the public's help. Anyone with information on this case or any other unsolved crime should call Crime Solvers at 334-1975. The caller may remain anonymous, and need not appear in court.

If a tip results in the arrest and charging of the criminal involved, the caller is eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

Reward Presented

A reward was recently presented to three persons for their tips which led to the arrest of two persons and the recovery of $10,211 in stolen property. Crime Solvers President Floyd Baker said, "Thank you to the people who made the solving of this crime possible. Please call us with your tips — you could get a reward too."

SUNNYSIDE-UNDERWOOD

Homecoming in the United Brethren Church at Underwood was held Sunday with a large attendance. Sunday School and worship were followed by a carry-in dinner in the pavilion. The afternoon service was opened by a welcome and prayer by the pastor, Rev. Michael Mudge. The choir opened the afternoon program by singing "What A Glad Reunion Day?" A brief period of testimony followed and two hymns were sung by Carolyn and John Foster. Becky Cummings' Sunday School class of small girls at Underwood sang a few selections. Joe DiSimone sang "How Great Thou Art."

Following this was a group from Rev. Harold Harmon's Church near Oakland consisting of Debbie, Doug, Danny and Danielle Gaither and Janet Wilt known as the "New Life Singers."

Tom Glotfelty presented two harmonica numbers and a vocal solo.

Closing prayer was by Rev. John Foster.

Rev. Mrs. Wilma Waybright, accompanied by her husband, Noah Waybright, and Delbert, Brookside Road, were in Sugarlands on Sunday where Mrs. Waybright conducted worship services and went to Elkins, W.Va., to visit with Robert Streets in a hospital there.

FSU Theatre Season Tickets Now Available

The 1989-1990 Frostburg State University Theatre season will soon get underway with season tickets now being available, announced Dr. Gary Cook theatre director. He explained that season tickets, which include all four shows, are available at a reduced rate and result in a considerate savings for area theatregoers.

Cook stated the first production will be the Craig Lucas comedy "Reckless," October 12-14. Linda G. McCulloch, assistant professor of communication and theatre arts at FSU, will direct "Reckless," which tells the story of a cheerful surburban housewife who is thrust into a comic nightmare one Christmas Eve when she suddenly learns she must flee her cozy home.

Moliere's farce "The School For Wives" takes to the FSU stage November 30, December 1-2 and will be directed by David Press, professor of communication and theatre arts at FSU. "The School For Wives," credited with reviving popular interest in Moliere today, focuses on Arnolphe, a wealthy, 50-year-old Parisian gentleman who laughs scornfully at husbands who are cuckolded and whose dominance of their home is challenged by clever wives.

The second half of the season opens with Cole Porter's renowned musical, "Can Can" (book by Abe Burrows). McCulloch also directs this musical production which will be presented March 1-3. Set in the late 19th century, "Can Can" deals with the creation of the controversial and racy can-can dance at a cafe operated by leading lady, Madame Pistache.

"The Middle Passage," a drama by Dan Rustin, closes the season on April 19-21. A new work which has been described by the Goodman Theatre of Chicago as "inspiring" and "stirring," "The Middle Passage" relays the struggle of a black slave, Phyllis Wheatly, the first woman writer to have her works published in Colonial America. Wheatley's poetic works and extraordinary wit and intellect made her an international celebrity.

All University Theatre productions are held in Compton Auditorium on the University campus and begin at 8:15 p.m. Robert Lewis Smith, FSU assistant professor of communication and theatre arts, is the designer for all shows.

For information or to obtain season tickets, persons may contact the University Theatre at (301) 689-4145, Monday through Friday.

Fables shares store space with Marsh Run Nursery, and "carries a little bit of everything," Patricia Henry, owner of the shop, explained. "We try to keep changing the inventory. We comb the area so we know what other shops are carrying so we don't duplicate the merchandise and we change the inventory very frequently. The shop really has a different feeling every week; it has to be seen to be appreciated." Fables carries handbags, Victorian linens, napkins, pillows, frames, pottery, china, botanical prints, rugs, lamps, home furnishings such as tables and chests and also blankets, bibs and bonnets for children. Fables is open every day except Wednesday for the fall season and new hours will be announced for winter. For more information, call 301-387-4242.

Foodland Supermarkets announced this week the kickoff of its 1989-90 "Food For Thought" program in which schools in the four-state area can obtain, at no cost, IBM computer hardware and software for educating their students.

Through the "Food For Thought" program, co-sponsored by IBM, any school collecting $175,000 worth of register tapes from Foodland stores in the participating areas that make a Foodland register tape deposit box and submit a photograph of it to the "Food For Thought" program by October 31, 1989, will be eligible to win one of 10 bonus certificates worth $20,000 in Foodland register tapes. As in the first year of the "Food For Thought" program, Foodland will also award a bonus to the school redeeming the highest dollar value in register tapes by June 1, 1990; five IBM PS/2 Model 25 computers, one PS/2 Model 60 computer and systems networking software, worth more than $25,000.

The Foodland "Food For Thought" program runs from September 1, 1989, through June 1, 1990, and is open to more than 1,700 public and private schools, with students in kindergarten through grade 12, in 27 counties served by Foodland Supermarkets throughout western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio, northern West Virginia, and Maryland.

Foodland Supermarkets is a leading chain of independently owned and operated food stores throughout the United States, including more than 100 in the four-state area offering the "Food For Thought" program. Schools wanting more information about the Foodland "Food For Thought" program may contact Bill Lawson, program coordinator, Wetterau Food Distribution Group, (412) 929-1479.

CONSTITUTION WEEK was proclaimed for the week of September 17-23 by the Garrett County Commissioners and representatives of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the D.A.R. (Daughters of the American Revolution). Constitution Week celebrates the "202nd anniversary of the signing of the Constitution provides an historic opportunity for all Americans to learn about and recall achievements of our Founders, and to reflect on the rights and privileges of citizenship, as well as its attendant responsibilities." All citizens are urged "to pay special attention during that week to our Federal Constitution and the advantages of American Citizenship." Pictured above, left to right, are: Paul Calderwood; Martha Kahl, registrar; Ruth Calderwood, Constitution Week Chairman; and Garrett County Commissioners Elwood Groves, John Braskey, and Ernest Gregg.

will receive, at no cost, an IBM Personal System/2® (PS/2®) Model 25 computer system, complete with a one-year warranty and professional on-site installation and training by an IBM certified education specialist. Schools can also redeem Foodland register tapes, at no cost, for an IBM PS/2 Model 60 computer system, an IBM ProPrinter, or for IBM software chosen from the extensive library of PS/2 education and business software.

"We're pleased to be able to help bring these educational tools into area schools again," commented David Soltesz, vice-president of marketing for Wetterau, Inc., the wholesale supplier to Foodland. "During the first year of the 'Food For Thought' program, Foodland awarded over $500,000 in IBM computer hardware and software to 300 schools. We look forward to an even more successful program during the current school year."

The 1989-90 Foodland "Food For Thought" program offers students and schools several new bonus awards. First, Foodland is sponsoring a student "Fast Start" award. The 20 students collecting the highest dollar value in Foodland register tapes between September 1, 1989, and December 31, 1989, will each receive a "Fast Start" award of a U.S. Savings Bond worth $1,000. In addition, Foodland will award a grand prize — a $5,000 U.S. Savings Bond — to the student who redeems the highest dollar value in register tapes by June 1, 1990.

Foodland is also sponsoring a "Deposit Box" contest for schools. Participating schools

Teachers, Parents To Weigh School Reform Ideas

Teachers and parents will be meeting throughout Maryland in coming weeks to evaluate the recommendations of Governor Schaefer's Commission on School Performance.

The Maryland State Teachers Association has shipped 50,000 copies of a booklet titled "Making Schools Succeed" to be used by its local affiliates in running workshops for teachers and parents at the state's 1201 public schools.

The booklet contains the full text of the Sondheim Commission as well as summaries of its recommendations to be rated on a scale of 1-5 (strongly disagree — strongly agree). In addition the booklet also asks parents and teachers to evaluate a number of other suggestions for improving schools taken from other educational reform reports.

"The purpose," declared MSTA President Jane R. Stern, "is to generate discussion and build consensus with the community on what should be done to improve our schools. It is important that teachers and parents be full partners with politicians in deciding the future of our public schools."

She said the association hopes to develop for the Governor and other public officials "a comprehensive statement on making schools succeed," based on what teachers and parents have indicated they need.

"We are grateful for this opportunity to respond to the Governor's commission. With faculties and communities united, we will have the backing we need to work effectively with the Governor, the General Assembly and the State Board of Education," the MSTA president said.

settle villagers in rural areas along the country's borders.

IDMC also operates in Jordan, Costa Rica, Malawi, Cameroon and Egypt. A five-year project was recently completed with the Caribbean Agricultural Research and Development Institute.

The Aquatic Ecology and Toxicology research group of the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory will join the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station early this fall. Five principal investigators and 12 support staff persons, formerly based at Shady Side, will bring with them a budget of more than $1 million in federal and state research funding. The team's new location will be at the University of Maryland Wye Research and Education Center near Queenstown.

Group members will add a new dimension to water quality programs of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station with their research on Chesapeake Bay issues. The group will be able to collaborate in joint research projects with Experiment Station scientists without duplicating other program efforts.

An environmental coordinator will begin work in the near future to help Extension educators and agricultural researchers work more closely with other state agency personnel in the realm of chemical pesticides, sludge disposal, water quality, etc.

The University of Maryland's Institute for Governmental Service, with its team of six professionals and two support staff, has become a part of the Cooperative Extension Service. The IGS provides consultation and assistance in solving state or local governmental problems.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service will participate jointly in a water quality demonstration project for the Monocacy River Watershed. The five-year, $1.9 million project will get under way about October 1. Headquartered in Frederick, its purpose will be to target nonpoint sources of pollution, primarily from agricultural runoff.

Maryland is one of the few states in the nation where the Cooperative Extension Service has formally established a separate faculty senate for its statewide professional staff. The group held its inaugural meeting June 27. One of its first tasks was to review separate appointment, promotion and tenure policies recently approved by the Board of Regents.

Automated telephone answers for gardening questions will be offered by the Cooperative Extension Service, free of charge, for Maryland residents beginning early next year. Live gardening specialists, publications, demonstration gardens and training seminars also will be offered at the new Home and Garden Information Center, located at the Clarksville facility of the Central Maryland Research and Education Center.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station provide research and education in a side variety of areas, including production agriculture, natural resources and the environment, human nutrition, financial planning and youth programs.

Each year, MCES and MAES review all of their programs to determine current statewide needs and concerns. An agricultural consulting council, with members from all major sectors of the farming community, meets twice a year to discuss new problem areas and provide input for future directions in research and extension activities. These inputs, and other information received through daily interaction with producers and consumers, provide the nucleus for continued advancement in meeting the needs of consumers and agricultural producers.

Former Local Teacher To Be Honored By PSC

Dr. Melvin L. Brown, Cumberland, a former teacher and coach in Garrett County Schools, has been named a recipient of the Alumni Achievement Award for 1989 at Potomac State College of West Virginia University. A member of the class of 1938, he will be honored at the annual banquet of the Alumni Association during the Homecoming celebration, Saturday, October 14.

Established in 1975, the Alumni Achievement Award is made annually to an alumnus of the College who has had a distinguished career of exceptional accomplishment.

Dr. Brown has achieved national and international recognition in the field of biology through his teaching and the publication of books and scholarly articles.

An Emoryville, W.Va., native, he is a graduate of Elk Garden High School. He attended Potomac State College and then spent a year at Shepherd College, after which he returned to Mineral County to teach from 1939 to 1941. While in the U.S. Army Air Corps, he attended Maryville (Tenn.) College in 1943.

He earned a bachelor of science degree from Fairmont State College in 1945 and a master of science degree from West Virginia University in 1948. In 1957 he was awarded a doctor's degree in biology from the University.

After graduation from Fairmont State College, Dr. Brown served as a teacher and coach in the Garrett (Md.) County schools from 1945 to 1952. While there he developed an outdoor education area and botanical garden through the activities of his science classes.

He then served as head of the science department of Beall High School, Frostburg, Md., until 1965. He was also a member of the summer school faculty at West Virginia University from 1958 to 1965 and at the University of Maryland from 1961 to 1964.

He joined the faculty of Frostburg State University in 1965 as professor of biology. He became department chairman in 1971 in which position he remained until his retirement in 1979.

He is presently a visiting professor at the University of Maryland and an adjunct professor at West Virginia University.

Dr. Brown was the recipient of three grants and contracts from the United States Forest Service and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The former dealt with the study of mycorrhizae-tree species association on bituminous coal spoil. The latter two grants concerned resin crystallization in relation to the feeding of the white pine weevil and clear-cut forestry practices in western Maryland.

Through a grant from the National Science Foundation at the University of Maryland, he worked in England in the summers of 1980 and 1981 and in the fall of 1982. His research took place at Kew Gardens as well as Oxford University and the British Museum of Natural History.

The results, dealing with the study of early plant collections made in Maryland prior to 1700, were published in HUNTIA, A Journal of Botanical History, Volume 7, 1987, by the Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation at Carnegia-Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Brown has two books to his credit produced with his research collaborator, Dr. Russell G. Brown, University of Maryland. They are not related.

Their first book was Woody Plants of Maryland, published in 1972 and revised in 1978. The second publication was a 1,204 page book titled Herbaceous Plants of Maryland (1984). It contains 32 pages of color photos taken by Dr. Melvin Brown of 270 individual plants plus 2,250 black and white drawings with labels. In their field work the Doctors Brown went into every county of Maryland to catalog the flora, which includes approximately 2,225 species representing 115 botanical families and 715 genera.

Dr. Brown has published many scholarly articles in journals and magazines, some in collaboration with colleagues in Maryland, Delaware, and West Virginia. He has also contributed papers to both national and international meetings and has served as symposia as well.

In 1979 he did a survey of Shale Barrens in Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy, and Grant counties through a grant from the biology department at West Virginia University.

He was a participant in the Third International Exhibition of Botanical Art and Illustration held at the Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation at Carnegie-Mellon University 1972-73.

West Virginia University honored Dr. Brown in 1984 when a new trail bearing his name was dedicated at the Core Arboretum. He received his recognition for his career as botanist and author as well as for his many gifts of plants to the University.

He has been a leader for 23 years on the West Virginia Wildflower Pilgrimage, sponsored by the West Virginia Garden Club, Inc. He maintains an arboretum on his home place near Elk Garden, where he has a large collection of trees and plants from all over the world, all tagged and identified.

Dr. Brown is a member of the board of directors of the Potomac State College Alumni Association. He and his wife, Mary (Blackburn) Brown, Class of 1941, established the Blackburn-Brown Scholarship at Potomac State in 1986. In the same year they set up the Earl L. Core Scholarship at West Virginia University in memory of the late professor of biology at that institution.

Among Carnegie Mellon Freshmen

Two local students are among 1,200 freshmen enrolled this semester at Carnegie Mellon University. Freshmen are enrolled in programs in one of five colleges: Carnegie Institute of Technology, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the College of Fine Arts, the Mellon College of Science and the Industrial Management curriculum in the Graduate School of Industrial Administration.

The local students are James M. Colaw, son of Dennis and Betsy Colaw, Oakland, who is enrolled in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, and Brian A. Ridenour, son of the Rev. Dr. Allen and Rita Ridenour, Charleston, W.Va., (formerly of Oakland), who is enrolled in the College of Industrial Management. Both are 1989 graduates of Southern High School.

In Loving Memory Of Our Son & Brother, Terry Wakefield, Who Passed Away Sept. 14, 1988

God took you home, it was his will.
Not a day goes by that we don't miss you still.
In tears we saw you sinking, we watched you fade away.
Our hearts were breaking for we wanted
you to stay.
But God saw your suffering and he knew you had your share.
And now we know you're at peace in his tender care.

$50,000 Grant Is Awarded To Local Hospital

U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski and Congresswoman Beverly Byron announced this week that Garrett County Memorial Hospital has been approved by the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) to receive a $50,000 grant under the Rural Health Care Transition Grants program.

The federally-funded program was developed by Congress and the Health Care Finance Administration to assist small, rural, non-profit hospitals and their communities in the planning and implementation of projects to modify the type and extent of services the hospitals provide; case management in cooperation with the Health Department; recruiting family practitioners and a private psychiatrist; financial impact studies; a community survey; and other activities, according to Larry Beck, GCMH administrator.

Garrett County Memorial was selected from 702 applicants for the grants, of which one in four was approved to receive grants.

Senator Mikulski and Congresswoman Byron assisted the hospital in securing the grant by writing letters of support to HCFA on behalf of its efforts to upgrade services.

"Western Maryland residents are entitled to the highest quality of medical care that is available," Mrs. Byron stated. "I know, for example, that physician recruiting in rural areas can be quite a challenge, so I am pleased to be able to help Garrett County Memorial Hospital in any way I can."

Jim Harvey, planner for the hospital, stated that similar grants may be expected over the next two years if progress is made with the first $50,000 allocation.

WHAT THE HAY?! We tried to tell our farm editor, Bernice Keppie, that she really should spend more of her time in the office and away from the farm. But she just wouldn't listen to us and now look at her! Actually, this is not Bernice. In fact, we're not sure who it is, but informed sources tell us that the victim has two-by-fours for legs underneath those hip boots. This photo was taken by Lisa Rook along the Wes White Road just south of Oakland, on the property of a farmer who obviously has a great sense of humor.

State Banjo, Fiddle Championships To Again Be Part Of Autumn Glory

Garrett County's 22nd Annual Autumn Glory Festival, scheduled for October 12-15, will once again feature the "Official" Maryland State 5-String Banjo Championship and the "Official" Maryland State Fiddle Championship.

Both championships will be held on Saturday, October 14, at the Southern High School Gymnasium. The Maryland State Banjo Championship will begin at 7 p.m. and, following intermission and presentation of trophies, the Maryland State Fiddle Championship will begin at approximately 8:30 p.m. Trophies and prize money will be awarded to first, second, third and fourth place winners of the Banjo Championships. Fiddle contestants will be judged in two ages categories — 60 and over, and 59 and under. Trophies and prize money for the Fiddle Championship will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in each age category.

Contestants for the Banjo and Fiddle Championships are from Maryland and the surrounding five-state area. Following the last intermission, winners of both contests will return for a "jam session."

Anyone wishing to enter these contests may do so by contacting the Autumn Glory Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948. Contestants may also register the night of the championships.

Limited seating is available for these contests, and refreshments will be served. Admission is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Advance tickets and more information may be obtained at Festival Headquarters.

Flu, Pneumonia Vaccine Clinics Are Scheduled

Influenza and pneumonia vaccines will again be available through the Garrett County Health Department Clinics in October and November.

According to a Health Department spokesman, the influenza vaccine protects against three types of influenza viral infections of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Accompanying symptoms may include fever, cough, chills, and soreness in the back, arms and legs. Most healthy people recover in a few days, however there are people who develop more serious complications. The people at greatest risk of serious complications include the elderly and people with health problems such as chronic lung disease, heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease, and frequent respiratory infections.

The pneumonia vaccine stimulates resistance to the 23 most common types of pneumonia. Like the flu viruses, pneumonia can be life threatening, especially for people who are elderly or have chronic diseases. The spokesman emphasized that the pneumonia vaccine is given only once and should provide lifetime protection.

The flu vaccination will be offered at a cost of $3.00. The cost of pneumonia vaccinations is covered by Medicare and persons not covered by Medicare will be charged according to income with the maximum cost being $12.

Clinics will be held as follows: Oakland Health Department, Oct. 10, 9-6 p.m.; Oakland Health Department, Oct. 17, 1-5 p.m.; Grantsville Health Department, Oct. 24, 1-5 p.m.; Bloomington Fire Hall, Oct. 27, 1-3 p.m.; Oakland Health Department, Nov. 2, 10-4 p.m.; and Grantsville Health Department, Nov 3, 1-3 p.m.

Award-Winning Organist To Give Concert At Zion

Award-winning organist Martin Jean will present an organ concert at Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, this Sunday, September 24, at 7:30 p.m. The concert is free and open to the public.

The concert is part of Zion's year-long observance of her 125th anniversary of affiliation with The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. The congregation has a pipe organ built and installed by the M.P. Moller Company of Hagerstown.

Included in Jean's program will be J.S. Bach's "Gigue" Fugue in G Major and the Tocatta, Adagio and Fugue in C Major; Cantabile by Cesar Franck; Variations on "America" by Charles Ives; and the Tocatta from Symphony 5 by Charles-Marie Widor.

In the fall of 1989, Jean began his appointment as instructor of music and university organist at Valparaiso University in

"Maryland, You Are Beautiful" Finalists Named

The Garrett County "Maryland, You Are Beautiful" committee has announced five finalists for the local honor for 1989. The five were selected from dozens of nominations submitted by the general public during the month of August. The list includes:

Thomas Browning, Oakland, who was cited for his involvement in church and school activities, civic organizations, scouting programs, and the rescue squad over the years.

Dale C. Harvey, Route 2, Oakland, whose personal and financial help for the homeless and his work with Alcoholics Anonymous caught the eye of the nomination committee.

Ida Maust, Accident, whose work includes several charitable causes, including Hospice of Garrett County, Habitat for Humanity, the House of Hope, and other organizations.

Lucile H. Sines, Friendsville, whose nomination was based on her years of "going the extra mile" with her students at Northern High School, her service for over 40 years as a church organist and her service as a member of the Friendsville Town Council, among other activities.

Charles F. Strauss Sr., Accident, whose long time involvement with Camp Hickory, his service as a member of the Forest Conservancy Board, and his work with the county's high school students through the forest conservancy workshop all figured in his nomination.

GCC Foundation To Raise Funds For Endowment

A major effort is underway to launch a community-wide fund drive to raise an endowment for Garrett Community College, according to Don Storck, director of Strategic Planning and Special Projects.

The state has introduced a matching grant program that will match dollar for dollar every private donation, up to $250,000. An endowment fund is a permanent support to the college, Storck explained. Under the state's program, the principal amount in the endowment fund may never be expended. Only interest and investment income may be spent each year. As a result, every contribution is a support for GCC in perpetuity.

A second feature of the GCC Foundation fund drive is the corporate challenge. Local corporations in Garrett County are joining together to issue a challenge to the community as they add their own contributions to the state match. An announcement is expected before October 1. The GCC Foundation anticipates the announcement that for every dollar donated up to the $250,000 ceiling set by the state, GCC will receive three dollars in combined matching monies from the Challenge Donors and the state.

To receive the full matching monies available, the GCC Foundation will hold a phone-a-thon during the weeks of October 23-November 5. Many volunteers are needed for this effort, Storck said, and interested persons should contact him or Susan Stem at the college, 387-6666.

At the All-college Forum this week, Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, kicked off the fund drive for faculty and staff by making a personal contribution of $1,000. He asked the faculty and staff for 100% participation.

The Board of Directors for the GCC Foundation now includes 14 people from the community. Officers are: Mike Belmonte,

State, County Jobless Rates Fall Significantly

Nearly 56,000 additional Maryland job-seekers were able to find work in July, enabling the state's estimated unemployment rate to drop from June's 4.3 percent to 3.9 percent, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

Maryland's July 1989 jobless rate is well below the 4.6 percent recorded for the state in July 1988 and it is the state's lowest unemployment rate on record for a July since 1970. Maryland's unemployment rate in July also remained below July's national estimate of 5.3 percent.

Garrett County's jobless rate dropped from 8.0 percent in June to 6.9 percent in July, over three points below the 1988 July rate of 10.2 percent.

"The drop in unemployment this month and the record levels of employment that we have seen over the past several months show that the current demands of our employer community are being met," said DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans. "However, at DEED, we are aggressively developing training and retraining programs that will enable the labor force to continue meeting those needs in the future."

Specifically, Maryland's labor force increased by 47,368 persons from 2,566,764 in June to 2,614,132 in July. Employed persons climbed by 55,942 from 2,455,688 to 2,511,630 while those unemployed dropped by 8,574 persons.

In Garrett County, the July workforce was 13,963 and there were 968 unemployed, compared to a June workforce of 13,544 with 1,082 unemployed.

The expansion in employment was most notable in construction, trade, services, finance and transportation industries. Seasonal employment gains

Lake Property Owners Reminded Of Draw-Down

Deep Creek Lake Manager Paul Durham this week reminded lake property owners that Penelec is drawing the level of water in the lake down to allow shore erosion construction work to be completed on Rock Lodge Road.

Durham noted that the water will be drawn down to 2,452 feet. On September 19, the level was at 2,456.2 feet, and the level will be dropped the remaining four feet between now and October 16.

He said, "This is of particular importance to the lakefront property owners who need to remove their boats and docks before that date. The drawdown is causing some inconvenience, but it is extremely necessary for Penelec's hydroelectric project needs."

Durham also noted that the lake levels may affect the depth of water at the boat ramp at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Anyone wishing information on this should call the park at 387-5563.

GCC Board Receives Financial Statements; Large Surplus Reported

Garrett Community College had its largest surplus of the eighties during fiscal year 1989 as the surplus reached $113,638. The Board of Trustees reviewed its financial statements for the year at its September meeting. John F. Culp, GCC Comptroller, said, "It was the best year we have seen at GCC since I have been here. The college had a substantial surplus, reduced its long-term debt to only $18,000 and had over 2.5 million dollars in unrestricted revenue."

The report was presented by the college's independent auditor and certified public accountant, Jim Murray, of Rodeheaver and Associates. Murray said, "Everything is positive about the college's financial statements for fiscal year 1989."

GCC's Board of Trustees had adopted a plan in 1986 to reduce its deficit fund balance by Fiscal Year 1992 and the college is well ahead of schedule in achieving this goal.

According to Culp, the significant rise in student enrollment and the budget measures adopted three years ago are primarily responsible for the college's improved financial standing. Credit enrollment was up nearly 30% and tuition and fees were up over 10%. Another area of significant rise was in Federal grants and contracts which includes student financial aid and federal grants. Federal grants and contracts were up 39% from $328,007 in 1988 to $455,643 in FY'89.

The college saw an increase in its plant fund for land, buildings, and improvements of $85,172. The increase was primarily attributable to the renovation of the old Mining Center to the new Community and Continuing Education Center. The furniture and equipment line rose $125,516 due to purchases including a new computer lab for student use.

One of the more noticeable improvements in GCC's finances was the long-term debt being reduced by 69% from $59,245 to just $18,490. The debt has been reduced by over $96,000 since 1987.

GCC president, Steve Herman wrapped up by saying, "The leadership in the Financial area has helped the college turn its finances from a liability to one of its greatest strengths." Herman thanked the Board of Trustees, the Faculty and Staff, and the County Commissioners for playing a major role in GCC's Financial Picture.

GCC, Builders Group To Offer Special Apprenticeship Training

When business people talk of the future, they often talk about high-tech, white-collar jobs. The same goes for most teachers and college professors who urge their students to pursue scientific careers or management positions.

But who is going to build all of those office buildings. Who is going to construct the roads that lead to all of those centers of high technology?

In order to help address these concerns, Garrett Community College has entered into an agreement with the Associated Builders and Contractors, Inc. (ABC), to provide a program that trains individuals in construction trades, engineering, and related fields. The program is somewhat unique in that the individual receives the training through actual employment during the day and classroom work two evenings each week.

"The average age of the construction worker today is 47, which means that in the not-too-distant future there will be a drastic need for men and women in that field," stated Joan L. Warner, director of education for ABC. "By 1990 in the United States there will be a need for 1.9 million new people in the construction trade. The concern is, where will they come from?"

ABC's apprenticeship training program is "comparable to college and provides both vocational training and education," Ms. Warner said. "Through the program, a person could possibly, at the age of 22, be a supervisor and make good money."

The program is open both to companies that want more training for their workers and to individuals who want to learn trade skills. People who are interested in the program, but are not currently employed, will be referred to area employers to apply for a job.

Ms. Warner said that the apprentice works during the day to receive on-the-job training, plus his salary, and then attends classes two nights a week from September through April. The program lasts for three or four years, depending on the field. Classes to be offered are carpentry; electrical; heating, ventilation, and air conditioning; masonry; plumbing; and sheet metal. Locally, the classes will be offered at the

Oakland Man Charged With Molesting Child

An Oakland man was arrested Tuesday in connection with the alleged molestation of a seven-year-old girl.

Richard L. Seeders, 20, faces charges of child abuse, assault and battery, committing a second degree sexual offense, committing a third degree sexual offense, and committing a fourth degree sexual offense.

According to police, the alleged molestations occurred on four separate occasions during a one month period.

Seeders' arrest followed an investigation conducted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and the Department of Social Services. A search warrant revealed evidence relating to the case, according to Detective Randy L. Sines.

Seeders was released on $25,000 unsecured bond shortly after his arrest, Tuesday evening.

CHANGING THE COURSE is the name of a new program of the American Cancer Society that is being incorporated into the food service program of the Garrett County School System. Above, a youngster at Broad Ford Elementary School selects one of the new a la carte "ice" items for dessert. Ice milk products and yogurt will be the only "ice" products served to elementary school students in the county in the near future. This change from ice cream is consistent with the objectives of the new program which is designed, in part, to reduce fat and cholesterol in school lunches. See feature article on page C-1.

Before And After School Child Care Plan Discussed At Meeting

A bill was passed this year by the state legislature requiring each county throughout Maryland to develop a before and after school child care plan. Public and private child care sectors met yesterday with the director of the Governor's Office for Children and Youth, Dorothy Harris, to discuss the development of the plan and other counties' approaches to solving child care issues.

According to Pat Carney, Department of Social Services, House Bill 187 was passed this year. The bill requires each county to submit a plan outlining before and after school child care to the state legislature by August 1, 1990.

Carney explained that a needs assessment has been done as a basis for the plan and that plans are being made to talk with private industries to see what their needs are as a basic beginning to delivering Garrett County's plan for before and after school day care.

Harris explained that the Office of Children and Youth, established in 1988 by law, is responsible for helping each county deliver the child care plan and that her main emphasis is that through parent education, prevention of not only child abuse, but also health concerns and other potential problems, can be accomplished. The legislature created a children's trust fund in 1987 to promote the prevention of child abuse. So far, 47 states have such a trust fund and the trust is funded through federal monies.

Maryland is developing a commemorative birth certificate which will be available to parents and grandparents at a cost not to exceed $25, the proceeds of which will go to the children's trust fund.

"The children's trust fund is a big promoter of preventing child abuse. It is easier to prevent child abuse than it is to cure it," Harris said.

She explained that as there just aren't enough resources to deal with child problems, day care captured the attention of government agencies because it is a problem for everyone, "whether they are rich or poor."

A public education task force has been developed, which hopes to come to each county to get the word out that child abuse can be prevented. The task force and the Office of Children and Youth has developed several tools for educating parents.

Posters promoting the prevention of child abuse have been made, which will be placed in buses and in other public places. Another more potentially useful tool is a handbook developed by the Office for Children and Youth which is given out to parents at hospitals throughout the state whenever the parents have a new baby.

The handbook, entitled "So There's a New Baby in Your Family," has informative and helpful tips on raising a baby for the first year and can be used and understood by any person, regardless of socio-economic level. Tips are given to parents on ways to make time for themselves and step-savers. Another section, on helping the baby feel good, gives suggestions on playing with the baby, knowing when to call the doctor and a checklist for safety proofing the house and also on finding good day care.

Another section has ways to involve the whole family in the care of the new baby and there is also a section listing resources to seek help from.

Harris said that the handbooks have been so well received that Blue Cross/Blue Shield will be underwriting the expense of the booklet.

Harris also explained what other counties are doing to develop child care.

Some of the more important items she listed include: Allegany County, which has developed a hotline for youth with problems. Carroll County is co-sponsoring a conference on youth suicide and also has a children's fair every year, which is very well-received. Cecil County has developed a program for the prevention of teen pregnancy. Frederick County has a drug abuse prevention program. Prince George's County has a family festival every year which is also very well-received and is planning a conference on pre-natal drug abuse. Queen Anne's County has a Christmas party for underprivileged children and also prints a calender outlining children's activities for the summer months.

One of the more important programs has been developed by Washington County, which has developed "child friendly centers" in departments like the unemployment office and health departments. The centers have toy chests and books with items for different age groups and the county has even had an artist make up a coloring book featuring points of interest throughout the county.

Harris explained that this program enables parents to bring their children with them. This is especially important for unemployed parents who cannot afford a baby sitter, yet are expected to not bring their children with them when applying for assistance, or when they do bring the children, the children are expected to sit still for an hour or more. She said that by teaching parents that a child can be expected to sit still for an hour or more, the parents are receiving the wrong message.

Brochures outlining programs and day care centers in Garrett County were also distributed. The brochures will be given to all elementary students in the county in October.

For more information on child care issues and the prevention of child abuse, contact the Garrett County Health Department or the Department of Social Services.

"We are trying to think of different ways to help parents because it is very difficult to be a parent," Ms. Harris said. "It is probably the most difficult job we can ever have."

Sanitary Board Meets Tuesday

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission met Tuesday evening for their regular monthly meeting.

Upper Youghiogheny

The Upper Youghiogheny sewer treatment facility was inspected this week, and was determined to be substantially complete. Numerous minor items need to be resolved before the final inspection. An electrical problem with the UV units must also be corrected before they can run properly.

Deep Creek Lake

Bids were opened this week for the Deep Creek Lake storage facility, and two have been received. The apparent low bidder is Carl Belt Construction with a bid of $1,029,666. The engineer has been instructed to review the bids, and two other parties must concur before the bid is awarded. An ARC grant was also approved for the project.

District administrator Wendell Beitzel reported on the number of equivalent residential units (ERU's) for the system. Currently, there are 2,215 active and 493 inactive committed ERU's. In addition, there is a provisional commitment for 1,470 ERU's if the home owners build their own storage facility.

The commission has set a limit of 4,600 ERU's for the system to be sure the facilty is not overloaded. They currently have requests greater than this limit. Beitzel noted that the requests will be processed, and a permanent moratorium will be placed on the system in the near future, except for those that were already committed.

Kitzmiller Water

The commission has been struggling with the operation of the Kitzmiller water system since a flood filled the water intake structure with leaves and other debris. Clean-up was recently completed on that system.

The commission is continuing to work on the design of a storage tank for the Crellin water system, and have acquired a site for the facility.

WVU Professor Faini To Give Lecture At GCC

A presentation by Professor Phil Faini of West Virginia University on "Origins and Role of African Musical Instruments" will be given in the auditorium of Garrett Community College at 7:30 p.m. September 27.

Faini will discuss the African roots of American music, showing how the music and instruments used in tribal ceremonies have become a legacy for African-Americans and part of the musical heritage that has influenced American culture.

The program has been planned in conjunction with the Festival of Africa art exhibit now in the college gallery, and is the first in the fall series of "America: Roots and Offshoots" sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. It is open to the public free of charge.

Faini, who is professor of music percussion and African music in the College of Creative Arts at WVU, is the director of the renowned WVU Percussion Ensemble which was selected by the U.S. State Department for a nine-nation tour of South America. On this tour the group did research, gave workshops, and performed in concerts and on television. The Percussion Ensemble was also selected to participate in International Exposition in Japan.

He is a graduate of West Virginia University, having earned a B.M. in music education and applied percussion and a M.M. in theory and composition. He has studied percussion with Roy Knapp, Erv Honsa, Jose Bethancourt, and arranging with Max Gerrard and Richard Marx.

Funding for the program on African music is provided in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, the Maryland Humanities Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for Humanities.

Three Arrested On Theft Charge

Three local residents have been arrested in connection with a theft which occurred at The Gathering Restaurant, McHenry, early last Thursday morning.

Charles R. Thomas, 24, and John R. Hamke, 19, both of McHenry, and Raymond L. Rutter, 24, Oakland, were each charged with theft in the incident. They were taken to the Garrett County Jail and released on their own recognizance on the same day.

Stolen from the restaurant were 11 bottles of liquor valued at $150. Eight bottles have been recovered.

Police reported that Thomas allegedly entered the establishment by climbing over a locked gate. The other two suspects then reportedly assisted him in transporting the liquor away from the scene.

The arrest was made by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Cornish Manor Restaurant will be closed until 4 p.m. for a two-week time frame, September 25 through October 7, in order to give the employees a well deserved vacation. Normal hours will be resumed Monday, October 9. 30-2t

Oakland Woman Sentenced For Uttering Charge

An Oakland woman was sentenced to two years in the Department of Corrections for a charge of uttering during a trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Rhonda R. Carr (Uphold at the time of the incident), 22, Oakland, pled guilty to the charge. Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer then suspended the sentence, fining Carr $500 and placing her on two years supervised probation.

Charges of forgery, felony theft, misdemeanor theft and conspiracy were not prosecuted. The charges were filed following a December 6, 1988, incident involving a blank check from Spanky's in Accident.

Uphold was represented by John R. Toston, assistant public defender.

In another case, Judge Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Beverly A. Beitzel, 34, Mtn. Lake Park.

Beitzel pled guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana, and her bail was continued. Charges of distribution of marijuana and conspiracy were not prosecuted.

She was indicted on May 8, 1989, following a February 2, 1989, incident in Mtn. Lake Park. She was represented by Robert C. Hesson.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Blair A. Baker, 24, Grantsville, after he pled guilty to a charge of distribution of marijuana. The judge continued his bail.

A charge of possession of marijuana was not prosecuted. Baker was arrested by Tfc. J.R. Thomas, Maryland State Police Narcotics Division, on March 4, 1989, in Grantsville.

Baker's attorney is Lawrence V. Kelly.

David W. Sines, 24, Frostburg, was indicted last Wednesday on charges of child abuse, third-degree sex offense, fourth-degree sex offense, and assault and battery.

A bond hearing was held for Sines on Tuesday, and bail was set at $5,000 full.

The indictment stems from a May, 1989, incident involving a nine-year-old female.

"Cardiac Arrest" Event Underway Today In Oakland

The "Cardiac Arrest," a fund-raising effort for the American Heart Association, is underway today at the former Ben Franklin building in downtown Oakland.

By calling 334-1292 today, as late as 4:30 p.m., persons can arrange to have someone "arrested" for "crimes against the heart."

These crimes include smoking, using too much salt, eating fatty foods, and not getting enough exercise, among others. A $25 donation by the caller will cover the "arrest" of two persons of their choice. The perpetrators are then brought to the Ben Franklin building to appear before a judge who sets bail. The "criminal" is then placed behind bars and, by calling friends, can raise the required bail money to secure his freedom.

All proceeds from the event will go to the American Heart Association to be used for research, education, and community service programs.

The sponsors of the local "Cardiac Arrest" are Buffalo Coal Company and A&A Realty. Karen Spiker, of A&A is the chairman.

Dana Shimrock Is New Director Of GCC Library

Dana Shimrock, the newly appointed director of the library at Garrett Community College, comes to the college with 17 years of teaching experience in Pennsylvania schools.

A native of Pittsburgh, Ms. Shimrock received a B.S. in education from California University of Pennsylvania and recently completed a master's of library science at the University of Pittsburgh.

Of her new position she said, "I plan to concentrate on serving the students and introducing them to the new technology available to help them in their research. I'm excited about the new CD ROM technology and the Reader's Guide on disc. I see the need to develop a course in Bibliographic Instruction."

Ms. Shimrock says she has been impressed with her library staff and their willingness to cooperate and help the community.

Ms. Shimrock lives with her husband, Tom, an art teacher who has taught puppetry and stained glass courses at the college, and her son, Jesse, in the Cove area of Garrett County. She enjoys flower gardening, snow skiing, biking, and her current project of remodeling their home.

Choral Society Begins Rehearsals For Christmas

The Garrett Choral Society has begun rehearsals for its annual Christmas concert, according to Nancy Learey, director.

Rehearsals are held Sundays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Southern Middle School. Mrs. Learey said new members are always welcome and there are no auditions required.

The 1989 Christmas concert will be presented December 15, 16, and 17 at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. "We really have an exciting program planned," Mrs. Learey said, adding that details will be announced later.

The Society also recently elected officers to serve during 1989-90. They include: Lowell Leitzel, president; Tom Peterson, vice president; Alice Eary, secretary; and Bill Grant, treasurer.

Several Mishaps Investigated By State Police

Several local motor vehicle accidents were investigated by Maryland State Police at McHenry this week.

A two-vehicle accident involving a state police vehicle occurred on Saturday at 5:23 p.m. on Route 135.

According to reports, Richard T. Wilson, 24, Bloomington, an off-duty police officer, was driving a 1989 Chevrolet Caprice. As he pulled out from a private drive to cross Route 135 and enter the parking lot of Bull's Restaurant, he was struck by a 1989 Chevrolet S-10 Blazer driven by Donald E. Moran, 58, Westernport.

Moran's vehicle struck Wilson's in the driver's door, and the right rear of the Blazer then struck the left rear of the car.

Police reported that Wilson failed to observe the Blazer because of heavy fog. The incident was investigated by Cpl. Richard Graham.

Wilson was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by a police vehicle, where he was treated and released. Moran reportedly refused treatment.

Two Friendsville children were injured in an ATV mishap on Friday evening in a private yard east of White Rock Road.

Police said Joseph G. Hutzel, 7, was operating the vehicle, and six-year-old Alicia M. Hutzel was a passenger. The ATV ran into a fiberglass plant starter and overturned, ejecting both riders.

They were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a private vehicle, where a spokesman reported that they were treated and released.

Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated the incident.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Friday at 10:30 a.m. on Route 135.

According to reports, William E. Fitzwater Jr., 58, Deer Park, was traveling east on Route 135 in a 1989 Oldsmobile Delta 88. Steven W. Houser, 29, Deer Park, was northbound on the Boiling Springs Road in a 1985 Toyota Truck. Houser reportedly failed to grant the right of way to Fitzwater, striking his vehicle on the right side.

Police reported that both men were taken to Garrett Memorial by the Southern Rescue Squad. However, a spokesman there reported that they were not treated at that hospital.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman was the investigating officer. Houser was charged with failing to grant the right of way at the entrance to a highway.

Two vehicle accidents resulted in drivers being arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Bryan J. Vogeisberger, 19, Library, Pa., was charged following a single-vehicle accident Saturday night on the Mayhew Inn Road.

Police said Vogeisberger was driving a 1987 Ford Mustang when he lost control after a left turn. The vehicle began to slide, crossing the center line. The car ran off the right side of the road and struck a ditch before stopping.

Tpr. P.R. Brown investigated. Vogeisberger was also charged with failing to keep to the right of the center line.

Neither the driver nor a passenger, David C. Sloan, 31, Newark, Del., were seriously injured in the incident.

Robert E. Wilt, 24, Grantsville, was arrested by Tfc. G.R. Chaney following a single-vehicle accident on Grant Street in Grantsville early Friday morning.

Chaney reported that Wilt was driving a 1978 Chevrolet pickup truck when the vehicle ran off the road and struck a stone wall.

Besides DWI, Wilt was charged with negligent driving and operating a vehicle with unsafe tires.

Wilt was apparently not injured.

Mt. Top Career Exposition Night Slated At GCC

An event designed to help high school students plan their future education and careers will take place during the evening of October 9 at Garrett Community College when local high schools and the college sponsor the Mt. Top Career Exposition.

Planned by a joint committee of representatives from the Garrett County Board of Education and the College, this event will take the place of Career Day which was formerly held each spring. High school students, guidance counselors, parents, and representatives of colleges, trade and technical schools in Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, as well as representatives from the military, will be invited to attend.

According to Darlene Tressler, GCC member of the planning committee, several considerations led to the change in time of the event. One is that an early fall date gives high school juniors and seniors more opportunity to investigate colleges and career possibilities and to make their plans. An evening event allows more participation from parents of high school students, younger students, and adults interested in college, trades, or military opportunities.

The Mt. Top Career Exposition has been planned for the evening before the Allegany County Tri-State Night to facilitate the travel to western Maryland for representatives of colleges and training schools out of the area who will be attending both events.

This year's program will consist of displays in the college gym, beginning at 7 p.m., where representatives will be available to explain educational and career opportunities to interested persons.

Two seminars will be held in the auditorium, one at 7:15 p.m., and repeated at 8:15. One seminar on financial aid will be presented by Cissy VanSickle, Cindy Habel, and Katherine Kutler, from the financial aid offices of Garrett Community College, Allegany Community College, and Frostburg State University. The other seminar on college planning will be presented by Manning Smith of GCC.

Door prizes will be given away during the evening, including a scholarship to the school of the winner's choice.

Members of the planning committee for this event are JoAnn Vent, Jim Thomas, Ron Kuhn, Joanny Martin, Suzan Wolfe, Cindy Downton, Al Coviello, Hugh Friend, Manning Smith, John Leddon, Randy Paugh, and Darlene Tressler.

Purbaugh Named Head Of Puget Sound Foundation

John Purbaugh, a former resident of Oakland, has recently accepted the position of executive director of the Puget Sound Legal Assistance Foundation in Tacoma, Wash. This agency serves both Tacoma and the state capital, Olympia.

Since 1977, Purbaugh has been litigation director for West Virginia Legal Services Plan in Charleston, W.Va. During these years, he became active in environmental issues and served as president of the West Virginia Highlands Conservancy for two years. Under his leadership, the Conservancy successfully obtained congressional protection for several wild and scenic rivers in the state. As a member of an acid rain group in Washington, D.C., he had the opportunity to visit West Germany in 1987 to observe acid rain damage there and the measures taken to control it.

Purbaugh is a graduate of Southern High School, West Virginia Wesleyan College, and West Virginia University School of Law. His mother, Dorothy Purbaugh, and grandfather, Reaford Purbaugh, live in Oakland. He and his wife, Julie, and two children, Thomas and Emily, now reside in Gig Harbor, Wash.

A Major Blunder . . .

Anybody who reads this column, even on an occasional basis, probably knows that this newspaper is a great proponent of education and, in general, a strong supporter of the Garrett County Board of Education. However, we have a bone to pick with the board this week concerning the counseling situation in our two high schools.

Last year Southern High School went about two months without a third guidance counselor after a vacancy occurred. It was decided not to fill the vacancy right away, supposedly because it would be too "confusing" for the students to adjust to a new counselor. It was a perfect opportunity to hire a female counselor and logic would dictate that this is precisely what would be done. Instead, in a quick decision, a third male counselor was hired. So now, at Southern High School, where the female student population exceeds 400, there are no female counselors.

That's only half of it, though, because at Northern High School, where there is a male student population of over 200, there are two female and no male counselors.

We find this situation incredible. We want to state clearly that this column is in no way attacking the competency of the persons who hold these counseling positions. Every one of them may be highly skilled professionals. However, there is absolutely no doubt in our minds that a significant number of female students simply cannot and will not share their troubles with any male counselor. And they shouldn't have to.

Although we don't think it is quite as difficult for boys to talk to female counselors, there are still undoubtedly situations where a male counselor would best serve their needs.

We also understand that there was no advertising done to fill the vacancy at Southern. Yet we have two universities within an hour of Garrett County that have excellent counseling programs and graduate a number of competent counselors — of both sexes. Were they contacted?

This was a major blunder by the Board of Education, one that should be swiftly rectified. What is best for the students should be their number one concern in all matters.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County School Superintendent, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Dr. Ryscavage:

Before I go any further, let me introduce myself. I am a full-time working mother of two daughters. I have worked for 12 years at the same job. I am a single parent and I have not, and will never be if I can help it, on welfare. While I was married, I was on the day-care program through Social Services and my children were placed in a local day care home. Two years ago, I got off the day care program, however, my children (luckily) were able to remain in this same day care home which I have been totally satisfied with.

Let me state that according to Social Services, the federal government seems (or is this a fallacy?) to regulate who can take care of our children and how many hours they can WITHOUT being a registered day care person. If the person has not been certified and is watching your child(ren) over 20 hours per month, Social Services will step in and put a stop to it. I know this for a fact, as it happened to a friend of mine who had her babysitter turned in for not being certified.

Now, let me get to the point. For the past two years my children, who attend Accident Elementary School, have been riding bus 2A after school and getting off at the home of my day care provider on the Hoyes-Sang Run Road. Usually, there have been no problems with my special bus requests. This year it's different — they have been denied by the Transportation Department due to overcrowding on the bus. My question — now what do I do?

Let me also state that day care in the McHenry/Accident area is almost nonexistent; the ones they do have are filled. therefore by this denial, I am losing my day care provider and will be forced to place my children in a nonregistered home if it comes down to that.

Who is responsible? Everyone appears to be "passing the buck." The Transportation Department has not been allocated enough money to put new buses on the routes and appears to blame the Board of Education for not giving them enough money; the BOE blames the Commissioners for not giving the BOE enough money; and the Commissioners claim they give the BOE the money and its up to the BOE to allocate accordingly. I can understand all sides of this issue, however, what do I do in the meantime?

I'm very angry over the whole mess. I am losing my day care provider over this action by the BOE and now I don't have anyone to care for my young children while trying to maintain a good job. Talk about getting your head beat into a wall!! Social Services is telling you that not just anyone can watch your children — I'm caught between a rock and a hard place on this deal, now who will supply me with answers to this problem — will it be the BOE or will it be Social Services?

There are a few alternatives that can be taken:

1. The BOE/Social Services can meet my children at the bus stop and be with them until I get home from work and to be with them while I work on days there is no school and during the summer; or,

2. The BOE/Social Services can pay my salary in order to get off work to be at the bus stop to meet my children after school each day and to be with them on days there is no school; or,

3. I'll quit work altogether because I don't have a certified day care provider caring for my children and be another statistic for welfare.

I have heard talk about "latchkey" children. In my opinion, this is out of the question as my children are too little to be left alone for any reason. With overcrowding on these buses and the BOE's denial of special bus passes for children with working parents, could this not happen here? Shouldn't the BOE take special care with these requests in order for this not to happen in our society here?

The children are the responsibility of the parents. I am responsible with my two, however here I am having the BOE telling me my children can't get off the bus at the home of my day care provider and Social Services possibly laying in wait to pounce on who ever it is I find to care for my children who is not certified.

Once again, what do I do? Who is responsible in this matter? I need my special request approved for my children to ride this bus home in the evenings. Is anyone listening out there?

Sincerely,
Linda C. Browning

To the Editor:

As a concerned day care center and parents, we feel that the public has a right to know the difficulties we've had in trying to keep our children safe.

We have called, written, and requested to change the designated bus stop on Deer Park Avenue in Mt. Lake Park. We have followed the proper channels, but we have not received any satisfaction.

We feel that we have a legitimate right to have the bus stop changed back to the original stop due to unsafe conditions. The bus driver is in complete agreement with us. He feels that it is a much safer place to board children. He has even tried to change the stop back to Washington Avenue (our proposed stop).

As a registered day care center, we are responsible for boarding up to 12 children at any one time. The ages of the children range from kindergarten through third grade, but most of these children are in kindergarten and first grade.

The present bus stop is in a dip on Deer Park Avenue which offers very poor sight distance, especially since most of the traffic ignores the 25 mph speed limit. The traffic volume on this street is high since it provides a main artery in Mt. Lake Park. This route is used by people going to Dennett Road, Broad Ford, and Southern High Schools. Consequently, there is a large amount of "cruising" activity going on when school begins and lets out. This street has a substantial grade going into the dip where the present stop is located. Furthermore, this area becomes very slick during the winter. The few vehicles that do obey the 25 mph speed limit would still find it difficult to stop during times that the roads are icy or snow covered. Also, the children must cross the street to board the bus. Twelve children at the present bus stop location is unsafe and unnecessary. There has already been one high school student struck and killed by a car at this location. How many more children have to be hurt or killed before our plea is taken seriously?

We are not saying the walk is too long for the children. Our complaint is that there is no safe place for them to walk or wait except on the main road.

The reason our request was turned down was because the regulations guidelines say there must be at least one-fourth mile between stops. This is fine if sidewalks are provided, but there are none. Also, it is a fact that several buses have as many as three stops within a one-fourth mile.

We agree that some regulations are necessary. However, we feel that the safety of the children is much more important than some regulations that do not apply to every situation. Why is it okay for some but not others?

Why is it apparent that there are some people against day care centers? We've been told if we want transportation, then we should buy a van or bus. It is up to us to provide safe day care for children of working parents — not to transport children to and from public schools.

Sincerely,
Kiddie Korner

To the Editor:

I also am a working mother who has two children. One child is still with my day care provider. The other is a 6-year-old going to school. He rides Bus 64 in the mornings, but has been denied transportation on Bus 2A to my day care provider.

I'm sick to think grown people would let a 6-year-old go home with no adult supervision for two hours. I think something should be done in the Transportation Department.

Maybe there should be a day care at the schools. Then we working parents could pick up our children later, since they can't ride a bus to our day care provider.

A Concerned Parent

To the Editor:

I am a Garrett County day care provider located on Hoyes Sang Run Road in Friendsville. On September 5 I was notified by the Accident Elementary School that four of my after-school day care children would not be permitted to get off the bus at my home because of overcrowdedness. Several of my day care parents and other day care providers have notified Mr. Mike Sines and Mr. Jim Morrison (Board of Education) with no results. I was told that any decisions regarding this issue probably would not be resolved until the end of September. What do these parents do in the meantime?

Every September we face this problem. Normally the problem is straightened out the first week of school. In the meantime, some parents have had to either cut their work days short, allow their children to go home alone, or to use unregistered homes. I presently have one parent who picks up one child at my home and now has to go to an unlicensed home to pick up her other child. This is ridiculous! I really respect parents who use registered homes, but with this bus problem who can blame them for using an unlicensed home?

I feel this problem has been going on for too long. I think the problem should be resolved at the end of a school year. The schools already have somewhat of an idea how many kindergartners to expect and, with the exception of a few new students, this should not be a problem. Now all my day care parents who thought they had after-school care for their children were all of a sudden notified they don't. The law states that persons needing child care must use a licensed home or a relative for care. What if they can't count on relatives or in this busing situation can't even use a licensed home?

I urge all providers and parents in this situation to get involved and find out what you can do to help. Even if you presently have no problem, speak up! A lot of us didn't think this would happen to us either.

Thank you,
Debbie Workman

To the Editor:

I want to make it perfectly clear that I am appalled by the Friendsville Town Council decision of September 19, 1989. They decided to have a public hearing to rescind the zoning ordinance.

I wonder if the people of Friendsville understand what this means.

If the zoning ordinance is repealed, anyone from anywhere could buy, build or use a lot or building next to your home and use it for anything they want, like a coal washing plant, garbage collection area, or laundromat-car wash.

On August 15, 1989, I presented these findings to the Town Council of Friendsville:

1. Council President Joe Sessa is in multiple zoning violations.
2. Councilman James Spear is in zoning violation.
3. Councilwoman Alice Spear is in zoning violation.

You may also be interested that councilman Terry Spear is attempting to have his property zoning changed to allow a car wash-laundromat to be built across from my location. I say "attempting" because my landlord's other property is also adjacent to Terry's property. My landlord had the Circuit Court of Garrett County change a decision made by Town Council to allow Terry his zoning change from RI to commercial.

My landlord simply did not want a laundromat across from his possible future home.

I believe that council decided to have their lawyer give me a cease and desist order to my kayak-building business based on the fact that my landlord appealed councilman Terry Spear's zoning changes and won. I think Terry hoped that my landlord would see my hardship and drop his appeal. This did not happen; I am still unable to build kayaks here. It has been four and a half months.

The laundromat is not built due to the fact that a second appeal is scheduled for October 20, 1989, for the same zoning change.

Now, understanding that council members Joe Sessa, Terry Spear, Alice Spear and James Spear all have a possible personal interest that the zoning ordinance be repealed, can you see why these four people abstained from voting on this issue?

Only two town councilmen out of six voted. Mayor Schlosnagle was also in favor. I asked one of the two council members who did vote, why is the zoning ordinance being repealed? In short, she explained "because of the mess we have with zoning." I asked, "What mess?" She wouldn't reply.

In short, I think council wants to have the zoning repealed to save their own interests. I don't think that is a good reason. Why don't they just adopt a new ordinance that suits the communities interests and needs? Towns do this all across the United States as an update of law to accommodate the town's growth and needs.

If you just recently invested in commercial property in Friendsville, do you think that it will be worth the same amount now as it will be if the zoning is repealed? You may want to call your realtor or lawyer on this matter. Then, to those of you whom this may concern, you should make sure to be at the public hearing. The Republican is publishing notice of the hearing in today's issue (October 9, at 7:30 p.m.).

Imagine if Deep Creek Lake, Oakland, Baltimore, or Annapolis decided to do this. I hope they don't get any ideas.

Sincerely,
Jesse Whittemore

P.S. I also told the council that I would write a letter stating that I was against repealing the zoning ordinance.

To the Editor:

I'm an idigent inmate incarcerated at the Indiana State Prison. I'm writing to you in hopes that you will be able to help me with the predicament I find myself experiencing.

Being here since 1982 I've come to realize the vital importance of receiving mail and keeping "in touch" with the outside world. At present I have no one writing or visiting me. Those whom I used to have as friends, in fact anyone who I felt may remember some bond of friendship, have long since forgotten me, despite my many fruitless efforts at re-establishing some level of a relationship. I believe now that out of sight is out of mind. The realization of being forgotten does hurt. Therefore, my appeal goes out to you in hopes that you will publish my plea for someone to correspond with me. Loneliness is a devastating, very sad state of mind.

I'm a white male 42 years of age and single. I'm 5'9" and 175 lbs. I have black hair, brown eyes and sport a mustache. I am muscular in build as I am active in weight lifting and sports. I feel like I have a pleasing personality and not bad looking. I love music, play a rhythm guitar and sing. I enjoy seeing people smiling and happy. I try hard to create that type of atmosphere. Since here I've attending heating, air-conditioning and welding classes at Ivy Tech College. I am currently an active member with the Indiana North Western Jaycees. I feel like I'm taking every opportunity to better my self and put my life back in proper perspective.

I'm in great hopes that you will find interest in my situation and publish this in your paper. Who knows, maybe, just maybe, someone out there needs a friend too.

Thanking you in advance for your time and consideration.

Respectfully yours,

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

DRUGS: PUBLIC ATTITUDES MUST CHANGE
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

I recently went to the White House to hear President Bush talk about his new initiative to combat drugs. Drugs are a national crisis and a very serious problem in Maryland. As I listened to President Bush talk about his plan to deal with the crisis, I was again reminded of the very heavy responsibilities of his office.

His plan is a good start. It attacks the problem of drugs on several fronts — education, treatment and enforcement. Of course, there was some immediate criticism of his plan. And some people say that $8 billion to combat drugs is not enough. I say let's not argue about how to deal with the problem or about how much to spend.

It is much more important to take whatever resources we have and to make a start. We can do something about drugs in our neighborhoods and in our cities and towns. That's why we convened the drug summit in Maryland last May. More recently, we brought together representatives of the media — newspaper editors, radio and television people, publishers — to talk about drugs.

We brought all these people together to help us find ways to change the way people think about drugs. We want the citizens of Maryland to understand just what the problem is and what they can do — as individuals — to help us solve it.

In the past, during times of great national crisis — like World War II — our nation closed ranks. Partisan politics was put aside. Every citizen, the government, the media, all joined the war effort and supported our troops in battle.

And we should do that now. Everyone needs to get involved in our efforts to curb the use of drugs. The media can play an important role — just as it did during World War II — to help rally the nation.

I can remember movies, radio programs, songs and newspaper headlines that helped bring the people together to defend the country. That's what we need now to defend our country against the drug dealers.

I am very concerned that some people still don't realize just how serious a problem we face. I get very angry when I hear someone talk about the casual or "recreational" use of drugs.

There is nothing casual or recreational about drugs. Using drugs is not fun and games. People who use drugs — anyone who uses drugs — is breaking the law. Even if they only use drugs once in a while at home on the weekends. People who do this are a major part of the drug problem.

Why? Because these so-called "casual users" give people the idea that drug use is okay. They give people — especially young people — the very wrong impression that drug use is cool or smart.

When someone uses drugs at a party or when they are out with others, they give people the idea that drug use is socially acceptable.

They also help sustain the market for drugs. Anyone who buys drugs or uses drugs is helping the enemy in our war on drugs.

President Bush has given us a sound plan. It includes treatment for those who use drugs, punishment for those convicted of dealing in drugs, and action to cut off the supply of drugs.

In Maryland we will do whatever is necessary to support the President. Last year the General Assembly passed a series of stringent new laws aimed at drug suppliers. We significantly increased the penalties for drug kingpins, gave the state the power to seize assets gained through drug sales, and created drug-free zones around our schools. This year we plan to propose new legislation that will focus on penalties for the user.

Our message is simple: using drugs is not "cool", it's not smart, it's not grown up and it's not glamorous. Using drugs is dumb. It's stupid. People who use drugs or deal in drugs in Maryland are losers. They will be caught and, when convicted, they will be punished.

If you have ideas or suggestions to help us fight our war on drugs, or if you want to know what you can do to help us win this battle, I want to hear from you. I hope you will write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

moth control. However, integrated pest management should be the basis for all control measures, and restraint is needed with insecticide spraying. Dimilin is a highly toxic insecticide, and there is strong evidence that widespread spraying of Dimilin will cause devastation throughout the forest ecosystem.

We have made many mistakes in the past by declaring all-out chemical warfare on pests before we knew the consequences. (Remember DDT and the near-extinctions of dozens of bird species in the 50's and 60's?) Dimilin should be sprayed only on the "hot spots"

Among these were concerts at the cathedrals of Chartres, Orleans, Nice, St. Albans, Christ Church, Oxford, and Chichester. In the summer of 1988 he was invited to play at St. John's College, Cambridge, Luxembourg, and was the final soloist to present a concert on Radio France's series of the music of Vierne for the 50th anniversary of the composer's death. This was broadcast live over much of Western Europe.

All are invited to attend the concert, according to the Rev. Wilfred L. Karsten, pastor at Zion.

Innumerable items were removed from the residence. The total loss from theft and damage was estimated at $2,755.50. According to Deputy Jeffrey D. Marlin Lee Savage, Accident, reported the theft of items valued at $545 from his pick-up parked at Deep Creek Quarry between August 31 and September 2. Stolen items include a Stihl 041 Farm Boss power saw, a high standard .22 calibre 9-shot revolver with a 9.5-inch barrel, a brown holster, and a socket set. According to Deputy Jay B. Family Crisis Center To Start Special Program

The Garrett County office of the Family Crisis Resource Center, Inc., announces the forming of a new Informational Group for Adult Survivors of Child Sexual Abuse (incest). The group will meet on Thursday mornings, starting October 12 and continuing for 12 weeks.

"Incest is an act of violence disguised by declarations of love," stated a Center spokesman. "It is the most extreme form of oppression and denial of human rights involving a totally powerless person — a child. Studies indicate that on an average, incestuous relationships last from five to seven years before being identified by authorities. The emotional scars caused by the incestuous relationship may last a life-time without some type of intervention. Even though the assault is rarely a violent attack, submission is usually obtained through coersion and bribes. Guilt and the feeling of responsibility are often carried over into adulthood and tend to affect interpersonal relationships.

"As adults, many survivors have learned coping strategies that are not always healthy," the spokesman continued. "Some experience confusion, depression, feelings of guilt and shame, low self-esteem, addictions and difficulty dealing with the day-to-day concerns. The purpose of this group is to begin the healing process by first acknowledging and discussing this, up until now, taboo subject."

The topics will include family dynamics, myths and facts, victimization, self-esteem, changing the "blame the victim" mentality, the healing process and empowerment.

To register for this group, persons should call 334-9701 to make an initial individual appointment before October 6. There is a limited number of openings.

He has been musical director for Cumberland Summer Theater, Frostburg State University Theater, and Garrett Lakes Arts Festival productions, director of the Cumberland Bicentennial Pageant, the Mt. As director of Developmental Studies, McDowell will supervise the testing and placement of students in developmental courses, the scheduling of those courses, and the faculty who teach them. Of his new role he said, "I am excited about the opportunity to help such a broad spectrum of students. I see this as a chance to create a brand new learning environment for a host of student needs."

Women Voters Meeting Slated

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will hold its monthly public meeting on Monday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

Guest speakers will be Pat Carney, assistant director for services; Paula Seaman, president of the Garrett County Day Care Association and a home-based day care provider in McHenry; and Linda Ritchey, director of Kiddie Corner.

Further information may be obtained by calling chairperson Theresa Hannibal at 387-5294.

A spokesman for the group said, "America can no longer afford to ignore the immense need for affordable, quality child care. Of the 26 million families in the United States with children under the age of 14, nearly 20 million would benefit from a comprehensive national child care policy. Establishing such a policy must be a domestic priority in the 1990's.

"Of the many federal proposals dropped into the congressional hopper during the past two years, only the Act for Better Child Care (the ABC bill), just passed by the U.S. Senate, includes a framework for a broad federal child care policy. It would help states to increase the availability of, and access to, child care by funding grants and loans for building renovation, salaries for child care providers and resource and referral networks."

The spokesman noted, "The League of Women Voters strongly supports such a comprehensive approach to meeting American families' child care needs and encourages citizens and elected officials to get behind this bill as it moves through the 101st Congress."

Bike-A-Thon For St. Jude's Set In Aurora

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Charlotte Strawser has agreed to be coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in Aurora, W.Va., on October 7.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, nondiscriminatory, and provides total medical care to all patients.

All findings and information gained at the Hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to research at St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live, according to a St. Jude spokesman.

The Bike-A-Thon program this year is dedicated to Ellen Marie Haynes, a five-year-old solid tumor patient at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Persons interested in participating in or assisting with the Aurora Bike-A-Thon are asked to contact Mrs. Strawser at (304) 735-5867.

SCHOOL NEWS

Mrs. McConnell's third grade class had a special treat on September 11, when four grandmothers came to the class for a visit.

Dortha Short told of her experiences in a one-room school she attended in Preston County. Edna Britton read her granddaughter's favorite story, becoming a celebrity reader for September. Ruby Ringer told how she had gone to school in what is now the Wright's Funeral Home.

Each of these grandmothers told how important they felt reading is. They each had a different experience in high school. One grandmother went to a vocational high school in Baltimore, another moved to Michigan where she went to high school, and another had to board in town to go to high school.

The students also learned how different their town of Terra Alta was several decades ago.

Special Army Units To Appear In Burlington

The snappy U.S. Army's Old Guard and three other units of the world famous 3rd Infantry from Washington, D.C., will headline the 16th Annual Apple Harvest Festival Grand Feature Parade set for 4 p.m. on Saturday, September 30, along Rt. 50, at Burlington, W.Va. A field show and military demonstration will immediately follow the parade on the Festival grounds at the Burlington United Methodist Home for Children and Youth.

Along with the Old Guard, internationally famous for its perpetual and distinguished service at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the Arlington National Cemetery, will be the Old Guard Fife and Drum Corps and the U.S. Army Drill Team, both of which are making return command performance appearances for the second year. In addition, the Continental Color Guard, a fourth unit not previously seen at the Festival, will also appear on Saturday.

The Continental Color Guard has a heritage dating to the early days of the nation. Clad in uniforms symbolic of the Revolutionary War era, this unit carries the National Color, the U.S. Army Color, and the Color of the parent unit, the 3rd Infantry Old Guard.

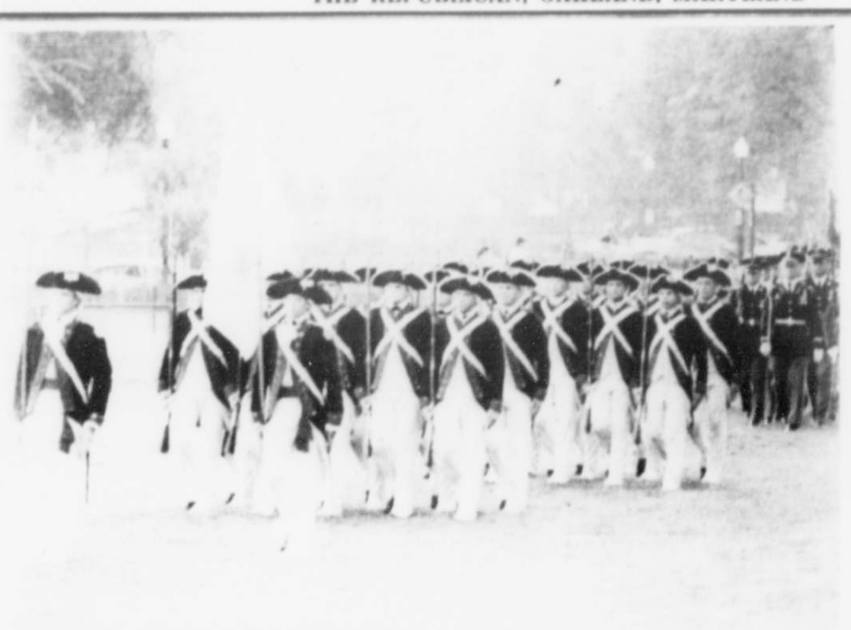
The famous Old Guard, so named in 1847 by General Winfield Scott, is the oldest active duty infantry unit in the U.S. Army. It is the Army's official ceremonial unit and escort of the President of the United States. It is subject to a momentary call from the White House and often serves as a security unit for key leaders and international figures. While it maintains a rigorous ceremonial role, it also maintains expert tactical and technical proficiency serving the nation with distinction as history records.

Appearing with the 3rd Infantry will be the Old Guard Fife and Drum Corps which is the only unit of its kind in the U.S. Armed Forces. Wearing uniforms similar to those worn by the musicians in the Continental Army, they carry instruments like those of the 1700s.

The field show will feature the U.S. Army Drill Team which has earned international acclaim over more than a quarter century of exhibitions. They carry out breath-taking and daring routines with bayonet-tipped 1903 Springfield rifles.

Other features of the two-day Festival include an expanded 30-class horse show; a vintage auto show with some 125 models; a new second tent full of additional arts and crafts demonstrations and exhibits; the traditional large flea market; a quilt show in one of the buildings on the Festival grounds with over 100 antique and modern entries; a novelty auction; continuous entertainment; a variety of foods; apple cider and other apple products; a Postal Philatelic Cancellation Stamp; a King and Queen Pageant; a bow hunters' competion; a muzzle loaders' shoot; an ox roast; and the famous Burlington Old Fashioned Apple Butter which is made on the grounds with West Virginia apples in huge copper kettles. The Festival will conclude on Sunday evening, October 1. It has grown into a widely supported community event which was started by the Burlington Children's Home Auxiliary in support of its child care ministries. The Festival has become a major fall attraction in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle and draws its audience from a number of surrounding counties and states.

A free Festival schedule and descriptive brochure is available upon request at Festival Headquarters, P.O. Box 96, Burlington, West Virginia 26710; phone (304)o 289-3511.



THE WORLD FAMOUS OLD GUARD and three other 3rd Infantry Army units will appear in Burlington, W.Va., at the 16th Annual Apple Harvest Festival on the grounds of the Burlington Children's Home. Known for its distinctive service of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the unit will lead the Festival's Grand Feature Parade and give a field show performance on Saturday, September 30. The Festival runs through Sunday, October 1.

Twenty-seven of the region's top water skiers, representing four states, participated in the American Water Ski Association slalom tournament last weekend on Herrington Manor Lake. According to Ray Humphrey, president of the Western Maryland Water Ski Association, the water conditions for the event were "perfect."

Local skier Dale Carpenter, Deep Creek Lake, former national champion in barefoot competition, placed first in the men's 36 miles-per-hour division, collecting 2,460 points in the three rounds of competition. He was the defending champion in the Western Maryland event.

Sam Ingram, also local, finished second with a score of of 2,100, followed by Tom Mills, of West Virginia, 1,910; Micah Knouse, Morgantown, W.Va., 1,806; and Rob Stilley, of Pennsylvania, 940.

In the men's 34 mph division, Richard Maldies, Annapolis, placed first with a score of 2,205. Maldies also had the best single round performance in the tournament, navigating two and one-half buoys at 32 feet with a 75-foot line.

Gerry Swoyer, Cheat Lake, W.Va., was second with a score of 1,987, followed by Brad Blankenbeckler, Huntington, W.Va., 1,196; Craig Kauffman, Berlin, Pa., 950; and Kurt Kiser, Bowie, 804.

Amy Sheets, Cheat Lake, won the women's 34 mph title with 2,005 points. Lori Rittenhouse, Yough Lake, Pa., was second with a score of 1,315 and Jean Blankenbeckler, Huntington, W.Va., placed third with a score of 881.

Humphrey said that four more participants qualified for the 1990 regional championships, which will be held on the South River in Annapolis.

MARUCCI FAMILY HONORED — The Alfred "Blue" Marucci family, Oakland, was paid special tribute during halftime of the Southern-Central Preston football game last Friday evening for having cared for the Southern football field and supporting Southern athletics in numerous other ways for over 25 years. The outstanding quality of Southern's field, unsurpassed in the region, is due primarily to "Blue" Marucci's expert care and maintenance. He donated thousands of hours and considerable personal funds to maintain the field for more than two decades. Arthur Refosco, principal of Southern, presented a plaque to the family during the ceremony. Pictured left to right are Al Marucci, Mark Marucci and his son, Regis, Refosco, "Blue" Marucci, and Margaret Marucci.

The Northern High junior varsity Huskies chalked up a big win for their program Monday evening when they traveled to Cumberland and whipped the Allegany jayvees, 26-14.

Northern quarterback Chad Anderson picked the Campers' secondary apart by throwing for four touchdowns.

Doug Brenneman was on the receiving end of Anderson's scoring tosses in the second half, including a 20-yarder in the third period and a 27-yard strike in the final quarter. Bittinger tacked on the two-point conversion on the third touchdown.

Rams Roll Past Cavaliers; Preparing For Musselman

The Southern High Rams dominated visiting Central Preston Friday night, 33-12, to record their second win against no losses, as Billy Welch paced the Ram offense with 154 yards on 25 carries and three touchdowns. The win was a costly one for the Rams, however, as starting senior quarterback Marshall Pike sustained a broken hand.

Southern wasted no time putting the first points on the board as Welch carried the ball seven out of eight times on the opening drive and capped the effort with a four-yard touchdown run at the 8:22 mark of the first quarter. John Milligan booted the extra point.

The Southern defense, which limited the Cavaliers to a minus 17 yards rushing and just 86 yards in total offense, forced Central to punt on the next series and took possession on the Ram 48. Ten plays later, Welch scored again from four yards out with 2:09 remaining in the quarter. Milligan's kick for the conversion was no good.

After another Cavalier punt, the Rams struck again, this time on a 48-yard drive with Mike Dever going into the end zone from the three. Welch ran for the two-pointer. A 25-yard pass from Pike to Mike Freyman was among the plays in that drive.

The next Southern threat was halted by a fumble on Central's 28-yard line.

With just seconds remaining in the half, Milligan attempted a 38-yard field goal, but it was partially blocked, leaving the score at 21-0 at halftime.

Central was again forced to punt early in the second half and Southern moved down the field again, this time in 10 plays culminating with a five-yard scoring run by Dever at the 5:22 mark of the third period.

The Rams' final touchdown came at the 1:26 mark of the third when Welch ran 14 yards to paydirt.

Milligan's conversion attempts on the final two touchdowns were no good.

Central Preston finally put some points on the board when Clifton Colebank scored on an 18-yard run with 33 seconds left in the third quarter.

The final Cavalier score was recorded in the fourth period when Travis Jennings returned a fumble 34 yards.

Leading the Southern defense were Pike, and Doug Lewis. Other offensive standouts noted by Coach Tom Woods were lineman John Stern and wideouts Milligan, Mike Fulmer, Brynt Sines, and Freyman, who all provided some key blocking for Welch and Dever.

"We were generally pleased with our team's overall effort," Woods said, "but we lost a lot of our intensity after going up by 21 points. We were also a little discouraged that they came back and scored 12 points on us, but we were substituting freely at the time, trying to get everyone in the game."

The injury to Pike was a major blow to the Ram offense, however Tommy Ritchey, a quarterback with some experience, has stepped in to assume that role. Pike is expected to be out of the offensive line-up for at least four weeks, but may return to his defensive position within two weeks. He is listed as doubtful for this week against Musselman, however.

The Rams will need every weapon, lots of intensity, and probably a few breaks this week when they travel to Musselman to face what is most likely the toughest team on their schedule. The veteran Applemen are starting nine seniors on both sides of the ball, most of them three-year starters, and are currently 4-0. They are ranked among the top two teams in the AA West Virginia ratings this week.

Senior quarterback David Shelton (5-11, 170) is among the three-year starters and the standouts on the offense, as are senior fullback Lionell Royer (5-8, 190); Tommy Shelton, brother of David, a 5-9, 155-pound junior tailback; Jamie Zirk, an enormous tackle at 6-6, 308 pounds; and two big senior guards in Clay Grove and Stacey Shade, both listed at 6-2, 220.

Musselman runs from the wing-T basic formation, but, according to Woods, "has the most diverse offense we will see all year." They like to run sweeps and Shelton is quite capable of throwing the ball.

Woods said the Applemen's greatest offensive threat, however, is their kicker, Chris Lewis, a 5-10, 170-pound senior, who is listed among the top place kickers in the United States. He has broken the state record for field goals and is a threat from as far as 50 yards out.

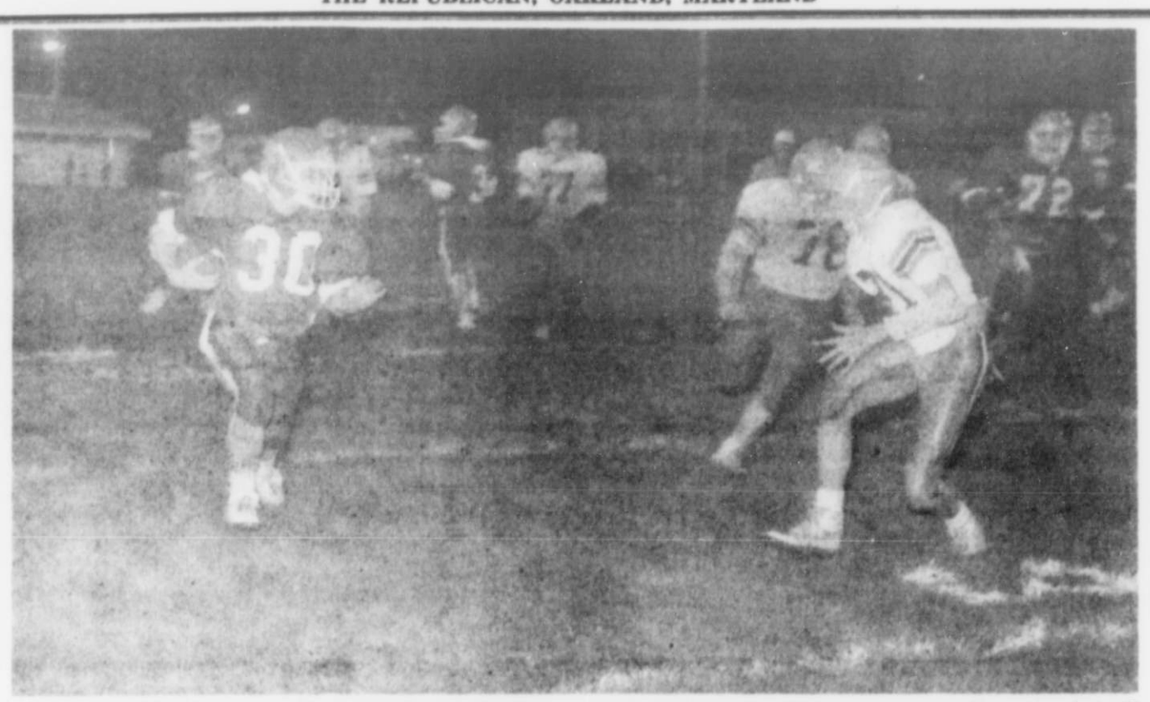
Their 5-2, 4-4 defensive unit is led by Grove and Shade at linebacker positions, junior defensive end David Clark (6-0, 180), senior monster back Curtis Keller (5-11, 175); and junior nose guard John Wright (6-2, 225).

"There is no question that this team has a lot more talent than we have," Woods said. "But we feel we have a good game plan and practices have been great this week. With a new quarterback, the pressure is really on our offense to execute. We want to try to play a very stable first half, keep possession of the ball as much as possible, and make them have to drive the ball at us. We have to keep their big-play offense potential in control because, in order for us to win, it will have to be a low-scoring contest. We've won the last three games against them and they have all been low-scoring games."

Indeed, despite the fact that the Applemen are almost always the favorite to win, Southern has found a way to win in seven of the last 12 meetings. Musselman has lost only 23 games in the last 12 years, with nearly one third of those defeats coming at the hands of Coach Woods and the Rams.

"This game will really give us a good idea about the quality of our team this year," Woods concluded.

The kickoff Friday night is set for 8 p.m.



GAINING GROUND against the Central Preston Cavaliers came fairly easy for Southern High School tailback Billy Welch, who rushed for 154 yards on 25 carries and scored three touchdowns as the Rams defeated Central, 33-12. Other Rams identifiable in the photo are No. 3, John Milligan, and No. 72, James Bateman. The Rams are now 2-0 on the season, but will face their biggest challenge of the season when they travel to Musselman this Friday evening. The Applemen are 4-0 and are sitting right at the top of the West Virginia state rankings for AA schools.

Sorry, Huskies!

The Republican news staff apologizes to the Northern Huskies and their fans for not having any photos of their game against Hancock in today's paper. Photos were taken, however the film was inadvertently exposed.

We also apologize to the Southern Rams, their fans, and the Alfred Marucci family for the poor quality of the photos on these pages, for similar reasons. (Our regular photographer will be back from vacation Monday!)

Huskies Flatten Hancock For Second Straight Win

The Northern Huskies had no trouble picking up their second win of the season in as many starts Friday night by ripping Hancock, 39-0, on the Southern High School field. The contest was played in wet, muddy conditions as steady rain fell throughout the entire second half.

Darren McKenzie spearheaded the Huskies' offensive attack, rushing for 186 yards on 16 carries, and scoring four touchdowns. The Huskies finished with 335 total yards, while the Northern defense allowed only 75 yards in total offense by the Panthers.

Specific statistics on the contest were unavailable, however Lee Holloway, Johnny Joe Friend, and Dale Fazenbaker led the defensive attack, while Pete Bittinger also rushed for over 100 yards for the Huskies.

Hancock dropped to 0-2 on the season.

"We started kind of sluggish, but we picked it up and played very well," stated Northern Coach Tom Vent. "We were really happy with our kids' effort. Of course, this week will be our first real test."

The Huskies will go after win number three against Beall on the Mountaineers' field this Friday night. Beall is currently 1-1 on the season, having lost to Hampshire and then rebounding last week fro a 27-0 win over Berkeley Springs.

Coach Bill Patterson's Mountaineers return 11 starters this season and have a large corps of seniors. They are led offensively by their quarterback, Shannon McKenzie, a 6-3, 185-pound junior, who is described by Vent as "as good as any quarterback in the area."

McKenzie is a third-year starter and has passed for over 1,500 yards in his career and tossed three touchdown passes last week against Berkeley Springs.

Other outstanding offensive players include running back Rick Duckworth, a 5-11, 169-pound senior, who scored two touchdowns last week; senior wide receiver Greg Carter (6-0, 170); senior center Will Vogtman (5-9, 235), who has shattered nearly all of Beall's weightlifting records; and Jason Bittner, another huge junior lineman at 6-1, 248.

Offensively, Beall utilizes the wing-T and will throw the ball about 60 percent of the time.

Defensively, the Mountaineers are led by McKenzie at safety and linebacker, Vogtman at nose guard, Bittner at tackle, and Bill Pifer, a 6-4, 175-pound senior, at defensive end.

"Our biggest concern is their ability to throw the ball," Vent said. "McKenzie is so strong and can wind up and throw that ball 50 yards anytime he wants to. Fortunately our secondary has some experience (Lee Holloway, Jarod Sechler, Kirby King), but we haven't seen much passing so far this year."

Size-wise, both teams stack up about evenly and Northern also possesses the quickness of a Rick Duckworth in Darren McKenzie and Pete Bittinger.

"Ever since I arrived at Northern, I have said that in order for our program to become one of the elite in this area, we are going to have to be able to compete against teams like Beall, Southern, Frankfort, and Valley," Vent said. "That's not to say that there aren't other good teams on our schedule. But these schools have consistently solid programs.

"We know this is going to be a tough game for us," he continued. "Beall has a lot of very skilled people and this is supposed to be 'their year,' according to all of the pre-season publicity. We are really fired up, though, and anxious to play them."

Vent said that the Northern junior varsity's win over Allegany this week (see separate story) was a "major emotional boost" for the varsity.

The only Husky who is listed as questionable this week is senior tight end Brock Yommer who is nursing a bruised calf.

Kickoff at Beall is slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Local Dairy Farmer Featured In "Dirt Wheels"

A local dairy farmer is the subject of a feature article in the October issue of "Dirt Wheels" magazine, a national publication that covers various forms of motor bike, three-wheeler, and four-wheeler competition.

Charles Mason, 52, of Oakland, sucessfully defended his title this year in the utility class at the 1989 Blackwater 100, held at Davis, W.Va., and considered the top mud racing event in the nation.

The article talks about Mason not even knowing that he had won the event in 1988, finding out only after reading the current issue of "Dirt Wheels." Mason completed the race on his Polaris Trail Boss 4X4, but left for home before the results were announced.

As a result, the article states, "The Dairy Farmer Who Won the Blackwater 100 Between Milkings" became the catch phrase for a nationwide Polaris ad campaign to show off their machine's practicality and endurance.

In return for using a photo of Mason and the phrase, Polaris sold a new Trail Boss 4X4 to Mason at half price "so he could get back to working around the farm in style," the article said.

However, Mason went back to the Blackwater 100 this past year and, riding his new 4X4, successfully defended his utility class title.

Raiders Defeat Jets For Fourth Straight Victory

The Oakland Raiders upped their season record to 4-0 Sunday afternoon by defeating their arch rivals the Oakland Jets, 18-6, in Mt. Top Youth Football League action. Coach Dave Martin's Raiders will be off this week and then meet the defending league champions, the Northern Steelers, also unbeaten, on October 1.

Josh Woods opened the scoring quickly for the Raiders, as he ran 65 yards for a touchdown on the very first play of the game. The run for the conversion failed.

There was no more scoring until the third quarter when Raider Mark Elliott broke loose for a 40-yard touchdown run to make it 12-0.

Woods increased the Raiders' lead to 18-0 later in the same period with a 45-yard touchdown run.

The Jets averted a shutout when Steve Eyler scored from five yards out with less than one and a half minute to play in the game.

Woods led the Raiders' rushing effort with 133 yards, while Elliott finished with 82 and Jason Burgess added 20.

Martin again credited the play of his entire defensive unit for allowing only six points.

Steelers Crush Vikings, 39-0, To Remain Unbeaten

The Northern Steelers had no trouble remaining unbeaten in the Mt. Top Youth Football League standings this past Sunday afternoon as they rolled over the Parsons Vikings, 39-0, at the Southern High School field.

A bad snap for a punt on the Vikings' first series in the game set up the Steelers' first score, as they recovered the ball on the 37-yard line and, on the Steelers' first play, Tim Forney raced the 37 yards for a touchdown at the 5:43 mark. After a bad snap for the conversion kick, Rob Speicher, the holder, tossed the ball to Derek Mason to make it 7-0.

With 1:30 remaining in the first quarter, Mason connected with Speicher on a 13-yard scoring strike.

Brad Williams recorded a 10-yard touchdown run with 3:15 remaining in the second period that was set up by a 30-yard punt return by Speicher. Allen Sebold booted the two-point conversion to make it 21-0 at halftime.

Shane House scored for the Steelers with 4:29 remaining in the third stanza on a two-yard run, Forney scored from five yards out with 6:23 remaining in the game, and Frank Friend added a 53-yard scoring run with 2:04 left to cap the scoring.

The Steelers finished with 218 yards rushing and the wet conditions on the field did not allow any yards through the air.

Coach Larry Brenneman's Steelers, who are the defending league champions, will travel to Oakland Sunday to take on the Oakland Jets.

In Loving Memory Of DARWIN FIKE
Who Passed Away 1 Year Ago
September 24, 1988

We think of you often and a million times we've cried.
If love could have saved you, you never would have died.
No farewells were spoken, no time to say "Goodbye."
You were gone before we knew it, and only God knows why.
We hope before you left us, you knew we loved you so.

Sadly missed and loved by us all.

Festival director and FSU English professor Paul LaChance has worked throughout the spring and summer months with a 32 member steering committee to bring "Africa!" to FSU. "The huge event will highlight Africa's enormous contributions to world civilization. The festival builds upon the success of two earlier FSU Asian festivals, Japan '83 and India '85," he said.

Some of the highlights of the show include: The Drum: Creator of the Cosmos and The African Vital Spirit in Jazz, Blues and Rock by Baba Olatunji, featuring five New York City drummers, on Friday, September 22, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center Multi Use; The Magic Drums of Africa with Olatunji, Dancers and Drummers on Saturday, September 23, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center Multi Use; an African Music Concert on Sunday, September 24, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center Multi Use; Songhai International at 8 p.m. on Thursday, September 28, in the Lane Center Multi Use; and "Africa!" final performances by Kan Kouran and Hugh Masakela, beginning at 7 p.m. at the P.E. Center Main Area.

All performances are free, except for the "Africa!" final performance, which is $5. Tickets are available at the FSU Lane Center, which also has complete program listings. For more information, persons may call (301) 689-4151.

HUGH MASAKELA, pictured above, will appear as part of the "Africa!" final performance on Friday, September 29, when he will play a full concert of contemporary Southern African music. Area Bartenders Invited To "Take The Challenge"

The Western Maryland Branch of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is inviting area restaurants, taverns, organizations and pubs to register in the October "Maryland's Greatest Bartender Challenge."

The challenge begins October 1 and continues for four weeks when area establishments plan fun events that will raise money for MS. "It's a popularity contest," stated one of the organizers. "The bartender will try to get the most votes from his or her friends sponsors and customers. Twenty-five cents equals one vote. The bartender who gets the most votes, wins."

This year, the top winner will win a trip to the National Bartender Convention, along with prizes and a trophy. Runners-up can win complimentary dinners, overnights in hotels, stereos, cordless phones, limousine service, get-a-way weekends for two, or a trip to Las Vegas.

Funds raised from the Bartender Challenge support the MS Society with special services to over 2,500 young adults who have multiple sclerosis and the research into the cause and cure of this often crippling disease.

Registered establishments will receive an official survival kit, supplies, and event ideas that will complement each business.

Those interested in joining the campaign are asked to call Clara Clow at 791-5754.

Enrollment Figures, Finances Discussed At GCC Board Meeting

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday to receive good news on enrollment figures and on the financial status of the college.

Enrollment

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Dean of Instruction and Student Services, announced that as of 5 p.m. on Tuesday, the college had a total enrollment figure of 631, which is up 11.1 percent over last year's figures. The FTE (full time equivalency) is up 11.6 percent from last year to 197.16. There are 298 students registered full time for the fall semester and the college closed 54 sections of courses.

In the dual enrollment program offered at Southern and Northern High Schools, 19 students registered at Southern and 17 registered at Northern. Dr. Mitchell explained that the college has coordinated an English class with the high schools that up to 20 students may enroll in to receive credit for college prep English.

Audit Report

Jim Murray, of Rodeheaver and Associates, presented the college with fiscal year 1989 audit report. The college has a surplus of $113, 638 for the year and has reduced long-term debt to $18,000 and had over $2.5 million in unrestricted revenue. (See separate article.)

Whitewater

Wayne Hamilton, chairman of the Board of Trustees, received a letter from Senator John Bambacus, thanking the Board of Trustees for the "support and contributions" to the 1989 World Whitewater Championships.

Whitewater Championships Inc., the sponsoring agency for the 1989 Whitewater Championships, will be opening a permanent headquarters for an office at the Wisp Resort Hotel.

Credit Options

A program for students of GCC to receive external and non-traditional credit options was approved by the Board. Dr. Stephen Herman, president of GCC, explained that most colleges already have a program where students can receive credit for work experience, armed services experience and others. The program will be particularly successful for adults with advanced skills but without the formal education.

Strategic Plan

Dr. Herman explained that the college has adopted a strategic plan for the first time. The Middle States Association Small Team will visit the college in October.

Dr. Herman said that the Middle States Association granted accreditation to the college last year, with the condition that some problems would be worked out and they would return this year. After the visit this year, the team will return again in three years, and then on a five year basis. He said that the strategic plan will operate on a five year cycle, to coincide with the standard ten year cycle of the Middle States Association. The college will file a periodic review report every five years and if things are going well, the Middle States Association will only visit every ten years.

Management Information System

The Board approved a tentative plan for the purchase of a management information system for the cost of $255,000. The computer system will enable the college to collect data and information from ten colleges that are similar in size and characteristics to GCC. This will enable the staff at GCC to identify strengths and weaknesses at the college.

Staff Presentation

Don Storck, Director of Strategic Planning and Special Projects, gave a staff presentation to the Board. Storck had an 18 month leave of absence from the college to work at Whitewater Championships Inc. for the 1989 Whitewater Championships.

Storck explained that he is responsible for the implementation of plans and development of operational level plans and to monitor the progress of ongoing projects and to evaluate the result of activities at the college.

Some of the projects Storck is currently working on include: the development of GCC Foundation Activities; progress of Professional Development; and the Learning Enhancement and Assistance Program.

Staff Appointments

The announcement of two new staff appointments was made to the Board. A Director of Technology and a Food Service Manager have been appointed.

James Allen has been appointed as the Director of Technology. He has a masters in agricultural technology from the State University of New York, Buffalo Campus, and is a residential and development expert, as well as an expert in water management.

Allen will hold a 12 month administrative position at the college, as well as taking the rank of an assistant professor.

Samuel Butler III has been appointed as Food Service Manager, which is an administrative and faculty position. Butler will operate the food service, internal catering at the college and also act as an instructor in culinary arts and offer practicums and internships to students in food preparation.

DACUM

Dr. Mitchell explained that DACUM (Developing A Curriculum) is entering its second year. The Director of Technology will be responsible for carrying out the DACUM program, which has three items on the agenda for this year: Real Estate; Wildlife Management Technology; and Business Management. Dr. Mitchell explained that several real estate businesses have approached the college about offering real estate courses for credit, which the college is currently looking into.

Africa! Festival

Dr. Herman noted that the Africa! Festival, which is sponsored by Garrett Community College, Frostburg State University and Allegany Community College, will be held over the next two weeks. GCC has an African art exhibition on display and Dr. Herman encouraged visitors to view the exhibit and also to attend as many of the programs as possible.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held Tuesday, October 17, at 8 p.m.

where extremely high moth populations are present. "Bt," which is less toxic to non-target organisms, should be the preferred chemical for spraying in other areas.

We do need more monitoring of moth populatcn densities. Anyone who has looked at our forests realizes that defoliation occurs patchily, yet our spray programs blanket entire regions without regard often for these variations. We have limited resources for spraying. It only makes sense that we target sprays where they will be most effective instead of wasting our money by spraying where moth populations are not damaging.

To the Editor:

What good is a blood donor?

A blood donor is good for people who go through windshields and red lights. For somebody with leukemia. For people being operated on. For barefoot children who aren't careful. For hemophiliacs so they can be as normal as possible. For people undergoing dialysis while waiting for a kidney transplant. For people who are badly burned. For new mothers needing a transfusion. For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For people having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For people with a severe case of hepatitis. For children who have fallen out of trees or whatever. For anybody, any age, with bleeding ulcers. For people in the wrong place, at the wrong time. For the very tired with severe anemia. For people who run into things. For people who are in a lot worse shape than most people you know. A blood donor is good for life.

Are you a blood donor? Are you good for life? Give blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile is at the Grantsville Fire Hall on Monday, September 25, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. The goal for this visit is 130 pints.

School Board Meets Thursday At Broad Ford

Numerous items were on the agenda for the September meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, which was held last Thursday at Broad Ford Elementary School.

Drug Free Zones

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage reported on Drug Free School Zones.

Ryscavage noted that, although the board has not received "all the pertinent direction from the governor yet," as of July 1, an area 1000 feet outside the boundaries of school facility property was declared as a Drug Free Zone. Anyone caught with drugs within these zones will be charged with a felony.

Ryscavage reported that signs will be installed which show the school boundaries. A map will also be prepared which indicates the 1000-foot extension.

Ryscavage said, "This is a product of last year's general assembly. We hope it will serve to reduce anything of that type that is going on."

Lead in Drinking Water

Three elementary schools in the Garrett County system have been identified as having excess lead in the drinking water. They are Accident, Bloomington and Grantsville.

Currently, steps are being taken to provide safe water by purging the existing fountains on the advice of the health authorities. A series of tests will then be done to isolate where the lead is coming from so the problem can be corrected.

Summer Maintenance

In addition to custodial maintenance work which is normally completed in the summer such as painting and cleaning heating systems, two major maintenance projects were completed this year. Computer labs were installed in several elementary schools, and new roofs were built on four of the board's re-locatable buildings.

In addition, contractors performed asbestos removal work at Southern, Red House, Dennett Road, and Bloomington schools.

Band Instruments

The board is currently discussing the possibility of a lease/loan agreement for band instruments in the schools. Under the present policy, band students may borrow an instrument from the school at no cost, based on availability.

However, there is a problem with maintaining the instruments, and leasing for a fee would allow for more services.

Bid Awards

Several bid awards were also brought to the attention of board members. Items included paving the track, constructing tennis courts and constructing a concession stand at Northern High; paving Route 40 School; and coal for Northern High and Dennett Road.

"WHAT EVER HAPPENED, RUTH? YOU USED TO BE A FUN PERSON!"

Miss Hinebaugh Among Who's Who

Jacqueline V. Hinebaugh, a student at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Miss Hinebaugh, daughter of Jack and Lou Hinebaugh, Deer Park, is a varsity cheerleader at Southern and is a member of the Girls Athletic Association, the Garrett Gymnastics Club, and Woodmen of the World. She plans to continue her education beyond high school and become a lawyer.

Who'a Who recognizes students for outstanding achievements in academics and community service and also sponsors a scholarship program for which all Who's Who designates are eligible.

New Floodwall Being Built By Westvaco Corp.

A $4 million project to construct a new Potomac River floodwall at Westvaco's Luke mill has been announced by Roger A. Dandridge, vice president and mill manager.

"The 1650-foot-long concrete floodwall is being built 10 feet outside the existing Potomac River floodwall as a double precaution against any unforeseen internal spills that might otherwise have reached the Potomac River," Dandridge stated.

Construction is now underway and will be completed in the spring of 1990. Dandridge pointed out that there might be occasional slight discoloration of the Potomac River from time to time as a result of excavation and construction activity.

The existing Potomac River floodwall at Westvaco will remain in place as a double barrier for the 1650 feet. An additional 2,000 feet will remain as a single wall in the lower part of the mill beyond the primary tankage locations. A new four-foot-diameter polyethylene fused joint trunk sewer also will be installed between the new and existing wall.

Contractor for this nine-month-long project is Carl Belt, Inc., Cumberland.

Dandridge pointed out that this is just one more project at Westvaco to protect possible environmental impact. Others now underway are the $55 million new bleach line which will bring major emission reductions as required by the new Maryland Air Toxic Laws that take effect in July 1990; a $10 million expenditure for chlorine reduction as a response to a perception of a dioxin problem; a $5 million project that will result in a major reduction of odor producing condensable gases; and the commitment to eliminate the hypochlorite method of bleaching as a way of reducing cholorform generation.

Revival Services Scheduled At Good Shepherd

Fall revival services will be held at the Good Shepherd Independent Baptist Church, Accident, during the week of September 24. Services will begin Sunday, September 24, and continue through Friday night September 29, beginning each evening at 7 p.m.

The featured speaker will be Pastor Larry Duffer of Faith Baptist Church, Elizabeth City, N.C. Besides his duties as pastor, the Rev. Duffer also serves as vice president of the Atlantic Baptist Bible Fellowship, a group of Independent Baptist pastors from the Mid-Atlantic states.

There will be special music each night and a nursery provided as needed. Good Shepherd Baptist Church is located on Rt. 219, two miles south of Accident.

Pastor Dana Umbel invites the public to attend.

Sharpe To Speak At St. Matthew's

John Sharpe will be the guest preacher and speaker at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, on Sunday, September 24.

He will preach at both of the morning's worship services, at 8 and 10:30 a.m. He will also address the combined children and adult church school classes at 9:30 a.m.

Sharpe recently spent two years in China teaching English with the English Language Institute.

A church spokesman said, "His presentation will offer a fresh look at present conditions in the People's Republic of China. He will also seek to pose a challenge to explore greater depths of Christian commitment and service."

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church is located at Second and Liberty Streets in Oakland. The Rev. C. Michael Pumphrey invites the public to attend this event as well as other activities of the parish.

Committee Okays Legislation To Clean Up Bay

The Senate Appropriations Committee last week voted approval for fiscal year 1990 appropriations legislation which includes $81.53 million in funding for projects to clean up the Chesapeake Bay.

"Years of pollution have threatened the beauty and productivity of our State's greatest natural resource, the Chesapeake Bay. This funding is essential to continue our ongoing effort to reverse that trend, and clean up the Bay," said Sen. Barbara A. Mikulski, D-MD, who is a member of the Appropriations Committee. Mikulski chairs the Approp. Subcommittee on Veterans, HUD and Independent Agencies, which oversees the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"Congress has taken significant steps toward protecting and improving the Chesapeake Bay. This progress will be of vital importance in implementing the provisions of the 1987 Chesapeake Bay Agreement," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-MD, who also worked for the funding.

Bay projects included in the legislation are:

*$13 million for EPA to continue its role as lead federal agency and coordinator of Chesapeake Bay Program. Three-quarters of funding will be used in cost-sharing grants provided to Bay states to carry out clean-up effort. Remaining funds will be used for the Bay Liaison Office and related activities. Included is $1.1 million to conduct a study of toxic pollutants in top ¼ inch of the Bay's surface water.

*$60 million for MD's share of the EPA sewerage construction grant program, which has a long-range goal of eliminating the municipal discharge of untreated or inadequately treated pollutants in the Bay.

*$300,000 for a "Chesapeake Bay Gateways Study" by the National Park Service to identify portions of the Bay region requiring special protection because of ecological or cultural significance.

*$375,000 to establish a mid-Atlantic regional aquaculture center at the University of Maryland. The center will focus in in-shore fishery needs specific to the Bay.

*$2.1 million for technical assistance and training provided by the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in an effort to control non-point source pollution. The funding will increase the current level of SCS positions in the Bay area states program from 41 to 47.

*$1 million for SCS to build a high resolution data base for the Bay which will include information about water resources, soils, wildlife habitat and other economic and culture attributes of the Bay.

*$225,000 for second phase of Chesapeake Bay shoreline erosion study. Funding will be used by Army Corps of Engineers to conduct a feasibility evaluation of Bay-wide erosion control plan, including the placement of low-cost erosion protection devices at selected test sites.

*$300,000 for the Corps to conduct feasibility study on the Bay on how to correct instream flow needs during drought periods in lower Susquehanna River and upper Bay. Included will be storage reallocation study of the Currensville and Raystown Lake projects and development of a flood warning and response system in the Susquehanna River Basin.

*$175,000 for continued Corps development of a three-dimensional hydrodynamic/water quality model of Bay. Model is a top priority for Bay restoration strategy and an invaluable tool for control strategies.

*$130,000 for Corps to start a reconnaissance study to evaluate measures to control erosion and sedimentation problems in the Anacostia River Basin. The success of the Bay clean-up effort is dependent upon addressing the water quality problems of the rivers that flow into it.

*$2.9 million for the Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) to conduct a shoreline erosion control project at Eastern Neck National Wildlife Refuge. Included in the project is the installation of 5,000-6,000 feet of offshore breakwater structures that will minimize adverse environmental impacts, redirect wave energy and permit sediments to accumulate. The structures will eliminate a major source of sediment of the Bay system and improve the overall health of the Bay.

*$300,000 for FWS to restore the stocks of anadromous fish which reached an all-time low in the Bay and Mid-Atlantic region in the early 1980s, forcing the states to place restrictions on the commercial and recreational use of fish.

*$200,000 for FWS to determine physiological, cellular, subcellular, reproductive and other sublethal responses of the Bay species to toxics. The goal of the project is to reduce toxic chemical known to be harmful to fish and wildlife.

*$75,000 for FWS to restore submerged aquatic vegetation in the Bay, on which many waterfowl depend for food.

*$50,000 for FWS to conduct ground surveys of the Bay to investigate areas of known waterfowl use and to implement actions that would improve the suitability of potential habitats for waterfowl.

*$1.5 million for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Chesapeake Bay studies. Funding will be used for the Coastal Zone Management program, Emergency Striped Bass Study and research into oyster diseases. NOAA is the lead federal agency responsible for marine science.

*part of the $41 million national Sea Grant Program for NOAA to conduct research aimed at controlling Multinucleate Sphere Unknown (MSX) and Dermo, which pose deadly threats to oyster populations.

Funding for these measures is contained in four different appropriations bills. Final Congressional action by the Senate and House/Senate conferees is expected soon.

Maryland SAT Scores 11 Points Above U.S. Marks

Maryland's college-bound students improved their overall scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) by six points and outscored their counterparts across the U.S. by 11 points in 1989, State School Superintendent Joseph L. Shilling announced this week.

Black and other minority students in Maryland continued to outperform their counterparts nationally, according to the report on the test issued by the College Board.

"In the past decade Maryland's college-bound students have shown consistent progress toward acquiring the kind of skills and content essential to success in college," Dr. Shilling said. "They continue to improve their scores and they remain significantly above their peers nationally and compared to surrounding states."

"These results," the Superintendent continued, "suggest that Maryland's college-bound students are taking a significant number of college-preparatory courses and that the courses are rigorous and of high quality."

10-Year Trend Is Up

Maryland students scored 480 on the math portion of the SAT, up five points from last year and four points above the national level of 476. On the verbal test, the state's students scored 434, one point higher than last year and seven points above the national average of 427.

Over the past 10 years, SAT verbal scores for Maryland's college-bound students have gone up eight points and the math scores have gone up 16 points. U.S. verbal scores are the same this year as they were 10 years ago, while math scores have gone up nine points.

The state's college-bound black students have made even greater gains. In 1989 their overall scores were 13 points above their counterparts across the nation. On the verbal test, Maryland's black students scored 359 compared with the national average score for black students of 351. In math, Maryland's black students scored 391, five points above the national score for black students.

Over the past 10 years, Maryland's black college-bound students have improved their SAT scores by 26 points on the verbal test and 35 points in math. Nationally, scores of black students have gone up 21 points on the verbal test and 28 points on the math test.

Black students represented 20 percent of the Maryland college-bound students taking the SAT, while nationally 10 percent of the test takers were black.

More Maryland students achieved high scores on the SAT than students nationally. On the verbal test, four percent of the state's students and three percent of U.S. students scored above 650 out of a possible 800 top score. On the math test, 11 percent of Maryland students and 10 percent of U.S. students scored above 650.

High Rate of Participation, High Scores

Maryland students distinguished themselves also by a combination of a relatively high participation rate — 60 percent of students taking the SAT — and high scores. A high participation rate is generally associated with lower scores because it may mean that more students of average or lower ability are included among test takers. Among states with 60 percent or more students taking the test, Maryland students scored higher than all states except New Hampshire.

Nine other states with 60 percent or more of their students taking the SAT have average combined scores lower than Maryland's. Three of these states are the nearby states of Delaware, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

Maryland Students Take More Academics

In explaining the state's good performance on the SAT, State officials pointed to several indicators reported by the College Board that Maryland students take more years of study in the more challenging academic areas.

The College Board reported that 48 percent of Maryland students, compared with 39 percent of students nationally, took an average of five major academic subjects during each of their four years of high school.

In math, 67 percent of Maryland students and 64 percent of U.S. students took four or more units of study. Twenty-five percent of Maryland students and 20 percent of U.S. students took honors courses in math.

Maryland students also outscored their counterparts nationally in most academic achievement tests administered by the College Board in conjunction with the SAT. In English composition, 32 percent of the state's students and 25 percent of U.S. students scored 600 or above. In advanced math, 45 percent of Maryland students and 40 percent of U.S. students scored 700 or above.

Jobless Rates

were found in eating and drinking establishments, as well as special trade contractors, food stores, amusement services, real estate agencies and trucking companies.

On the other hand, vacation shut-downs and seasonal reductions were evident in apparel and textile manufacturing and in local transportation companies. In addition, seasonal staff reductions in local school systems accounted for 17,100 fewer jobs in the government sector.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the jobless rate eased down to 4.3 percent in July from June's 4.8 percent. This represented a decline of 4,618 unemployed persons. All of the area's local jurisdictions, except Harford and Queen Anne's counties, shared in the decline.

Baltimore City's unemployment rate of 6.5 percent is the lowest rate for the city since 1980. In that area, seasonal hiring boosted employment payrolls in construction, health services and ship and boat repair.

In Western Maryland, the jobless rate fell slightly from 6.3 percent to 6.2 percent and compares favorably with July 1988's rate of 7.9 percent. Washington County was the only jurisdiction to show increased unemployment, from 4.6 to 4.8 percent, due to seasonal layoffs in manufacturing.

The estimated unemployment rate fell from 3.4 to 2.9 percent in the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. All of the jurisdictions showed a downward trend over the month except in Frederick County, where the recorded 3.1 percent remained the same. Increased hiring, evident throughout the state, was reflected also in the D.C. area where there were employment gains in local government, construction and amusement services.

On the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland areas, the unemployment rate rose slightly to 5.3 percent in July, up from June's 5.2 percent. The most notable change was in Cecil County where the unemployment rate climbed to 9.4 percent from June's 6.1 percent as the result of workers being laid off from auto plants in Delaware.

Somerset County enjoyed a higher employment rate due to seasonal hiring in agriculture and seafood processing. However, unemployment grew in Kent and Dorchester counties due to vacation shutdowns.

Statewide, local unemployment rates in July ranged from a low of 2.5 percent in Howard, Montgomery and Worcester counties to a high of 9.4 percent in Cecil County.

Finalists Named

"The nominations committee did a fine job in whittling our long list down to five finalists," said Paul Mullan, committee chairman. "Believe me, there are several nominations which are not among the final five which certainly fit the spirit of the award."

A three-person selection committee will announce its final choice during the next two weeks, and the honoree will be featured in the 1989 Autumn Glory parade through downtown Oakland on Saturday, October 14.

"There are no losers in this program," noted Mullan. "I think we're all winners just to have people like Charlie Strauss, Lucile Sines, Ida Maust, Dale Harvey, and Tom Browning working in our community."

Special Training

McHenry Campus of Garrett Community College and at the Bloomington Elementary School, also through GCC.

Tom Kierstead, of the GCC staff, is working with Ms. Warner to get the program underway. "We had hoped to start the classes this month, but because of various delays, we now hope to begin in October," Kierstead said.

Once a person begins the Apprenticeship Program, he is registered as an apprentice with the State of Maryland through the M.A.T.C.

To receive more information about the program, persons may contact Kierstead at 387-6666, 245-4133, or 1-800-533-1000, or they may contact Ms. Warner at 1-301-739-1190 or 1-304-293-7247. Ms. Warner will soon be holding regular office hours one day each week at GCC.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

Just What Is This Stuff Called TOFU?

Tofu is soybean curd, made from soy milk (a non-dairy substance made from soy beans). Soft, cheese-like and bland in its basic form, tofu lends itself beautifully to seasonings. Tofu is high in protein, low in calories and carbohydrates, and has no cholesterol. It is usually sold by the pound (in a solid block or in cakes), packed in water in sealed plastic containers. Refrigerate it and change its water daily, and tofu will keep up to a week.

Tofu is so adaptable, you can choose to feature it, or to use it more anonymously as a protein and texture booster for salad dressings, casseroles, soups, breads, etc. It is soft and digestible, and very nutritious. In addition to protein, it has calcium, iron and vitamin E. Tofu can be mashed and flavored with just about anything.

Tofu is an excellent absorber of marinades. With this discovery of this special tofu trait, the world of simple tofu meals takes on a whole new dimension of flavor. Once you get into the habit of marinating tofu, you'll be able to design more satisfying meals around it. And you might find yourself actually looking forward to these very simple meals. Good luck!

HOT TOFU AND SESAME NOODLES

¼ cup good, unprocessed peanut butter
1¼ cups hot water
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1½-2 tablespoons tamari sauce
¾ cup toasted sesame seeds
4½ tablespoons Chinese sesame oil
½ teaspoon crushed hot red pepper
½ lb. tofu (cut into small chunks)
2 pkgs. ramen noodles (These are available in most Asian and some American groceries in small, cellophane wrapped units. If you can't find them, substitute a half-pound vermicelli noodles).
1 medium cucumber
4 scallions, finely minced
¾ cup finely chopped cashews or peanuts

In a medium sized saucepan, combine the peanut butter and the hot water, stirring with a whisk until they form a smooth mixture. Add the vinegar, tamari, sesame seeds, sesame oil, crushed red pepper (or cayenne) and tofu chunks. Stir until blended. Set aside for now. Open your package of ramen noodles, discover the enclosed tiny envelope of "flavor mix," and throw it away in the garbage. Set the noodles aside. Begin boiling about a quart and a half of water in a large saucepan. Take the medium cucumber, peel it if necessary (i.e., if it's waxed), and cut it lengthwise down the center. Remove and discard the seeds. Slice (or coarsely grate) the cucumber into very thin strips. Heat the peanut sauce over a low flame, and add the noodles to the boiling water. Boil them for 3 minutes only, then drain well, and mix with the sauce. Serve in individual bowls, topped generously with strips of cucumber, minced scallion, and chopped nuts. Four servings.

BROCCOLI-MUSHROOM-TOFU SALAD

3 cakes of tofu, pressed and cubed
1 large bunch broccoli
3 cups sliced mushrooms (12 ounces)
4 scallions, sliced diagonally

Marinade:
3 garlic cloves, pressed
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger root
3 tablespoons dark sesame oil
6 tablespoons tamari soy sauce
6 tablespoons Chinese rice wine or dry sherry
¼ teaspoon ground fennel seeds
1/8 teaspoon cayenne

Press the tofu while preparing the vegetables. Rinse the broccoli. Discard the woody bottoms of the stems. Cut off the florets on 1-inch stems. Peel the thick lower stalks, cut them into lengthwise strips, and then again, diagonally, into 1-inch pieces. Steam the broccoli until just tender and still bright green. Rinse immediately with cold water (to stop the cooking and preserve crispness) and drain. Steam the sliced mushrooms briefly, a minute or two. Rinse with cold water and drain. Combine the broccoli, mushrooms, and scallions in a large bowl. In a small bowl whisk together the marinade ingredients. Pour half the marinade over the vegetables. Pour the rest of the marinade over the cubed tofu in a separate bowl. Allow to marinate for an hour or more, gently turning the vegetables and the tofu several times with a wooden spoon. Toss everything together just before serving. This salad goes well with Spicy Szechuan Noodles or brown rice tossed with toasted sesame seeds. We often serve it on a bed of salad greens, topped with toasted walnuts or almonds, and garnished with a wedge of cantaloupe.

TOFU GREEN DRESSING

½ cake of tofu, blanched and crumbled
6 fresh spinach leaves
1 scallion and ¼ green pepper, chopped
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon fresh basil (1 teaspoon dried)
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ cup water
1 cup vegetable oil

Place all the ingredients except the oil in a blender or food processor and blend them until liquefied. With the blender or food processor running, slowly drizzle in a steady stream of oil until the dressing thickens. Refrigerated and covered. Tofu Green Dressing will stay fresh for up to a week. Yield: 3 cups.

BROCCOLI AND TOFU

The Sauce:
½ cup good, unprocessed peanut butter
½ cup hot water
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons tamari sauce
2 tablespoons blackstrap molasses
¼-½ teaspoon cayenne pepper

In a small saucepan, whisk together the peanut butter and the hot water until you have a uniform mixture. Whisk in the remaining ingredients. Set aside.

The Saute:
1 1-lb. bunch of fresh broccoli
3 tablespoons peanut oil
2 teaspoons freshly grated ginger root
4 medium cloves garlic, minced
1 lb. tofu, cut into small cubes
A few dashes of salt
2 cups thinly sliced onion
1 cup coarsely chopped raw peanuts
2-3 tablespoons tamari sauce
2 freshly minced scallions

Cut off the bottom half-inch of the broccoli stems. Shave off the tough outer skins of the stalks with a sharp paring knife or vegetable peeler. Cut the stalks diagonally into thin slices. Coarsely chop the flowerettes. Set aside. Begin heating the wok (or a large, heavy skillet). When it is hot add 1 tablespoon of the peanut oil. Add half the ginger and half the garlic. Salt lightly. Saute over medium heat for 1 minute, then add the tofu chunks. Turn the heat up a little, and stir-fry the tofu for 5-8 minutes. Transfer it, including whatever liquid it might have expressed, to the saucepanful of peanut sauce. Mix together gently. Wipe the wok with a paper towel, and return it to the stove to begin heating once again. Add the remaining 2 tablespoons of oil to the hot wok, and follow suit with the remaining ginger and garlic. Salt lightly. Add the onions, and grind in some fresh black pepper. Saute, stirring frequently, over medium heat, until the onions are soft (about 5 minutes). On another burner, begin heating the peanut-tofu sauce on a very low flame. It shouldn't actually cook, it only needs to be warmed through. Add the broccoli and the chopped peanuts to the wok. Add 2-3 tablespoons tamari sauce, and stir-fry over medium high heat until the broccoli is bright green and just tender (about 5 minutes). Pour the heated peanut sauce over the saute. Toss gently until everything is coated with everything else. Sprinkle in the minced scallions as you toss. Serve over rice, and pass around some additional tamari, hot sauce, and even more chopped peanuts, if desired.

SWEET AND SOUR VEGETABLES AND TOFU

2 cakes of tofu, pressed and cubed

Sauce:
1½ teaspoons grated fresh ginger root
4 tablespoons brown sugar or honey
6 tablespoons white vinegar
3 tablespoons tamari soy sauce
¼ cup tomato paste or catsup

3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 cups thinly sliced onions
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger root
2 medium carrots, diagonally sliced
½ lb. string beans, whole, if small, or cut into 3-inch pieces
1 large red or green pepper, in long slices
4 cups sliced mushrooms (1 pound)
4 cups zucchini rounds
¾ cup fresh or canned pineapple, in chunks (optional)
1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in ½ cup cold Vegetable Stock, pineapple juice, or water
Hot chili oil (optional)
2 scallions, chopped

Stir together the sauce ingredients and set aside, and prepare the tofu and vegetables before you begin to stir-fry. Heat the oil in a wok or a pot large enough for all the ingredients. Stir-fry the onions and ginger. When the onions are translucent, add the carrots and continue cooking 3 to 4 minutes before adding the beans (2 more minutes), the pepper (2 more minutes), and then the mushrooms and zucchini. Turn down the heat, cover the wok or pot, and cook, stirring once or twice, until the vegetables are tender but still crisp. Stir in the pineapple, tofu, sauce, and dissolved cornstarch and bring to a boil. Simmer, stirring gently, for 3 or 4 minutes. If a hot and spicy dish is desired, add a few dashes of hot chili oil. Serve at once over rice or noodles. Top with sliced scallions. Serves 4-6.

"MAPO" TOFU

2 cakes of tofu

Sauce:
¼ cup tamari soy sauce
¼ cup dry sherry
2 tablespoons white or cider vinegar
1½ tablespoons grated fresh ginger root
3 tablespoons tomato paste
1 cup water
1 tablespoon dark sesame oil
1-2 tablespoons chili paste with garlic, or 3 garlic cloves, pressed, and cayenne to taste
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 cups thinly sliced onions
1 large bunch broccoli, cut into 3-inch spears
4 cups sliced mushrooms (1 pound)
2 tablespoons cornstarch dissolved in 2 tablespoons cold water
Tossed walnuts
3 scallions, diagonally sliced

Press the tofu and then cut it into 1-inch cubes and set aside. Whisk together the sauce ingredients and set aside. Heat the oil in a wok on medium to high heat. Saute the onions for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring often. Then add the broccoli and saute for an additional 4 minutes. Next add the mushrooms and cook for 3 minutes, still stirring often. Pour in the sauce and add the tofu. Lower the heat, cover, and simmer until the tofu is thoroughly heated. Finally, add the dissolved cornstarch and bring back to a simmer, stirring occasionally until the sauce thickens. Serve on rice, garnished with walnuts and scallions.

SWEET AND SOUR TOFU WITH MUSHROOMS AND CASHEWS

Don't foreget to start cooking your rice about 20 minutes in advance of beginning the stir-fry. (2 cups brown rice, 3 cups water).

1 lb. tofu, cut into small cubes
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup tamari sauce
6 tablespoons water
¼ cup tomato paste
2 tabelspoons honey
1 teaspoon freshly minced ginger
4 medium cloves of garlic, crushed
Freshly ground black pepper
2 teaspoons peanut oil
8 scallions, minced (whites plus greens)
1 green bell pepper, 1 red bell pepper, in strips
1 lb. mushrooms, quartered
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup toasted cashew pieces

Cut the tofu, and set aside. Combine the next 8 ingredients in a bowl, and mix until well blended. Add the tofu to this marinade, stir gently, and let marinate, covered for several hours. (It can be refrigerated and marinated overnight or all day). About 10 minutes before serving time, set up your wok (or skillet) over a flame, and let it heat up for a minute or two. Add the oil to the hot wok, and immediately add the vegetables and the salt. Stir-fry very quickly over high heat. After several minutes, add the tofu plus all its marinade. Lower the heat to medium, and continue to stir-fry another several minutes (until everything is hot and bubbly). The total stir-frying time should not exceed 10 minutes. Remove from heat, and stir in the pre-toasted cashews. Serve immediately, over rice. Four servings.

Talk AND Listen

A pastor-grandfather had stopped to talk with some pre-school children on the playground. He knelt down to their eye-level—something he always did. "They can see your face rather than your legs," he'd say. He talked and listened for what seemed too long a time.

"Do you think they know or will remember what you talked about?" his son asked, somewhat skeptical of his use of time.

He smiled and then made a statement that should never be forgotten:

"It's not what you talk about that's important; what's important is that you talk and listen."

Having reared nine children successfully, perhaps he knew what he was talking about.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON FEEDING YOURSELVES

September 17, 1989

Background Scripture: Ezekiel 34:1-31.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 9:35-38.

Often it is assumed that in taking the step between unbelief and Christian discipleship there is but one great chasm to be crossed: belief in God. Actually, however, there are two great chasms. Belief in a Creator God is only the first of two great leaps that must be made and many find it easier to contemplate than the second: the conviction that the Creator God is also a Father God who loves each of us.

A scientist who came to Dallas to speak to the Isthmus Institute told me that his work in science had helped him move from absolute atheism to an "uneasy agnosticism." "The more I learn about this world," he told me, "the harder it is for me to believe that there is not some Great Mind behind it all." He went on to say: "But to believe that the Great Mind that created and sustains the universe also knows and cares about me, that is something I cannot fathom."

INCREDIBLE CONVICTION

The Judaic-Christian claim of a personal Father-Redeemer-God does seem incredible. If you have never been awed by the wonder of that conviction, you haven't given it much thought! I confess that it has occupied my mind with some frequency since my earliest days. Often it has been when I have contemplated the sheer majesty of God as the creator and sustainer of the universe and tried to reconcile those thoughts with the comparatively insignificant concerns with which I come to God in prayer. As a college student, for example, I frequently wondered how the Lord of Creation could possibly concern himself with my pleas for help in passing a tough exam, let alone millions upon millions of others like me with their own personal agendas.

Yet, incredible as that claim may seem, it is one that is a recurrent theme in the Bible. God the Father is the picture that comes to us through Jesus in the four gospels. But there are similar pictures in the Old Testament and none are more compelling than that of the Good Shepherd in Ezekiel 34. The God we find in this chapter is awesome, not for his creative power, but for the sheer magnitude of his love. This is a love not only for humanity in general, but each of his children in particular.

Note the particularity of his concern: "I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the crippled, and I will strengthen the weak... I will provide them with prosperous plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land..." (34:16,29). Like the good shepherd, God is concerned about the everyday needs of members of his flock.

SHEPHERDS OF ISRAEL

This 34th chapter of Ezekiel is not only a prophecy of consolation and hope to those who have suffered, but a warning to the shepherds of Israel, the leaders who have served themselves and neglected the people. "Ho, shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep?...The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the crippled you have not bound up, the strayed you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought, and with force and harshness you have ruled them" (34:4). Is it not a warning also to us in this day when taking care of one's self seems to be the ultimate universal obligation.

Not only does Christianity present a God who loves each one of us as if there were but one of us to love, but who requires of us the same kind of love and compassion.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM CHOKING ACCIDENTS

Be especially cautious to keep objects small enough to be swallowed away from infants and children. For they do not expectorate, but attempt to swallow and inhale them into the lungs. Teach them to spit anything out.

Do not stimulate a child to laugh or cry while food is in his mouth. Physicians advise it is not wise to reach into an infant's mouth to remove an impacted foreign object. Place the victim face down across a bed or chair and call a physician. For choking is the leading cause of accidental death in the home to children under five.

Movie means more than reminiscing to actresses

TV stars portray 1960s singers

By Mary Ann Townsend

For Sandy Duncan, Jill Eikenberry and Judith Light, starring in the NBC movie My Boyfriend's Back meant more than fond memories of slumber parties.

The film airing Monday, Sept. 25, on NBC features the actresses as a former 1960s teenage singing group reunited to perform their one hit single on a TV special.

The actresses enjoyed recording the title song and acting out their teenage fantasies, but they also believe the movie served another purpose.

"There's lots of fun and music and it's a comedy, but there's also something very serious underneath it," said Light, who stars in ABC's Who's the Boss? "It deals with women's relationships–the way they relate to themselves and to each other. A lot of us have to deal with competition to be the best little girl in the world."

Duncan, from NBC's The Hogan Family, plays the peacemaker among the bickering trio. "It was a coming of age for us," she said of the characters in My Boyfriend's Back. "I find that most of us don't mature until we're in our 40s. At least I don't think I have."

NBC's L.A. Law star Eikenberry put it a different way. "It's coming to grips with who you are and how you learn not to blame somebody else for your life through the years. It's a female-bonding movie, which I think we need more of."

Eikenberry made her biggest discovers after she completed filming the movie in late June. "I didn't realize how important the movie would be for me until after it was over and I had time to think about it," she said.

Sandy Duncan, Jill Eikenberry and Judith Light star as a 1960's singing group who reunite for a TV special in My Boyfriend's Back, Monday on NBC.

Michael Learned stars as modeling mogul Trish Curtis on Living Dolls, the new series premiering in its regular timeslot Saturday on ABC.

Gerald McRaney stars as a peacetime Marine who must adjust to domesticity when he marries a woman with three daughters in Major Dad, Mondays on CBS.

'Major Dad' shows humor in differeing viewpoints

Gerald McRaney stars in comedy

By Anne Wheeler

Two very different points of view come under the same roof when a starched-collar Marine marries a liberal-minded journalist with three daughters on Major Dad, Mondays on CBS.

Both the acting and creative talent behind the show belong to Gerald McRaney.

McRaney stars as peacetime Marine Major J.D. "Mac" MacGillis, and Shanna Reed plays journalist and mother Polly Cooper.

"I think a lot of people have a notion of a Marine as being about as far right as you can go without becoming Genghis Khan, and a lot of other people have the notion that journalists are about as left-wing as you can go without actually pledging allegiance to the red flag," McRaney said. "The thing that we'd like to carry out is the notion that you can have divergent points of view, but we're all in the same game."

Executive producer Earl Pomerantz describes the show's intent a little more precisely.

"My view is that everybody's right and they have to make space for each other. This person says 'I believe this.' This person says, 'I believe that.' It could be about him getting a Marine chaperone for her daughter for a date, and she sees 'Marine' as Tijuana and tattoos, and he sees 'Marine' as a gentleman and chivalrous and the perfect escort and safe and protected. That's where you get the issues, and that's where you get the fun."

Charlie Jones starts 30th year of announcing pro football

By Jeff Thompson

Charlie Jones, who has broadcast professional football longer than anyone else in the history of sports television, will continue his ties with NBC's coverage of the National Football League.

Having recently signed a multi-year contract with NBC, Jones this year marks his 30th consecutive year of announcing pro football on network television, and his 25th consecutive season on NBC.

In addition, he will continue to cover other sports events for NBC, such as pro golf, Wimbledon tennis, figure skating and various events for NBC's Sports-World. He will also continue to be the voice of NBC's track and field coverage.

One of the deans of television sportscasting, Jones was one of the key broadcasters involved in NBC's Emmy Award-winning coverage of the Games of the XXIV Olympiad in Seoul, South Korea. The Seoul Games marked his first Olympics, although he has covered 25 different sports in 41 states and 23 foreign countries during his NBC career.

The announcer began his professional career in 1956 as sports director of KNAC-TV in his hometown of Fort Smith, Ark. Before joining NBC in 1965, he did AFL play-by-play for ABC from 1960 to 1964 and was a commentator on Wide World of Sports.

CHILDREN'S CHOICE

John Candy comes to NBC's Saturday morning lineup

By Anne Wheeler

Determined to reclaim its dominance in Saturday-morning programming, NBC has presented a lineup of new projects featuring some big names and capitalizing on some fads.

Camp Candy, a new animation/live-action program, features comedian John Candy in a "combination of Meatballs and The Bad News Bears." Candy stars as a summer-camp counselor for a group of lovable misfits.

Returning to the lineup are Alvin and the Chipmunks and ALF, featuring the animated version of the alien life form Kissyfur and The Smurfs.

In addition to big name stars, NBC is featuring animated cartoons which draw from popular fads.

Captain N: The Game Master is a half-hour animated series combining fantasy, humor and adventure with music, graphics and sound effects. It is based on the popular Nintendo video games.

Based on the theatrical movie The Karate Kid, is a new animated series called Karate Kid. The cartoon series features Taki, a beautiful young girl who accompanies Daniel and Miyagi.

The last of NBC's new Saturday morning shows is Saved By the Bell, a half-hour live-action comedy series which follows the adventures of six enterprising teenagers.

David Letterman tried it, and became more successful with his own show. Joan Rivers tried, too, but is now experimenting with a show in the morning hours. Then along comes Jay Leno, a relative unknown, who has gracefully stepped into the spotlight as Johnny Carson's exclusive guest host, and he's a success.

But where did he come from, this comedian who proudly touts Nacho Cheese Doritos, and, more importantly fills in for Carson 37 Tuesday nights a year, plus six weeks of vacation?

Well, Leno is not an unknown. Childhood pranks eventually matured into appearances at Kiwanis Club lunches and Knights of Columbus dinners, and those evolved into performances on the comedy club circuit. Now after 18 years as a stand-up comedian, Leno is the comic world's unadorned, working class hero.

He will get even more exposure this year as NBC moves him to Tuesdays away from competition from Monday Night Football.

His broad appeal undoubtedly comes from his sensitivity. "It's not dirty jokes I mind, but the racist, sexist and anti-gay jokes. There is so much hatred and malice in comedy today, and that's very uncomfortable to me," Leno said, describing his brand of clean, old-fashioned humor. "When I work a crowd and I see a fat guy, I make fun of his tie."

Jackee will be making at least seven guest appearances as the voluptuous Sandra Clark on 227 this season. She had planned to leave the show to star in her own series, but the filmed pilot was not sold. Undaunted, Jackee is now redeveloping another new series for herself, and has just wrapped an NBC telefeature titled Reluctant Spy.

A healthy five-pound, 12-ounce baby boy was born to Newhart star Julia Duffy and her husband, actor-writer Jerry Lacy, on Aug. 19. However, her character on Newhart will remain pregnant 'til December.

Peter DeLuise dons two hats this season as the actor jumps behind the camera to direct an episode of his 21 Jump Street series on FOX.

HOROSCOPE

September 24 through September 30

By C.C. Clark

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
You will be going through some changes in your personal life. Re-organize priorities to make time for the things that are most important to you.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Don't be overly analytical of a loved one's motives. This would be a good week for you to take a short trip and get away from things for a while.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Great things could happen to you this week if you keep an open mind. Don't let any negativity stand in your way of the things that you deserve.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
You will notice that you are a bit more optimistic this week. You should be re-evaluating priorities and organizing your work more efficiently, too.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Someone close to you is suffering from grave financial difficulties. Be as helpful as you can, even if you can only afford to give them emotional support.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
You will feel a certain restlessness this week that can only be assuaged by travel. Take a short trip over the weekend, even if it's just to stay with a friend.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
It would be a good idea for you to show that you really care and want to share in a loved one's problems this week. A close friend will keep an important promise.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Forget about past mistakes and enjoy living life for today. An associate needs your help, but is afraid to ask. Be wary of buying large appliances.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
You've been procrastinating about household chores for too long. Take on those added responsibilities and you will be more successful than you ever imagined.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Don't feel guilty for postponing an important meeting. It is necessary for you to take the time to make sure that all of your facts are verifiable.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
You will begin to feel better about yourself this week. Your unusually low self-esteem has had others on edge. This would be a great week to buy some new clothes.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Virgos should concentrate on business and financial affairs this week. It will be necessary for you to take a closer look at your health and diet.

TV PIPELINE

Young 'Max Headroom' star prefers the great outdoors

By Polly Vonetes

Chris Young

Q: How old is Chris Young who starred in the Max Headroom show? Is he a computer whiz in real life? —C.C., Klamath Falls, Ore.

A: Chris Young was born April 28, 1971 in Chambersburg, Penn. He lives with his parents outside Philadelphia, where he spends his free time skiing, golfing, swimming, juggling and "most of all" biking. He plans to attend college to study filmmaking.

Q: I was wondering if Jesse Hawkes has been canceled, because I'm a really big fan of Shane Conrad. —Deena Mewes, Montrose, Colo.

A: I learned long ago you never count Bob Conrad out. This was "his show" and though it's not on the schedule, CBS never officially said it was canceled. Don't be surprised to see it pop on again as a replacement for one of the new series that may fail.

Q: I want to know if Lou Diamond Phillips is married or single and how old he is. I would also like a list of his movies. —Vicki Miller, Herrin, Ill.

A: Twenty-seven-year-old Lou Diamond Phillips is a native of Corpus Christi, Texas and a graduate of the University of Texas. He was married to Julie Cyphers on June 27, 1987. His theatrical movies include: Disorganized Crime, Dakota, La Bamba, Stand and Deliver, Young Guns, Waiting for Salazar, Lakota, Angel Alley, Trespasses, and Walking on Water, and his made-for-television movies are The Three Kings and Time Bomb.

Q: I went to school and graduated with Paul Sorvino, and have tried desperately to contact him. I even wrote to his home in New Jersey, but never received an answer. Do you have an address I could reach him at? —Fred Kraut, Sunrise, Fla.

A: I last spoke to Paul Sorvino two years ago, and at that time he and his family still had their home in New Jersey. You may try contacting him at: Charter Management, 9000 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90068.

Q: Could you please furnish me an address where I could write to Michael Jackson? This is my second letter. Please! —L.M. Bateman, Chesapeake, Va.

A: Sorry I took so long, L.M. It's a good thing I'm from Virginia too or I may still have not answered this request. Do you know how boring it is for readers to read endless requests for addresses? It's like reading a phone book. But OK, write to Michael c/o Ziffren Brittenham and Gullen, 2049 Century Park E., Suite 2350, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered. Personal replies cannot be granted.

Remember, don't expect this space to always keep you informed of the video release date of last year's biggest box office hit. Do keep reading (please do!) if you like to venture off the beaten video path and use your home cinema to explore films, specials, concerts and documentaries that get overlooked. Streetwise (1984)

This is not at all an uplifting work to watch, but informative and very moving, nonetheless. Director Martin Bells crafted an eloquent, if unadorned, documentary about the lives (and deaths) of teenage vagrants on the mean streets of the city most researchers say is the best place to live in America ... Seattle, Wash.

Songwriter (1984)

The movie company bungled the release of this film (as Kris Kristofferson wryly explained one night on Letterman) and so it never found the audience it deserved. Too bad, because few films ever manage to muster this much sheer charm and likability. Willie Nelson stars as a ne'er-do-well country music outlaw who just can't seem to get away from lousy agents, promoters, etc. When he enlists the aid and company of his on-again, off-again partner, Blackie (Kristofferson), the troubles only multiply. The film features lots of music and terrific supporting work by Melinda Dillon, Rip Torn and Lesley Ann Warren. It was directed by Alan Rudolph, who also directed the terrific Choose Me.

Michele Lee and Kevin Dobson star as loving couple Mack and Karen MacKenzie when Knots Landing returns for its 11th season Thursday on CBS.

'This Old House' undergoes facelift with a new host

By Shelia Odak

Viewers who are hooked on the PBS program This Old House will be seeing a new face at the helm beginning in October. Steve Thomas will succeed Bob Vila as host of the popular do-it-yourself series.

Vila, who had been with the show since its inception in 1979, was let go because he had appeared in some commercials that created a conflict of interest, causing both a local and a national underwriter to pull their support. When Vila was asked to discontinue participation in the commercials he refused, and was consequently replaced.

Thomas, who will be joining the series' master carpenter Norm Abram, is a writer, craftsman, navigator and sailor. A fan of the show, he is excited with the prospect of being an integral part of it. "I am thrilled to have the opportunity to communicate my love and respect for craftsmanship and excellence," he said.

Russell Morash, the show's creator, director and executive producer, said he knew right away that Thomas was the perfect man for the job. "There was no question in my mind—he was the dream candidate: intelligent, attractive, articulate and an accomplished home restorer in the bargain. His screen test confirmed what we imagined — that Steve Thomas will be a welcome addition to the This Old House team."

Angie Dickinson once again stars in a police drama

By Steven Alan McGaw

Angie Dickinson will pick up a gun again this fall, when NBC airs Prime Target, a new police drama. Dickinson will portray Kelly Mulcahaney, a detective leading a task force charged with investigating the brutal murders of several New York City policewomen. And what a supporting cast: David Soul, Charles Durning, Joe Regalbuto and Yaphet Kotto...

Also on the NBC slate is Lady in a Corner, featuring Brian Keith, Lindsay Frost and starring the legendary Loretta Young. Young stars as the veteran editor of a respected fashion magazine, whose security is suddenly jeopardized when the publication faces a hostile takeover bid...

Peter O'Toole, Phyllis Diller and Kiefer Sutherland will all contribute their voices to a new, animated version of Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite. The film is scheduled for, of course, a Christmas release...

Good news! Post-production work is done on the eagerly anticipated Silent Night, Deadly Night 3: Better Watch Out! Oh boy! Two more surefire screen gems that are currently in the works are Empire of the Rats (not, as you might suppose, a docudrama about the Nixon Administration) and the merry-sounding Psychos on Parade. As the soft drink cups say (for a hearty $2.50, last time I checked), "Escape To The Movies!"

Fourteen Bruce Parents Meet

The Fourteen Bruce Elementary School held its first parent meeting of the school year on September 6 with approximately 90 in attendance.

Mary Sharpless, school principal, welcomed the parents and expressed appreciation for their interest and attendance. He then introduced Linda Feeney, the school's newly appointed Chapter I computer teacher. She conducted the meeting. The agenda included topics such as the Chapter I Program, understanding the California Achievement Test (CAT), and explanation of the Parent Volunteer Program.

Under the direction of Feeney, Fourteen Bruce's Chapter I parent advisory committee presented slides of the Chapter I activities that took place during the 1988-89 school year. Parents were also given the opportunity to sign up for the Parent Volunteer Program.

Feeney then explained the Chapter I Program, which is a federally funded program for children who are educationally deprived in reading and/or mathematics. Fourteen Bruce is one of 14 elementary schools in Garrett County participating in the program.

Feeney explained that the Chapter I Program is a pull-out program, which means that students are pulled out of their regular classroom for instruction in reading and/or mathematics. Students are selected for participation in the program based on their performance on the CAT test. Feeney explained that the CAT test is a norm-referenced test which measures a student's performance in the 40th percentile.

Feeney explained that the Chapter I Program is a supplemental program to the regular classroom instruction. She explained that the program is not a remedial program, but rather a program designed to help students who are performing below the 40th percentile.

Feeney explained that the Chapter I Program is currently serving 90 students in grades one through six. She explained that the program is currently serving students in reading and mathematics. She explained that

Quality Circle Participates In Adopt-A-Highway

The Garrett County Quality Circle of the Maryland State Highway Administration has adopted a portion of highway through Governor William Donald Schaefer's Adopt-A-Highway Program.

The Quality Circle has adopted a three mile section of Rt. 219 starting at the Deep Creek Lake Bridge and running north to Royal Oak Inn.

The first trash pick-up day was Saturday, September 9. A group of nine people gathered 14 garbage bags of trash from along the highway. The group has agreed to pick up trash at least four times a year at this location for a minimum of two years.

The Garrett County Quality Circle is the first group of this nature to participate in Maryland's Adopt-A-Highway Program.

"The Quality Circle is unique in that the people spend their working day in environment of working on the road or in some aspect of making sure that the highways are safe and attractive for you the public. They are taking their free time away from work to insure that their principles are carried out," said a State Highway Administration spokesperson.

"Maryland has some of the most beautiful highways and by-ways one can see in America, roads that are among the best anywhere," the spokesperson continued. "Every year, tens of thousands of visitors travel our highways enjoying our scenery, our people and our places of interest. Garrett County is probably one of the counties in Maryland seeing such a rapid growth in visitors to our area. Unfortunately there are some uncaring and selfish individuals who mar the beauty of our county and of our state with their careless actions. These thoughtless people cost the state $3,000,000 every year to pick up after them. We owe it to ourselves to make a difference and that is why the Garrett County Quality Circle got involved."

The group may redeem recyclable materials that are collected along the roadside, and keep the proceeds. The State Highway Administration will provide each group with: a sign with the group's name for both directions of the roadway; complete and comprehensive safety training classes; safety gear, safety equipment and trash bags; a "Swat Team Working" sign to post during clean-up activities; and assistance in publicizing the group's efforts.

Members of the Garrett County Quality Circle participating in the first trash pick-up were Ronald Friend, Betsy Colaw, Doug Ellis, Sue Filsinger, Robert Upole, Richard Sherwood and Jim Smith. Volunteers were Rosemary Filsinger, Tommy Sharpless and Stephanie Filsinger.

Any group that is interested in getting involved with the Adopt-A-Highway can contact Paul McIntyre or Robert Rowan of the State Highway Administration at (301) 826-8141.

Garrett County Schools "Changing The Course" In Lunch Program

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage
Superintendent of Garrett County Schools

National Cholesterol Education Month (September 1989) provides an opportunity for all of us to focus on a problem common to life in a society which increasingly relies on foods heavy in fat, salt, sugar, and cholesterol. One goal of the cholesterol education campaign is to encourage healthy dietary changes wherever people eat. This would certainly include our own local public schools where an average of 3,000 lunches are served to young people daily. With this thought in mind the Garrett County Board of Education has been studying its school food service program for approximately the past 18 months.

The product of this lengthy study is contained in a report which was submitted to the Board of Education by a group of students, parents, local Board of Education, and State Department staff, as well as Garrett County Health Department personnel, all of whom made up the Food Service Task Force. Although the report studied the financial, legal, and nutritional aspects of the program, the nutritional portion of the study generated the major series of recommendation which, over time if implemented, will result in a series of changes in the current local school food service program.

The basic problem faced by the school food service program is essentially the same as that faced by the local restaurant — that is, how to please the tastes of the customer while at the same time not lose money. But the school food service program is also intended to serve another purpose — to provide a breakfast program in all elementary schools as well as school lunches which are well-balanced nutritionally. In order to meet these three requirements — pleasing to student tastes, nutritionally balanced, and financial solvency — a number of program compromises have been made in the past. First, although all menus are planned in accordance with the National School Lunch Pattern which calls for a meal composed of grain, protein, vegetable and/or fruit, and milk, the offer vs. serve concept of the federal government allows students to select only three of these type items included as part of the meal. Second, as a participant in the United States Department of Agriculture food commodity program the food service program oftentimes has to rely on surplus food commodities which may be high in fat, salt, sugar, or cholesterol. To not use these free commodities would drive the cost of meals up quickly (the price of student meals has remained the same in Garrett County for the past four years and is one of the cheapest student meals in the State of Maryland). To continue to not impact on the already limited resources for education the food service program has implemented an ala carte program for students which although creating additional revenues, admittedly does not provide the most nutritious of food choices.

The task force first concluded that to change the present program would take time and has consequently recommended that changes be implemented gradually with emphasis being placed at the elementary level since it is at this level that student attitudes toward sound eating habits may be more easily influenced and, furthermore, continued as part of one's life. Changes at the middle school and high school levels will be consistent with changes at the elementary

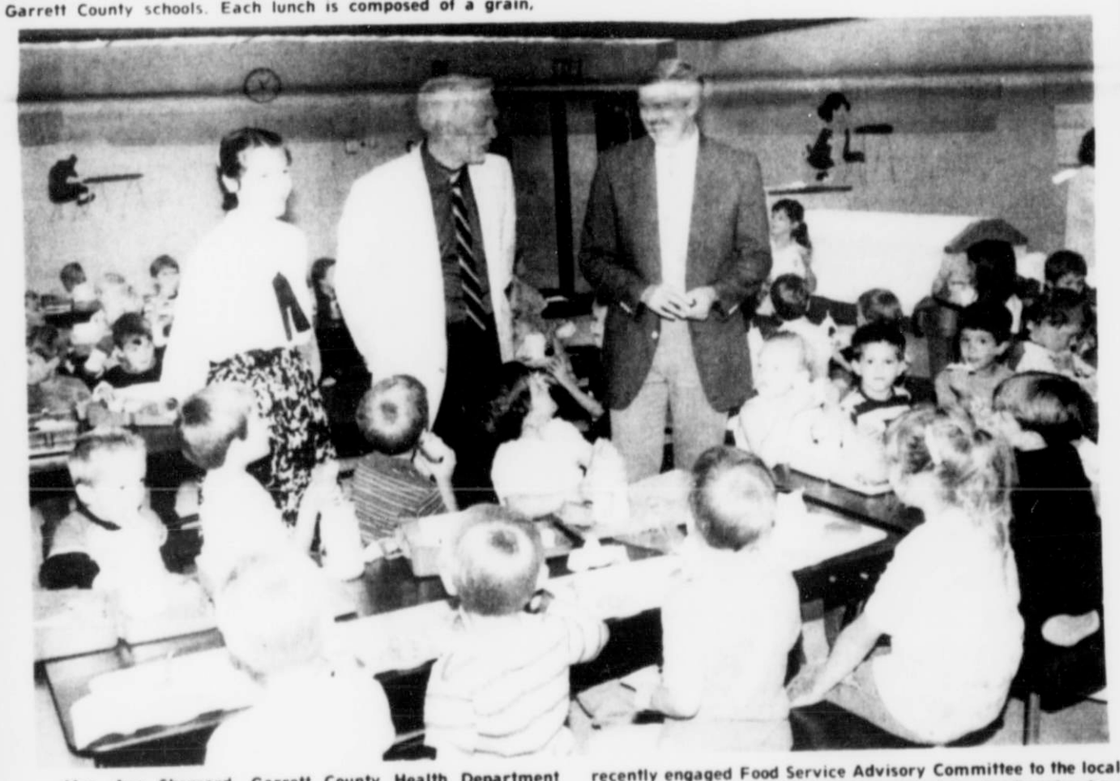
One of the new kindergarten students at the Broad Ford Elementary School, accompanied by his teacher, Randee Sell, receives one of the approximate 3,000 lunches served daily in the Garrett County schools. Each lunch is composed of a grain, protein, vegetable and/or fruit, and milk. However, students may choose only three of the above foods under the "offer versus serve" concept of the federal government.

A second grade student at the Broad Ford Elementary School serves himself a salad for lunch rather than the hot lunch. Although a salad bar is available at only one Garrett County elementary school, both county middle schools and high schools provide this option for students. The salad meal, like the hot lunch, is planned so that a grain, protein, vegetable and/or fruit, and milk are included.



Mrs. Ann Sherrard, Garrett County Health Department Dietitian, Richard Buckingham, supervisory assistant in Food Service, and Tom Fowler, principal of the Broad Ford Elementary School, observe Broad Ford students at lunch. Mrs. Sherrard, two representatives of the Board of Education, three parents, and two secondary level students will make up the recently engaged Food Service Advisory Committee to the local Board of Education. The committee will advise the Board as how to best implement the changes called for in the Changing the Course program while at the same time maintaining financial solvency in the food service program.

Two young Broad Ford students pay for their school lunch. The price of meals to county students has not changed in four years: elementary students paying $.85, middle school students paying $.95, and high school students paying $1.00. These prices are considered one of the lowest, if not the lowest, in the State of Maryland.

Changing Course

level, but it is recognized that the bulk of changes at these two organizational levels of the school system will largely involve the ala carte program.

A basic recommendation which the food service task force made, and which the Board of Education has subsequently approved, is to implement a program developed by the American Cancer Society called Changing the Course. This program emphasizes the following principles:

1. Decrease the fat used in food preparation,
2. Increase the frequency in variety of foods lower in fat,
3. Decrease the use of salt and salty foods,
4. Increase the frequency and variety of foods higher in dietary fiber, and
5. Decrease the use of sugar and sugary foods.

To gradually work towards these goals menu planners will include some foods more often and other foods less often.

As a result of this program, menu planning in our schools has already begun to change course in that new United States Department of Agriculture recipes reduce the amount of fats, salt, and sugar in prepared foods. At the elementary level more fresh fruit is being served in both the breakfast program as well as the lunch program. A very subtle, but significant, change is the serving of whole wheat bread three or four times a week rather than a serving of bread products made with white enriched flour. Finally, in visiting local elementary schools one will still see children eating frozen desserts, but the product will be ice milk or frozen yogurt rather than ice cream. (These are the only ala carte items available to elementary students).

At the middle and high school levels the task of implementing the Changing the Course program will perhaps prove more difficult. Here student tastes may be more discriminating, eating habits are more strongly held, and lastly, the current ala carte offerings are very popular with teenagers, but provide little in nutritional value. Nonetheless, some changes have already begun in that many of the same changes at the elementary level have been made at the secondary level of our schools. In addition, several other changes in the ala carte offerings have begun, including the sale of fresh fruit slush, full strength fruit juice, and fruit yogurt rather than the always popular but less nutritional fruit flavored products. In addition, pizza is being served at all secondary schools on a daily basis as a nutritional alternative to other snack foods. The sale and purchase of ala carte items at both the high schools will remain to be a significant nutritional problem — over time, however, it is felt that this situation will change as the Changing the Course program unfolds.

In order to assist in implementing these changes the Garrett County Board of Education at their monthly meeting on September 14, 1989, established a Food Service Advisory Committee. This committee, composed of three parents (one each representing the elementary, middle school, and high school level), two students (one from the middle schools and one from the high schools), a registered dietitian from the Garrett County Health Department, and two staff from the Board of Education will help monitor the program on a quarterly basis, seeing to it that food menus are planned in accordance with these objectives, ensuring that food purchases are consistent with these goals, and recommending how to change the course in the program without jeopardizing the overall financial solvency of the food service program. Finally, the committee is viewed as an important vehicle for listening to concerns of both students and parents relative to the operation of the school food service program.

Our schools want to, and will, play an important part in making changes wherever people eat. Hopefully, these practices will carry over to the home for as in almost all things associated with educating young people, the home has to serve as a true partner with the schools for maximum benefits to occur.

HEART-HEALTHY FOODS were available for sampling this week at grocery stores across the county. State Addresses Mismedication Of Senior Citizens

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced a program aimed at curbing the problem of mismedication among Maryland's senior citizens receiving Medical Assistance.

A recent report of the Inspector General of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services examined the widespread problem of mismedication among older adults, many of whom are prescribed medications by more than one doctor. The report noted that while individuals 65 or older constitute 12 percent of the country's population, they use 30 percent of the prescriptions and 40 percent of over-the-counter medications.

"The danger arises because some doctors may not be aware that their patients are taking other drugs, and could prescribe something that may cause a harmful drug interaction," Governor Schaefer said in remarks to the Maryland Office on Aging Conference held recently in Columbia.

The program will be administered by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH).

Under the program, the DHMH Medical Care Compliance Administration will send letters to about 5,000 Medicaid and Pharmacy Assistance recipients who are 65 and older and have been identified as receiving prescription drugs from more than one prescriber. The letter lists the prescriptions dispensed in a 30 day period, the names of the prescribers and the order and fill dates. The patients are encouraged to share this information with their doctor at the next appointment.

"The purpose of this is to encourage Medicaid recipients to be knowledgeable and responsible in their use of prescription drugs, and for doctors to consider alternative drugs when there is the potential for dangerous drug interaction," said Governor Schaefer.

In fiscal year 1988, $20 million, or 35 percent of Medicaid pharmacy payments, was paid on behalf of recipients 65 or older. An additional $4.4 million was paid on behalf of Pharmacy Assistance recipients 65 or older. While 21,000 of the users are in nursing facilities, more than 26,000 live in the community in a largely unsupervised environment. Of that 26,000, almost 20 percent received a subsequent prescription from a different prescriber within 30 days of an initial prescription.

CHAIRING COMMITTEE FOR GOP — Anne Haller, McHenry, pictured center foreground, has been selected as chairman of the Decorations Committee for the 25th Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Republican Women to be held in Baltimore October 6-8. Ms. Haller and the 40 members of her committee designed, cut, stitched, and stuffed 260 calico geese which will serve as banquet table decorations for the Convention's dinner on Saturday night. "We wanted to create something that was uniquely 'Maryland,'" said Haller, "and the geese coming back to our Bay in the fall is very much a part of our culture." Haller is one of 60 members of the Convention's Arrangements Committee, chaired by Joyce Lyons Terhes of Calvert County, and one of some 500 Maryland Federation members who will staff the convention as volunteers. The National Federation of Republican Women (NFRW) is comprised of 140,000 members in 2,500 clubs nationwide. The Maryland Federation (MFRW) alone has 48 clubs and 2,200 members in every jurisdiction of the state.

Phone Reporting System Initiated By State Police

The Maryland State Police, in response to rapidly increasing demands for police services, is instituting a statewide Telephone Reporting System that is designed to handle the reporting of certain low priority offenses and incidents.

Citizens may now report the occurrence of selected qualifying offenses to a Maryland State Police installation over the telephone, without the need for a patrol trooper to respond in person.

Colonel Elmer H. Tippett, superintendent of the Maryland State Police stated, "The Telephone Reporting System permits a more cost-effective patrol operation by reducing the man-hour and vehicle costs associated with police responses to routine calls for service. More importantly, the patrol trooper can devote more time to high priority offenses and to proactive patrol activities such as crime and accident prevention."

Troopers have been directed to follow carefully selected criteria to determine if the low priority offense being reported by a citizen will qualify for a telephone report. Calls of an urgent or emergency nature, as well as serious crimes and incidents, will continue to be handled in person by patrol troopers.

If desired, citizens will continue to be able to request the presence of a trooper, regardless of the incident being reported.

Northern Rescue Personnel Sharpen Skills Via Special Training Drill

by Diane Lee

"Medic 3-1, Squad 1, Station 50 . . . on the Accident-Bittinger Road one mile from Accident for a vehicle accident with injuries . . . Possible live powerlines down across the vehicle."

The rescue vehicles kept coming in response to the dispatched emergency call on Wednesday, August 30, but many of the EMS people who normally treat patients stood back and watched as a few medical personnel scurried around, trying to find all the patients and calling on portable radios for more ambulances.

The accident at dusk that evening was only a drill.

"The incident was designed to provide the participants with an exercise in mass casualty treatment," said Dan Beiler, First Lieutenant of Northern Garrett County Rescue Squard.

When the drill was completed it involved three ambulances, the rescue truck and approximately 35 squad members. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department also participated with two pieces of equipment and 10 firemen.

The victims had broken bones, cuts and bruises. One man even looked as if he had gone through the windshield and had a piece of glass sticking out of his back. The injuries were not real, but with the help of makeup done by squad members Linda Beachy, Brenda Durst and Doris Beal, they certainly looked real enough.

Not everything was done exactly right that evening, but it was a learning exercise. A chance to let the EMS personnel — both those who treated the patients and those who stood by and observed — learn from a situation where no one would get hurt if a mistake was made.

"I think things went real well," said Barry Beal, Captain of NGCRS. "It was an excellent learning experience."

With three different video cameras filming the action, the rescue squad can continue to use the situation as an educational tool.

The drill was a success because of the help of victims April Hutchinson; Lisa Barnard; Kim, Randy and Mike Beal; and Amy, Mona and Wayne Mosser. The squad also thanks Allan Fratz of the Accident Garage for donating the station wagon and Wayne Mosser for the use of his land and house for the drill.

For information on becoming a member of NGCRS contact any squad member or call the Grantsville station at 895-5520 or the Accident station at 826-8500.

IT WAS A GRUESOME SCENE, but fortunately it was only a training drill held recently for the members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The drill included a wrecked automobile and incredible make-up jobs on the "patients" to make the situation as realistic as possible for all involved. Above left, EMT Brenda Durst assists wreck "victim" Lisa Bernard, while at right, EMT Doris Beal artistically creates a nasty wound on Ms. Bernard's leg. Below left, left to right, Norman Gnagey, Bill Wilson, and Paul Harmon work together to treat Mike Beal, and below center, squad members Jerry Harris and Mary Shank treat a "seriously injured" Randy Beal. Below right are Allen Fratz, left, who donated an automobile for the exercise, and Wayne Mosser, who donated the use of his land and house.

Writing Family History Workshop Slated At FSC

"I'll write it down someday," you promise your family. But you never do. Maybe you need the structure of a workshop to do it. If so, Frostburg State University offers a course for you.

"Writing Family History" is a new non-credit three-evening course offered through the Continuing Education Program. The class will meet Thursdays, October 5, 12, and 19, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Guild Center 113.

According to instructor Esther Bender of Grantsville, the purpose of the course is not to write a genealogy. The purpose is to make a gift of at least one family story in time for Christmas giving.

The first evening, participants will see ways to turn family stories into gifts: typed and bound pages, illustrated picture books, printed greeting cards, poems, fiction style stories, and personal narratives. "The actual selection and writing of the story will begin with group activities to get participants in touch with themselves, to find a story they would really like to write," Mrs. Bender said. Assignment will be to write a rough draft of the story.

The second evening, participants will read and discuss each other's stories. Rewriting will begin and the assignment will be to put the story in final form.

The third evening, participants will format and paste-up stories. Stories will be finished, if desired, by photocopying. Possible printshop options will be explored.

Mrs. Bender has been an editor of "The Casselman Chronicle," a publication of The Springs Historical Society. She has sold numerous short stories and articles for children and writes features and fillers for several local newspapers. She is marketing her own historical "StoryCards" through local gift shops.

She says, "I am always in the process of writing family history, collecting and recording bits of information found here and there, often using fiction styles to make historical facts come alive. I'll probably write my own story along with the participants. If there are people out there who have a story to tell but feel they can't write, tell them to come. This course is not about writing correct English."

A textbook is not required, but the instructor recommends a book which participants may want to order from the publisher: Families Writing by Peter R. Stillman, $15.95. Send to Writer's Digest Books, P.O. Box 12948, Cincinnati, Ohio 45212-0948.

Participants may register for the course by contacting the Office of Graduate Studies and Extended Education at (301) 689-4231. There will also be walk-in registration and fee collection in the class meeting room at 6:30 p.m. on October 5.

Crime Solvers Plans Fundraiser

REAL ESTATE
DEEP CREEK REALTY
BY ROBERT HUEBNER
DEEP CREEK REALTY

HURRY UP & WAIT?

Once you decide to list your home for sale with the best real estate agent in town, how long will it take to sell? How long a time should you give the agent to sell your home?

Probably, the best answer is to "be reasonable". Is a reasonable time 30 days? What about 300 days? Of course, there is no "pat" answer.

Take a look at how you can determine the right amount of time. Of course, each real estate market is different. It takes longer to sell a home in some areas than others. A home that may sell in fifteen days in one city may take eighty-seven days in another, or even nine to ten months in yet another.

Actually, the time needed to attract a buyer can be made longer or shorter by offering higher or lower prices, and better or less desirable terms and amenities.

Ask your agent to provide information relative to current selling times in your neighborhood. Discuss the factors which may help or hinder the sale of your home, and ask for your agent's best estimate of selling time for your home. Then, allow the agent of your choice the appropriate amount of time to properly market your home.

By giving a reasonable length of time in which to perform, you will have the complete loyalty of your agent, and will no doubt be pleased with the results — the ultimate sale of your home.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located in the McHenry Plaza.

Financial Counseling Service Volunteer Training Offered

Financial counseling service for individuals has been available through the Cooperative Extension Service for the past two years. Because of the increasing demand for this service, a series of six training sessions for volunteers to become counselors has been planned for October to mid-November, according to Irmgard Koscielniak, local Extension agent.

The topics stressed in the training sessions are value clarification, goal-setting, spending plan development, credit use and negotiation, insurance analysis, tax strategies, savings basics and counseling techniques. A comprehensive financial counseling handbook will be used by each volunteer. Among information on the above topics, it includes forms used with clients, case studies and a self-graded quiz. Participants are required to pass a take-home exam before becoming counselors and will receive certificates.

Counselors are asked to work with two or more clients each year. The Extension Agent is available to answer questions and help, if needed. Volunteers can be private individuals, religious leaders or staff from public service organizations. According to Ms. Koscielniak, volunteers state that they greatly benefit from the program as they are able to simultaneously help people while improving their own personal financial situation through the educational and training program.

Dates set aside for the training series are Fridays in October. November time will be determined after consulting with potential participants.

For more information, persons should contact Ms. Koscielniak, at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland; telephone (301) 334-1990.

"People who want to register for the training, should contact us soon. Only a limited number can be accepted," Ms. Koscielniak said.

Amish, Mennonite Historians Meet In Grantsville

A group of over 40 persons interested in local Amish and Mennonite history met in Grantsville on September 2 for the annual meeting of the Casselman River Amish and Mennonite Historians.

Bennie C. Yoder, Springs, Pa., shared experiences in a project of listing the Amish cemeteries in Somerset County, Pa., and Garrett County, ranging geographically from Accident to Johnstown, Pa. Laban Peachey read a formal tribute in memory of Ivan J. Miller, church leader, historian, and charter member of the Historians, who died July 28, 1989.

A show-and-tell featured heirlooms brought to the meeting by various members, including a decorative towel made by Elizabeth Brenneman Lee at the age of 12 in 1828, presented by Bennie C. Yoder. Naomi and Paul E. Yoder presented a piece of siding from the house in which they now live, between St. Paul and Summit Mills, Pa., inscribed with the year in which the house was built, 1843.

A major interest of the Historians is the operation of an archives, officially opened two years ago in Grantsville. Archivist Rachel Miller reported on current collections, including a recent gift of a set of more than 60 bound volumes of the Amish Mennonite publication Herold der Wahrheit, which includes most of the issues from its inception in 1912 to the mid-1950s. The volumes were donated by Catherine J. Miller of Grantsville, who had assembled the copies of the magazine and hand bound them in her book repair shop.

In the business session, Kenneth L. Yoder, Grantsville, was elected to a five-year term on the executive committee. Other committee members are Paul E. Yoder, Meyersdale, chairman; David I. Miller, Irwin, Ohio, secretary; Bennie C. Yoder, Springs, and Laban Peachey, Goshen, Ind. All members of the committee are natives of the Casselman River area in Somerset and Garrett counties. Current membership in the organization comes from various states.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the activities of the Historians. Membership is open to persons interested in the purposes and activities of the organization. Information is available by writing to The Casselman Historians, P.O. Box 591, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Update on Lyme's Disease

In an earlier news note I informed you about the seriousness of Lyme's Disease that is carried by the Deer Tick. A couple of weeks ago a person brought a Deer Tick to me that had bitten her. Last week she stopped by and said her doctor had confirmed a positive test and that she had contacted Lyme's Disease. If you would like more information on the Lyme's Disease contact my office.

Clean Up Your Garden

One of the most effective ways of reducing weeds, insects and diseases in your garden is to clean it up. Remove all of the vegetation from the area. The old vegetable plants and weeds will harbor many insects and diseases that can attack your plants next year. Also, it is a good practice to sow a small grain such as Rye to provide a cover crop for winter and early spring. Sow 4 lbs. of Rye per 1,000 sq. ft. Next spring plow the Rye down for fertilizer.

Organic-Grown Fruits and Vegetables

The demand for organic-grown produce is increasing tremendously. Over the past two years chemical pesticides have received a lot of bad publicity. Personally, I don't see how we could even come close to supplying the food needs without the use of pesticides; however, I am sure there could be a reduced amount used without affecting production. On the other hand, many people will pay more for fruit and vegetables that are organically grown even if the quality is not as good. You, as a producer, must have more money for the product because of lower yields. If you are interested in becoming an organic grower, let me know. We are going to try to get a group of growers for organic products. This winter we will have workshops on techniques for growing organically. Phone 334-1990 or contact the Garrett County Extension Office, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

Farm Bureau Directors Plan Annual Banquet

Members of the Garrett County Farm Bureau Board of Directors met September 14 to discuss the upcoming membership banquet and to appoint a nominating committee to chose a new slate of directors for a membership vote.

The board is served by five directors from each area who serve a three-year term. This year five directors' terms are up — Robert Bender, Larry Meyers, Lowell Merrill, Elwood Sanders and Mike Steyer. At the annual membership banquet, October 20, a slate of nominations will be presented for a membership vote to replace the five out-going directors. Members will also vote to send delegates to the state convention in Hagerstown, December 4,5 and 6.

A committee was also named to develop resolutions to be voted on at the banquet. Chairman of the resolution committee is Brooks Hamilton. Committee members are: Charlie Enlow, Elwood Sanders, Art Lake, Clark Kolb, Larry Sebold and Bernice Kepple. The committee will meet on October 5 at 8 p.m. at the Oak-Mar Restaurant in Oakland.

The annual Allegany/Garrett Farm Bureau Legislative Dinner for directors and their wives, will be held at the Bittinger Community Building on September 27 at 7 p.m. Attending will be Maryland Farm Bureau's legislative liaisons Jack Miller and Norman Astle, along with local and state politicial representatives.

Nationwide Insurance Agent Jerry Ferguson reported on crop insurance. He brought up an important point that farmers with crop insurance should know. A crop insurance policy is automatically renewable. If a farmer doesn't want crop insurance next year, he must write a letter to his agent cancelling the policy.

Farm Bureau President William DeWitt told the directors that Garrett County has the highest percentage of farmer-memberships in the state, 75 percent. He also reminded those present about the farm conservation plans, for highly erodible land, federal law says must be on file at the county ASCS office by December 31. DeWitt told the directors he felt it was a director's duty to ask farmers if they have such a plan.

Director Delmar Yoder reported to the group on a visit to his veal operation and Carl Bender's dairy farm by the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee and its chairman, Senator Clarence W. Blount. This visit was a result of an invitation given to the committee last session when they heard testimony from many veal growers and dairy farmers in this area on a proposed veal bill. Yoder said the visit was very successful and quite a learning experience for the committee, most of whom had never seen a veal operation.

Federal Crop Programs Affect Livestock Industry

Congress should carefully consider the effects of federal crop programs on the livestock industry as it drafts the 1990 farm bill, the American Farm Bureau Federation told the Senate Agriculture Committee. Dave McClure, president of the Montana Farm Bureau, told the committee that feed costs account for about half the total production costs for livestock and poultry producers.

Citing figures for 1988 showing feed expenses at $21 billion, McClure said, "A 10-cents per bushel shift in prices due to farm programs results in a $500-million change in feed costs" for livestock producers. He told the committee that livestock producers are very much concerned about farm program crops pricing policy, acreage reduction programs and commodity stocks policies. "These farm program tools affect the price and availability of feedstuffs which have a major impact on the profitability of livestock enterprises," according to McClure.

Farming In Maryland

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

The Montana farmer and rancher added that the price support loan programs was designed as a marketing tool for grain producers. But Farm Bureau does not believe the program should be used as a price enhancement tool, "because that would discourage the selling of grain and encourage the buildup of excess supplies," said McClure.

McClure told the committee that livestock and poultry producers have suffered substantial economic losses in the past because of the way the farmer-held reserve is administered. Grain prices increase when grain enters the farmer-held reserve, he said, and then once the grain is in the reserve, "Prices are forced sharply higher at the first sign of a smaller crop because the reserve supplies are locked away from the market until grain prices reach the release price. Livestock and poultry producers ultimately pay the price in higher feed costs."

Congress must keep in mind the balance wheel relationship between crop and livestock production when developing the 1990 farm bill, said McClure. "We must make sure that one group does not benefit at the expense of others."

The Montana farmer and rancher also told the committee that increasingly stringent environmental constraints placed on agriculture are affecting the ability to produce food and fiber. "While it is easy for someone else to say what should be done in a farming or ranching operation, it's the role of the farmer as a manager of resources to actually make production decisions," McClure said. "As long as the focus is on what is feasible from a management standpoint, strides can be made in improving the environment."

He said the impacts of the 1985 farm bill on conservation compliance are far-reaching and are yet to be fully implemented. "It would be prudent to leave well enough alone and let the 1985 legislation run its course rather than developing additional restrictions for farmers to comply with before the conservation programs imposed under the 1985 farm bill are fully implemented."

McClure said the 1990 Farm Bill should address the need for additional research on poultry and livestock production. "In the ever changing world, failure to constantly improve production will result in the U.S. falling behind our competitors."

Kleckner's Column

By Dean Kleckner

American Farm Bureau Federation

HOW FAR WE'VE COME

Editor's Note: The following are excerpts from a speech presented by American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner to a rural-urban luncheon in Modesto, California, on August 24. The comments describe how far we've come in 75 years in terms of the variety, quality and year-round availability of food products, as well as the farmers' role as the care taker of the land.

Seventy-five years is a mighty long time, expecially when measured against the background of this young nation. Just think of all of the changes in farming and everything else that has taken place in 75 years. Back then, a penny still counted. "A penny saved was a penny earned." These days we're talking about doing away with a penny because it has so little value. Today, A dollar saved is ten cents earned. Humorists tell us it takes ten times as much money to live beyond our means now than it did 75 years ago.

Back then, off-season fresh fruit and vegetables were curiosities. Most people didn't know about grapefruit, head lettuce or most of the table grape varieties. Back then, you carried your own bag, basket or box to the grocery store because they didn't have paper sacks.

Most of what you bought came in bulk anyway, hundred-pound sacks of sugar and flour. Dry beans, rice, peanuts and lots of other things sat around the store in sacks and bins and were sold by the pound. Pickles were in barrels, crackers came in tins. Fresh milk meant you kept a goat or cow. Bread and cake and pie and most cookies came from your own hot kitchen. Seventy-five years ago, we didn't have paper towels or napkins, plastic anything . . . sliced bread, packaged ice cream. And other than an occasional orange, the only fresh fruit available was home-grown and in season.

I mentioned grapefruit, most U.S. citizens had never seen an avocado, a mango, a papaya, or any of the "ethnic" vegetables now becoming popular. And of course, they knew nothing about kiwi fruit. There were no detergents, no aspirin, no nylon, rayon, mylar, no trash bags, video centers, radio boom boxes or traffic gridlock. A good piece of furniture cost all of $30. And, no, you can't go back.

Besides, it wasn't all that good. City dwellers paid about double what they now pay for food and, much of it was unreliable or unwholesome. Apples were scabby and wormy. Hens laid eggs in the tall grass where they stayed in the heat until found. After a week or so when enough were accumulated, they went to town. Postal mailers were available so that "really fresh" eggs could be sent from the farm to city relatives.

Kerosene or raw table salt was about the only "herbicide." They worked, but it was a form of scorched-earth policy. Picking bugs by hand and fly-swatting were the only pesticides, unless you counted kerosene again, or ground tobacco leaves. Flies could hatch quicker than you could swat, so you never gained on them. In most homes, "house flies" were so thick that one used a screen-covered pie safe in the kitchen; and, we had to keep lids on our jelly jars, sugar bowls and butter dishes. How long has it been since you really needed a cover on the butter dish and sugar bowl? Pesticides made the difference.

People tell me that it you knew what was on the feet of a common housefly (who may have been a barn fly before he flew into the house) you'd do nothing else until it was dead. And a disease-carrying mosquito can kill you. The people who suggest doing away with farm chemicals are not the people who expect to hoe the rows and chop out the brush. And, I suspect the people who want us to stop using all insect sprays would be very upset if they had to eat worm-filled apples and diseased fruit.

Recently, I spoke before the national food and energy council. I reminded these folks that farmers and ranchers were the first environmentalists. Farmers and ranchers were the first to be truly concerned about soil and water conservation — the first to voluntarily do something about soil erosion and water quality in any meaningful way.

We are the original wildlife conservators. While others talk about it, we are the ones who do it year in and year out. We, farmers and ranchers, provide the food, the water and the habitat for most of the nation's wildlife. And from everything I see, the birds and the bunnies are not doing too badly. We do this as a matter of course; without much thought, without pay, and often, without appreciation. But then, we're rather used to it.

Along the way, we've "invented" our own unique brand of American agriculture that has been tremendously productive and greatly competitive. We've refused to be "peasants" as is true of most of the farmers in the world. With the help and understanding of others — Congress, educators, land-grant colleges and the Cooperative Extension Service — and with the support of those organizations we have built to help us — Farm Bureau and our system of farmer cooperatives — we have become knowledgeable, articulate, innovative and responsible business people. As such, we work for a profit.

I grant you that farming can be fun — of a sort — but not a one of us farm for the "fun" of it. We farm for profit (or, at least the prospect of profit). I don't know of any farmer or rancher in the world who can stay in business because he likes the great outdoors. We farm to make a profit just like any other businessman and, if we don't make a rather consistent profit, we're out of business, just like any other businessman.

There are people who do not understand that — or they pretend not to understand it because they have a different agenda for American agriculture. It's an agenda of agricultural restraint, of deep regulation, of minimum input, and minimum opportunity. An agenda of low production that soon would translate into high food costs.

A friend of a friend has just returned from Sweden. He and his wife thought it was a lovely place with bright buildings and lively commerce. But he complained that the food prices were terrible. For one example, $12 for a hamburger. There was a Pizza Hut near their hotel, so they went over to beat the high cost of eating. They didn't do so well. A medium-sized pizza came to $30 — without coffee. People in the Soviet Union pay double our food costs, and they must stand in individual lines to buy it. One line for meat, another for bread, and so on. Here, we spend around 11 percent of our disposable income for our choice of thousands of foods in huge grocery stores.

Gypsy Moth Check

Wilbur Myers, in the Kitzmiller area, has noticed a small fly-like insect that appears to be destroying the Gypsy Moth egg mass. Wilbur said the flies were most active when the weather was warm. If you would check egg masses on your woodlots and find the fly on the egg mass, I would appreciate hearing from you. One never knows when an important predator may become populated to the point that it could help control the Gypsy Moth population.

Don't Cut Alfalfa Now!

Even though you need the feed and the alfalfa looks pretty good don't cut until we have a hard killing frost and the plants go dormant. The only exception would be if you plan to rotate out of alfalfa next spring. Even when cutting after dormancy, cut the alfalfa high leaving approximately 4 inches of stubble.

AFBF Supports Animal Patents For Biotechnology

The future competitiveness of American agriculture must be protected through animal patents, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation. If research and development costs cannot be recovered through patent protection, the U.S. will fall behind other nations aggressively pursuing biotechnology and genetic research on animals, said Donald Haldeman, president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau in Congressional testimony representing the national organization.

"Animal products account for fully one-half of all U.S. agriculture revenues," Haldeman told the Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice Subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee. "However, increased foreign competition, a limited adoption of new technologies and increased consumer health concerns have threatened this market."

Haldeman said biotechnology offers the promise of "dramatic improvements" in the quality, nutritional value, product range and economics of animal production. He cited a National Research Council study which revealed a marked increase in private sector interest in agricultural research. "This investment in agriculture is directly related to the fact that biotechnology's unique genetic products can be patented and companies can thus recover their research costs," said Haldeman.

Farm Bureau has been urging Congress since 1987 to encourage development in biotechnology to preserve the U.S. position in agricultural trade. "While biotechnology offers our farmers these types of improvements, we need to keep in mind that it also offers our competitors the same advantages," said Haldeman. To protect the future competitive ability of American farmers, "we favor strong support to encourage these new technologies."

"The option of deliberately delaying technological progress to avoid anticipated problems does not exist for very long in one nation if other countries refuse to follow this strategy," Haldeman told the subcommittee. "At the same time, we acknowledge a need for a strong regulatory apparatus that can oversee these new technologies and offer the public the necessary assurance that all risks and benefits have been duly considered."

Grantsville BPW Hears Volunteer Of Peace Corps

The Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women's Club met at the Holiday Inn in Grantsville on September 18.

Margaret Matthews, Peace Corps volunteer in Togo, Africa, friend of and serving the same time as the late Dr. Scott Glotfelty, presented a program on opportunities for women in Peace Corps work. Matthews shared pictures, art objects, and many stories of the people and her two-year stay in Togo. Matthews is from up-state New York and is visiting for several days with Ruth DiPaolo, mother of Dr. Glotfelty.

On August 23 six women from the club, being the first in Garrett or Allegany County to participate, began the one-mile clean-up on Route 219 in conjunction with the Adopt-A-Highway Program. A tentative date for another day of clean-up was set.

Woman/Employer of the Year chairperson, Betty Jo Swauger, presented the names of Dr. Amy Harman, president of the Grantsville Area BPW and associate professor at Frostburg State University, as Woman of the Year, and Dr. Stephen J. Herman, president of Garrett Community College, as Employer of the Year. These recipients will be honored at the October meeting.

Tickets for the 50/50 drawing, benefiting Project 2012 and other club activities, were distributed to members present. A drawing will be held at the November Christmas Auction. The club is also selling Benson fruit cakes, pound cakes and pecan logs as a fund-raising activity.

BPW is opened to all working women. For more information concerning the Grantsville Area BPW, persons may contact Ruth DiPaolo at 245-4198.

GRANTSVILLE BPW ADOPTS-A-HIGHWAY — The Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women have adopted a section of highway on Rt. 219, one mile north of U.S. Rt. 40. The BPW is the first civic organization in Garrett County to participate in Governor Schaefer's Adopt-A-Highway Program. The group had its first litter pick-up on August 23, when they collected approximately 12 bags of litter. "By adopting this stretch of highway in their community, they will be able to make a noticeable difference in the area. They received safety training and gear as well as tips on how to pick up and recycle trash," said a State Highway Administration spokesperson. "The SHA provided the BPW with a sign along their stretch of adopted road so everyone in the community could know about their efforts. The BPW group has agreed to pick up trash at least four times a year. We all owe it to ourselves to make a difference. BPW is making a difference and other groups can too. Those interested should call State Highway Administration at (301) 826-8141." Pictured above, left to right, are Ruth Newman, Earlenna Tressler, Ruth DiPaolo, Amy Harman and Sharon Lowrey.

"Baby Safety Week" Underway

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) and the Juvenile Products Manufacturer's Association (JPMA), has announced the observance of "Baby Safety Week" this week, September 15-23. The observance is focusing on the safe use of nursery equipment, juvenile furniture, other children's products and certain household equipment.

For children under 5, nursery products were involved in an estimated 7,200 injuries treated in U.S. hospital emergency rooms in 1988. There was an average 76 deaths annually to children involving these products for 1983-1987.

Items such as cribs, playpens, high chairs, strollers, walkers, gates and enclosures must comply with mandatory regulations established by the CPSC, such as technical requirements for small parts, sharp edges and a ban on excess lead in paint. Children's furniture displaying the JPMA's seal of approval indicates the furniture has complied with mandatory and voluntary requirements.

"Some juvenile furniture is potentially dangerous whether it's old or new," said David L. Resh, director of the DHMH Office of Food Protection and Consumer Health Services.

THE COUNTRY GOSPEL SINGERS will appear at the Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church on Sunday, September 24, at 7 p.m. The group appears for "good old-time gospel sings" throughout Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

"But there are some guidelines parents can follow in order to ensure the safety of young children."

*When using an older crib or purchasing a new one, be aware of the widely-spaced side slats or decorative cut-outs along the top edge of the head and foot boards. These areas have been the cause of injury due to head entrapment. Also, cribs that have been designed with knobs or posts can cause injuries by entangling clothing as children attempt to climb out.

*Mesh-type drop-side playpens, when used with one side down, pose a serious problem. Should an infant roll into the loose pocket formed by the dropped mesh side and the floor, the child could become trapped and suffocate. New mesh playpens contain a warning label cuationing consumers never to leave an infant in the playpen with the drop side down.

*Most injuries associated with high chairs result from falls. Check the chair for stability. Always use restraining straps when a child is in the high chair. Do not rely upon the tray to restrain the child.

*Those injuries most associated with strollers are pinched fingers and falls from tipping. The base of a stroller should be wide enough to prevent tipping, even when the baby leans to one side. Don't hang pocket books or shopping bags on the handle as this affects stability. Keep seat belts securely attached and make sure the brake works properly.

*Injuries occurring to young children while using walkers are due to falls down stairs or tipping over. Place guards at stairways or keep doors closed. Keep the walker on smooth surfaces — rugs and raised thresholds can cause them to tip over.

*An entrapment/strangulation hazard exists in accordion-style gates and enclosures that have large V-shaped openings between the slats. Although these gates and enclosures are no longer being manufactured in the U.S., they may be available in second-hand stores, garage sales, etc. Consumers are urged to use only types that have a straight top edge or ones with small V's or small diamond-shaped openings between the slats.

The CPSC also warns that buckets filled with water or other liquids, especially the large five-gallon size, present a drowning hazard to small children. Sixty-seven drowning deaths are attributed to the buckets during 1985-1987, mostly to children 8-12 months old. Most of these drownings occurred in five-gallon plastic buckets or containers being used for mopping floors or for other household chores.

While large buckets or containers appear to be the most hazardous, the CPSC warns consumers to never leave any bucket of water unattended where small children may gain access to it.

Large five-gallon plastic or metal containers are used for bulk or commercial-sized quantities of products including food, paint and spackling compound. When emptied of their original contents, these containers are sometimes re-used as buckets by consumers. Similar five-gallon containers are also sold new in stores as large volume household buckets.

The five-gallon bucket is particularly dangerous (even when only partly filled) because its heavier weight makes it more stable than a smaller bucket and unlikely to tip over when a child uses it to pull up.

The CPSC and the American Window Covering Manufacturers Association (AWCMA) also warns parents about the danger of accidental strangulation if young children become entangled in pull cords for window blinds or draperies.

Window covering cords are one of the products most frequently associated with strangulations of children under five.

The CPSC and the AWCMA urge parents to keep cords out of the reach of young children by tying or hanging the cord at or near the top of window coverings. Remember that cribs and furniture placed near windows give children additional height to reach the cords.

The Bond is authorized by and issued in full conformity with the provisions of Sections 31 to 37, inclusive, of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1987 Replacement Volume and 1988 Cumulative Supplement) (the "Enabling Act") and Sections 18-59 and 18-61 of the Charter of Town of Grantsville, being a part of the Code of Public Local Laws of Garrett County (1971 Edition, as amended) and Ordinance No. 89-1 of the Town of Grantsville, enacted by the Council and approved by the Mayor on September 18, 1989.

The principal of and interest on the Bond will be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the time of payment and will be paid by check or draft mailed (by depositing such check or draft, correctly addressed and postage prepaid, in the United States mail on or before the payment date) to the registered owner at his address as it appears in the books kept for the purpose at the Town Office, if such address is within the United States of America and otherwise, principal of and interest on the Bond shall be paid at the Town office in Grantsville, Maryland.

In the event that the successful bidder should fail to comply with the terms of its bid, the proceeds of its check will be retained by the Town as and for full liquidated damages. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

Bids will be opened promptly at 12:00 noon local time on October 12, 1989. The award will be made as soon as practicable thereafter to the bidder offering the best responsible bid in compliance with the terms and conditions set forth in this Notice, except that no bid will be accepted in an amount less than the principal amount of the Bond.

THE TOWN RESERVES THE RIGHT TO REJECT ANY AND ALL BIDS.

If two or more bidders offer identical bids deemed to be the best responsible bids, the Bond may be awarded to any one such bidder. The decision of the Mayor or, in his absence, the Clerk-Treasurer, shall be final and binding on all bidders.

Upon full payment of the amount of the successful bid, less the deposit theretofore made, the bond will be delivered as soon as practicable, upon due notice, in either Grantsville or Baltimore, Maryland. Delivery elsewhere will be at the expense of the successful bidder.

The Bond described herein is a general obligation bond of Town of Grantsville to the payment of which the full faith and credit and unlimited taxing power of the Town have been irrevocably pledged.

The issuance and sale of the Bond will be subject to legal approval by Shapiro and Olander, Baltimore, Maryland bond counsel ("Bond Counsel") and copies of their opinion will be delivered upon request, without charge, to the successful bidder of the Bond. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a certificate stating that there is no litigation pending or threatened affecting the validity of the Bond.

In the opinion of the Bond Counsel, the interest on the Bond is excludable from gross income for federal income tax purposes under existing statutes, regulations, and decisions unless the Bond is acquired by the United States of America and sold on an insured basis from either the Rural Development Insurance Fund or the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund, as provided by 7 U.S.C. 1929a(h) and the next to the last sentence of 7 U.S.C. 1926(a) (1).

In the opinion of Bond Counsel, the principal of and interest on the Bond in the hands of the owner or owners thereof from time to time shall be and remain exempt from taxation of any kind or nature whatsoever by the State of Maryland and by any county, municipal corporation, or other political subdivision thereof; no opinion is expressed as to Maryland estate or inheritance taxes, or Maryland taxes on financial institutions measured by income or any other Maryland taxes not levied or assessed directly on the Bond its transfer or the interest therefrom.

In Ordiance No. 89-1 the Town covenanted that it will comply with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable to the Bond, including, without limitation, the provisions regarding the timing of the expenditure of the proceeds of the Bond, the use of such proceeds and the facilities financed with such proceeds, the restriction of investment yields, the filing of information with the Internal Revenue Service, and the rebate of certain earnings resulting from the investment of the proceeds of the Bond. The Town further covenanted that it shall make such use of the proceeds of the Bond, regulate the investment of the proceeds thereof and take such other and further actions as may be required to maintain the exemption from Federal income taxation on the Bond.

The Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, contains a number of additional provisions relating to the Federal income tax effects of ownership of the Bond, including, but not limited to, minimum tax provisions. Prospective bidders may wish to consult their own tax advisers as to the tax effects, if any, of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, in their particular circumstances.

In Ordinance No. 89-1, the Town designated the Bond a "qualified tax-exempt obligation" for purposes of Section 265(b) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, relating to the deduction for that portion of a financial institution's interest expense which is allocable to tax-exempt interest.

Prospective bidders may obtain the Bid Form upon request made to the Clerk-Treasurer, Grantsville, Maryland, 21536. Copies of the Town's financial statements will be available for inspection by prospective bidders during regular business hours at the Town Office at any time prior to 12:00 noon local time on October 12, 1989. TYVEK reduces heat transfer through walls.

Independent laboratory tests report heat transfer through an insulated wall can be reduced by one-third with TYVEK. Tests used 2" x 4" frame wall with 3½" R-11 insulation. Air infiltration and heat transfer reductions were measured on the same wall before and after applying TYVEK.

Tests on actual homes may differ due to variables already listed.

TYVEK reduces air change rates.

Tests conducted by the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) reported a 35 percent reduction in air change in a home wrapped with TYVEK. The NBS conducted standard blower-door tests on a four-year-old home built by the NAHB Research Foundation. The original siding was then removed, TYVEK applied and a similar type of aluminum siding was put back on. After the installation of TYVEK, the same blower test showed a 35% reduction in air change rates.

Results on other homes may be more or less than these test findings depending on a number of variables including weather, location, house structure, insulation and consumer lifestyle.

Independent laboratory tests demonstrate the effectiveness of TYVEK housewrap.

Two Face Charges Of Assault With Intent To Murder

Two area men were recently arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder, in connection with two separate incidents that occurred last weekend, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Paladin Shane Roy, 26, Kitzmiller, was arrested Sunday for allegedly attempting to stab his wife, Ruth, and striking her in the head.

According to police reports, Roy was engaged in an altercation with his wife at their Spring St. residence, when his wife ran to a neighbor, Golda Diane Paugh, for assistance. Paladin allegedly followed his wife to the Paugh residence carrying a knife, but was denied entrance. According to police reports, he then kicked out a window in the door and entered the home. Roy then allegedly lunged at his wife in an attempt to stab her. Police reports indicate that Mrs. Roy was struck in the head, but sustained no serious injuries from the incident.

According to the arresting officer, Detective Randy L. Sines, Roy is charged with breaking and entering, assault with intent to murder, two counts of assault and battery, reckless endangerment to the lives of others, inhaling toxic vapors, trespass and destruction of property.

Paladin Roy is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

An Oakland man was also arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder, following a separate incident

TRANSCON RUNNERS PASS THROUGH COUNTY — A group of 20 of the world's top marathon runners left San Francisco City Hall on September 1, to begin a non-stop relay run to the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., to raise $5 million to combat drug abuse. The American Transcontinental Relay, also known as "Transcon '89," was planned to raise permanent funding for ADAPT, America's Drug Abuse Prevention Team. The relay passed through Garrett County Monday afternoon and was completed this week in Washington, with President George Bush running the last mile of the event with the Transcon team. The runners ran round the clock, each taking one-hour segments. Above, U.S. Marine Major Alex Wamsley is met at the West Virginia-Maryland border on U.S. Rt. 50 by local runner Mike Kozier, representing the Garrett Sports League, who kept Wamsley company for about two miles to Red House. Pictured center is Linda Elam, another member of the team. Other team members included Chuck Jones, world 100-mile recordholder, and Kathy D'Onofrio, Western States 100 champion. Local persons can contribute to the ADAPT program simply by dialing 1-900-773-4444, a call that will cost $2, 87 cents of which will be donated to ADAPT. The Transcon runners also broke the transcontinental relay record established in 1986.

Brenda Brosnihan Interviewed For Reebok Video

Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop and coach of the Aerobic Diehards, recently traveled to Cincinnati with the youth team where they performed at the open competition of the Reebok National Aerobic Championships. While at the competition, Pam Schwayder, head of promotions for Reebok Shoe Company, held an extensive interview with Ms. Brosnihan. Reebok contracted a company called Video Design & Production, Inc. to film the interview along with many other contest highlights.

Ms. Schwayder said she plans to use the video as part of an in-depth presentation that will be given to the upper personnel at Reebok. "The interview went very well," Schwayder said. "Brenda gave me so much good information. We can only hope now that some other people in the company will share my enthusiasm about the Diehards."

Also interviewed were two of the Aerobic Diehards, Joy McCain and Cindy Tichnell.

Frank Marino, president of the Video Design Company, plans to put together his own fitness documentary to share on TV programs. Marino said he was so impressed with the many different movement programs, personal, and career accomplishments of Ms. Brosnihan, that he stated he would like to do a feature story about Brenda's Body Shop.

Herman Presents Positive Outlook At GCC Forum

At an all-college forum last week, Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, presented a positive picture for the future of the institution declaring, "We are now free of the problems of the past and can now determine our own destiny."

Pointing to an 11 percent increase in credit enrollment for the fall semester, Dr. Herman announced that the college had experienced a record F.T.E. in fiscal 1989, with a total of 687.6. Additionally, he stated that the fourth successive unqualified audit had just been completed, showing that the college's financial status was "very strong."

Dr. Herman then outlined his goals for the coming year, beginning with the accreditation visit of the Middle States Association small team set for October 24-25. Members of the team will be looking specifically at areas that had been identified during the 1988 accreditation team visit and that have subsequently been addressed by the college administration and staff.

A second goal that is being realized is the establishment of the GCC Foundation where efforts to develop an endowment fund for the college are

Parents Advised To Be Aware Of Head Lice

For children, the start of school each fall means reading assignments, tests, reports and for some, head lice. Every year, outbreaks of head lice, or pediculosis, are reported among Maryland school children.

Contrary to the opinion of many parents, however, schools are rarely the source of the infestation, according to Dr. Gene Wood, an entomologist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

"Teachers or school nurses are often the first to identify head lice, so many people assume the children are picking up the parasites at school," Wood explains. "However, since head lice can't fly, jump, or crawl from one person to another, children aren't going to get them just by sitting next to a classmate with the insects."

The sharing of brushes and, to a lesser extent, combs — a behavior most common among young siblings and close friends — appears to be the primary culprit in the transmission of lice, according to Wood. Although other routes of transmission, such as hats and coats hung up next to each other, have been examined, the resulting data are inconsistent.

Firemen's Events Scheduled For 22nd Annual Autumn Glory Festival

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will open Garrett County's 22nd Annual Autumn Glory Festival by hosting a variety of events on Thursday, October 12, in downtown Oakland.

The first event on the Autumn Glory Agenda will be an Oktoberfest meal held at the Oakland Fire Hall on Third Street, as the local firemen bring "a little of old Germany" to Garrett County with German-style food and drink. Advance tickets for the dinner will be on sale at noon at the Fire Hall, and the meal will be served from 4 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

The Firemen's Parade featuring bands, drill teams, fire equipment, antique fire apparatus and rescue apparatus from the surrounding area, will begin at 7 p.m. in downtown Oakland. Participating departments are judged in several categories. This event invites firemen from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the surrounding areas to join the parade. Prior to the parade, apparatus judging will be held at the Farmers' Market parking lot on Route 219 north of Oakland beginning at 5 p.m.

Frostburg Man Arrested On Assault Charges

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment this week reported the arrest of a Frostburg man on assault charges.

James O. Meese, 54, has been charged with assault, assault with intent to murder, and reckless endangerment.

The arrest was made by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater last Thursday at 6:10 p.m.

According to police reports, the victim, Brian P. Garlitz, also of Frostburg, was hunting on the George Meese Farm on Alternate Route 40 near Finzel. Meese allegedly used foul language and pointed a loaded rifle in Garlitz's direction, then fired a shot.

Meese reportedly accused Garlitz of trespassing. However, police said no signs were visible, and the victim reportedly did not know he was trespassing.

Tracy L. Bowser, Friendsville, was arrested on Saturday when he allegedly took a purse from the top of a vehicle on Water Street in Friendsville. The purse belonged to Laveda A. Morrison, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Bowser was arrested by Tfc. L. Rosage.

and ending at 6:45 p.m.

Wrapping up the evening will be the annual Oktoberfest Celebration at the fire hall following the parade. The celebration includes "fun for everyone" with German-style food, drink and live "oompah" band. The Fireman of the Year Award and the Training Award will be presented at this time by the Garrett County Firemen's Association. There is no admission charge.

For more information on this event or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Local Students To Attend State Drug Summit

Several Garrett County students have been selected to attend the nation's first statewide Youth Drug Summit on Tuesday, October 3, at Martin's West Catering in Baltimore County.

Attending the summit will be Cindy Miller and Karl Lindner from Northern High School, Mike Hornyak from Southern High School, and Stephanie Shaulis from Northern Middle School. The group's advisor will be Joanny Martin, guidance counselor at Northern High School.

Approximatley 400 high school students, 60 eighth grade students and 40 college students of diverse backgrounds have been invited to attend, according to Robert R. Neall, chairman of the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission.

Neall, Governor William Donald Schaefer, Maryland Superintendent of Schools Dr. Joseph Shilling, and Kobi Little, project coordinator for the Governor's Office of Justice Assistance, will begin the summit with a news conference.

Neall said, "Maryland's teens and college students are exposed to drugs and alcohol every day — in the classroom, on playing fields and at social events. Students have definite ideas and opinions about the problems and issues they must confront. We are holding this youth summit to listen to the concerns and needs of the next generation."

The summit was designed to give Maryland's youth an opportunity to directly

Oakland Man Gets 20 Years For Sex Counts

An Oakland man will serve a total of 20 years in the Department of Corrections for charges of second degree rape, second degree sex offense, and assault and battery as a result of a trial held last Thursday in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Robert R. McRobie, 40, Oakland, was sentenced by Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer to 20 years for the rape charge and 20 years for the sex offense. The sentences will run concurrently. The assault and battery charge was merged with the other two counts.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered for McRobie during an August 8, 1989, hearing.

McRobie was charged following a February 8, 1989, incident on the Oakland/Rosedale Road involving a 22-year-old Oakland woman. The woman reported that McRobie dragged her into a field, tied her hands together and raped her.

McRobie was found to be not guilty of first-degree rape and first-degree sex offense. He was represented by John R. Toston, assistant public defender.

In a separate case, Thomas R. Bowers, 23, currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail, pled guilty to charges of operating an unregistered motor vehicle and assault.

He was fined $500 for the motor vehicle charge and sentenced to three years in the Department of Corrections for the assault charge. Judge Thayer ordered that the sentence be consecutive with the District Court sentence Bowers is currently serving.

Bowers was charged following a March 25, 1989, incident. Not prosecuted were charges of driving with a revoked license, fleeing and eluding a uniformed police officer, and operating an uninsured motor vehicle.

Bowers' attorney was Linda A. Green.

In another case, the judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Carl E. McRobie, 36, Friendsville, for charges of possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. His bond was continued.

McRobie pled guilty to the charges, which were filed following an August 6, 1986, incident in Mtn. Lake Park. Not prosecuted were charges of possession with intent to distribute cocaine and possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

An indictment was originally issued for McRobie on September 9, 1986. However, he was not apprehended until June 29, 1989.

McRobie's attorney was Robert C. Hesson.

Bond hearings were held for three persons who were indicted on September 13.

Ryscavage Discusses Goals Of Garrett County Board Of Ed.

During the September meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage discussed the goals of the Garrett County Board of Education and how each goal is currently being met throughout the school system.

Ryscavage explained that the goals are described in one main goal which is supported through the establishment of six sub-goals. He said, "The main goal of maximizing each youngster's potential is dealt with each day by each of the people with whom he/she comes into contact. Obviously, the teacher and the regular program of instruction provided the youngster are the backbone of this effort. The program of instruction is relatively stable over time as it is delivered on the basis of state by-law and local curriculum guides."

Ryscavage also stated, "The six sub-goals enhance the accomplishment of the main goal as they relate to providing a school environment which will produce young adults who understand themselves, can make a contribution to society, and can change as society changes.

"By looking at our school system today, one can easily identify a number of objectives which directly relate to each of these sub-goals. Although not intended to be all-inclusive, the listing of objects shows a strong relationship to the generalized sub-goals in that these objectives are largely operating, or will be operating, in our 1989-90 school year."

The sub-goals and coordinating objectives were reported as follows:

Sub-Goal I

To provide those kinds of experiences which continuously promote the thinking and problem-solving abilities of young people. In addition, all learning experiences should be designed so as to continuously promote the development of a positive self-concept rooted in firm character and citizenship values.

1. Development of citizenship values mini-plans (elementary school).
2. Initiation of elementary guidance program (elementary school).
3. Initiation of foreign language and advanced math programs (middle school).
4. Development of continuum for personnel adjustment program for the emotionally disturbed (middle and high schools).
5. Development of career employability program supplemented by the Maryland's Tomorrow state-wide initiative (high school).
6. Initiation of the student service alliance course offering (high).
7. Mock election program (all schools).
8. Enlargement of pupil personnel worker staff (all).
9. Development of computer-assisted instruction (all).

Sub-Goal II

To develop within young people an understanding and appreciation of their rights within the society in which they live. Attendant to this objective is to develop an understanding and commitment to the responsibilities which we all bear within the context of our democratic heritage.

1. Development of citizenship values mini-plans (elementary).
2. Implementation of Lions' Quest program (middle).
3. Inititiation of the student service alliance course offering (high).
4. Mock election program (all).
5. Development of student rights, responsibilities, and discipline handbook (all).

Sub-Goal III

To provide additional learning opportunities beyond the formal classroom of an aesthetic, cultural, and recreational nature which develop in young people an appreciation for the fullness of life.

Blaze Destroys Friendsville Area House Yesterday

Firefighters from Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, and Grantsville fire departments were summoned yesterday afternoon after fire broke out in a Friendsville area house. Upon their arrival, heavy smoke and flames were coming from the two-story house located along Frazee Ridge Road north of Friendsville. The house was gutted by the blaze, according to a spokesman for the Accident VFD.

Full details of the incident were unavailable at presstime; however Brad Frantz, director of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management, said this morning that the house was owned by Roland Fisher and the call for help was received by Charles Stevens.

Walter Lee, a member of the Accident VFD, said that the initial flames were knocked down quickly by Friendsville firemen, but the fire got into the walls and the attic, causing major damage. He said smoke and heat damage was also extensive. He said that there were no injuries reported.

Guy Carola, who couldn't be reached for comment this morning, is investigating the incident, and according to Frantz, the blaze is not believed to be suspicious. He said that he believes Carola will rule the cause electrical in nature, but it is still under investigation.

Firefighters received the call at 3:50 p.m. and the last units to leave the scene reported back to their station at 7:46 p.m.

Road Closed By Chemical Spill In Grantsville

Approximately 100 gallons of a chemical identified as herbicide spilled onto the ground near Grantsville yesterday when a truck overturned on the Westernport Road.

Authorities closed the road to traffic for several hours, but decided that it was not necessary to evacuate any residents.

According to Garrett County Central Alarm, the mishap occurred at 12:05 p.m. The truck was owned by Trees Preservation, New York. Further details on the accident were not available.

Garrett Central notified the Department of the Environment, the Department of Natural Resources, and Maryland State Police at McHenry.

Garrett County Roads Department crews were also dispatched to dig up the ground containing the chemical. It was placed in plastic containers for disposal.

HURRICANE HUGO was on a direct course for Garrett County last Friday, but veered off to the west at the last minute. He left his calling card, however, in the form of a number of large trees that were downed by strong gusts of wind Friday morning and afternoon. One of those trees that gave way was at Bell Brothers Motor Sales just south of Oakland along U.S. Rt. 219. The tree mashed a convertible and slightly damaged an adjacent vehicle. For a time, 80 mile-per-hour winds and five to eight inches of rain were predicted for Garrett County, however those numbers were greatly reduced Friday evening.

Mtn. Lake Park Man Found Guilty Of CDS Charges

A Mtn. Lake Park man was found guilty of two counts of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance by Judge Jack Turney during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Francesco Giovanni Pisano, 20, was found guilty of two counts of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Two charges of unlawful possession of CDS and one charge of possession and use of CDS paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

The charges were filed by Assistant Chief Deputy P.J. Pratt, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, as the result of search and seizure warrant issued March 30. Robert C. Hesson represented Pisano.

Matthew Mark Plevyak, 28, Accident, was found guilty of a charge of theft. He was fined $50 and sentenced to three months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Tim Fine then suspended the sentence and placed Plevyak on three years probation. The charge was filed by Julie Fratz, manager of Oakland Red and White, after Plevyak apparently stole a can of lighter fluid valued at less than $300.

Robert Paul Thomas, 29, Accident, was found guilty of a charge of battery. He was fined $50 and sentenced to 11 months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Thomas on 12 months probation. The charge was filed by Evonne C. Thomas, Accident, after an incident which occurred July 18.

A charge of battery against Timothy Allen Welch, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was placed on the stet docket. The charge was filed by Brenda Sue Welch, Mtn. Lake Park, after an incident which occurred July 28.

Charges of child abuse, battery, and third degree sexual offense against David Wayne Sines, Frostburg, were not prosecuted due to lack of probable cause. The charges were filed by Cpl. C.R. Smith, Maryland State Police, after incidents which occurred throughout the months of May. Earl E. Manges represented Sines.

Southern High Alumni Band To March In Parade

The Southern High School Alumni Band will again march in the annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade Saturday, Oct. 14, according to Blair Glass, one of the organizers.

All alumni of the Southern High School Band are welcome to participate, Glass said, and one one-hour rehearsal has been scheduled for Friday, Oct. 13, in the school's band room (time to be announced later).

The band will again play "Masterpiece" and those who wish to have a copy of the music in advance should contact a member of the committee.

Color guard and percussion equipment will be provided; however persons are asked to make their own arrangements to obtain an instrument if they do not have one.

The dress for the event will include jeans, tennis shoes, and red sweatshirts for playing members and jeans, tennis shoes, and white sweatshirts for guard members. Custom-lettered sweatshirts can be purchased at the T-Shirt Shack in Oakland. Those who already have sweatshirts can have them lettered there, also.

"Those who can't make the practice are still welcome to march with us," Glass said. "In the past we have had many people show up the day of the parade. More than anything, this is for old friends to get together again and have a good time."

Alumni interested in participating are asked to contact Glass at 334-4839 (evenings only); Tina Winters, 334-4839 (evenings); Suzanne Mitchell, 387-6715 (evenings); Liz Grant Biser, 334-1045 (leave information on answering machine); or Marjorie Seifert, 334-1128. Information requested will include name, phone number, and instrument played.

"It's great that we have the opportunity to do something like this," Glass said. "I want to thank all those who are helping to organize this and encourage all former Southern band members to march with us."

Piedmont, W.Va. Man "Stable" After Accident

A Piedmont, W.Va., man is listed in "stable" condition at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he was taken following a single-vehicle accident Saturday on Route 135 east of the Lee Road.

Richard W. Duckworth, 31, was taken to the hospital by Maryland State Police helicopter following the 7 p.m. accident.

Police reported that he was driving a 1979 Toyota pickup truck when it left the right side of the road. The truck then swerved back across the center line and struck an embankment on the left side before overturning onto its side. Duckworth was reportedly trapped inside the vehicle.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, who reported that charges are pending.

A two-vehicle accident occurred last Thursday afternoon on Route 135 at Southern Auto Supply, Mtn. Lake Park.

Police reported that Russell J. Carder, 19, Westernport, was driving a 1977 Jeep CJ-7, and was making a left turn from the parking lot of Southern Auto to Route 135.

James F. Haslup, 69, Deer Park, was eastbound in a 1989 Ford truck. Carder failed to yield the right of way to Haslup's vehicle, which collided with the right rear fender of the Jeep. The Jeep then continued over an embankment into a ditch.

A passenger in the Carder vehicle, Teresa Davis, 16, Swanton, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, where a spokesman reported that she was treated and released.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, who charged Carder with failing to yield the right of way at the entrance to a highway.

A single-vehicle accident occurred early Saturday afternoon on Route 135.

Police said Laura V. Lowers, 24, Oakland, was driving a 1979 Chevrolet Malibu, and was traveling west. Lowers lost control of the vehicle while rounding a left curve, causing the car to cross the center line, spin 180 degrees, and strike an embankment. Lowers was thrown from the car.

Lowers was taken to Garrett Memorial by a private vehicle, where a spokesman reported that she is not listed as a patient. Three passengers in the vehicle, Sarah Ricketts, 27; Barbara Ricketts, 8; and James Ricketts, 2, all of Swanton, where apparently not seriously injured.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, who charged Lowers with failing to keep to the right of the center line and failing to transport a passenger under age three in an approved saftey seat.

A Cumberland woman was injured in a single-vehicle accident last Thursday on U.S. Route 40 Alternate.

Police said Bernice M. Willison, 38, Cumberland, was westbound in a 1987 Chevrolet Sprint. As she topped Big Savage Mountain, she failed to drive in a single lane and traveled off the right side, overturning in a ditch.

Willison was taken to Frostburg Community Hospital by Finzel Rescue, where she was treated and released.

Tfc. D.L. Frank investigated the mishap, charging Willison with failing to drive in a single lane.

Twenty of the world's top marathon runners passed through Garrett County Monday afternoon along U.S. Rt. 50 on the final leg of a run from San Francisco to Washington, D.C. The event was held to raise money for America's Drug Abuse Prevention Team. Receiving treatment in the photo above is Alex Wamsley, a member of the team. Sheriff's Dept. Investigates $4,000 Theft

A Virginia man recently reported a theft of items valued at over $4,000 from his vacated residence on Fairview Church Rd, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Marvin Willard Gordon, Front Royal, was in the process of preparing his house for sale when the theft occurred, sometime between September 16 and 22. The house was stripped of almost everything, including the kitchen sink. The perpetrator(s) stole five doors, 13 windows, 3 heaters, a wooden dinette set, two formica counter tops, a kitchen sink, an antique bed and matching dresser, an electric box with fuses, two electric heat thermostats, six pieces of wolmanized lumber, and a bathroom sink. No doors or windows were removed from the front of the house, so the theft was not immediately discovered. Cpl. L.E. Gnegy is conducting an investigation. The Garrett County Sheriff's Department urges anyone with information concerning this incident to contact police at 334-1911.

Ronnie Michael Welch, Oakland, reported a vehicle theft that occurred Monday at his Bray School Rd. residence. According to the investigating officer, Deputy D.L. Crossland, the vehicle was valued at $1,000 and was described as a red 1987 Kawasaki motorcycle. The vehicle had a blue seat with "KD80" inscribed on it.

Billie Jo Schrock and Patricia Ann Collins, Oakland, reported thefts from two purses that occurred Saturday. The purses were located in an unlocked car parked on F Street in Mountain Lake Park. The loss included $340 in cash and an additional loss of credit cards, a savings book and family photographs. According to Deputy J.B. Sowers there are no suspects at this time and the investigation is continuing.

Robert Ritchie Bray, Deer Park, reported the theft of a Coca-Cola machine and approximately 12 cases of soft drinks from a Deer Park trailer court. According to Deputy J.D. Murphy, the empty machine was located September 18, the day following the theft, by officers from the Department of Natural Resources, near Walnut Bottom. The total loss in theft and damages is estimated at $200.

articulate their ideas and needs to the governor and their respective county executive or commissioner and county school superintendent.

"The summit's goal is to create an environment in which students can generate fresh ideas and innovative approaches to ending Maryland's affliction with drugs and alcohol," said Dr. Shilling.

A cross-section of the state's youth is expected to attend the summit. Delegations will include high and low achievers, mainstream students, athletes, student leaders, vocational education students, and students who are not involved in extracurricular activities. The majority of each delegation will consist of ninth, tenth and eleventh graders.

Cox Proposes Home Rule For Garrett

Among the meetings held Tuesday by the Garrett County Commissioners was one with Jerry Cox, who is an attorney and an Oakland resident, who presented a proposal to the commissioners to seek legislation to make Garrett County a code county. A code county is one which is not a charter county under the state constitution and has adopted the optional powers of home rule. This means that a code county is able to enact local laws without having to go through the state legislature.

Cox said that this would be a great advantage to local residents because laws that are appropriate for Garrett County could be passed quicker and easier and local citizens could also recall certain laws if they desire.

The commissioners indicated they were interested in discussing the matter further among themselves and with local legislative representatives.

Lots Of Questions . . .

A legal advertisement in this newspaper last week and again this week has peaked our curiosity and raised a number of questions. The ad announces that a public hearing has been slated for October 9 by the Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville to receive testimony on the council's intention to rescind the town's zoning ordinance.

Several months ago we carried a story about a business man in Friendsville who received a cease and desist order from the mayor and town council because his kayak-building business was located in an area designated as residential and, therefore, he was in violation of the zoning ordinance. To this day he is still out of business, but in the meantime he has been doing a lot of research on the action of the town's elected officials.

It also happens that another business man who is on the town council wants to build a laundromat in the same residential area of the town. So far, he has been prevented from doing so because the kayak builder's landlord has taken legal steps to block the special zoning exemption that would permit its construction.

Here comes the interesting part, though. The research being done by the kayak builder has revealed that there are numerous violations of the zoning ordinance all over town and among those in violation are none other than several members of the town council. Apparently the council president himself is in violation of several statutes of the ordinance, all of which have been brought to the attention of the full council by the kayak builder.

So what is the town going to do now? Simply rescind the entire ordinance.

Our questions include: Will the council simply re-write the ordinance to suit them? Will the new ordinance permit the construction of the laundromat? Is rescinding the zoning ordinance a move that is really in the best interest of the town's citizens? What effect will this have on property values? Will the kayak builder be allowed to resume his business now that it is apparent that the same ordinance that was cited by the town to force him to "cease and desist" has not been enforced by the town councilmen against themselves who are also in violation? Will the October 9 meeting be attended by scores of concerned Friendsville residents, or will there be little response, which would indicate that the council is trusted by their constituents to do the right thing?

Undoubtedly there are many other questions concerning this issue that, hopefully, will be answered.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Joy Perry's recent letter on the gypsy moth (September 21, 1989) makes some excellent points. That letter indicates that Joy Perry's Sierra Club supports spraying Dimilin where extremely high moth populations are present, and "Bt" should be the preferred chemical for spraying in other areas. Here is the basis for broad agreement.

The problem remains, however, that many hot spots cannot be sprayed because the State program is under funded. I invite Joy Perry, the Sierra Club and others to join me in writing to the Governor and our State legislators to urge adequate funding for gypsy moth spraying so that oak forests may be conserved.

To the Editor:

It is with great joy we are happy to announce the continuation of the Garrett County Teen Center. It will be re-established under the capable direction of Dave Zimmerman, a music teacher with the Garrett County Board of Education.

The previously established rules of NO ALCOHOL, NO DRUGS, and NO readmittance will be enforced. The first dance is scheduled for Saturday, October 21, at the Oakland Fire Hall, from 7 to 11 p.m. Teens 13 to 19 are welcome, cost is still $3.00 a person. Check the radio and newspaper for further announcements. For more information, call Dave Zimmerman at 387-6289.

We ask your continued support of this community activity. Our young people deserve this and more. They are still the best teens anywhere.

Thank you and God Bless,
Dave and Darlene Terlizzi

To the Editor:

Octoberfest 1989 — What a disappointment!

The first Octoberfest held in 1987 was great, the ethnic dancers, the bands, everything was so entertaining it was a very enjoyable evening.

The Octoberfest held in 1988 did not quite measure up to the previous year.

The Octoberfest held this year left a lot to be desired! it appeared that attractions were substituted rather then to be added.

The only thing that was consistent at the three Octoberfest celebrations was the condition of the facilities in the ladies room, the mess on the floor caused by out of order facilities. One would think that something could be done to remedy the situation.

The portable dance area was in need of repairs, it was fortunate that there were no accidents!

The garbage was left on the tables for an indefinite period of time. There were no receptables to place discarded food unless you walked to the end of the building.

Let's hope that future functions are upgraded and we can look forward to Bavaria in McHenry 1990.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Watson
Latrobe, Pa. 15650

P.S. There were 15 people in my group who shared the same sentiments.

Editor's Note: Ms. Watson is not referring to the Oktoberfest held by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department during the Autumn Glory Festival.

To the Editor:

I am again writing a letter to the editor concerning an issue in Friendsville; however, this letter is in response to that written by Jesse Whittemore last week.

For once, the Friendsville Town Council is going to do something to benefit the town and a small portion of people are against it. The people against it are those involved with the whitewater industry, Mr. Whittemore, and Mr. Whittemore's landlord.

I am glad that the Friendsville Town Council decided to have a public hearing to rescind the zoning ordinance.

I'm not brilliant, but I do know what's going on. Mr. Whittemore there is already a garbage collection site about 2 miles from town and if a coal washing plant would be put in, then it's all for the better. Not only would it provide employment, it would wash the coal to help control pollution, since a portion of the Friendsville community use coal for fuel or heat. Last, Mr. Whittemore if Friendsville has a car wash and laundromat, the residents would not have to travel to another town or community to wash their clothes or vehicles.

I have nothing against the whitewater industry, but I have seen wet clothes hanging on vehicles after a trip on a raft down the river. Another thing, there's a big garbage bin behind your residence like is seen at the garbage collection site.

Mr. Whittemore, where do you wash your clothes, and throw away your garbage?

Mr. Whittemore, I live in an apartment in the apartment house across the alley where you live. The tenants here can't have washing machines and dryers, so I have to go to McHenry, Oakland, or Accident to wash my clothes. I also have to go out of town to wash my car, and with the winters in Garrett County, until I go to McHenry and wash my car and back home, it needs washed again.

Thus, you said the Friendsville residents didn't understand, but we do, . . . this small handful of people including yourself is trying to take over the town, and it's not going to work. The town and surrounding communities with a Friendsville address (Asher Glade, Frazee's Ridge, Green Gables, Sand Spring, White Rock, Blooming Rose, Selbysport, Gravel Hill, Bear Creek, Elder Hill, etc.) wants and needs a car wash and laundromat. Thus, Mr. Whittemore I challenge you to go and question every one in these areas and if there are more against the laundromat than for it, I'll admit I'm wrong. Besides, I think that if a man buys property, he should do with it what he pleases, because it's his money not his neighbors.

Last, Mr. Whittemore you have to polish your own shoes when you talk about noise, I've heard and seen some pretty wild parties at your residence. I also saw your landlord and landlord's wife at such affairs, so he can't complain either.

A resident of Friendsville
Bill Detrick

P.S. Mr. Whittemore, if the Lord's willing and the creeks don't rise, I'll see you October 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the town meeting.

To the Editor:

Another "thank-you" for all your help with the pictures of our "Adoptables" and our raffles.

The winner of the painting displayed in the window of Fabric Plus and painted by Mrs. Virginia (Vincent) Schroyer was won by Mrs. Chris Uphold.

The winners of the 50-50 raffle were Dr. Charleen Evans Thomas (#889), Mark Prettman (#492), and Bryan Paugh (#738).

Mr. Prettman and Mr. Paugh each donated $25.00 back to the Humane Society. We have adopted 24 dogs and 11 cats into loving homes. All but three of the dogs were spayed/neutered by the Society; the three not paid for by the Society were paid for by the adopting families.

We also want to thank Beachy Lumber Company for all their donating, Dr. James Fearer, County Animal Health Doctor, for all his help, States Attorney Jim Sherbin, our Maryland State Troopers and our Sheriff's Deputies.

We still have many cats and dogs needing good homes. If anyone is interested or wishes to give a donation, call 746-5725, 746-5030, 334-9505, 334-8274 or 826-8504.

We are most grateful to all the caring people who have donated to us to help us with our Spay/Neuter program.

We get no help from their tax money, it is used to slaughter the animals while they are then sent to a rendering company in Winchester, Virginia, paid for by taxpayers money, making the people owning the company very, very rich; fertilizer, dog food, and liquid for soap from these loving animals, dead bodies are expensive items.

Again, thank you for everything you do for us.

To the Editor:

In your recent editorial on the right to life versus abortion, you stated that abortions in cases of rape and incest were advisable.

Since abortion is never advisable, it is not advisable in cases of rape or incest.

From "The Human Life Amendment, an Introduction by Professor Charles E. Rice" we learn that the woman who is raped has a right to resist her attacker. But the preborn child is an innocent nonaggressor who should not be killed because of the crime or sin of his father. More to the point, and of use to some women, is that since a woman has the right to resist the rapist, she also has the right to resist his sperm. There are nonabortive measures that can be taken, consistent with the law and even with Catholic teaching, promptly after rape, which are not intended to abort and which will prevent conception.

However, once the innocent third party to a rape, the preborn child, is conceived, he should not be killed. The duty of the state and society in all cases of "troubled" pregnancies, is to mobilize resources to solve the problems constructively with personal and financial support. A license to kill is not a constructive solution.

Incest is rarely, almost never, a voluntary act on the woman's part. If it is not a voluntary act, then it is rape. And, to kill a child because of the identity of his father is no more proper in the case of incest than it is in the case of rape. Again, the positive solution of support should be pursued, not legalized murder by abortion.

Head Lice

As a precautionary measure, however, the Garrett County Board of Education advises separate storage of hats and coats for each individual student.

The Garrett County Board of Education advises that transmission is most likely to occur with close contact with infested persons, or the sharing of combs, garments, brushes, carpets, or beds.

Unlike most other insect parasites, head lice spend their entire life on one host — unless physically moved. They have a strong affinity to head hair and are not found in eyebrows, sideburns, mustaches or beards.

Head lice also appear to have a preference for the hair of Caucasians and individuals of Asian heritage, seldom parasitizing blacks. Apparently, the shape of Caucasian and Asian hair strands is more easily grasped by the parasites' front legs.

Although head lice do not cause any diseases, they can make the affected person's scalp itch unbearably. Persistent scratching sometimes causes infections.

Lice attach their eggs, often called nits, with a glue-like substance to strands of hair about a quarter inch from the scalp. Once attached, the eggs are virtually impossible to remove. Chemical treatments tend to damage the hair before they have any impact on the eggs.

Hair that comes off on a brush may carry louse eggs, which usually hatch within three to seven days. Seeking warmth, the newly hatched lice, called nymphs, move from the brush to a human head at the first opportunity — usually the next time the brush is used — spreading the infestation from one youngster to another.

The best way to prevent the spread of head lice is to avoid sharing brushes and combs, Wood emphasizes.

Parents or teachers who suspect that a child may have head lice, should examine the child's scalp closely. Although the eggs are small, less than one sixteenth of an inch, they can be seen with the naked eye. Look for elongated pearly white beads attached to the hair about a quarter inch away from the scalp. If they can't be moved or dislodged, they're probably nits.

Crawling lice can be seen most commonly at the nape of the neck or behind the ears.

"Because of parent's tendency to use the same brush on young children, there's a good chance that if one child gets head lice, the others in the family will also," says Wood. "Parents should check all their children when one has been identified as having the parasites."

The best way to get rid of the lice is with a shampoo that contains a lousicide. The shampoo, which can be purchased at most drugstores or pharmacies, should be applied and allowed to remain on the hair for about 10 minutes, according to the instructions on the label, then rinsed off. Comb hair with a fine-tooth comb to remove any loose nits. If necessary repeat the treatment in 24 hours, but not more than twice within one week.

Although the shampoo kills the lice, it won't kill the eggs, so it must be reapplied a second time, usually about seven to 10 days later. This gives the eggs time to hatch, but kills any new lice before they mature sexually and lay more eggs.

All clothing, towels, and bed linens used by the infested person must be washed in very hot water. Dry clean all clothing, hats, scarves and bed coverings that cannot be washed.

Children found to have head lice must furnish proof that adequate treatment has been given, in order to be readmitted to a Garrett County school.

Another alternative is to visit a physician, who can diagnose head lice with certainty and prescribe alternative treatment.

For additional information, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111 or 895-5050 for Grantsville residents.

that occurred around 1 a.m. Sunday morning at an apartment building on East Green St., Oakland.

Don Allen Warren, 33, Oakland, was arrested for allegedly firing at least four shots at the apartment building. According to police, no one was injured, but one of the projectiles did strike the building and enter an apartment at that location.

Warren allegedly engaged in an altercation at the scene shortly after midnight. According to police reports he then left the area but returned approximately 10 minutes later, armed with a rifle. He then allegedly fired at the building.

Following an investigation by Cpl. L.E. Gnegy and Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker, Warren was placed under arrest Tuesday. He faces charges of assault with intent to murder, two counts of assault, destruction of property, reckless endangerment, and carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon with intent to cause injury.

He is currently being held without bond in the Garrett County Jail.

David Lee Kitzmiller, 28, Swanton, was arrested on a warrant Tuesday on a Grand Jury indictment. He is charged with the distribution of controlled dangerous substances (CDS) and possession of CDS. According to the arresting officer, Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker, he was incarcerated and later released on $500 bond.

Carmen Rose, 21, Hancock, was arrested last Thursday on the strength of two bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in court on July 13 of this year. According to Det. R.L. Sines, he was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond. He later posted fines and was released.

Tracy Lynn Bowser, 22, Friendsville, was arrested Saturday on a warrant. She was charged with the theft of a purse that occurred earlier that day. Deputy R.P. Shaffer made the arrest. She was released Sunday on her own recognizance.

William Herring, Jr., 36, Friendsville, was arrested Saturday on a warrant. He faces charges of breaking and entering and theft in connection with a September 14 incident. Deputy R.P. Shaffer made the arrest. He was released later that day on his own recognizance.

Gary E. Boyce, 34, Loch Lynn, was arrested September 20 and charged with disorderly intoxication. According to police reports, he was found struggling with a woman behind an apartment building. He then allegedly shouted obscenities at law enforcement officers who intervened. Deputy J.B. Sowers made the arrest, assisted by Deputy J.D. Murphy. He was incarcerated and released the following day on his own recognizance.

Dannie Allen Stemple, 35, Oakland, was arrested September 20 on a bench warrant. He was charged with failure to appear in court. Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker served the warrant. He was released later that day on $2,000 unsecured bond.

Archie Everette Smith, 48, Loch Lynn, was arrested on a warrant Monday, according to Chief Deputy H.S. Tichnell. He was released later that day on his own recognizance.

3. The publication of the Annual Report (all).

4. The conduction of several Board of Education meetings at school sites (all).

5. The further development of school-business partnerships throughout the county (all).

Ryscavage noted that, because of the general nature of the sub-goals, as well as the difficulties involved in precisely measuring what kind of cause and effect each of the objectives might have on students, it cannot be easily determined whether any of the objectives make any significant difference.

He said, "To get this kind of answer, we have to rely on something which is more measurable. The Rural School Enhancement Project (RSEP) provides the framework for the indicators which we will use. In adopting and subsequently revising these indicators, it is acknowledged that we are assuming that there is a relationship between the attainment of these indicators and the maximizing of student potential."

Some of the RSEP indicators involve special education, attaining an attendance rate of 95 percent or better, the California Achievement Test, and functional testing.

Ryscavage noted, "The task of each school in Garrett County will be to work toward the attainment of the indicators appropriate to their school organization level. Each school will first have to identify which indicator(s) they want to work toward. After this identification, each school will have to develop specific objectives for attainment of the indicators. From this point on it will be up to the building principal and his entire staff to work toward this end."

Drinking And Driving Not Worth Costly Consequences

by Sandra Cusack

You're out celebrating. It doesn't matter what the occasion is, whether it's your birthday, a Christmas party, or just Friday night, but you've had a few beers or maybe some mixed drinks. But now it is getting late and time to be heading home. So you get in your car and the next thing you know, there are flashing red lights in the rear view mirror.

Whether you've crossed the center line or are just speeding, the police are now pulling you over. The policeman asks you to step out of your vehicle and to walk a straight line, or touch the tip of your finger to your nose. Whatever the case, he next tells you to lock your vehicle, as he is taking you in to the station.

A blood alcohol test will be given and depending on the blood alcohol content, you will subsequently be charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), or driving under the influence (DUI), and your troubles have just begun.

According to Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney, a first offense for either DWI or DUI will result in a fine of $500 and a sentence of 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. If the driver is a resident of Maryland, $300 of the fine is suspended and the 30-day jail sentence is suspended. The offender will be ordered to attend DWI clinic, Alcoholics Anonymous meetings, will have to report to a probation officer, and will be contacted by the Department of Motor Vehicles for a change in the driver license.

If it is the second offense, a fine of $500 and a jail term of 90 days is levied. The jail term is usually suspended, but all of the fine must be paid. After a person is found driving while intoxicated or under the influence for the third time, the offender will go to jail, for at least 10 days, with a maximum time of one year. Judge Turney explained that most people will be sentenced to 30 days after being found guilty of three or more offenses.

"Of course, depending on the effect going to jail will have on the home environment, and how crowded the jail is, the offender may be allowed to serve time on weekends, or may be allowed work release and sometimes the sentence may be suspended. A lot of it depends on each person's situation," Judge Turney explained.

After two violations for DUI or DWI, the judge sentencing the case also has the ability to take the driver's license for a period of one to five years.

Eight points will be placed on the license of an offender for DUI and the Department of Motor Vehicles may call the offender in for a hearing. A charge of DWI will earn the offender 12 points and he will face stricter sanctions through the Department of Motor Vehicles.

For the first offense, probation is 12 months, for the second, 18 months, and after the second offense, the probation period is up to the judge.

"While on probation, the offender must meet with a monitor at least once a week and must abstain from drinking, especially from driving after drinking, and must have no serious traffic violations," Judge Turney explained. "If the offender has more than two violations while on probation, either for traffic violations or if he is found drinking by his monitor, the driver's license will be taken away."

The offender must also attend the DWI Clinic. After his court hearing, the offender signs up for the DWI clinic and talks to Joe Davis, the coordinator of the DWI program. This program is confidential, and also carries a $200 fee.

Davis has the offender fill out a form, and through information on the form and a conversation with the offender, determines if he is a problem drinker or a non-problem drinker. The non-problem drinker attends a six-week educational group therapy session, which meets for two hours once a week. If assessed as a problem drinker, the offender will be placed in a six-month treatment program, which consists of 26 sessions meeting for two hours a week. If the offender seems to have a real problem with alcohol, he will be required to attend the sessions twice a week for six months.

Davis explained that Maryland requires an individual treatment plan for each person, so after the assessment is done, an assignment team reviews it and determines the treatment program for each offender. The client is then notified of when and where his treatment plan will be. If any of the sessions are missed, the client must pay the $200 fee again and begin attending the sessions all over again.

The main purpose of the clinic is to help the client find a way to not drink and drive, but the clinic covers several aspects of problems that can occur as the result of drinking.

Films are shown on the medical effects of drugs and alcohol on the body, and laws of drinking and driving in Maryland. A presentation is also made about AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome). After each presentation or film, group discussion follows.

Davis said that the AIDS presentation is required by state law. For any person seeking help, whether it is individual or group sessions, one session covering AIDS must be held. Davis also said that whenever a person is drinking, inhibitions are lowered and good judgment is gone, so that a person may do things that he or she may not normally do, thereby running the risk of acquiring AIDS.

"I see drugs and alcohol as mind altering substances that the individual uses only to make himself feel better," Davis explained. "Alcohol is also a drug, a barbituate or downer drug, that makes a person feel good by producing an euphoric effect."

He measures the program as successful if the person totally abstains from using alcohol, and as partially successful if the person doesn't drink and drive, thereby ending up in jail, the hospital, or the morgue.

The short term goals of the clinic are: to understand the effects of alcohol use on driving skills; acquire a better knowledge of alcohol to enhance decision making; to understand the dynamics and progression of alcohol use, abuse and dependence; and reaching a personal goal that is defined by each individual. Long term goals of the clinic are to not drink alcohol and drive and to have no social dysfunction through the use of alcohol.

Davis identified an alcoholic as someone whose drinking interferes with his health, his job, his relations with family, or community relationships, yet continues to drink. Anytime a person experiences these symptoms, he is classified as an alcoholic and the fact that he continues to drink implies loss of control, a characteristic of the illness. Any person experiencing these symptoms should be encouraged to seek help. There are any number of support groups which offer help, including the Garrett County Health Department and Alcoholics Anonymous.

No study has ever been completed, but Davis predicts that four out of every 15 persons attending the clinic will be back within two years. Judge Turney has a more conservative figure; that four out of every 20 will be a repeat drunken driver offender. He explained that Maryland is the only state with a two-tier system. West Virginia automatically takes the driver's license for six months for the first offense, and for the second offense, the license will be suspended for ten years.

Davis encourages anyone who plans to operate a vehicle not to drink and then drive, but explained that different people will respond in different ways. The only sure policy is to not drink and then drive.

"The system is set up to educate people. Most people don't realize the administrative procedures they must get involved with. There is a lot of time and cost involved for just taking a few drinks and then driving," Judge Turney said.

Aside from court costs, time spent attending clinics and meeting with the monitor, there is other harm to the person's self-esteem and to family relationships. For one person's view of the effects on his life after being found driving under the influence, see separate story on this page.

"We just consider the program successful if the person doesn't drink and then drive," said Davis.

"You've had too much to drink, let me drive."
"Nobody drives my car but me."
"Are you OK to drive?"
What's a few beers?"

SOBERING UP

B.A.C. drops .02 per hour if no more drinks are consumed. Since the table above is based on a person weighing 180 lbs., B.A.C.'s for lighter persons are higher; for heavier persons, lower. Therefore a 180 lb. person drinking three beers (12 oz. servings), on an empty stomach will have to wait one hour to have a B.A.C. below the .05% non-dangerous level. Such famous remedies as exercise, fresh air, black coffee and cold showers have absolutely no effect at all on Blood Alcohol Concentration.

One Man's Story

Editor's note: The following is an account of one person's experience after being stopped for driving while under the influence and was written as part of the requirement for DWI Clinic. He is a successful middle aged businessman from this area.

A party was planned and provided by my employer for the staff. This party, which has been a traditional, annual event for several years, was scheduled to begin during the early evening hours. One break from tradition, which would prove to exacerbate later events, was that food was not included in the planning for this party. The other problem was that alcohol was. And, of course, the major problem that occurred as a result of the first two, was that I left the party later that evening and proceeded to drive home.

I encountered a change in plans while on the way. A Maryland State policeman pulled me off to the side of the highway for crossing the center line. After being asked to produce my license and registration, I was asked to vacate my vehicle and walk to the rear of it where I was asked to recite the alphabet standing on one leg.

This is embarrassing alongside a major highway especially when you are already feeling pretty dumb for allowing yourself to get into such a situation in the first place. But it got even worse. The policeman said to lock my vehicle because he was taking me to the barracks. I was required to sit through some paperwork and informed about my rights concerning the breathalizer tests. During this time, I was encouraged to call someone who could drive me home. I called my wife, who was understandably upset. Shortly thereafter, my elder daughter arrived to take me home. In retrospect these final two aspects of the evening are the most regretable.

Before continuing with the course of events, I need to state that I had no idea what was yet to come. In my naivete, I thought I would be fined and that would basically be it. I soon learned that I was sadly mistaken.

I received notification of a court date and was informed that I should engage an attorney since my charges could result in imprisonment. From this point of my perception of the legal ramifications of my actions underwent a drastic change. This was reinforced after my initial consultation with my attorney when I was informed of the possibilities.

Time is relative. From the time of my notification of the court date until its occurrence seemed like a very long time. Even though I was dreading it, I was anxious to get it over with so I could at least quit worrying about it.

The day of my trial, my wife and I met my attorney outside the courtroom. It was embarrassing for both my wife and me because we have been residents of the area for some time and, because of our occupations, are both fairly well-known. I know it was difficult for her and regretted placing her in that position. It was one thing for me to pay for poor judgment, but unfair to her, especially since she has always said she would be glad to come get me if I would ever need a ride home. The other uncomfortable part of the court proceedings is the idea of facing your mistakes publicly.

I will move ahead here to the resulting obligations imposed by the court. In addition to the financial penalty, I was given a suspended sentence on the condition that I participate in a monitoring program for one year and attend a clinic during part of that time. Also, as a result of the court record, which is public knowledge, the local newspaper reported both my arrest and decisions by the court.

The monitoring program involves me checking in with the program monitor on a weekly basis. At that time he updates any legal changes or occurrences or changes, checks my class attendance and may, at any time, check for the presence of alcohol by using a litmus-type indicator.

I was also required to go to the Department of Motor Vehicles to have any license changed. The procedure involves surrendering your present license, having your picture retaken, an "R" (restriction) added to the new one so that any subsequent infraction would not go unnoticed by anyone checking it. As far as I know the restriction continues for a minimum of one year.

I think it appropriate to note that first, all of the above has occurred because of a first infraction. In other words, this is not as a result of repeated offenses but as a result of a first offense. In addition, it could be worse. For example, the suspended sentence was for a month in jail. The two-hundred dollar fine is actually a five-hundred dollar fine of which three-hundred dollars is suspended if I meet all the conditions of the court. So, in looking again at the monitoring program, the monitor is making sure that all conditions are being met as required.

As previously stated, I doubt that most first time offenders realize the gravity of the legal ramifications of drinking and driving. This is not to say that it should not be serious. The repercussions of drinking and driving can result in tragic consequences for all involved. As a society, we do need to take whatever precautions we can to eliminate the problem. And this brings me to the point I want to make. I feel that education may be one of the most effective means of making a difference.

As part of the drinking driver program each participant is involved in learning about the effects of alcohol, both as a personal and societal influence, and I'll return to that topic shortly. But we need to use education more as a preventive measure, before the act. If more people are aware of the effects of alcohol on the system, how it affects judgment and reaction time and the legal ramifications for abusing alcohol we may be able to deter its abuse for those people. I know some programs are available but probably a lot more could be done.

Earlier I mentioned the clinic. This is a class that meets once a week, to study different aspects of health, alcohol, legalities and even AIDS. It costs two-hundred dollars, which must be paid by the conclusion of the class. We meet as a group, for an hour and a half each session. In the first session, there was some hesitancy by class members to participate. The class consisted of various age groups, sexes, and occupations. I felt everyone was kind of waiting to see just what this was all about. First of all, I think, at least in my case, thinking because of poor judgment, I was required to attend. And secondly, wondering what the class was going to involve. It wasn't long, though, until the

WITH SINCERE THANKS

It was a very nice occasion. Thank you and may God bless each one.

currently underway. With a state match of up to $250,000 as its incentive, the Foundation has set a goal of raising $500,000. Dr. Herman asked faculty and staff for 100 percent participation, and kicked off the institutional effort with a personal contribution of $1,000. He asked for volunteers for the phonothon in late October when 10,000 households in Garrett County will be called.

The goal of institutional assessment and planning is being realized with the completion of the strategic plan that will be mailed to members of the visiting Middle States team, along with the financial report and the management information systems report.

In mentioning the goals of faculty leadership and achievement of academic excellence, Dr. Herman referred to the Learning Enhancement Council as an experiment which has seen its efforts materialize in the formation of the Learning Enhancement Assistance Program and in the reviews of the Resort Management and Office Technology programs.

The remaining goals of college community, trustee development, and professional development for faculty and staff will be addressed collectively, as the people, who are Garrett Community College, chart the course for the institution's future.

Rams' 23-Game Streak Is Ended By Musselman

The saying that all good things must come to an end would perhaps best describe the result of the Southern-Musselman football game Friday night at Inwood, W.Va., as the Rams saw their 23-game regular season win streak come to an end at the hands of the Musselman Applemen, 17-0.

The last time Coach Tom Woods' teams lost a regular season game was October 23, 1986, when they were nipped in overtime by Valley, 21-20.

The Rams were well within striking distance until the final minutes of the game, as they were down 9-0 and had the ball on a first and goal at the Musselman four-yard line late in the contest, but could not punch the ball into the end zone and then missed on a field goal attempt.

Musselman opened the game by driving to inside the Rams' five-yard line, but the Southern defense held and took over the ball on downs. However, a few plays later, the Rams fumbled the ball away and the Applemen took over on the 11 early in the second quarter. The short drive was capped by a one-yard touchdown run by Lionel Royer at the 11:38 mark. The kick for the conversion was no good.

Then with 1:32 remaining in the first half, Musselman's All-State place-kicker Chris Lewis booted a 24-yard field goal to make it 9-0.

The third quarter was all defense, as neither team was able to make a single first down. Then, after the Rams' thwarted scoring effort in the fourth period, Royer scored his second touchdown of the evening on a three-yard run and Tom Shelton pulled in the two-point conversion pass from his brother, Bobby Shelton.

Royer finished with 112 yards to lead all rushers.

The Southern offense was dealt two severe blows in the first half of action when tailback Billy Welch, the team's leading rusher, went down with an ankle injury midway through the first period and the Rams' second leading ground gainer, fullback Mike Dever was benched with a bruised rib midway through the second quarter. The good news for Ram fans is that both of them are listed as "probable" for this week's game against Keyser.

"Of course it is a disappointment to lose a game after going three years without losing a regular season game," Coach Tom Woods said. "But we knew going in that it would be a major task to defeat a team of this calibre on the road. When we lost Marshall Pike as our quarterback the previous week and then lost Welch and Dever during the game, it obviously took away a lot of our offensive threat. However, I want to say that Tommy Ritchey stepped in at quarterback and did an excellent job for us."

Woods added, "If our offense had played as well as our defense did, we would have won the game. And I'm not talking about individuals here, because many of them are the same people. We just didn't execute well enough offensively.

"We were in the game the whole way, though, and felt we had an opportunity to win it as late as in the fourth quarter," he said. "And a real bright spot was that our kids never gave up. They played hard right to the end."

With probably the toughest team on their schedule behind them now, Woods and the Rams have set their sights on the Golden Tornado of Keyser, that will arrive in Oakland Friday night.

Keyser is a young and inexperienced team this year, and their winless record shows that. However, as always, Woods is not taking this team lightly and feels that at least one ability of this Keyser team presents great concern.

"They have a fine quarterback in Rick Rawlings (6-4, 200-pound junior)," Woods said. "He has a strong arm and quick feet and could very well be a college prospect."

What concerns Woods most is that Keyser is a team that puts the ball in the air 70 to 80 percent of the time, from Rawlings to a corps of quick, experienced receivers, including senior wide receiver Marcus Lewis (5-9, 135), senior split end Lowell Taylor (7-5, 148), and sophomore tight end Greg Pratt (6-1, 175).

"They often run all three receivers on one side of the line," Woods said, "and they use a lot of motion and finesse. They only run the ball 10 or 12 times a game. The rest of the time they put the ball in the air, and that really concerns us because our secondary doesn't have a lot of experience. Their strongest weapon (passing) is going to be going against one of the weaker areas of our defense (secondary).

"Our secondary has really worked hard this week, plus we hope our defensive line can really apply pressure on Rawlings."

Another concern for Woods is that Keyser uses numerous defensive formations, sometimes as many as six, throughout the course of a game, which can make offensive strides difficult, especially for a quarterback without a lot of experience.

"We're probably going to have to run a very basic offense, with a limited number of plays, that we can really execute well," Woods said.

Keyser is led defensively by linebackers Shane DuVall and Andrew Root. DuVall is a 5-11, 175-pound senior and Root is a 6-1, 200-pound junior. The secondary also possesses a lot of speed, as most of the receivers (Lewis, Taylor, and Pratt) anchor those positions.

"We expect a wide open attack, because they have nothing to lose," Woods said.

Kickoff Friday evening at the Southern field is slated for 7:30 p.m.

A&A Club Falls To Moffett's, 2-1

The A&A Realty/Deep Creek Soccer Club lost its third game of the season this past Sunday, falling to Moffett's of Cumberland, 2-1. A&A outshot Moffett's, 21-11, only to see numerous shots hit the goalposts or saved by The Moffett's goalkeeper.

Moffett's jumped on the scoreboard 11 minutes into the first quarter on Dave Young's unassisted goal from 15 yards, A&A had its chances in the first half as they dominated second quarter action, but three shots hit the posts and other shots sailed wide of the goal.

A&A came out in the third stanza the way they ended the first half and finally got a tally. Ned Holloway's crossing shot from the corner went into the goal mouth as the Moffett's keeper deflected the pass straight to Steve Prosser, five yards from the goal. Prosser tapped in the open shot to knot the score. Moffett's came right back a minute later as they took the kickoff and worked the ball downfield. Gary Knight's pass was finished off by Terry Lavin to put Moffett's back in front to stay.

A&A again had plenty of opportunities late in the game as both Prosser and Bob Isaacson had shots hit the crossbar from close range in the fourth quarter. This was The Deep Creek's third tough defeat in as many games. Their three losses have been by a total of four goals.

Deep Creek Club will try to get back in the win column this Sunday at the Southern Middle School when they face Westernport SAL. The game will start at 1 p.m. and spectators are welcome.

A benefit golf tournament for Rick Nice has been scheduled for Saturday, October 7, at the Oakland Country Club.

Since that time he has undergone frequent chemotherapy treatments in Morgantown, W.Va. Proceeds from the tournament will be donated to the Trust Fund established at the Garrett National Bank to assist the family with expenses related to his illness.

The event will be a four-man team "scrambler." Team entry fees are $60. Individuals may enter for $15 and will be placed on teams at random by handicap. Contributions from non-participating individuals and organizations would be "greatly appreciated," according to the tourney organizers.

Checks should be made payable to the Rick Nice Trust Fund, P.O. Box 284, Oakland, Md. 21550, and marked entry or donation. The entry deadline is Friday, October 6.

Huskies Outlasted By Beall Mountaineers, 34-26

Although the Northern Huskies produced another impressive effort on the gridiron this past week, they came away from Beall High School with their first loss of the season, falling to the big-play Mountaineers, 34-26, Monday evening. The contest, originally slated for Friday, was postponed because of the threat of Hurricane Hugo.

The defeat for the Huskies and victory for Beall left both teams with 2-1 records. Each team recorded 15 first downs and, by taking away an 81-yard touchdown run by the Mountaineers, the total offensive yardage for each team would be about identical.

It was that 81-yarder from Shannon McKenzie to Greg Carter early in the first quarter that put the first points on the board and Tony Himmler's conversion kick made it 7-0.

The Mountaineers made it 14-0 at the 6:27 mark of the second quarter when Jason Robison capped a 66-yard drive with a one-yard plunge into the end zone and Himmler added the extra point.

A three-yard scoring run by Darren McKenzie, who finished the game with 147 yards on 24 carries, gave the Huskies their first points with 3:48 remaining in the first half. The score came following a 12-play, 69-yard drive, featuring 44 yards on the ground by McKenzie and a 26-yard pass from Chad Sines to Jon Houser on a third-and-11 play. The kick for the extra point was no good, leaving the score 14-6 at halftime.

EVADING THE MOUNTAINEERS of Beall High School Monday night on this sweep was Northern Husky Darren McKenzie, one of the area's leading rushers, who recorded 147 yards against Beall in a 34-26 losing cause. It was the first loss of the season in three starts for the Huskies, who will attempt to pick up win number three this Saturday at Turkeyfoot. Other Huskies identifiable in the photo are No. 1, Pete Bittinger; No. 51, Randy Dolan; No. 82, Brock Yommer; and No. 72, Johnny Joe Friend.

The Huskies held the Mounties on their first possession of the second half, but Northern fumbled the punt and Chris Loar recovered for Beall on the Huskies' four-yard line. Robison scored two plays later on a three-yard run and Himmler tacked on the conversion to make it 21-6 with just over nine minutes remaining in the third quarter.

The Huskies responded with a scoring drive which included a 25-yard gainer by McKenzie and Sines scoring on a one-yard dive. The pass for the two-pointer was no good.

Once again, the Mountaineers came back in their next possession as Chris Loar broke loose on a 41-yard run to the Northern 25. McKenzie ran the final four plays of the 66-yard drive and scored on a three-yard carry. Himmler's kick made it 28-12 with 1:21 remaining in the third period.

Northern did not quit, though, and cut the lead to 28-20 when Sines connected with Lee Holloway on a 37-yard aerial for a touchdown, followed by a two-point conversion run by McKenzie.

Beall responded quickly once again, however, as Rick Duckworth returned the kickoff 27 yards to the Northern 41 and drew a facemasking penalty that moved the ball to the 26. Duckworth then added a seven-yard carry from scrimmage and McKenzie followed with a 19-yard scoring pass to John Cutter. The Huskies blocked the extra point attempt, leaving Beall with a 34-20 advantage at the 10:56 mark.

The Husky offensive unit still wasn't through and came back to record a 12-play, 80-yard drive for a touchdown. McKenzie ran the final 12 yards for the score. The run for the two-point conversion failed.

Those were to be the final points of the game, although the Huskies had at least two more opportunities during the final five minutes to at least tie the game. The Mountaineers managed to convert a third-and-15 at the four-minute mark when the Huskies were called for a facemask penalty and an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty after sacking Shannon McKenzie.

The Huskies did gain possession of the ball again, only to have it taken away by Duckworth, who intercepted Sines pass at the 1:18 mark.

Shannon McKenzie completed seven of 12 passes for 161 yards, 120 of which was recorded in the first quarter. Duckworth led the Mountaineers' rushing effort with 58 yards on 11 carries.

Besides Darren McKenzie's 147 yards for Northern, Pete Bittinger finished with 44 yards on 11 attempts.

"We were very pleased with how our kids played," stated Northern Coach Tom Vent. "Of course, we wish we had won, but to see what major strides we have made really makes us happy. Our players know they played a good team and they know we could have won the game. They have a great attitude and Tuesday they all went right back to work in the weight room and on the field. I have always said that a good work ethic is a key to having a successful program and we may not be where we want to be yet, but we have come a long way."

Vent said that a few of his players came out of the Beall game with some bumps and bruises, but all are generally in good shape for this week's game at Turkeyfoot.

"We tell our kids that, in football, either you're going to be a hitter or a 'hittee' and fortunately most of them have decided to be hitters," he said.

There were times when Turkeyfoot was considered almost an automatic win for opponents; however, even though the present Turkeyfoot team is small in numbers, the squad is currently sporting a 3-1 record, having lost only to Franklin.

"They only have about 28 kids, but they can play," Vent said.

Turkeyfoot is led by their quarterback, Scott Burkett, who has experience and a strong arm, and two huge running backs, by most high school standards, in fullback Fred Holliday (5-10, 195) and halfback Powell (6-2, 220).

"Their running backs are real strong and they also have a good passing game," Vent said.

"We're really excited to play them, though, and our kids know that our season didn't end with a loss to Beall," he added.

Vent also noted his delight at another successful outing by the Northern junior varsity team Tuesday evening, as they rolled over the Beall jayvees, 26-0.

"Jon Houser, Jason Rush, and Phil Carr (jayvee coaches) are just doing a super job with those kids," Vent said, adding that there are only five sophomores on Northern's junior varsity and the rest are freshmen.

The varsity game with Turkeyfoot is slated for this Saturday, with the kickoff set for 1:30 p.m.

Steelers Cruise To Fifth Win By Crushing Jets

The Northern Steelers cruised to their fifth win in as many starts this past Sunday as they crushed the Oakland Jets, 46-6, in a Mt. Top Youth Football League contest at the Southern High School field.

Coach Larry Brenneman's squad will meet the Oakland Raiders, also unbeaten in four games, this Sunday afternoon at the Southern field. Kickoff is set for 3 p.m., following the 1:30 game that will pit the Jets against the Parsons Vikings.

Quarterback Derek Mason led the Steelers' offensive attack against the Jets, as he passed for four touchdowns and rushed for another.

The first score came at the 4:58 mark of the first quarter when Mason connected with Billy Younkin on a five-yard TD pass to make it 6-0.

Just 58 seconds later, Steeler Tim Forney broke loose for a 50-yard touchdown run, and with 20 seconds left in the quarter, Mason hit Younkin with a 40-yard scoring strike to make it 18-0.

The Steelers increased their advantage to 24-0 at the 6:21 mark of the second quarter when Mason threw for another touchdown, this time to Shane House on a 37-yarder. Then with 1:57 remaining in the half, it was Mason to House again on a 27-yard touchdown pass. Mason also kicked the two-point conversion to give the Steelers a commanding 32-0 halftime lead.

Mason ran for a touchdown from three yards out with just over six minutes remaining in the third quarter and Allen Sebold booted the conversion.

Brad Williams capped the Steelers' scoring with a four-yard touchdown run at the 7:54 mark of the final period.

The Jets finally got on the score board with a touchdown run near the end of the game.

The defending league champions finished with 295 yards rushing and 133 yards through the air for 428 yards in total offense.

Southern Girls Lose A Pair

The Southern High girls volleyball team dropped a pair of matches this past week, falling to Fort Hill on Monday, 3-1, in Cumberland and losing to Mt. Savage last night in Oakland, 3-0.

The Rams won the third game of the match against Fort Hill, 15-4, but dropped the other games, 16-14, 15-7, and 15-2.

Elaine DeBerry led Southern's effort with a dozen service points, while Michelle Clise recorded 12 for Fort Hill and Heather Sheppard finished with 11.

The Southern jayvees also lost the Fort Hill, 2-1, as Beth Ware had 12 service points for the winners and Sheila Butt led Southern with seven.

Against Mt. Savage, the Rams were topped in three straight games, 15-4, 15-3, and 16-14. Terri Sweitzer scored 11 service points for the Indians and Cindy Deckman led Southern with five.

It was the fourth win in five matches for Mt. Savage.

Corrections Noted

It was reported in The Republican last week that the Northern High School junior varsity football team had defeated the Allegany jayvees last week, 26-14. It should have stated that the Huskies' victory was over the Allegany freshman team and not the junior varsity.

The Allegany junior varsity is currently undefeated on the season, sporting a 4-0 record.

Aaron Zumpano Memorial Game Slated October 8

Spoerl's Pontiac-Cadillac, Cumberland, will sponsor the first Aaron Zumpano Memorial Scholarship Benefit Softball Game on Sunday, Oct. 8, 2 p.m., at Flynn Field in Cumberland. The two teams playing will be Spoerl's and WCBC Radio.

Zumpano, a former standout athlete in three sports at Northern High School, was killed last December in an automobile accident at the age of 18. He was a student athlete at Frostburg State College (baseball) at the time.

"Aaron was an exceptional young man and Spoerl's recognizes the impact he had on the youth of the area and want to further his memory," stated a Spoerl's spokesman. "A scholarship will be given to a young person who exemplifies the qualities and character that Aaron had."

Delegate George Edwards referred to Aaron's death as "having a profound effect on the community." Ed Green, princial of Northern High School, said, "The ideals that Aaron attempted to live out while a student at Northern High School, pride, dedication, discipline, academic effort, a sense of fair play, and a love of other people, are those ideals which no student or adult need be ashamed of attaining." A teacher had this comment: "I saw Aaron as a leader-in-the-making who was always surrounded by trusting and loyal friends; friends who recognized and appreciated his amiable, non-confrontational ways of making and keeping peace. Aaron could always win you over with a nod and a smile. All of us loved him."

Committee members for the event are: Bob Wells, basecall coach, FSU; J. Suter Kegg, Times News; Mary Ann Bosley, WCBC; Terry Goehringer, Burton's; Gene Zumpano, father of Aaron, Steve Zumpano, brother of Aaron, and Polly Riffle, Spoerl's. Persons with questions concerning the event may call Polly Riffle at 722-8300.

The public is invited to attend the game.

Area Golf Shop Is Nominee For National Honor

Western Maryland Golf, Cumberland, has been selected as one of the top golf clubfitters in the United States. Golf Shop Operations, the leading golf industry magazine, has cited Western Maryland Golf as one of the nominees for its top award, Clubfitter of the Year Award. The editors asked over 500 custom clubfitters in the United States and Canada, as well as the 41 PGA sections, to nominate a shop in their region which they judged to be outstanding in the field of custom clubfitting.

The award, to be given at the national golf merchandise show in Orlando, Fla., in January, takes into consideration a shop's experience, success, and ability to fit and manufacture golf clubs. Jeff Jackson, owner of Western Maryland Golf, says their success is based on individual fitting of almost all golf equipment made at the Knox Street location in Cumberland. Clubs of all types are especially made to fit a certain golfer's swing and ability, he said.

Western Maryland Golf has been in operations for over eight years. Jackson fits the vast majority of his customers himself, but is most often assisted by repair foreman Wally Sherman. "Between the two of us, we can handle any golf club operation from the simplest repair to the most complex custom work," says Jackson.

Jackson is also director of golf at the Wisp Resort, McHenry.

HELP SAVE THE OZONE LAYER

Some problems are so big that an individual or group of people feels they can do nothing about it. In addition, the ozone layer cannot be readily seen or felt, and it has no odor or immediate repercussions if it is being destroyed.

And yet we are already aware of an increasing number of skin cancer (especially melanomas) and cataracts. In the future scientists expect that increasing ultra violet rays reaching the earth, because we are destroying the protective ozone layer, will adversely affect the human immune system, damage crops and kill plankton that serve as a food source for marine life.

Laws have been written, international agreements have been worked out to phase out the production of chlorofluoro carbons (CFC's) and halon.

Most familiar is probably the ban on using CFC's as propellants in aerosol sprays in 1978. This manmade product was banned for use in most, but not all aerosol cans. Industries are seeking ways to recycle the chemicals to prevent their being released into the air. Research is being done, good ideas abound, but progress is too slow to talk about solving the problem. If we are not satisfied, we can do something about it. Americans are the ones to effect change.

Write to your Senator, Congressperson, and President Bush to request that he protect the ozone layer by: tightening regulations on CFC's and halons, speeding their elimination from production and mandate warning labels on products containing them. All Homemakers know how to contact their representatives, a leader training a few months back explained the steps to take. Their programs and the Extension Homemakers organization is open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

In addition, individuals and families can: avoid products made of plastic foam (Polystyrene) such as fast-food containers, egg cartons, styrofoam cups, and foam trays for meat. Don't use foam plastic insulation in your home; use fiberglass or cellulose insulation.

Don't buy a halon fire extinguisher for home use. Check labels on aerosol cans. Many cans list CFC's, but it is not required (ask your Senator why not). VCR head cleaners drain plungers, boat horns, spray confetti and photo-negative cleaners are still allowed to contain the most dangerous CFC's.

All refrigerators sold in the United States contain CFC's. Buy an energy efficient model, keep it in the best working order, and clean coils regularly.

Auto air conditioners are the single largest source of CFC emissions in the United States. Never simply refill a leaky air conditioner, have it fixed! Ask your service station if it is equipped to recycle the refrigerant (this will cost more) so CFC will not be vented "simply" into the atmosphere.

Home air conditioners contain coolants that are far less ozone-depleting.

Substitutes to CFC will cost more, but preserving a healthy environment for our grandchildren is probably the best legacy we can give them.

If you would like to actively pursue some of the suggestions made, please contact me, Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, Md., 21550, or phone (301) 334-1990.

Thank You...

Man's Story

instructor made us feel more at ease and explained that the main objective was that we carried something away from the class with us that we could use and that, while we were discussing things in class, that we would think about it and the effect it had on us.

The class is a provocative mixture of facts and introspection into attitudes and thinking. Our instructor's insight into how lives can be affected by our attitudes is relative and thought provoking. Even though I have had classes over the years it has been informative to refocus on the physiological and psychological aspects of alcohol on the body. Over the ensuing weeks, the class has gotten more involved as active participants in sharing and discussing, both in large and small group settings. This has also added to the overall learning atmosphere as a kind of comraderie developed as sometimes happens when a group has a common interest or concern.

In addition to the class offering a worthwhile learning experience, it has been an opportunity to meet others going through similar circumstances and has been therapeutic in that it has become a kind of support group. The comments have been positive and I think this indicates the instructor's efforts in this class has provided encouragement to make positive changes in our lives.

Our instructor has indicated that if past history is consistent that about one-fourth of the people in this class of fifteen will be back. That is a startling statistic. It is hard for me to imagine that anyone would not insure, by one means or another, that they would never allow themselves to be in the same situation again. Maybe this will be the class to break tradition — I hope so.

Another aspect of this chronology that has yet to happen is my hearing with the Department of Motor Vehicles. My attorney has appraised me of what I might expect in terms of driving privileges being suspended or revoked. So again, I am waiting for additional influences that will affect my personal and professional life.

I understand that the next episode I can anticipate is that insurance premiums will probably be raised. I even know of one instance where an individual was notified that his insurance would be dropped. Either way, there will be financial implications.

In summary, even though it isn't over yet, and in some ways may never be, this entire incident has had a profound effect on myself and my family. I have had an opportunity to share my experiences with several friends and colleagues, and will continue to do so, in the hope that it will make them think before doing something that will significantly affect their lives.

Earlier I mentioned the role that education may play as a preventive intervention strategy. An approach that may have merit would be to present information in this area as a part of each person's driver training program. I know some of this is done in high schools but I think it could be expanded and cover more of the physiology and legalities in an effort to inform and educate. And not just in the high schools but for all people requesting a license. Idealistically, it could even be expanded and required periodically, say every so many years as a refresher and update as new and better information is made available.
